City delays police department

BY BOB FRYER

PORT ST. LUCIE–City council members reversed a previous stance to create a city police department "as soon as possible" when they voted last Friday, Aug. 12, to postpone consideration of a department for at least another year.

The decision came during the council's annual review of the proposed 1977-78 fiscal year budget.

In presenting the preliminary city budget to the council, City Manager Elmer Cox outlined a plan to raise $1,200 to start a city police department and $180,000 for a down payment on a new city hall without having to fund the project through property taxes. However, by the end of the day, council members voted to delay spending any money on the police force for a year and to raise the down payment on the city hall to $350,000.

Under the plan Cox submitted, $35,000 which was set aside in a trust fund for a future police department in the 1976-77 budget was to be augmented by an estimated $82,000 from cash reserves the city has been accumulating over the years.

Those cash reserves, which total $1,700,000, were also to be tapped under Cox's plan to supply $75,500 toward a $180,000 down payment for a new city hall. Council members plan to build it on the corner of Airoso Boulevard and Port St. Lucie Boulevard. The balance for the down payment was to come from $24,500 that the council set aside in a city hall trust fund in the 1976-77 budget.

When asked where the $865,000 cash reserve came from, city council members replied that it has been accumulating over the years.

"We've just been taking in more than we've spent, but saving it for days when we knew more services would need to be offered," said Councilman Schuyler Sharpe.

After considering the city's proposed general fund budget, attention was turned to the plans for a new city hall and police department. Earlier this month the council members voted to proceed with both projects as soon as possible. Mayor Bill McChesney said when the earlier vote was taken he had made sure no time limit was imposed, but several other council members said they were under the impression that the police department was to start forming during the upcoming fiscal year. Cox noted the $117,000 he showed in the budget for the new police force would pay for hiring a police chief and secretary within six months and, after the chief became familiar with the city, he would recruit several patrolmen. Some of the money in the $117,000 budget figure was also slated to go for patrol cars and other police equipment.

In a letter outlining the proposed financing for the police department and city hall, Cox noted that the city charter forbids withdrawing more than 20 per cent of the city's cash reserves in one budget year without putting the matter to referendum. But he said his plan to withdraw $82,000 for the police department and $75,000 for part of the city hall down payment would total $157,000. Since 20 per cent of the city's $865,000 reserve fund is $175,000, no citizen vote would have to be taken.

However, when discussions began centering on when a chief would be hired and where the police force would be housed, City Attorney Spencer Gilbert suggested that the city may not be ready for a police force.

"The immediate belief is that if we get a new police department, we'll have a lower crime rate, but I'm not so sure this would be the case. In my experience as a prosecutor for the state attorney's office in Martin and St. Lucie Counties, I found petty jealousies between the police departments was common and, as a result, the crime element profits. Each department wants to build its empire and get credit for busts," Gilbert said, adding that, often, departments did not tell each other what they were working on.

"It's more the usual case that the departments do not cooperate, and in truth, they duplicate services. Often they find out what the other department is doing by reading the papers," Gilbert said.

Instead of having a city department, Gilbert suggested that the sheriff's department should open a sub-station in Port St. Lucie and that the same team of deputies should be assigned to the city. Currently the city is budgeting $171,000 for a contract with the Sheriff's Department to provide extra protection for Port St. Lucie. But, the deputies are rotated in assignments and often they are unfamiliar with the city.

"Most of the deputies would be lost if you sent them out in the boondocks. They're not assigned to the city long enough to get to know what is usual or unusual activity in a neighborhood," Gilbert said.

He also pointed out that, without a sub-station, the deputies assigned to the city have to take time away from Port St. Lucie to transport prisoners they arrest to the county jail for booking. He said a team of criminals could rid the city of deputies by getting several persons to be arrested on minor misdemeanor charges, then move in for a big crime while the deputies were in Fort Pierce, booking the misdemeanor offenders.

CITY ATTORNEY Spencer Gilbert said he "just couldn't hold it in any longer" when he suggested the city may not need a police department of its own.

Councilman Sharpe said he regretted the contract the the Sheriff's Department and said the city, as being part of the county, was entitled to protection from the Sheriff's Department without the contract.

Gilbert pointed out that the Martin County Sheriff's Department has a sub-station in Indiantown, and that Palm Beach and Brevard and Volusia Counties have sub-stations. He concluded his remarks by apologizing for speaking out on the matter of the police department, but said, "I could only hold it in for so long before I felt I ought to say something."

The council members seemed highly receptive to Gilbert's comments and voted not to proceed this coming fiscal year with a police department. Then they instructed City Manager Cox to begin exploring the possibility with Sheriff Lannie Norvell of having a sub-station located in Port St. Lucie.

As for the money for city hall, the council members decided to raise the down payment from $180,000 to $150,000. The total cost of the city hall is expected to be about $750,000.

When the city's general budget was reviewed, council members determined that they could raise $517,350 from sources other than property tax and that a tax levy of 1.36 mills would raise enough money to cover the balance of the budget. However, City Manager Cox said he spoke with a Department of Revenue official in Tallahassee who said the city may have to levy a much higher millage in 1978-79 to qualify for revenue sharing if it lowers the millage rate to the minimum this coming year. Cox suggested a millage of 1.50 this coming year.

Mayor Bill McChesney then noted that the difference in revenue from a 1.36 mill levy and a 1.50 mill levy is about $30,000. He suggested adding that $30,000 to the $24,500 already in the city hall trust fund, then augmenting that cash with $95,500 from the city's cash reserves. This, he said, would mean the city could make a $150,000 down payment on the new city hall instead of a $100,000 down payment. "So, the interest- payments on the balance needed to build the city hall would be less over a 10 year period," McChesney said.

The other council members concurred with McChesney's suggestion.

VOL. 8 NO. 32 AUGUST 17, 1977 18 PAGES

$827,052 budget is approved

PORT ST. LUCIE–City council members voted Tuesday, Aug. 16, to approve the first reading of a $827,052 general fund budget for the upcoming fiscal year.

However, not included in that general fund budget was a proposal to withdraw $82,500 from reserve funds the city has accumulated over the years and to apply that amount toward a $150,000 down payment on a new city hall, which is expected to cost around $750,000. (see related story)

Sources of revenue for the $827,052 general fund budget break down to $276,702 to be generated by imposing a 1.36 mill property tax and $517,350 from miscellaneous taxes, license and permit fees, state and federal revenue sharing funds, fines and forfeitures, and interest earnings.

Of the 1976-77 fiscal year, which ends Sept. 30, the general fund budget was $681,000. A property tax levy of 1.36 mills for the 76-77 fiscal year produced $286,000 and the balance was generated by franchise taxes, licenses and permits, etc.

The reason that council members want to generate more money from property taxes during the upcoming fiscal year than was received in the current year is because assessments of property values in Port St. Lucie have soared by an average of 25.8 per cent. While the 1.5 millage rate to be used for the upcoming fiscal year is an increase from the 1.75 mills imposed in 1976-77, the revenues will still increase. And, this means property owners will still be paying a higher tax rate for the 1977-78 fiscal year.

For example, a resident with a home assessed at $50,000 last year had to pay $87.50 in city taxes, based on a 1.75 mill rate. This coming year, if the home is raised in value by the 25.8 per cent average jump in assessments, it would be valued at $62,900. A 1.5 mill tax levy on that sum would mean the resident would pay $94.35 in city taxes for the coming fiscal year.

Of the revenue side of the ledger for the proposed $827,052 budget, $128,100 is slated to come from franchise taxes based on Florida Power and Light Company, Southern Bell Telephone Company, General Development Utilities, and cablevision. Another $175,000 is anticipated from building permits. That sum could easily be larger, if the building boom continues because the city expects to receive about $220,000 in permit fees by the end of this fiscal year.

"But we must figure the expected revenue from building permits for the coming year conservatively. If the boom keeps up, we could receive more than the $175,000 we're projecting. But, if we have another energy crunch, the building industry will be the first to suffer," said City Manager Elmer Cox.

Other large revenue sources expected include $85,542 in state revenue sharing funds, $24,800 in federal revenue sharing funds, and $40,000 from the county commission for capital improvements at Sportsman Park. The latter sum may not be forthcoming. The city council has requested that much from the county commission, but negotiations are still underway. Should county commissioners cut the $40,000 the city is asking for, the city budget would be reduced by whatever amount is cut.

On the expenditure side of the ledger, the budget for City Manager Cox will jump from $17,915 to $24,558. Included in that is a jump from $15,761 to $19,500 for his base salary. Other increases are for maintenance, tires, workmen's compensation, gas and oil, health insurance, other insurance, and federal income tax. He said he would decline participation in the city's pension fund.

A total of $20,105 is budgeted for a city engineer, up from $18,500 last year.

Cox announced last week that he has hired a new city planner, who will begin work Sept. 1, but has declined to identify the person winning the job. A salary of $17,512 will be paid to the planner and $7,939 is budgeted for a secretary for the planner.

Doug Stout, public safety director, will receive $13,427 as a salary, up from $11,247 this year, and building department director Ralph LaChance will be paid a salary of $13,430, up from $11,794 this year.

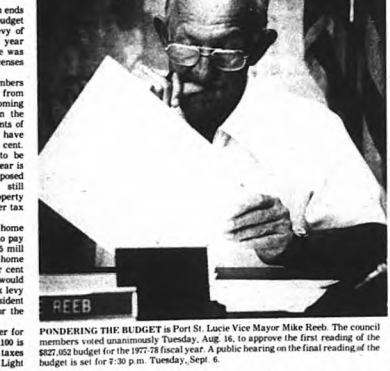
City treasurer Gerald Van Patten is slated to get a raise from $12,376 to $15,143, and City Clerk Cathy Merritt's pay will jump from $7,280 to $8,621.

The $22,400 budget for city council members' fees and expenses will remain the same.

The expenditure of cash for governmental services and operating expenses is budgeted to jump from $61,792 to $85,000. And the budget for the building department, including salaries, will jump from $51,901 to $86,500.

The engineering department budget is to jump from $23,382 to $76,275. In the 76-77 fiscal year, the city used a consultant engineer, but this year plans to hire a staff engineer. In the 76-77 fiscal year, a total of $52,493 was budgeted for the public safety department, while the budget for that department this year will drop to $29,350. The city has a public safety director, but no police department, yet. In the 76-77 fiscal year, $35,000 was set aside in a trust fund for a future police department. This coming year no money will be added to that trust fund.

A public hearing before final adoption of the budget is planned for 7:30 p.m., Tuesday, Sept. 7.



PONDERING THE BUDGET is Port St. Lucie Vice Mayor Mike Reeb. The council members voted unanimously Tuesday, Aug. 16, to approve the first reading of the $827,052 budget for the 1977-78 fiscal year. A public hearing on the final reading of the budget is set for 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 6.

QUESTIONING THE BUDGET is Port St. Lucie councilwoman Lolita Kernohan. She and fellow commissioners thrashed out details of the budget last Friday, then approved it on first reading on Tuesday, Aug. 16.

St. Lucie Community Theatre decides against home in PSL

PORT ST. LUCIE–Plans for the St. Lucie Community Theatre to build a $200,000 home at the Port St. Lucie Community Center on Prima Vista Boulevard have been scratched.

Earlier this month, Community Center officials learned that the theatre group was looking for land on which to construct a theatre building. The Community Center directors met with the theatre group directors and offered to let the thespians locate their new home on Community Center grounds. Bill Braun, president of the theatre group, said "it was an attractive offer." However, in addition to the offer of land in Port St. Lucie, the theatre group received other offers.

Last week St. Lucie Community Theatre past president Bob Tabor announced that a no-strings attached offer of 8.69 acres along Glandin Road south of Midway Road was accepted. The land is to be given to the theatre group by O.L. Peacock, Jr., a ranch and grove owner.

So, for now, no theatre building will be located at the Community Center grounds. But, according to Community Center President Dick Glandin, the Center's master plan calls for construction of a theatre building in 1990.

Kimmel to get $3,756 from retirement fund

PORT ST. LUCIE–City council members decided Tuesday, August 16, to authorize a payment of $3,756 to former council member Lawrence D. Kimmel for the city's retirement trust fund.

Several years ago citizens in Port St. Lucie filed a suit against the city council, claiming that the retirement trust fund was illegal since some council members were accumulating retirement funds for holding two jobs with the city.

In the final judgement of that suit, the court ruled that Kimmel "has a 40 per cent vested right to the sums deposited on his behalf...." in the retirement fund.

But it was not until 10 days ago, City Manager Elmer Cox said, that the insurance company involved with the retirement fund sent the final figure on just how much money Kimmel had coming. So, once the figure arrived, Cox had a resolution prepared that authorized the payment to Kimmel.

In approving the payment, Mayor Bill McChesney said he felt Kimmel may question the amount he is to receive, as some others involved got to receive 100 per cent of the money set aside on their behalf.

National Scout Jamboree

BY BARRY LEE

Those combined segments of this page, we take a look at Troop 608's adventure to and at the Jamboree.

Boy Scout Troop 608 had a super time from top to the jamboree. We took in a weekly tour of Washington, D.C., and Williamsburg, Va. While we were there we made three historic trail hikes, visited the Smithsonian Institute, and viewed various buildings and landmarks in Washington, D.C.

The trip going up took six days and we were given food and lodging at Army, Navy and Marine Bases.

Now that we are at the jamboree, there are all kinds of interesting things to do.

The jamboree started on August 3 with an opening night arena show which included a pole climbing demonstration, a fifty piece jamboree band made up of scouts, and a bicentennial show.

During the next few days scouts spent their time at the Merit Badge Midway where over sixty merit badges are on full-scale display, participating in an Arts and Sciences Fair, a Talent Show, and doing things like swimming, fishing, archery, riflery, and, of course, washing uniforms.

Food has been plentiful and all cooking has been done on an individual basis by patrols. All food packaging is done by the Army and at meal time each patrol sends two people to pick up its food.

The Army has also provided other physical arrangements, such as bathrooms, supply tents, and aid with the set-up and take-down of the jamboree.

Our medical needs, including clinics and movable hospitals with full operating rooms like on the T.V. show MASH are also provided by the Army.

ADJUSTING THE BUDGET to comply with wishes of city council members are the two men who put the budget together. City Treasurer Gerald Van Patten, left, and City Manager Elmer Cox. Patten proved to be fast on the adding machine as figures were revised throughout the budget review session.

'....nobody fish in the middle'

Pat and Joyce O'Teri are entertaining their daughter Kathleen and her husband Laurence Horton, who are both school teachers from Webster, Mass., the town of the longest named lake in the world (try to pronounce it, it has 45 litrs), Chargggagoggmanchauggagoggchaubunagungamaugg. Roughly translated, it means "You fish your side, I fish my side, nobody fish in middle."

Kathy and Laurence want fishing on the causeway and in two days caught four stingrays, four sheepshead, one catfish and two croakers. The O'Teris took them to Miami for the weekend to enjoy the sights. It was their first time in visit Miami. The Hortons are spending their vacation here

Earle and Edwing Palmer write of a three week trip, a vacation of trials and fun, spending two of the weeks on the island of Newfoundland with their pickup and trailer. Starting over on the night ferry, taking the six hour trip into Port Aux Basques, they arrived at 9 a.m. a little worse for wear after sitting up all night.

The second phase of their trip took them up the northwest of the peninsula to the St. Genevieve River, which is 200 miles from Deer Lake, which is about 300 hundred miles up the coast from their port of entry. In the all day rain, they were covered with mud, travelling over dirt roads nearly all the way. Earle managed to entice a couple of salmon onto his fly rod before they left to another storm, having cold and windy rain.

After the first 65 miles traveling south, they stopped on a dirt road and, lo, they found their refrigerator had come open and there were broken bottles, jars and food on the floor. After putting the refrigerator door back on and cleaning up, they started out again.

Continuing down through the mountains, they learned they had no trailer brakes. Couldn't find a garage that could repair them, so had to continue on to their stop, which was the only one with electric and water hookups, where they found one more thing – a flat tire. After staying long enough to repair everything but the step, they continued down to the southernmost part of the peninsula where they visited friends. Leaving the island, they went to Cape Breton, Nova Scotia, where they went around the Cabot Trail. They arrived home safely, however, and have been very busy renovating their trailer. They will leave for Baxter State Park and will spend all of September at their favorite lake, Neeowadnehunk, 200 miles north of Oquassoc, Maine.

Heard from Al and Peg Ray. They are in Montana, having a wonderful trip and repeating visits to many places because they are so beautiful. They visited Colorado Springs and Rocky Mountain National Park and were entertained royally for a few days by friends in Golden, Colorado. They saw the Grand Tetons, but Yellowstone Park was so crowded, they drove right through. They saw beautiful countryside in Moqiana and, when she wrote, they were sitting by Al's campfire, near a river in a national forest near Drummond, Montana.

They are going to Mt Ranier and Olympic National Park, and down the coast to Riverside California, to see friends. And they hope to go to Hawaii when they get to Los Angeles.

Mildred and Leo Stall wrote that the weather in upper New York state has been delightful this summer. They play golf several times a week and Lee has been fishing and their freezer is stocked with walleye pike and bass. Their vegetable garden has provided fresh vegetables all summer, too, a delight when their daughters and their families visit or when they have a neighborhood fish fry.

In September, the Stalls plan to take a trip to Cape Cod and Nantucket, stopping in Syracuse enroute to visit Pat and Marian Kime of lot 378. They hope to be back in Holiday Out after Thanksgiving.

ediatrician opens office at Center

BY BOB FRYER

RT ST. LUCIE—"When I announ- plans for the Port St. Lucie Medical r, people said it couldn't be done. worked hard at it and went to a lot table getting all the permits, and we're filling up the office spaces. oping by the end of the year to be ll capacity," said Gary Gerlach, r of the medical center.

lack says the center opened d the first of this year, and next his newest tenant will open an at the center.

new man is Dr. Alfredo Gonzales, ng pediatrician, who was born in Philippines and who did his residency ckoff Hospital in Brooklyn, N.Y.

the Florida and the climate. When I ed my Florida boards I looked for and learned about the medical here. The people in Port St. Lucie been very friendly since my family ed here and I think I am going to practicing here," Dr. Gonzales

Gonzales is the only pediatrician in ort St. Lucie area and, since more ew students are expected to be ed in Port St. Lucie Elementary ol this year, he expects business to ed. His office will open on Monday, st 22.

lack exudes enthusiasm for the he runs. "When I first opened up I had to sell Port St. Lucie and myself and the center to prospective doctors. But it's an easy place to sell. Port St. Lucie is the eighth fastest growing city in the state and the population could really boom over the next 10 years. The city could be a gold mine for doctors, and especially now, for those getting in on the ground floor and getting a practice established," he says.

Gerlack is a developer from Fort Lauderdale. "Some business friends told me the Stuart area would be the next place to grow. I came up and looked things over and discovered Port St. Lucie. I pioneered the area in the sense that I built the first medical center. Now, I'm thinking of moving to the area because Fort Lauderdale is just too overcrowded," he says.

Since the building boom in Port St. Lucie will not make that city a Fort Lauderdale overnight, but will still produce plenty of children who will be needing a doctor, Dr. Gonzales says he is very happy to be here.

"In Brooklyn, I did not like the cold winters. I wanted a nice, safe place for my children to grow up and play. I think I've found it here," Dr. Gonzales says. He and his wife, Zenaida, and their four children live in Port St. Lucie, as do all but one of the doctors with offices at the medical center.

The doctors at the center now include Dr. Stephen Kroll, an ear, nose and throat specialist; Dr. G.F. Fox, Jr., a dentist; Dr. Lazaro Completo, a general practitioner; and Dr. Alan Siegel, an optometrist; and Dr. Erin Shevlin, a podiatrist. Also, Fred School operates a pharmacy at the center.

In October or November, Dr. M.T. Lee, a urologist, plans to open an office at the center.

Gerlack says there are six offices left, and he is open to selling them as condominium offices or leasing them. A doctor specializing in internal medicine is slated to move here from Nebraska around the end of the year, a general practitioner from Texas may move here, and two New York radiologists have expressed interest in office space. Also, two dermatologists, a cardiologist and an orthopedic surgeon have said they may come to the center, according to Gerlack. He said he is also working on opening a lab at the center.

One of the things that amazes Gerlack is that no doctors from Fort Pierce have moved to Port St. Lucie or explored the possibility of opening a branch office here.

"When they move the location of the hospital in Fort Pierce this year, many of the doctors may move their offices. I can't figure why some of them don't come down here. As a business proposition, I would think it would be a smart move. Port St. Lucie is growing and since there is not a large community of doctors here now, there would be little competition," Gerlack notes.

But, with or without Fort Pierce doctors, Gerlack feels there is not only a need for more doctors in Port St. Lucie, he also feels the city needs a hospital of its own.

Another group of businessmen tried to get a state "certificate of need" for a Port St. Lucie hospital last year and failed to convince officials of the need. But Gerlack insists the need is real. And, he says, he is hoping to be the one to build the hospital.

"I have the financial backing from some people in Miami and I'd like to construct a 100-bed hospital. The people in this community should not have to drive to Stuart or Fort Pierce for hospital services. I feel there are enough people here now to suport one. And with the way houses are going up, there will be even more people in need of a hospital in the future," he says.

As reported last week, the September meeting will hear Charles W. Koenig, coordinator for the VISTA program, a resident of Port St. Lucie, and Mrs. Valda Miller, Fort Pierce supervisor of the program, discussing the different activities of VISTA. President Wiggin will not be present, for he and his wife, Ruth, will be in Danvers, Mass., to attend the 50th anniversary reunion of the Melrose high school class of 1927. Fred commented that the only previous reunion of the class was in 1932, the 25th anniversary, at which time he was in the hospital in Malden, Mass., with a ruptured appendix, with his doctors doubtful he would recover. "But I did, and here I am going to the 50th reunion," he chuckled.

Fred said he would like to stress to all members, in connection with tours and trips, that those who wish to participate must realize that they have to make some kind of cash payment well in advance of the event. "Most people seem to think that just because a trip is scheduled far ahead, there is no hurry to make a down payment," he said. Cases in point are the Jungle Queen trip on this Wednesday (August 17) and the Bahamarama cruise, set for Oct. 10. Some people who wanted to go on the Jungle Queen didn't make it because they didn't come through soon enough with the price of the ticket, and the quota was filled. On the other hand, the Bahamarama cruise is still touch and go because only 30 people have paid their initial deposit. These cruises have to be arranged far in advance, and those members who want to participate have to realize they must take definite action to make sure they'll be in on it, Fred pointed out. In the case of the Bahamarama cruise, Ask Mr. Travel has had to take over to try to fill the quota because of the lack of response from AARP members. So the next time a cruise or a trip is announced, be sure to get your bid, and deposit, in early.

Fred Wiggin, Maurie Arluck and Jim Kearney plan to attend the regional meeting at Vero Beach on August 26. Each of the six participating chapters will prepare a letter to Bill Koolage, assistant state AARP director for this area, setting forth the programs it plans or would like to carry out in the coming year. These proposals will be the basis of the agenda for the meeting.

The matter of a new meeting place for our growing chapter is still under consideration, Jim Kearney reported at the board meeting. He is holding talks with the Catholic church on the possible use of its auditorium, but no definite conclusion has been arrived at.

The Jensen Beach Mirror

VOL. 18 NO. 33 AUGUST 24, 1977 14 PAGES

CITED KIDS–The students in Dr. Ron Howell's class at Jensen Beach mentary School are looking forward to a year of learning of a variety of subjects, m weather forecasting to stock brokerage. The students are in grades 1-5 and are what is called the Resource Class.

Warner Creek dam to up Savannas level

JENSEN BEACH–Warner Creek is a narrow waterway which is born in the Jensen Savannas. It winds through parts of Jensen Beach and empties into the St. Lucie River near the Beacon 21 condominiums.

It is a pretty creek and you can see it from your car as you drive over the bridge that crosses it on SR 707.

The problem with the creek is that it is draining water from the Savannas and for years a number of residents have wanted to build a weir to prevent the water table in the area from dropping too low.

The Martin County Commission Tuesday morning awarded a bid to Charles L. Smith to build the weir for $6,565.

"We're trying to retain the natural supply of fresh water that is running out the creek," County Commissioner Frank Wacha said on Monday. "Hopefully, we will be able to build a couple of more weirs, north and south on the creek. They won't be the fanciest structures, they're just to retain the water."

Wacha said he has backed the proposal for a number of years.

"I had talked about the project prior to my leaving office in 1972, and I hoped it would be completed before that," he said. "We did take bids on it but the project was over-designed. Hopefully, this will be the first step in stopping water from the savannas from going out all the creeks and ditches into salt water."

Wacha said there are a number of places along both the St. Lucie and Indian Rivers where the fresh water runs into salt.

Dr. Walter Stokes is another who has backed the construction of the weir. He said the structure will help renew the dwindling water supply in the area.

"It's a real advantage because we need all the water we can get," Dr. Stokes said. "I've heard that some of the wells in the area have gone dry in recent years."

Dr. Stokes said that the weir will not dry up the creek because there is a good tidal flow from the St. Lucie River.

"There's never been any objection to it," he said.

Jensen Beach Realtor Ransom Tilton has also backed the proposal.

"I've been behind it since 1974," Tilton said. "It's just one more necessary thing we've needed in Jensen Beach and our county commissioner, Frank Wacha, went out and got it for us."

PLACID CREEK–This is the section of Warner Creek near where a weir will soon be built. The Martin County Commission Tuesday awarded a bid for the weir to stop fresh water runoff from the Savannas into the St. Lucie River.

Coast Guard can't find Holiday Inn

JENSEN BEACH–The Fort Pierce Coast Guard was invited to speak to the Jensen Beach Kiwanis Club last week. The commander of the station went to the meeting in Vero Beach.

The problem was solved with the commander being invited to Jensen Beach for the Kiwanis meeting this week. He didn't show up, prompting one Kiwanian wag to say, "I guess the Coast Guard can't find the Holiday Inn in Jensen Beach."

School ain't what it used to be

BY ROBBIE BEDELL

JENSEN BEACH–When you were in mentary school you studied the three right' Reading, 'riting and hmatic.

You wrote on the blackboard, morized a few poems, maybe, and the st part of the day was when you made break out onto the playground for ssa.

Well, times have changed. And the rary in Dr. Ron Howells' Resource m at Jensen Beach Elementary ol is like taking a tour through the thsonian Institute.

I managed to get hold of a half-dozen typewriters," Dr. Howells said. ind I've given them each a list of ding words. I found that typing them as is a very good way to get them to en the words. We're also planning on lishing an extensive magazine. We'll e short stories, limericks and ales. We have a machine which lets reproduce black and white ographs and drawings so it will be ctrated, too, not just written work."

he magazine and the typing are just of the "units" the kids will tackle year. Another is microscopic life.

We plan to begin by dissecting frogs and will work out way to sharks," he said. "We may even get permission to go and see a real animal operation at a local animal hospital."

The students will learn how to test blood and see how theyfall into different blood-type categories.

Another unit will be oceanography. A three-day trip to the Florida Keys is in the works with the older students trying out some scuba diving and the younger ones snorkeling. They will go to a place called "Sea Camp" on Big Pine Key. The camp is staffed by college graduate divers and teachers and is designed for young people on such field trips.

On the nutrition side, the students will learn to grow their own vegetables and will sell tickets for their own vegetarian dinner.

"They will sprout the seeds and grow their own vegetables," Howells said.

From there the students will explore the realm of the human mind. Experiments with ESP will teach them that there could be a sixth sense.

"We'll get into the other five senses, too," Dr. Howells said. "What we will do is take away one sense to see what it will be like to get through a day without it. We might have a blindfold on a student or have him go through the day without talking. They will be required to make tapes and journals of their experiences."

The students will set up a weather station and try some weather forecasting. They will study probability and a kiln is available so they can bake their own ceramic ware.

They will boil old chicken bones, take them apart and reassemble them to learn bone structures.

They will create their own "Guinness Book of World Records" by setting athletic and mental records and challenging classmates to break them.

Young tycoons will test their skills on the stock market.

"The students will have about $500 to invest in real stock," Dr. Howells said. "They will follow, buy, sell and trade actual stocks through a broker."

Dr. Howells also said the students will make a survey on TV violence and make a trip to Kennedy Space Center, hopefully when there is a lift-off scheduled.

The class will top it all off by making a film, probably of some historical point of view.

School sure isn't what it used to be.

SP maintains millage rate

BY ROBBIE BEDELL

EWALL'S POINT–The Town of all's Point is working on a tentative rating budget for the 1977-78 fiscal r with a proposed millage rate of 8 mills, the same rate as last year, gh the total budget is $16,000 higher than the current year.

The proposed budget amounts to $181,600 as compared to the current $165,000.

The reason the commission may be able to maintain the current rate is because of the combination of increased revenue from assessed property valuations, franchise taxes, real estate taxes and building permits.

"We do expect more income so we won't need to raise the millage rate next year," Town Finance Commissioner Bob Russell said.

Russell added that there have been at least 50 new households added to the town over the past year giving a projected building permit jump more than $17,000 over the current budget.

Franchise taxes are up because of raised rates by Florida Power and Light, Southern Gulf Utilities and Southern Bell.

Expenses for the upcoming year have taken no great jumps. Town employees are getting a five per cent cost of living raise, and a new patrolman has been hired.

In all, salaries for employees are up $12,000. Building and ground maintenance is down $650. Engineering fees are up $7,000. Legal fees are up $7,600. Police equipment is down $1,000 (some police equipment is purchased with unbudgeted Title II Federal Revenue Sharing funds). Road costs are down $1,000 and miscellaneous expenses are down $4,000.

Federal Revenue Sharing funds, a return on income taxes, will be lower, down to $2,868 from the current $4,259, because eligibility rules have changed.

Now, income per capita figures are considered for determining allotted funds rather than just the total population of the town.

"We really have no control over that (Revenue Sharing)," Russell said. "We take what we can get. It all depends on Congress. They may become more lenient later in the year, we just don't know."

A breakdown of the projected expenditures is as follows: Salaries, $48,937; Building and Grounds, $7,350; Engineering, $11,000; Legal and Attorney Fees, $15,700; Police and Car Maintenance, $3,850; Roads, $65,300; and Miscellaneous Expense, $29,462.

The proposed budget will be considered for finalization at the town's regular meeting at 7:30 p.m., Sept. 14.

Corps to host meet

STUART–The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers and the office of U.S. Senator Richard Stone have arranged an informal workshop meeting regarding the St. Lucie Inlet project.

The meeting will be held at the Martin County Commission Chambers at the county Administration Center on Kindred Ave. at 8:30 a.m., Monday, August 29.

The Corps and Stone will discuss the latest design features of the federal project and the efforts of the county for its share in the project. The meeting will also consider requests for sand from the inlet for beach erosion control and private land development on Sailfish Point.

Prior to the meeting, Senator Stone will greet the general public and discuss any matters he may be concerned with.

At the last meeting of the Martin County Conservation Alliance, Ed Gluckler reported that, although the funds for the inlet project were defeated this year by the U.S. Senate, the Senate and the House have agreed to discuss the issue in committee.

Gluckler said the inlet will be strongly considered in the 1979 budget and that local support for the project is greatly needed.

Rio truck shines anew

RIO–One day the members of the Rio Volunteer Fire Department looked at their old U.S. Army tank truck and decided that something had to be done.

Built in 1954, its paint was old and chipped and constant use of it to extinguish fire in the brush made it a sad sight for a fireman to behold.

So a bunch of the men got together to do something about it.

"We've owned it for quite a few years," said Assistant Chief John Kovarik. "It was in really bad shape. We used it strictly for brush fires and we've redone everything. We painted the truck, added new pumps, a new front end and a new water system. We took an old truck and turned it into a new truck."

Kovarik said it took about 200 man-hours and $250 to perform the operations on the six-wheeled drive truck.

"We painted it right here at the firehouse," he said. "Eight of us really put our hearts into it. It's just a woods truck, but it was something that had to be done."

Kovarik said he did all the priming prior to painting the truck and that Tyrone Owen of Jensen Beach Signs did all the lettering and donated it to the fire department.

River gives trout and snook

JENSEN BEACH–The Snook Nook Bait & Tackle Shop reports that there are some catches of snook and trout being made.

Ed Wagner and Charlie Areni have reported the largest catches, especially while wading in the Indian River with trout tout jigs.

Last Tuesday Wagner reported five trout and Wednesday Wagner and Areni together reported taking 19 trout.

Madelyn Hafer took a five-pound trout in the surf with a plug and, Thursday, Wagner was back at it again, this time fishing with Pat Paterson. They got 10 trout and one snook. Madlyn Hafer got another five-pound snook Thursday, again in the surf with a plug.

On Friday, Areni got 12 trout and Wagner and Paterson, 13 trout.

Ed Weeks and Jack Klett won offshore the same day and got one dolphin, one baracuda and three bonita. And John Dishman used a shrimp in the river and came home with a 14-pound snook.

Billfish hearing is August 31

STUART–The South Atlantic Regional Fisheries Council will hold a public hearing at the downtown Stuart Holiday Inn at 7:30 p.m., Wednesday, Aug. 31.

Commercial and sportfishermen are urged to attend the meeting and provide their knowledge of sailfish, white and blue marlin and swordfish so a management plan can be drawn up for the extended 200-mile jurisdiction of U.S. fishing waters.

World War I vets meet Friday, Sept. 3

JENSEN BEACH–Barracks 854, Veterans of World War I, and its Auxiliary will hold their regular meetings Friday, Sept. 3, at the Jensen Beach Community Church. Meeting time is 1:30 p.m.

All veterans of World War I and their wives are invited to attend.

Art Associates show at library

JENSEN BEACH–A twelve member Art Associates of Martin County show is on display at the Martin County Public Library. Included in the exhibit are the works of June Bowers, Ruth Bowman, Iola Connolly, May Cross, Marion LeMoal, Gilbert LeMoal, Jan Kozel, Carol Kepp, Gerard McComiskey, Dorothy Hill Rabowski, Bea Scott and Annabelle Stevenson.

Oils, watercolors, acrylics and pastels are represented in the collection.

LING CLINICS–Hall of Famer Hardwick will give clinics at n Lanes and Fort Pierce Lanes on 30 and 31, according to Len Casey, r. He will be at the Jensen Lanes st 30 at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. for free ng clinics. The two-time winner of erstone Championship is shown after rolling the ten-pin that d have given him a 300 game in the erstone. He placed second in the this year.

Power Squadron boating courses start on Tuesday

JENSEN BEACH--The annual free boating courses of the St. Lucie River Power Squadron will open at the Student Activities Building of Martin County High School at 7 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 17, it has been announced by Lincoln S. Grant, squadron commander.

Registration will take place immediately preceding the first lecture. No advance registration is required. The course is open to men, women and interested teenagers. Ownership of a boat is not necessary for participation. Ample seating and boating facilities will be available.

Comprising a broad range of knowledge needed for skillful operation of all types of boats, the course will offer ten lectures to be presented at 7:30 on subsequent Tuesday evenings, under the direction of Walter M. Maron, class chairman.

The weekly classes, taught by trained volunteer instructors, will feature the following subjects: boat handling under normal and adverse conditions, seamanship and common emergencies, rules of the road, aids to navigation, compass and chart familiarization, running lights and equipment, boat trailering and river boating.

The St. Lucie River Power Squadron is a unit of the United States Power Squadrons. Established in 1914 and completely self-supporting, USPS is America's largest fraternal boating organization, with approximately 90,000 members in more than 600 squadrons.

Dayton smears firemen's reputation

WASHINGTON–Remember when you were a youngster? You wanted to grow up to be a fireman.

Then, you also thought about being a doctor or a cowboy. But there was something special about firemen. They wore a shiny helmet and a gold badge. They had fire trucks with their bronze and their gleaming chrome. They'd tackle any burning building to save lives. They were heroes.

Today in cities as America, children still want to be firemen; children still admire them heroes. And they are.

But not in Dayton, Ohio. Not any more.

In Dayton, firemen aren't heroes. They don't rush into burning buildings to save women and children. Dayton firemen stand around the let your house burn down.

Instead, should firemen from some other city dare show up, Dayton firemen will deliberately get in their way and threaten to harm them.

In short, Dayton firemen are no longer heroes to the children of that city of [illegible].

Dayton firemen don't let your house burn down because they're on strike for higher pay and shorter hours. Heroes don't stand around and gawk while you struggle to help with a fire hose to save the thing you've struggled and worked for all your life.

But members of Firefighters Local 136 did, to jolt your faith in childhood a little more, more than 100 of Dayton's policemen called in sick to support of the firemen's strike.

Dayton is not the only American city to do this turnout.

Firemen walked out in Terre Haute, Ind., and University City, Missouri [illegible] have dropped their badges and grabbed picket signs in still other cities, most notably in San Francisco where muggers and rapists had a field day while the guardians of the people stood for more pay.

In Dayton, the firemen won a 50 cents per hour hike and a work week of 50 hours instead of 53.

It cost at least 29 buildings and [illegible] as only knows how many hopes and [illegible].

We can only hope the public resentment and outrage generated by this sickening display of greed on the part of a union will bring a change of heart to those political leaders who now obey every whim of the union bosses.

It matters not whether the public employees are firemen, policemen, prison guards, teachers or sanitation workers. They have no right to strike.

They can organize. They can bargain collectively. But they cannot go on strike.

A city without fire protection, police protection or trash collection has ceased to be a city. It has reverted to the jungle, where disease knows no bounds and survival of the fittest is the only law.

America has traditionally placed a great deal of faith and trust in their policemen, firemen and teachers. They hope these people will be worthy of that trust, that they will be truly public servants.

Unfortunately, we are now learning that there are some public employees who feel no loyalty toward their employer, be it a city, state or nation – public employees whose only allegience is to a union.

And we are learning that many union bosses are only too willing to sacrifice anything and everything – including the safety and well-being of the people – to satisfy the demands of their members.

It is high time we impressed upon these unions that the rights of their members cease when their tactics trample on the rights of the public.

If we cannot do that – if we cannot impress upon them the need for responsible behavior – then we will be forced to take steps outlawing the right of public employees to join together in a union.

It's the job, not the mob

JENSEN BEACH–"Type lice" sneaked into the Mirror story about river odor several weeks ago. The "type lice" in the computer typesetter changed one word, and with it, the meaning of an entire paragraph.

Jack Klett, president of the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce, was really talking about the "stinky, mucky, dirty job" of cleaning up the grasses from the river edge, and referring to property owners in saying "80 percent won't do it."

As it turned out, the computer had Klett saying, "It's a stinky, mucky, dirty mob.

Football suiting up but needs players

BY DONNIE WILKIE

JENSEN BEACH—Once again it's time for kids to hang up the ball gloves and dust off the footballs in anticipation of another rockem'-sockem' football year. But, according to Dick Johnson, the Martin County Football Commissioner, and judging from the look of practice sessions thus far, the Jensen Beach entries in the local league need manpower.

Johnson estimated Sunday night that there are only about 60 players on the field at the moment, despite two weeks of registration sessions.

Teams from around the county, including the expansion Hobe Sound entry, seem to be in the same boat, as the Lower Division "B" League, created two years ago as a training ground, is in danger of becoming extinct.

The Jensenites will be holding practices throughout the week ahead, and anyone interested in registering can do so at these workouts. Registration must be done with a parent present, and a birth certificate is needed for proof of age. Also, a fee of $25 must be paid to cover the cost of injury insurance.

Johnson said that there will be seven teams in the league, as Hobe Sound prepares to play its first season. The southerners will join Palm City, Stuart, Port Salerno, Port St. Lucie, Indiantown and, of course, Jensen Beach.

The traditional two-division setup will be abolished as the seven towns play in a one-conference league. This puts tremendous importance on each game, as two losses will virtually eliminate a team from the race.

The Martin County League is looking for a team from the area to play an exhibition against the "off team" each week during the season. With seven teams, one will have to sit out a week unless such a team is found.

Football begins on September 10 at Long Field in Stuart with the annual jamboree, as Coach Jeff Alter takes his Upper Division (maximum 145 pounds) Razorbacks against the best competition in the county, and Lower Head Coach Herb Seals directs his Barracudas in their first contest.

Play will continue through the next six weeks, and finally conclude with the Sailfish Bowl the week of Thanksgiving.

All the new people coming into the state each month perhaps don't know about Florida registration and election laws, so Peggy Robbins, supervisor of elections, called and said she'd be glad to come to a meeting and explain all and answer questions.

Virgina Wells of Brian Tredway's Civil Defense office called to make an appointment for supervisor orientation so that the correct and necessary information could be made available in case of a hurricane or other disaster.

There has been a surprising number of calls from delinquent members, asking for reinstatement before they have to be dropped for those on the waiting list. Remember, those not paid up by the October 20 meeting will be dropped.

Also, besides many calls for normal AARP info, there are folks that comment on 'AARPer's talk" both pro and con. This is good, as the thoughts and feelings of the seniors can surface for recognition.

Then, there are those calls, "haven't received my Bulletin". Generally, it is because of change of address. Third class mail will not be forwarded and now it costs over 25 cents each to request an address correction. So, please report changes, no sense having the bulletins going in the scrap box.

Port St. Lucie Chapter 2696

As Mr. Burns of Ayrshire wrote, the "best-laid schemes o' mice an' men oft gang a-gley", and gang '-gley they did with the bus that was scheduled to take the folks to Fort Lauderdale last Wednesday for the Jungle Queen trip. The bus was supposed to be at the Northport Marina at three, but it broke down en route, so another one had to be summoned from Orlando. This bus didn't reach the Marina until well after 4 p.m., so things were a bit hectic on the way to the port. However, everything turned out all right, and the 42 participants reported a fine time on the trip up the river, on the island and on the trip back home.

Confirmation has now been received that representatives of Blue Shield from Jacksonville will be at the October 20 membership meeting to discuss filing Medicare B. claims. As previously reported, Blue Cross-Blue Shield processes Medicare claims on behalf of HEW in Florida. The Blue Shield people conduct such meetings all over the state for any organization that is interested in hearing a detailed explanation of how you go about filing such claims properly. The naturally want to get their message over to as large a number of people as possible, and in their latest letter suggested that the meeting be given widespread publicity in case "you want to open the meeting to all senior citizens in the area, even though they may not be AARP members." This possibility will be considered at the next meeting of the board of directors. Some board members with whom the idea has been discussed indicated a favorable reaction.

Margareth Coffman, who with her husband, Charles, lays out the News Bulletin every month and does the typing of the material that goes in it, is designing a new masthead for the publication, according to Editor Maurie Arluck. The Coffmans put in many hours in their work on the Bulletin and deserve the thanks of the membership for the job they are doing.

President Carter has signed into law the bill eliminating federal income tax increases for disabled retirees receiving "sick pay" and giving taxpayers the option of using one of two methods to claim the retirement income credit for the 1976 tax year. The current issue of the AARP News-Bulletin contains an explanation of the law and basic information on what you should do if any of the new provisions affect you. In case you missed it, we believe it is appropriate to repeat that information here:

If you didn't ask for an extension of the April 15 deadline (as most people probably didn't), you must file an amended return to claim the sick pay exclusion benefits given by the new law.

If you have to do this, obtain a copy of Form 2440 from the IRS office in Fort Pierce, along with a copy of the separate instructions for the form. Most disability retirees will need to complete only the top section and Part IV of the form, but, as in all cases of IRS instructions, you should read the qualifications carefully. Then recompute your tax using Form 1040X (for amended returns), which you can also get at the Fort Pierce IRS office. When you have filled in both forms, send them to the same IRS office where you sent your original return.

The News-Bulletin cautions that in claiming the sick pay exclusion, you are changing the status of your income form "pension" to "earned income". This might affect your taxable income and your ability to claim the Credit for the Elderly, the publication says.

The article also covers the steps needed to be taken for retirement income computation and changes in standard deductions, but they are too lengthy to go into here. However, if you have questions, it has been our experience that the folks at the IRS office are very helpful and sympathetic, and they can put you on the right track.

There has been much comment in the communications media of late on the fact that the U.S. population is growing older, i.e., the proportion of older people is relentlessly growing larger. What this means is that there will be a steadily increasing number of people drawing Social Security benefits, while the number of younger people who are working and paying into Social Security shrinks. One result of the wide attention being given this demographic trend is a demand that governments and private business junk the mandatory retirement age of 65 or 70 and permit people to keep on working as long as they are able and willing to do so. This year, one state, Florida, incidentally, has taken a step in this direction with the signing by Governor Askew of a bill enacted by the legislature that prohibits discrimination in employment in the private sector. The law makes it illegal for employers with more than 14 employees to hire or fire individuals simply because of the usual factors (sex, race, religion, color, national status, etc.) but with the significant addition of age to the customary array. The News-Bulletin notes that the AARP lobbyists in Tallahassee were very active in pushing this bill, as they were in supporting legislation last year barring mandatory retirement practices in the public sector.

These are developments of direct tangible benefit to the large retirement population in the state. In view of the financial troubles that Social Security appears to be running into, it would seem likely that Florida's action may soon be taken by other states which have not yet done so. A nice question is: what percentage of people at age 65, who are physically and mentally able to continue on their jobs, would do so if they didn't have to turn in their uniforms at that age? More than half is our guess.

Free meals for needy

BY ROBBIE REDELL

STUART—The Martin County School system is offering a policy for free and reduced priced meals and free milk for families unable to afford the full price for their children's meals and milk for regular lunch programs.

The rate paid for meals varies according to the income and the size of the family.

Family size is broken down from one member to 12. If a one-member family makes $60 or under per week, it is eligible for free meals and milk. If the same size family makes between $60 and $117 per week, it is eligible for reduced meals.

Families not meeting the criteria, but with unusual expenses due to high medical bills, high housing rates, special education expenses or disaster, can also apply for the program.

Application forms have been sent to all homes and additional copies are available at the principal's office at each school.

The applications can be filed at any time during the school and information is confidential.

Those interested are urged to obtain an application and refer to the complete breakdown of family and income criteria to determine if they are eligible for the program.

Social notes showing up

And so, the butterfly begins to emerge from the cocoon even as early as August. Either that or rigor mortis has not entirely set in, or everyone is getting too cramped up from not riding their bikes, or Gilligan's Island is beginning to repeat itself for the fourth time.

Whatever the cause, we are beginning to see signs of a few social notes coming in. Not only that, but we now have hot shot reporters operating in all park areas. Sharyon Tilton, Rachel La Chuyse, Myrt Penney and the Mystery Women on the Bike, the Happy Traveler. Any one of these good people will take your births, anniversaries, lynchings, travels back and forth between Florida and other states, or just plain newsy gossip in good taste.

Just a note here is what Edna Horne has to tell us: during the month of July, their two sons, Steve and Dan, visited PLV for two weeks, helping the Hernes celebrate their 34th anniversary. All out to dinner at one of our local restaurants with champagne, en lieu, and soup to nuts, did a lot of swimming, sailing, and playing and working around the house.

Steve is in the Navy and headed for the Med on a new nuke destroyer. Dan is attending college, majoring in electronics, and he and his wife Sarah will be presenting the Hornes with their first grandchild about next April.

Then, up comes this likely story from Sharyon. I will quote verbatim, but remember, she gets carried away at times, you know. Quote Last Tuesday, twenty eight of our ladies sallied forth (hah) to West Palm Beach in a caravan of cars on a shopping spree at the Mall down there unquote. The way we got it, one section wound up in Belle Glade, another in Jupiter, and some in Fort Worth but, miraculously, met at the Mall at some time or other.

Everyone will remember last year when an unconscious martial County had to contend with a string of cars driven by women. Now it looks like they are extending themselves into other counties. Anyway, had lunch at the Boardwalk Restaurant, hitting the salad bar, the soup line, the full lunch and dessert. I don't know if the exercise class was the next day or not. So, they "waddled" on back to the Mall for another go at the shops. While no one was looking, Sharyon and Edith Ball underwent surgery at the "Piercing Pagoda", so keep your eyes open for some added sparkle at the clubhouse.

Sounds like it was a fun thing, but we'll wait for late reports of any knocked over mail boxes in Jupiter or overturned traffic cones on U.S. 1.

Here we go — something new in dancing on Wednesday afternoons in Round Dancing, beginners and intermediate classes, so don't be shy. There is something for everyone. Even single gals need not be afraid. Lot of single men who will take up the slack. No need for that "I don't have a partner" stuff...PLV provides. Or, if that doesn't work, decide who will wear the pants.

We've got a beginning oil painting class starting also. See Sharyon for details.

The Arts and Crafts class goes on and can always use help or new blood. Everyone must have a hobby of some kind, right? What do you want, a vegetable garden in this weather?

These classes are being conducted primarily for items to be used during the holidays, Christmas and New Years. Wouldn't it be gratifying to know you had a hand in some of the pretties you will see hanging around?

This year end thing will wind up in a Christmas Bazaar, so get your feet wet. Remember also, bleach bottles are needed in all sizes, and cotton and cotton blends. Every time you go to throw away things in the trash, THINK! Is there some poor soul caught in the middle of a project who needs this?

Oh yes, birthday and anniversary parties are the first Thursday of the month involved, in this case, the very first day of September.

The Happy Traveler says she is glad to see the MacNeills back from up north. Saw them biking around the park looking a lot more contented than fighting traffic. Saw the Battaglias had visitors from Englishtown, N.J., Aaron and his mother, Mrs. Vetter. Here for a week.

She goes on: Astrid and Dick Olsen are moving into their new digs and the other night it looked like a political rally with everyone making sure they got squared away. Don't knock it, Dick, with labor being what it is today, don't pay anyone, just serve cookies and milk!

Lots of other residents moving into her territory fast. Gave their names two weeks ago. Welcome aboard again.

CRANE POWER--The crane mounted on the barge alongside the Jensen Beach Causeway lifts premade electrical conduit from the barge to the river bottom below. Wires for future telephone calls to Hutchinson Island have not yet been installed.

WORKING WITH WIRE--Untangling the heavy crane wire is one of the chores for workers laying telephone conduit across the Indian River next to the Jensen Beach Causeway. The crane is located on a barge. The workers are, from the left: Johnny Bell, Oobie Hollis and Kenneth How.

PILOTING TUG--Barge Foreman for Southern Bell's conduit installation project across the Indian River is Pat How. Here he steers the small tug which is used to maneuver the barge alongside the causeway.

Pipe progresses across river

BY ROBBIE BEDELL

JENSEN BEACH--The pipes are silent now.

Slowly, day by day, foot by foot, workers for Southern Bell are making their way across the Indian River. The plan is to link hollow electrical conduit piping from the mainland to Hutchinson Island in preparation for an increased island population. Someday, in the future, the pipes will be the housing for thousands of telephone conversations.

For three weeks, a barge armed with a handful of hard working men has been laying the premade pipe on the murky river bottom. The conduit rests on the bottom until it reaches the intracoastal waterway channel where it will be imbedded three feet into the bottom.

The men are a jolly lot despite the hard, hot work.

"It's hot but I'll take this next to working in the cold like last winter," said Johnny Bell.

I was in Pennsylvania last winter and I never want to be cold like that again."

Bell said he and his co-workers won't be the ones to install the wires in the conduit. That will be done by Bell Telephone.

"They'll even take the telephone poles down," he said, pointing to the utility poles above. "But that will be sometime in the future."

The whole project, which in a matter of weeks has strung the plastic pipe from U.S. 1, down Commercial St. to Sunview Road, beneath the Florida East Coast Railroad tracks and across the causeway, amounts to a million dollar job for Southern Bell.

There eventually will be 26,700 feet of the pipe, hopefully all installed by January of 1978.

The whole line will be connected to a central office on Hutchinson Island at a two-acre site near Holiday Out on the island.

The company is planning to add 1,100 additional wires to 2,800 pairs which already service the island.

Home business ordinance gets council approval

...RT ST. LUCIE—If you plan to ...start a business at your home in Port ...Lucie, you'd better make sure it ...isn't just like a business from the ...back of your home.

...hat is just one of the provisions about ...home businesses that is included in an ...ordinance city council members approved on its first reading Tuesday morning.

Other regulations of home businesses that are in the ordinance provide that there "shall be no display of stock for trade located on the premises..." and "The manufacturing of a product for resale shall not be produced with mechanical or electrical equipment which is not normally found in a dwelling and considered as purely a domestic implement."

The ordinance defines a home occupation as one "whose primary function is to provide personal or professional services and crafts, or hobbies."

No objectionable noises, fumes, odor, dust, electrical interference, or more than normal residential traffic shall be permitted.

Home occupations will be allowed in all residential areas, but only in that portion of the home that "exceeds the minimum floor area required in the zoning district the home is located, and then not more than 25 per cent of the area in excess of the minimum floor area required shall be devoted to a home occupation. In no case shall there be more than 600 square feet of floor area of a dwelling devoted to a home occupation.

Those who use [illegible] or home phones in advertisements for their businesses shall be required to pay a $50 fee for a home occupation certificate.

The second reading of the ordinance and a public hearing on the matter are scheduled for the council meeting of Tuesday, Sept. 13.

...RENCE KIMMEL asked for separate meetings with each city council member ...gain his side of the story before the council members voted on paying Kimmel ...m from the city retirement fund. Kimmel, who is a former mayor, feels he ought ...et more than that amount.

Kimmel is unhappy over $3,756 check

BY BOB FRYER

PORT ST. LUCIE—Former city mayor ...rence Kimmel will be receiving a ...ck for $3,756 from the City of Port St. ...ucie soon, but he's not happy about it. ...Mr. Lucie Kimmel feels he ...ould be getting more money than that ...gain.

...ity council members voted four to ...ne (Councilman Merle Anderson ...s absent) Tuesday morning to pay ...mmel $3,756 as Kimmel's vested right ...funds deposited on his behalf in the ...rt St. Lucie Retirement Trust Fund. ...Several years ago, the city retirement ...nd was the subject of a lawsuit filed by ...roup of Port St. Lucie citizens. Those ...ns maintained that provisions of ...e retirement fund were illegal.

...As a result of the court case Judge ...ert Alderman, who was then a ...uit Court judge and is now a District ...urt of Appeals judge, issued a final ...ding as to how the funds would be ...pened. His ruling stated that ...mmel, who was then mayor, "has a 40 ...r cent vested right to the sums ...posited on his behalf in the Port St. ...ucie Retirement Trust Fund by virtue ...his having been a member of the city ...uncil...for over four years."

...ity Manager Elmer Cox told council ...mbers Tuesday that the reason for ...e delay between the time of the final ...ding of the judge on June 20, 1975 and ...w was because he has been waiting on ...pies' from the retirement fund ...surance company stating how much ...ney was deposited on behalf of ...mmel. Cox said the insurance ...mpany officials have told him that ...ount is $9,390. Cox computed 40 per ...t of that sum as $3,756.

...Though the judge ruled Kimmel was ...ly due to get 40 per cent of the money ...posited on his behalf, other council ...mbers, specifically Dr. Harold ...tley and Franklin Beardsley, were ...clared by the judge to be entitled to 100 ...r cent of the funds deposited on their ...alf because they had served on the ...uncil for nearly eight years. Also, then ...y attorney Rupert Smith, a 10-year ...ployee, was judged to be entitled to ...per cent of the money deposited on ...s behalf. For Smith, that meant he ...ceived more than $21,000. Dr. Nottley ...d Beardsley each received nearly ...2,000.

...Cox explained after the meeting ...esday that one of the provisions of the ...w was that council members would ...t be eligible for 100 per cent of the ...ney deposited on their behalf until ...y served for eight years.

...In the wake of the controversy over the ...irement fund, an ordinance was ...sed on Feb. 11, 1975, which Cox said ...minated all elected officials from ...ing able to continue participating in ...e retirement plan.

..."It was passed unanimously and ...mmel, who was mayor, signed it. The ...ty adoption of the ordinance ...minated him and all other elected ...ficials from the plan from that point ...n, but, of course, did not take away ...r rights to whatever the judge decided ...s their share of what had already been deposited for them under the plan," Cox said.

At Tuesday's meeting, Kimmel did not say how much more he felt he was entitled to receive. When he began his address to the council, he said it was good to be back in the council chambers and that he hoped they could talk "as neighbors and friends."

Kimmel said he had tried several times to get a figure from Cox as to how much money was deposited on his behalf, but his requests had been denied.

Cox replied that he had not denied Kimmel the figures but had been waiting for completion of an audit before he knew what the amount would be. However, later Cox said that even though the audit is still not completed, he and the auditors have known of the $9,390 figure on which the 40 per cent computation was made since "about a third of the way through the audit." He said the auditors have agreed that there is no question about the accuracy of the $9,390 figure.

Kimmel asked each council member to meet with him separately so he could tell his side of the story, explaining that he wanted individual meetings to keep from having to have a public meeting on the matter. He said a public meeting would result in a "trial in the papers."

In spite of the fact that Kimmel admitted signing the ordinance eliminating elected officials from continued participation in the retirement plan, Kimmel said, "The judge's order did not mention any termination of me from the pension plan...you're assuming my membership in the pension plan expired."

After Mayor Bill McChesney and council member Schuyler Sharpe spoke in favor of paying Kimmel the $3,756 sum, McChesney said Kimmel still had a right to appeal the city council payment to him if he wanted to. Then the four council members voted to approve the payment.

Though Kimmel mentioned the possibility of a suit against the city when he asked for the individual meetings with the council members, he did not say for certain that he would file a suit.

Port St. Lucie citizens are signing tax protest petitions

PORT ST. LUCIE—A taxpayers revolt appears to be growing in St. Lucie County, and citizens of Port St. Lucie are joining the movement.

Last week a crowd of angry residents, estimated by some to number about 2,000 persons, attended a protest meeting at the St. Lucie County Courthouse, but when the crowd filled two rooms and a hallway in the courthouse, the meeting was moved to the courthouse lawn.

Former Fort Pierce mayors Ben L. Bryan and Dr. Bill Dannahower, along with former county commissioner Cody Bailey, spearheaded the meeting. They called for a rollback in county taxes to the point where property tax revenues for the upcoming fiscal years will equal those collected during this fiscal year, since property assessments jumped by an average of 25.8 per cent this year, a levy of the same tax millage this coming year as was levied for the 1976-77 fiscal year would produce more money. Also, since the nuclear power plant on Hutchinson Island is now operating, the power plant will be assessed at a much higher value for the coming fiscal year than it has been assessed in the past.

In addition to seeking a county tax rollback, the organizers called for a reduction in the school tax millage and suggested that it would be better if some source of revenue other than property taxes was used to finance school systems in the state.

Prior to the protest meeting, Don White, chairman of the public relations committee of the Port St. Lucie-River Park Homeowners Association, met with Bryan. White said as a result of that meeting, he pledged to get Port St. Lucie area residents to turn out at the protest meeting. Though there was no way of telling just how many persons at the courthouse lawn meeting were from Port St. Lucie, White said he recognized a "sizable contingent" from this area.

White noted that he was not alone in drumming up interest in the meeting. Mary Rosenberger, vice-president of the Port St. Lucie-River Park Homeowners Association, also spread the word about the protest meeting. Others responsible for the Port St. Lucie contingent attending the meeting include Herb Tschudi and Seymour Flemming of the Port St. Lucie Civic League, Edward Buffington of the Port St. Lucie Anglers Club, Mel Broom of General Development Corporation, Jack LaFrance and Fred Johnston of the Port St. Lucie Republican Club, Phil Thibideau of the Democrat Club and the South Indian River Drive Freeholders Association, and Carl Palozzotto, VFW Commander and chairman of the Presidents' Council told" noted White.

After Bryan cited what he felt were inequities in the present method of tax assessments in the state (he speculated that all property be assessed at full market value), Cody Bailey explained the purpose of several petitions that were being circulated among the crowd.

"People don't know what the set up is. They feel they can go to the Board of Adjustment and get their assessment reduced. But it's not the Board of Adjustment that has the final decision. The state Department of Revenue in Tallahassee has the final word on what the assessments will be," White explained after the meeting.

At the meeting White noted that in the past two years, "no Board of Adjustment has recommended an adjustment (in appraisals) without getting the confidence of (County Property Appraiser) James Bass."

Bass came in for criticism several times during the meeting, but he says he has little control over assessments, because he has to follow state mandates in making assessments.

White reminded citizens at the meeting of a special tax rollback law that was enacted for St. Lucie, Martin and Indian River counties "by an overwhelming majority vote" several years ago. That law called for an automatic rollback in the tax millage levy so that revenues from property taxes could not exceed those from the previous year by more than 10 percent unless advertisements were published to notify the public of proposed revenue increases.

provision in it that it would expire after a given time unless the local state legislative delegation took action to extend the life of the law.

"As the rollback law was about to die a couple of years ago, people sent letters and petitions to the local legislative delegation asking them to reenact the law. Representative Chuck Nergard, who pushed for original passage of the law, favored extending the life of the law. But state senators Phil Lewis and Harry Johnston opposed it, and the law died," White said. He urged citizens to remember Johnston and Lewis at election time.

One of the reasons the rollback law died is that school board officials opposed it. They maintained that while there may have been good intentions behind the law, it created a budget problem. That's because the state sets a minimum millage figure which all school boards must levy in order to raise funds for education. That minimum figure has varied over the years. This year it is set at 8.4 mills. By having that requirement it created a situation for some school boards where they could barely comply with the minimum tax levy figure without conflicting with the rollback law. And, school officials said that they needed more revenue than what they could get by imposing the minimum tax levy set by the state.

St. Lucie County School Board Finance Director Frederick See explains that the state requirement of a minimum tax levy came about as a result of court cases in other states. "Basically, the suits maintained that it was unfair for students in a rich county to have more money spent per pupil on them than students in poorer counties. The courts agreed, and since then, we've been working under the 'Equalizer concept.' That means the state requires each county to levy a certain millage figure and that all the money from that tax levy throughout the state goes into a state education fund. Then, based on a formula of funding X number of dollars per student, the funds are distributed throughout the state," See said.

See explained that this is an oversimplified version of how school taxation works because the state formula of X dollars per pupil varies, depending on what sort of educational program the students participate in. For instance, special education students usually get more money per capita than those in basic education programs.

But White says St. Lucie County in getting hit especially hard this year in the amount the school system must contribute to the state educational fund. "In Escambia county the state contributes 80 per cent of the funds to the school system. Last year in St. Lucie County the state provided about 50 per cent of the funds and the county provided about 50 per cent. But this coming year St. Lucie County will have to provide about 63 per cent of the funds and the state will pay about 37 per cent. We don't feel it is fair for St. Lucie County to be hit so hard. All counties that are affluent should be equally taxed instead of having varying amounts," White said.

Since the protest meeting, at which time more than 1,000 signatures were placed on petitions, a set of petitions have been circulating in St. Lucie County. "We can't keep a good supply of petitions because so many people want to sign them," White said last week. However, this week the supply is better. White said petitions are available for signatures at the Port St. Lucie Community Center, at the North Port Marina, and at the Saints Clubhouse. He also said persons in south Port St. Lucie should call Seymour Fleming at 336-3864 for copies of petitions and for more information about them.

One of the petitions urges local state legislators and county commissioners to sponsor legislation creating a budget commission for the county which would have "control suspension of governmental budgets and the power to reduce same; to provide to the people the right to recall Tax Assessors; to provide state school funding be from sources other than ad valoreem taxes with such taxes remaining at home and that the state totally remove itself from interference with tax assessments and millage rates."

Another petition urges county commissioners and school board members and city commissioners and other taxing bodies to "reject excessive requests presented to them and substantially reduce the millage rates."

A third petition asks that those signing the petition be called when the taxing bodies are voting on budgets and millage rates. The petition provides a space for the phone number of those signing it.

SIGNING A PETITION to ask for curbs on tax levies is Port St. Lucie resident Florence Dabney. She is one of thousands who have signed petitions since a protest meeting over taxation was held at the St. Lucie County Courthouse last week. Don White, left, helped get a sizeable contingent of Port St. Lucie residents to attend the meeting, and has been distributing the petitions in Port St. Lucie.

Sheriff makes no commitment for sub-station in PSL

PORT ST. LUCIE—City Manager Elmer Cox met with Sheriff Lanie Norvell last week to explore the possibility of building a Sheriff's Department sub-station in Port St. Lucie, but Cox said the sheriff made no commitments at the meeting.

"The Sheriff said he'd look into it and report back to me in a couple of weeks," Cox said.

Until a few weeks ago, city council members were on record as desiring the creation of a city police force as soon as possible. However, during budget discussions the council members decided to drop the idea of a city police force for at least another year.

City Attorney Spencer Gilbert said at the budget meeting that he felt the city might be unwise in creating a police force of its own. He said as a former prosecutor in Martin and St. Lucie counties he learned that there are often "petty jealousies" among area police forces and that he noticed many cases when there was no cooperation between police agencies.

"Each department wants to build its own empire and get credit for busts," Gilbert said.

The city attorney said the crime rate in Port St. Lucie is relatively low and suggested that the best way for even better protection could be by having a sub-station of the Sheriff's Department in Port St. Lucie. He said this would allow deputies to remain in the city rather than having to go to Fort Pierce every time they make an arrest and until a deputy could come down from Fort Pierce to transport the prisoners to the county jail.

Cox said the sheriff told him "there would be no problem in assigning permanent deputies to Port St. Lucie."

The Sheriff's Department has jurisdiction in all areas of the county, but for the last few years the city has contracted with the Sheriff's Department to have extra protection in the city. Under terms of this year's contract, which will cost the city a little more than $170,000, a total of nine deputies will be assigned to Port St. Lucie.

However, the deputies do not have an office to work out of in Port St. Lucie. "The city has no space for them," Cox says.

If a sub-station is built, it will have to have two holding cells, Cox said, adding that "one cell would be for male prisoners and the other would be for female prisoners."

When asked whether the city or the Sheriff's Department would pay for a sub-station to be built, Cox replied, "That's a question for later."

At the same meeting that city council members voted not to proceed with police department plans for at least a year, the council members decided to use a combination of property tax money and cash from the city's reserve fund to come up with a $150,000 downpayment this year on a new city hall. The new city hall, to be located at the Port St. Lucie and Alcoa Boulevards, is expected to cost about $750,000. Included in the plans is space to house a city police department.

Cox also noted that if a sub-station is built, it would have to be manned around-the-clock by a dispatcher and that a communications system would have to be designed.

Free meals for needy

BY ROBBIE BEDELL

STUART—The Martin County School system is offering a policy for free and reduced priced meals and free milk for families unable to afford the full price for their children's meals and milk under recent food program changes.

The rate paid for meals varies according to the income and the size of the family.

Family size is broken down from one member to 12. If a one-member family makes $60 or under per week, it is eligible for free meals and milk. If the same size family makes between $60 and $117 per week, it is eligible for reduced meals.

If a family of 12 has an income of under $238 per week, it is eligible for the free meals and milk. If the same size family makes up to $467 per week, it is eligible for reduced meals.

Families not meeting the criteria, but with unusual expenses due to high medical bills, high housing rates, special education expenses or disaster, can also apply for the program.

Application forms have been sent to all homes and additional copies are available at the principal's office at each school.

The applications can be filed at any time during the school and information is confidential.

Those interested are urged to obtain an application and refer to the complete breakdown of family and income criteria to determine if they are eligible for the program.

Social notes showing up

And so, the butterfly begins to emerge from the cocoon even as early as August. Either that or rigor mortis has not entirely set in, or everyone is getting too cramped up from not riding their bikes, or Gilligan's Island is beginning to repeat itself for the fourth time.

Whatever the cause, we are beginning to see signs of a few social notes coming in. Not only that, but we now have hot shot reporters operating in all park areas Sharyon Tilton, Rachel Le Cluyse, Myri Penney and the Mystery Women on the Bike, the Happy Traveler. Any one of these good people will take your births, anniversaries, lynchings, travels back and forth between Florida and other states or just plain newsy gossip in good taste.

For instance, here is what Edna Horne has to tell us: during the month of July, their two sons, Steve and Dan, visited PLV for two weeks, helping the Hornes celebrate their 34th anniversary. All out to dinner at one of our local restaurants with champagne, no less, and soap to rain, did a lot of swimming, sailing, card playing and working around the house.

Steve is in the Navy and headed for the Med on a new nuke destroyer. Dan is attending college, majoring in electronics, and he and his wife Sarah will be presenting the Hornes with their first grandchild about next April.

Then, up comes this likely story from Sharyon. I will quote verbatim, but remember, I am not responsible for all times, you know. Quote Last Tuesday, twenty eight of our ladies sallied forth (hah) to West Palm Beach in a caravan of cars on a shopping spree at the Mall down there unquote. The way we got it, one section wound up in Belle Glade, another in Jupiter, and worse in Lake Worth but, gitraculously, met at the Mall at some time or other.

Everyone will remember last year when an unsuspecting Martin County had to contend with a string of cars driven by women. Now it looks like they are extending themselves into other counties. Anyway, had lunch at the Boardwalk Restaurant, hitting the salad bar, the soup line, the full lunch and dessert (don't know if the exercise class was the next day or not.) So, they "waddled" on back to the Mall for another go at the shops While no one was looking, Sharyon and Edith Ball underwent surgery at the "Piercing Pagoda"; so keep your eyes open for some added sparkle at the clubhouse.

Sounds like a fun filling, but we'll wait for late reports of any knocked over mail boxes in Jupiter or overturned traffic cones on U.S. 1.

Here we go — something new in dancing on Wednesday afternoons in Sound Science, exercises and intermediate classes, so don't be shy. There is something for everyone. Even single gals need not be afraid. Lot of single men who will take up the slack. No need for that "I don't have a partner" stuff...PLV provides. Or, if that doesn't work, decide who will wear the pants

We've got a beginning oil painting class starting also. See Sharyon for details.

The Arts and Crafts class goes on and can always use help or new blood. Everyone must have a hobby of some kind, right? What do you want, a vegetable garden in this weather?

These classes are being conducted primarily for items to be used during the holidays, Christmas and New Years. Wouldn't it be gratifying to know you had a hand in some of the pretties you will see hanging around?

This year-end thing will wind up in a Christmas Bazaar, so get your feet wet. Remember also, bleach bottles are needed in all sizes, and cotton and cotton blends. Every time you go to throw one of these things in the trash, THINK! Is there some poor soul caught in the middle of a project who needs this?

Oh yes, birthday and anniversary parties are the first Thursday of the month involved, in this case, the very first day of September.

The Happy Traveler says she is glad to see the MacNeills back from up north. Saw them biking around the park looking - lot more comfortable than fighting traffic. Says the Battaglias had visitors from Englishtown, N.J., Aaron and his mother, Mrs. Vetter. Here for a week.

She goes on: Astrid and Dick Olsen are moving into their new digs and the other night it looked like a political rally with everyone making sure they got signed away. Don't knock it, Dick, with labor being what it is today, don't pay anyone, just serve cookies and milk!

Lots of other residents moving into her territory fast. Gave their names two weeks ago. Welcome aboard again.

FATAL CRASH--Emmett Pollard, 37, an Ohio hitchhiker, was killed last Wednesday, at the intersection of U.S. 1 and the Jensen Beach Cutoff Road, when the pay phone he was talking on was struck by a truck. Colleen Gaudette, 48, of Port St. Lucie, was charged with violating a right of way in the wreck.

PSL driver charged in wreck

BY ROBBIE BEDELL

JENSEN BEACH--Colleen Gaudette, 48, of 1704 Adair Road, Port St. Lucie, has been charged with violating a right of way, three days after she was involved in a traffic accident which took the life of an Ohio hitchhiker.

Emmett Pollard, 37, was killed Wednesday when a tractor-trailer truck struck him while he was at a pay phone at the intersection of U.S. 1 and the Jensen Beach Cutoff Road.

According to the Florida Highway Patrol, a truck driver, also from Ohio, traveling north on U.S. 1, went off the road while attempting to avoid a car allegedly driven by Mrs. Gaudette. The car was making a left-hand turn onto the Cutoff Road from the southbound lane of U.S. 1. The car making the turn left the scene of the accident.

Area residents, backed by the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce and the Martin County Commission, have long wanted the State Department of Transportation to put up a stoplight at the intersection instead of the flashing light which has hung there for years.

One witness to the accident said he has seen 15 people lose their lives at the intersection within the last 25 years.

The Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce has been notified in writing that the DOT plans to erect a new stoplight.

Mrs. Gaudette is scheduled to appear in court next month.

Jensen goes to dogs

JENSEN BEACH--If Martin County Chief Lifeguard Jack Cammack gets his way, beachgoers who like to bring their dogs to the beach will have to have their canine friends on the end of a leash.

"In past years a number of beachgoers brought their dogs to the beach," Cammack said. "But back then just about everyone knew everyone else and they curbed their dogs. We never had any problem."

Now, according to Cammack, there is a problem.

"As the population increased, so did the number of dogs," he said.

Cammack added that in the months of June, July and August, there were many dogs running loose and one lifeguard was bitten by one of them.

"We were able to trace the dog so my lifeguard didn't have to go through a series of rabies shots," he said. "It could have been serious if a child had been bitten."

Cammack is asking that the county commission consider adopting a leash law as the danger of dog bites would be eliminated.

"Lifeguards are out there to save lives," he said. "When they have to control dogs, that's a bad situation. That needs to be changed before it leads to tragedy."

Cammack also said that he is still having problems on the beach with people breaking beer and soda bottles

Inlet deepening needs local pressure --Stone

BY ROBBIE BEDELL

STUART--After years of negotiations with the Federal Government and the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, local officials and the public learned Monday morning that funding for the St. Lucie Inlet project may still be granted this year.

According to U.S. Senator Richard Stone, funding might still be considered because of extended sessions regarding the Panama Canal Treaty. If there is no funding, Stone said the money will be included in the public works bill next year.

In either case, Stone urged local residents to support the project.

"We want to lobby the administration so that this project will be included next year and not be part of the moratorium on new public works," he said.

Stone advised that local interests should contact senators and congressmen by phone and mail to express their support. "I can't believe they will stop this next year," he said. "We've got a good project here. Let's get what we've got."

Accompanying Stone Monday morning were Lt. Col Robert J. Waterston of the Corps and his staff.

Staff member Eddie Salem explained the design of the inlet, a project he has worked on the past six years.

The plan calls for an improvement of the existing jetty at the north side of the inlet which is to serve as a "sand bypassing weir." At the end of the jetty there will be a 500-foot extension which will jut off into a southeast direction.

The outer channel, through a bar near the entrance, will be excavated to a 16-foot depth and will be 300 feet wide. Between the jetties the channel will narrow to 150 feet and will go to a 10-foot depth. Beyond the inlet, en route to the intracoastal waterway, the channel will be 100 feet wide and seven feet deep.

Across from the extension at the north jetty, on the south side of the new channel at the entrance, there will be a 400-foot breakwater detached from land and the south jetty.

Salem said the breakwater is detached in an effort to save cost in the project. Because wave action rarely comes from the southeast, and over an existing bar between the breakwater and the beach, Salem said he did not think it was necessary to extend a jetty all the way to the breakwater.

An impoundment basin, 400m feet wide, 1800 feet long and 13 feet deep will be dredged at the start of construction to provide beach nourishment for the north end of Jupiter Island. The impoundment will also catch sand which may be washed through the north jetty in the north-south action of the surf.

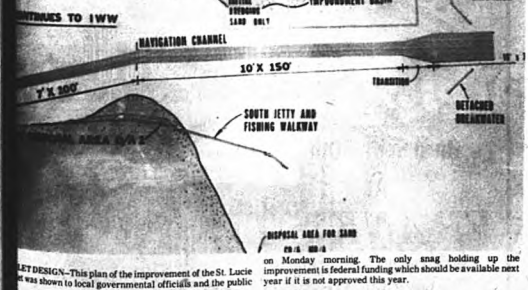
A south jetty will be build with a fishing walk jutting out for 1,200 feet in an east-southeast direction.

All of the sand removed from the inlet, and that removed in future years during inlet maintenance, will be placed on the beaches of Jupiter Island in the proposed Jupiter Island State Park area. Rock removed in the project will go to a protective bulkhead along the southern edge of Hutchinson Island.

Developers of Sailfish Point at the southernmost tip of Hutchinson Island had been hoping the Corps would allow some of the sand to be used on the point as fill.

"The land really belongs to the State of Florida," Senator Stone said. "If any sand comes out of the area around Sailfish Point, we would request a study of its effect on the environment and its effect on the project."

"It is an absolute must that the sand goes to the park," Col Waterston said.



INLET DESIGN--This plan of the improvement of the St. Lucie Inlet was shown to local governmental officials and the public on Monday morning. The only snag holding up the improvement is federal funding which should be available next year if it is not approved this year.

Sewall's Point eyes repaving

SEWALL'S POINT--If the Town of Sewall's Point gets the Federal Economic Development Funds (EDA) it has applied for, the money will go toward paving South Sewall's Point Road.

The amount the town would get, $30,000, is a cut from a total of $948,000 which is being divided up among other governmental bodies in Martin County. Martin County, the School Board, the City of Stuart and Civil Defense all have applications in for a portion of the money.

Sewall's Point Road Commissioner John Rossiter said that the town's application has been accepted in Washington according to the guidelines set down by EDA; however, the confirmation means "nothing certain" in getting the money.

The resurfacing plan involves the 9,000 foot stretch of Sewall's Point Road from the Town Hall to the gates at High Point.

County Commissioner Maggie Hurchalla said that the notice of receiving the applications is a good sign and could mean that the money will be in the county within the next few weeks.

"The money has been targeted to Martin County," she said. "And we have received word that the application is in order."

If received, Civil Defense has earmarked its share to building a new Civil Defense building. The School Board will build a sports complex.

The Sewall's Point road paving is not the only road work under consideration in the town.

The State Department of Transportation (DOT) has informed the town that it is planning on improving the intersection of Sewall's Point Road and A-1-A starting in October. The intersection improvement is part of the state agency's plan to improve East Ocean Blvd. from U.S. 1 to the Evans Crary Bridge.

The improvement by the DOT will add turning lanes and additional stoplights at the intersection.

Residents join in boycott

JENSEN BEACH--An electrical boycott on Tuesday, designed to pressure the Florida Public Service Commission (PSC) to not grant any more rate hikes to Florida Power & Light (FPL) has been described as "fantastic" by Lillian Driscoll, a Jensen woman organizing the protest in this area.

"It is fantastic," Mrs. Driscoll said. "Stupendous. I've heard reports that Broward, Dade, Martin, St. Lucie and Indian River Counties are taking part."

Mrs. Driscoll urged people to take part in the voluntary blackout by turning off all electricity at home for a 24-hour period. She advocated taping wall switches and unplugging appliances.

"It affects the total economy," she said. "Your electric rate goes up and then people need more money from their jobs to pay bills. When workers can't get more from their jobs, strikes occur to try and force higher wages. It's a vicious circle."

"We can't make rates go down, so we have to stop them before they go up," she added.

Mrs. Driscoll said the rates asked by FPL are requested to pay off dividends to stockholders in the company.

"Why doesn't somebody do something?" she asked. "We won't let it die. If this doesn't work, we will find another means to get our message across."

Gene Van Curen, area manager for FPL, said that the most recent rate hike granted by the PSC to the power company amounted to a 16 per cent increase in electric rates.

"It was the first rate hike in two years and it seems to be higher because it is coming all at once," Van Curen said. "Show me a product which has stayed consistent in price for the last two years."

Van Curen added that the PSC did grant the rate hike on July 8, but that it was lower than the company originally applied for.

Van Curen also said that the 24-hour boycott of electricity by customers would probably have little effect on the company because it is of so short a duration.

"Assuming that all 50,000 people participated, the contribution to the total load probably could not be distinguished from disturbances from nature," he said. "We feel that people have more effect on their personal usage by doing some of the things we have recommended. You can check your insulation, use shade trees around the house and turn your air conditioning to 80 or 82 degrees. There are any number of alternatives for more power savings."

Meanwhile, in addition to the boycott, a petition is being circulated in Jensen Beach and elsewhere by a group known as JURY (justifiable utility rates for you).

The petition urges those with complaints to contact the PSC, the governor and legislators. The address for JURY is 1007 S. Indian River Drive, Port St. Lucie, FL 33452.

Water is topic of Sept. 1 meeting

STUART--Martin County Governments and the general public will meet with the Martin County Administrative Center at 7:30 p.m., Thursday, Sept. 1, to discuss a financial plan to increase regional water systems.

The meeting will inform the officials of ways to finance wells, carrying lines to sewer and water and, perhaps, even treatment plant.

The City of Stuart, which so far owns the only water treatment plant in the county, recently obtained permission from the South Florida Water Management District to drill two test wells south of Stuart.

While the city is hunting south for its water, the county is interested in looking for water in Jensen Beach in an area between South Savanna Road and U.S.1.

If the county is able to find water in Jensen Beach, it is possible that water could service the Town of Sewall's Point and Hutchinson Island, an area now served by Southern Gulf Utilities.

The problem with the Southern Gulf system has been that the company, in buying water from the City of Stuart, has not been able to maintain consistant water pressure level to its customers, especially those in the northern end of Hutchinson Island in Martin County.

The City of Stuart has wanted to increase its water distribution to customers within Stuart, but with contracted water obligations to Southern Gulf, has been unable to do so.

Stuart City Commissioner Dale Anderson has said that Martin County and Stuart might enter into a joint water hunt in an area west of the Florida Turnpike.

The meeting, which is open to the public, is at 7:30 p.m., Sept. 1, at the County Administration Center.

JENSEN BEACH--On Sept. 24, the Jensen Beach Causeway will be swarming with kids waving fishing rods, hooks and lines, during the annual Isaac Walton League Boys and Girls Fishing Tournament.

Open to any young person 15 or under, the tournament is offering more than a dozen prizes for the top anglers.

The only rules are that the young people must bring their own rods, reels and bait, and they have to meet the age requirements.

Contestants are allowed to fish anywhere on the Jensen Beach Causeway.

A PET RACCOON named Sparkey joined the crowd of persons who gathered at Stuart Beach last week to watch the release of baby Green Sea Turtles. Sparkey, who was a popular hit with children at the beach, is shown with his owner, Lance Brown of Stuart. Though Sparkey and the turtles seemed to get along, raccoons are not always loved by the turtles. When giant female turtles nest on local beaches in the summer, raccoons often dig up the nests and eat the turtle eggs.

Ducks Unlimited chapter to form

STUART—A meeting to form a local chapter of Ducks Unlimited, the international waterfowl conservation group, will take place at 7:30 p.m. on September 21 at the office of Woodrow Kantner Inc., 5800 South Federal Highway in Stuart.

Regional directors Dr. Earl Frye, former State Director of the Game & Fish Department, and Dan Denton will assist in the formation of the new chapter at the meeting.

Ducks Unlimited, a non-profit organization with over 200,000 members, is dedicated to the conservation of waterfowl as a natural resource. Funds raised in the U.S. and Canada are used to construct and rehabilitate waterfowl nesting habitat north of the U.S.-Canadian border, where four out of every five ducks and geese are hatched.

It is also estimated that approximately 250 species of bird, 60 different mammals and 15 types of fish live in water impoundment projects supervised under Ducks Unlimited.

Membership in the organization is tax-deductible. Over its 40-year-history, Ducks Unlimited has spent more than $50 million and has created or stabilized nearly 2.5 million valuable acres of habitat. The organization buys no land, receiving free leases from governments, landowners, industries and municipalities.

Last year Florida conservationists contributed a total of $123,000 to Ducks Unlimited, a large percentage of which went in programs in the duck-rich Prairie Provinces of Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba.

All sportsmen-conservationists who would like to join the chapter or want additional information should contact Woodrow Kantner at his office or call him at 283-3200 days, or, evenings at 283-5915.

Barbecue cookout Saturday for Billy West fund drive

JENSEN BEACH–A barbecue cook-out is planned for the Jensen Beach Armory from 1 to 6 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 3, to raise funds for a Port St. Lucie youngster who has been diagnosed as having a form of cerebral palsy, as well as other medical problems.

The youngster, Billy West, is a little over two and a half years old and has already had one operation for a congenital opening to his stomach and three for hernias. He was born with bronchial asthma and cannot sit up, walk, or talk.

A fund drive to help pay some of Billy's medical expenses was recently started, and Billy's grandmother, Mrs. June Hitt of Port St. Lucie, reports that about $1,300 has been raised so far. Mrs. Hitt is helping organize the cookout and fund drive.

The Sing Outs of Fort Pierce will give two performances during the cookout. The menu will include barbecued beef and pork, cole slaw, baked beans and rolls. Tickets are $5 for adults, $1.50 for children under 12, and babies may eat free. Tickets will be available at the cookout or purchased beforehand by contacting Mrs. Hitt at 878-3481.

The cookout will be located west of the Frank Wacha Bridge, near the grandstands and barbecue pits.

Mrs. Hitt reports that Billy was recently measured and fitted for a wheelchair that the March of Dimes will buy for him. She said he should be receiving the wheelchair soon.

Persons who can't make it to the barbecue but still want to donate to the fund may do so by making checks out to the William R. West Fund and sending them to the Port St. Lucie Bank on Prima Vista Drive in Port St. Lucie.

DO YOUR REMEMBER WHEN

The May 25 "Do You Remember When" touched on the 1949 Hurricane and folks began to "remember", They came up with stories and pictures that emphasize just what does happen when a hurricane strikes nearby. Here's what they had to say:

The radio told us to prepare, but at 10:30 a.m. Friday, August 26, there wasn't a cloud in the sky, couldn't believe we'd get it. Then, by 4:30 p.m. the rain and the wind started and never stopped....until they had wrecked 22 trailers. Winds were way over 120 miles per hour and over 186 at Jupiter.

A story is told of Mack and Gladys McLarty wanderings. First they went to the office, but the water came in, so they went over to the school. At 3 a.m. there was a big blast and Mack groaned, "There goes everything", as they could see the air was full of flying branches, fronds and trailer pieces. But, next morning they found that Mack had done a good tie-down job, as their travel trailer was still in one piece.

Myrt Huntington says her trailer was a sorry looking mess, laying there on its side, but luckily she wasn't in it. When righted, it was found not too damaged, but everything was out of drawers and cupbards. However, soon it was livable as Harry's crew and all those who survived undamaged pitched in and helped their neighbors.

There's another story of man and wife in their trailer as it went over, neither injured much, but both pinned down out of sight of each other. Much yelling back and forth assured them they were both ok and their combined hollering next morning soon brought them release.

Some folks reported that they stocked their cars with food and water and took off for a motel on higher ground. They escaped the worst of the storm, but the 14 inches of rain in 24 hours flooded many roads, especially the area from the Arch to Rio, making it difficult to return to the park.

Then, there were such remarks as: "Wind actually took your breath way"; "One hurricane, hail the size of walnuts piled up 8 to 10 inches around the doors"; "Harry, told us to take TV antennas down and store small objects in Seventh Street Laundry"; "So much rain on time that the discharge from St. Lucie canal made the rivers so fresh, it killed the fish"; and so it goes, story after story.

However, these "tid bits", along with accompanying pictures, will demonstrate that hurricanes must be treated with a healthy respect and OBPers should be prepared.

Cliff and Hope White of 1 Cypress just returned from 2½ months in Jamesville, Wisc., visiting son Garry and grandsons, Christopher, and Garry Allen, 4 and 7 years. Some of the time, they were at a cottage on a lake. Durin g their travels, they visited Nellie Locke of Bay Drive and Minnie Warnes of Key Lime and just by 15 minutes missed a vicious tornado at Matton, Ill. Said June was too cool, July hotter than hades with August awful cold with 48 degrees some mornings. They remarked that the Jensen Beach Mirror followed them all summer and the first thing on getting the papers was to check on the OBPers.

Ralph and Bobbie Tucker of 16 SW 9th are back from two months in Flint and Ypsilanti, Mich., where they used to live. They had a nice visit with twin sons, Bill and Jim. Claim it was a warm summer and 104 degrees up there while we had 80.

Julian Graham of 3 Burmuda is just back from a trip to Florence, S.C. to visit brother-in-law, William Howard, 3 nephews and 5 cousins before going on to Pontiac, Mic., to visit three sisters. While up that way, he ran into Guy Carter, exOBPer of Banyan who was fine. It was too cool, when the temperature got down to 37 each morning so.....Julian came back home.

Ty Tyree of 5 Cypress is back from a six week trip to Covington, Va., and DesMoines, Iowa. In Covington there was a fmaily reunion of 20, including Paul and Florence Tyree of Indian River Drive and two sisters from Oaklahoma. Then, in Iowa, he visited friends of his telephone company days, and three sisters in Tulsa. No driving problems except dreadful smog from Louisville to Indianapolis and too many unbearable days of 104 to 106 degree temperatures. His grandson, Brian Dickerson, 13 years, came back with him for company and stayed two weeks to get acquainted with Florida. Then Ty mentioned that he'd just received a card from Ann Bartle of Cypress saying she is having a great time at Airstream Rally near Atlantic City.

Luther Weeks has his daughter Jackie O'Brien visiting for two weeks and she must have showed him something about fishing he didn't know for they got a good mess, two out of three times, and that's unusual for this year. Luther's squirrel Peet (?) had her babies in Val Well's attic and the cute little things are doing fine.

Claude and Peggy Burks have beard from Tess Myer, exOBPer, that Ruth Reed another exOBPer was given a party at Pine Hill Park in Franklin, N.C. when she sold her mobile home there. Ruth and Tess are both OK.

Veronica Snyder got a card from Roy and Josie Daley saying it is great up here by Fontana Dam and Lake, but steep winding roads beyond Bryson City. Ceil Shield writes, "Following the OBP doings in the Mirror, say hello to everybody". Betty MacNab from West Chester, Pa. writes, "Just back from trip to California, saw Mollie Butterfield, plan to be back in OBP by mid-October".

Freda Peterkin got a letter from Katy Reed, saying that she's looking forward to OBP this winter. Writing from Glen Spey, N.Y., she says, "One - hectic summer, for awhile too hot and no rain, now rainy and cold,

Port St. Lucie Chapter 2690

Pretty much the whole gamut of AARP interests was covered at the area meeting held last week in Vero Beach, a morning session that ran from 9:30 to 12:30. Attending for our chapter were President Fred Wiggin and First Vice President Maurie Arluck. Bill Koolage, assistant state AARP director for this area, presided at the meeting, which was attended by Vero Beach, Barefoot Bay, Fort Pierce and Fort Pierce chapter representatives.

The agenda called for discussion of plans for this fall and the ensuing year, which gave delegates the chance to talk about what their chapters have done and plan to do. The scheduled activities included movies, monthly pancake breakfasts held as fund-raising events, volunteer services at hospitals, volunteer assistance in service for rehabilitation programs, congregate meals, meals-on-wheels, transportation and health services.

In the short time since our chapter has been functioning, our membership meeting programs have been informative in nature. Several members have indicated they would like an entertainment program occasionally.

The board and Maurie Arluck, in particular, would like to hear from you members on this point. Maurie is program chairman and has done a good job in lining up speakers who, in most cases, have talked about subjects of direct interest to older citizens.

If you feel that this type of program might benefit by varying it with an entertainment program once in a while, please let Maurie or any board member know your feelings.

President Wiggin reported that one item of interest under discussion at the area meeting was AARP's position on controversial subjects. He said Bill Koolage emphasized that AARP, as an organization, never takes a position on a controversial political question unless it directly impinges on the interests of the organization's members. If a controversial issue is to be discussed at a membership meeting, both sides of the question must be represented.

The possibility of using the new Catholic Church auditorium as a meeting place may now be scratched. Jim Kearney reports that he talked with Father Hickey about this and was informed that the auditorium is used only for [illegible] reason.

At this writing, the next possibility, and a remote one it is, would appear to be the city hall and adjoining facilities to be built at Port St. Lucie Boulevard and Alcron. A community conference center is one of the facilities that has been discussed for that building, but nothing definite has been decided.

If you want to go on the Bahamarama Cruise, you'd better be about it. Ask Mr. Travel, which is handling arrangements for the cruise, reports that 12 cabins at $250 are still available, but not for long. Mike Krais, of the agency, stressed that there is no way would-be cruisers will be able to go on the cruise for less than $300 if they wait and have to purchase tickets

It's not too early to start thinking about the defensive driving courses offered by the Martin County Adult Education program. About 38 or 39 of our members took the course during the spring and early summer, and everyone who did benefitted, not only by learning many effective ways to protect your life and your automobile on the highway, but by re-emphasis on common sense principles which are the basis of safe driving. In addition, those who carry insurance with Colonial Past get a 10 per cent discount on their automobile insurance premiums.

The AE office reports that the courses probably will resume toward the end of October, although no definite date has been fixed. Mrs. Esther Kildan, who directs the adult education program, will be gone until the end of September. Definite plans will be worked out when she returns. Her phone: 283-8077.

Super' potluck this week

...e advent of September means that ...y of our wandering neighbors and ...ds who have summer homes outside ...erde will be planning their return ...ee Three and each week more ...e homes are opened and we greet ...pleasure our returning ... and we know another summer ... and gone. It's always a ...

...pleasure to say "Welcome back."

The group of "stay-puts" that has been having pot luck every Wednesday all summer are planning a super one Wednesday, August 31. It will be steaks grilled by the men, salad and baked potatoes, cake and coffee.

Each week the charge for the meal course has been enough to have a very small surplus to take care of paper for table clothes, coffee, sugar, cream, tea, etc. After stacking up on these it was discovered we had enough left in the kitty to have a free Labor Day dinner. Some will be away or have company on that weekend, however, so it was bout with some king of virus that slowed him down and left him with a cough that kept him from sleeping many nights. He is better and is beginning to get up to part again.

Catherine and Hank Higgins spent the weekend in Hialeah, visiting her cousin Mary and family.

Bob and Kay Smyth had as guests on Saturday Bob's nephew, Frank Albers, getting to V.H. for some rest and relaxation.

The Lee Prices are back in their home on Wahoo Street and glad to be back. Lee had a nice trip to New York to see his mother.

The Shavers were pleasantly surprised to get a call from Orlando on Friday from an old employee and friend, Mrs. Ora Belle Newell. She and her daughter, Mrs. George Jeans, were returning from a trip to New Orleans to visit daughter of Lonnie Jeans and stopped to see another daughter in Orlando. They said they would like to come Saturday for a visit.

Ora Belle was working in Lester's business when we were married in 1931 and worked in the tailoring department for over 25 years, so we had lots of talking to do catching up on the happenings in each family.

Must close this and get it down to Vita Autenrieth, so she can get it typed and decided to have out feast on the usual Wednesday evening preceding Labor Day.

Venture Three

By Jessie Shaver, B-2, 334-8214:

On that date, Lola Bonar and Dick Painter will be feasted with the champagne punch Joe Freitag is making to enhance the festivities.

It has been very enjoyable breaking bread together every week this summer, and we have grown a little closer.

The Thursday meetings at the hall, to help Betty Jones in her labors and plans for the fall bazaar, have been social affairs that all the women have enjoyed while they were working hard. Hope Martha Pierce has recovered from her bad reaction to medication and will be in her usual place at the work table this week.

Betty is keeping Al hard at work, too. They have some nice cabinets built and installed in their car port, and now Al is painting them.

Dick Tever is feeling better. He had a wife Mimi and son Jay, Jay, who is in the Marines, has just returned from Okinawa and will be stationed at Paris Island. Frank has been transferred from Albany, Ga., to Atlanta. With them was Mimi's sister and husband, the Wilbur Edwards of Vero Beach.

Kay heard from Ethel Stern and they are packing for their move south by early October.

The Smyths are making trips to Vero Beach often to check on the progress of the setting up and finishing their new mobile home there. We will miss them very much, but it is nice that the Stems will have such a lovely home in V.H.

Kay also reports that when they talked to Betty and Paul Drinkard they heard that Jan and Bob Dedsher had been there and were going on further west before starting their trip back to St. Lucie.

Betty and Al heard from the Glaesons, who are well, but George's father has not improved enough to come to V.H. for his 90th birthday on Sept 20. A card to him on that day might lift his spirits. Many here met him on his frequent trips here.

They also heard from the Mohrhardts. Jack is improving and now that the wedding of one daughter and the departure of the other daughter to college is over, they are thinking about ready for her Walter to deliver to the Mirror on Monday. Their help is appreciated so much.

Outside news was very scarce this week, so may have to resort to imagination as to what everyone is doing, unless I get some mail this next week.

Anniversary congratulations to Jack and Evelyn Mohrhardt on August 23. Happy birthday to Lola Bonar, September 1, and to Dick Painter, September 3.

FATAL CRASH--Emmett Pollard, 37, an Ohio hitchhiker, was killed last Wednesday, at the intersection of U.S. 1 and the Jensen Beach Cutoff Road, when the pay phone he was talking on was struck by a truck. Colleen Gaudett, 48, of Port St. Lucie, was charged with violating a right of way in the wreck.

PSL driver charged in wreck

BY ROBBIE BEDELL

JENSEN BEACH--Colleen Gaudette, 48, of 1784 Adair Road, Port St. Lucie, has been charged with violating a right of way, three days after she was involved in a traffic accident which took the life of an Ohio hitchhiker.

Emmett Pollard, 37, was killed Wednesday when a tractor-trailer truck struck him while he was at a pay phone at the intersection of U.S. 1 and the Jensen Beach Cutoff Road.

According to the Florida Highway Patrol, a truck driver, also from Ohio, traveling north on U.S. 1, went off the road while attempting to avoid a car allegedly driven by Mrs. Gaudette. The car was making a left-hand turn onto the Cutoff Road from the southbound lane of U.S. 1. The car making the turn left the scene of the accident.

Area residents, backed by the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce and the Martin County Commission, have long wanted the State Department of Transportation to put up a stoplight at the intersection instead of the flashing light which has hung there for years.

One witness to the accident said he has seen 15 people lose their lives at the intersection within the last 25 years.

The Jensen Beach Chamber Commerce has been notified in writi that the DOT plans to erect a n stoplight.

Mrs. Gaudette is scheduled to appe in court next month

Amendments approved

PORT ST. LUCIE--City council members voted Tuesday to make final amendments to the city's 1976-77 fiscal year budget before the fiscal year ends on Sept. 30.

The budget amendments were approved to make for a balancing of city books, and merely confirm spending decisions made earlier in the year. There were several items changed, but the major change was to approve the expenditure of nearly $80,000 for purchase of a 14.5 acre tract at the corner of Port St. Lucie Boulevard and Airoso Boulevard as the site of a future city hall. The money for the land cam from the city's reserve fund, while totals about $985,000.

"Other changes will show increases i budgetary line items involving engineeri ing, postage, travel, office supplies as other items," City Manager Elmer Co explained in a memorandum to th council members.

By approving the amendments, th 1976-77 fiscal year budget will show tota expenditures of $766,100 and tota revenues of the same amount.

City wants county tax audit

BY BOB FRYER

PORT ST. LUCIE--In the wake of news that the county commission does not plan to grant a request from Port St. Lucie for $40,000 to improve Sportsman's Park, city officials voted Tuesday to seek an audit of how the county spends its money from Port St. Lucie.

Port St. Lucie Mayor Bill McChesney called for the audit, stating that in the current year and for the upcoming fiscal year, the county will have only spent $50,000 for capital improvements in the area while the city residents will have paid around $1.6 million in property taxes to the county general fund.

At July, city council members met with St. Lucie County commissioners and asked the county commissioners for funds. The city council members said they wanted to spend the $40,000 on capital improvements to Sportsman's Park during the upcoming fiscal year. At the end of the meeting it was agreed that the city would provide county officials with a copy of a master plan for the park and that county commissioners would consider the $40,000 request when they reviewed their Recreation Department budget for the 1977-78 year.

Port St. Lucie City Manager Elmer Cox said last week that he had informed county officials the master plan was ready for inspection. He said the city was waiting for an invitation from county commissioners to have another meeting on the $40,000 request.

However, Mayor McChesney said Tuesday, "I learned last Friday afternoon when I talked to (County Commission Chairman) Ed Enns and (Recreation Department head) Tom Kledred that the county commission decided after finishing the Recreation Department budget they would have no funds for capital improvements."

Though the phrase "double taxation" was not mentioned during the Tuesday council meeting, it is apparently the grounds on which city officials will object if the audit shows the city is not getting a fair amount of county services for the amount of money the city residents pay in county property taxes.

In the last few years there have been several court rulings stating that city residents should not be taxed for county services they do not receive. Since those rulings, some cities and counties have become embroiled in debates as to how to determine the amount a county spends on cities for indirect services, such as planning and engineering.

A phrase that was mentioned in the discussion Tuesday was "possible litigation", but McChesney and other council members stressed several times that they are not necessarily planning to sue the county.

When asked why the city council meeting agenda mentioned "the possibility of (suit or) litigation", McChesney said that this was an unfortunate choice of words. "I think it's time we approach them (county commissioners) on a very friendly basis and ask for an accounting of how our monies are being expended by the county." He said he wanted an audit of county spending, not only on Sportsman's Park, but with regard to all services the county provides the city.

The mayor noted that in the past year the county took over five parks within Fort Pierce city limits which Fort Pierce had previously owned.

"I don't see why people in this city should be helping pay for parks in Fort Pierce that should be the obligation of the City of Fort Pierce. We don't mind helping pay for the beach parks, because they're used by people from all over the county, but not for those in the heart of Fort Pierce," McChesney said.

During earlier discussion of the $40,000 request for Sportsman's Park, County Commission Chairman Enns said, "I believe government comes in layers of services and I feel recreation is a county responsibility. Let's not cost the people money by a duplication of services."

Then he called on the city council members to deed the park to the county. He said the county was ready and willing to extend recreational services if the county owned the park, but indicated he felt it was not proper for the county to provide funds for a park it does not own.

The city council members responded to Enns by unanimously voting not to give the park to the county.

On Tuesday, McChesney repeated his opposition to giving the park to the county, but said "the park does serve a lot of people in the unincorporated area as well as city residents." The park is located at the north end of town, along Prima Vista Drive.

Vice Mayor Mike Raeb called the request for an audit "long overdue", and said he wanted to know "how much money comes back into Port St. Lucie from the county for any reason."

Council member Lolita Kernohan pointed out that in addition to the $1.6 million to be paid in county taxes by city residents from 1976 through 1978, the city is going to spend $178,000 this year for extra police protection by the county Sheriff's Department and chipped in more than $20,000 for a county emergency rescue vehicle recently.

McChesney said he hoped the city council could obtain copies of the current and upcoming fiscal year budgets of the county in time to begin a "line by line" review of them during workshop meetings in September. He said he expected the council review would be complete by Oct. 3.

After that, McChesney indicated the city council would present its findings to the county commission and ask for a reply from county officials within 30 days.

READY TO ROLL on Tuesday, Sept. 6, are 86 St. Lucie County for children near the streets. During the week before school school buses. School officials estimate more than 8,000 starts, school Transportation Department mechanics have students will ride buses this school year, and they ask that been busy making last minute checks to be sure the buses are motorists extend courtesy to bus drivers and be on the lookout safe and ready for duty

Schools will open Tuesday

PORT ST. LUCIE--Schools will open in St. Lucie County on Tuesday, Sept. 6.

More than 8[illegible] students are expected to attend Port St. Lucie Elementary School, and after winning approval from a federal court judge, school officials have installed eight new portables at the school to handle the overload. Were it not for the portables, school authorities had planned to send 275 fourth and fifth graders to St. Lucie Middle School in Fort Pierce. The Port St. Lucie Elementary School will begin classes at 9 a.m. and end them at 3 p.m.

Classes for sixth through 12th grade students begin at 8 a.m. and end at 2:15 p.m.

If you have a child entering kindergarten or first grade for the first time, you must furnish proof of birth of your child, preferably a birth certificate.

Parents must also submit a form filled out by a doctor to certify that students have had all the required immunizations and that they have had a physical examination.

You should already have registered your child, but if you haven't done so, do it before the Labor Day weekend. "We will be so busy during the first few days of school that we will not have time for registrations," says Port St. Lucie Elementary School Principal Victor Blackmer.

Many of the students in Port St. Lucie will be riding a school bus to class. The Transportation Department of the school board has issued a pamphlet containing rules for bus riders. In addition to prohibiting reptiles, snakes, bugs, animals or marine life, whether dead or alive, school officials also prohibit eating, drinking or smoking on the buses.

Band instruments which may interfere with seating and the safety of passengers will be banned from buses.

Parents are urged to get their students to the bus stops five minutes in advance of scheduled pickups, but not too early. Children should stand off the roadway while waiting for buses, should keep their seats at all times when on a bus, and should keep their arms and heads inside the windows. When boarding or leaving a bus, students should walk 10 feet or more in front of the bus.

Complete PSL bus schedules inside

Conversations with the driver are frowned on, and absolute silence at railroad crossings is required. The driver is in charge of the bus, and all students must obey the driver. If needed, the driver can assign students to certain seats.

School officials remind students and parents that bus transportation is a service, and "Serious or repeated violations of the rules may cause this service to be withdrawn, which then places the responsibility upon the parent to get their child to and from school." Suspension from riding the bus does not mean suspension from school attendance. For first offenders, students will be suspended from riding the school bus for five days. A second offense means a 10-day suspension of bus riding privileges, and a third offense will results in a student being suspended from riding the school bus for the remainder of the school year.

For the entire county, the school board estimates it will transport more than 8,000 students, using a total of 86 buses. At the Transportation Department maintenance compound this week, mechanics are busy readying and testing the fleet of buses. Most of the buses this year will be equipped with two-way radios. Jim Hebster of the Transportation Department says, "Of all 86 buses, I think only two of them will not have radios. We started using radios a few years ago and this year have increased the number of buses with them. I don't see how we ever got along without them," he said.

Hebster said the radios have proved invaluable in locating lost children or children who got on the wrong bus, and he said they are useful for reporting road hazards and bad weather conditions, break downs, and discipline problems.

Center to run flea market

PORT ST. LUCIE--Instead of getting rid of unwanted items by holding a garage sale, area residents are being urged to donate them to the Port St Lucie Community Center.

Dick Lundin, president of the Community Center, says a 12-foot by 20-foot storage room is being built at the Center to hold the unwanted items. When enough are collected, the Center will hold a flea market sale to raise money for its expansion fund.

Work began on the storage room last week, and it should be finished in about two weeks. It is being done by volunteers and should only cost about $1,000, Lundin noted.

Last May the Center raised $2,300 with a flea market sale. Lundin hopes enough items will be donated so flea market sales can be held every three months.

"We'll be happy to come pick up any items the people in the area want to donate, and we'll make out a slip designating the donations as tax deductable items," Lundin said.

RNING SAILOR–Dan Rowan, creator of the original ugh-In" television show, passed through Jensen Beach this week aboard his 38-foot sailboat "Rim Shot". Rowan just returned to Florida after a six-week cruise of the Bahama Islands.

Laugh-In's Rowan isn't laughing

BY ROBBIE BEDELL

JENSEN BEACH–Some of you may have laughed at the new "Laugh-In" television show aired Monday night, but Dan Rowan, one of the creators of the original "Laugh-In" does not think it is very funny.

Passing through Jensen Beach early this week after a cruise to the Bahamas, Rowan expressed disappointment over the fact that someone else is using the name of his famed show.

"They've stolen the name," Rowan said. "It's illegal for them to use the name "Laugh" and the name "In", and they're using both."

He said he is not sure what steps he will take but that he does have lawyers in New York and he is considering legal action against the makers of the new "Laugh-In".

Rowan spent some time at Frances Langford's Outrigger Marina, resting after crossing the Gulfstream on his return from a six-week cruise in the Bahamas with friends on his 38-foot Endeavor sailboat, "Rim Shot".

"We made a thorough cruise of the Abacos," he said. "And we tried to go places where there aren't a lot of people."

Rowan said the bad weather forced him to stay for several days at West End before heading back to Florida. He expressed concern over the hurricanes which have sprung up in the Gulf during the past two weeks.

"We had a couple of power boats leave West End and it was so rough they had to come around and head back," he said. But when the wind calmed down, Rowan found the seas had calmed considerably.

Before heading back to his west coast Florida home via the Okeechobee Waterway, Rowan said he will explore some of the boatyards along the northern coast of Florida.

"I've heard that there are some classic wood-hulled sailboats up there and that's what I'm really interested in," he said. "This boat is a good strongly-built fiberglass boat, but I really prefer wood. The thing is, it's very hard to find an old one that doesn't have some rot."

A pony give-away highlights horse show

STUART–Plan have been finalized for a community horse show, the highlight of which will be a free pony given to some lucky winner, sponsored by the Twin Rivers Saddle Club, it was announced this week.

The event, an English and Western Open Show, will be held Sunday, September 11, beginning at 9 a.m. and continuing throughout the day.

There will be no admission charge and the public is welcome to attend. Refreshments will be available on the grounds.

Those wishing to enter a horse in the competition, please note a Coggins test will be required prior to entry.

The show will be held on Highway A1A, directly behind the Martin County Vehicle Inspection Station.

Jaycee Field Day labelled a success

BY ROBBIE BEDELL

JENSEN BEACH–The rains came and the crowd was sparse, but those who were there had a grand time.

The scene was the First Annual Jaycees Labor Day Field Day and the events were so varied and unusual that participants and spectators forgot the rain and had fun.

There was softball, a basketball shooting contest, volleyball, a tire roll, a money hunt for the kids, and a team relay eating contest.

Though sponsored by the Jaycees, the Optimist Club, Sertoma and the Jensen Beach and District 11 fire departments competed for top honors in the contest.

The clubs gave Langford Park a real workout. Softball games went on simultaneously with volleyball, but all stopped to watch the stranger egg throwing and food eating contests.

Imagine playing physical games all day in the rain, quenching your thirst with bear and then trying to inhale a banana or a bar of cream cheese. Well, folks, they did it all and came up smiling.

The competition was keenest in the softball games. A planned best out of two between the Optimists and Sertoma went into a third game play-off with Sertoma coming out in the lead. The Jaycees took the tire rolling contest, but Sertoma came out ahead again in volleyball, the food eating contest and the egg throw.

Needless to say, Sertoma came out first overall, but the Optimists did come out in the basketball free throw with Robbie Phillips shooting nine out of ten shots into the basket.

Money made by the sale of concessions is earmarked for the Muscular Distrophy and Billy Ritter Funds.

Perhaps the most exciting and disorganized of all the events was the money hunt held for the young people at the Field Day.

A large mound of sawdust was dumped near the ballfield in the park and Jaycees and other clubmembers buried a few rolls of money. The object was to dig until you found your money. There were no specific winners in the event but, apparently, the one who made off with the most money was the most well off.

Before the event got underway, the sawdust had chance to soak up some of the rain. In a perfect setting for a soap commercial, kids dove head first into the pile, digging as they went. Some were trampled into the dust by more ambitious competitors, and even a long while after the event was over, a few kids, and even some of the older club members, could be seen raking through the debris. One of the kids who made off with a goodly amount of money was Robbie Buell who found one of the few half dollars buried in the sawdust.

In all, it was a good day and Jaycees and participating clubs are looking forward to next year's event, fingers crossed, hoping there will be no rain.

Anglers ready for three

JENSEN BEACH–Local anglers can expect to get a workout within the next two weekends if they plan to take part in any of the three fishing tournaments to be held in the area.

This weekend there will be the Second Annual Port Salerno Shark Tournament which offers a $500 cash prize to the angler who takes home the biggest shark.

The tournament promises to be a big one if last year's 110 entrants can be taken into consideration. Expect to compete with the big ones. Last year the winning shark weighed in the neighborhood of 380 pounds, according to planner Mrs. Butch Wardon.

In addition to the $500 prize for the heaviest shark, there will be second and third prizes and awards for the largest number of sharks caught.

The entry fees must be paid no later than Sept. 10 at the Barge in the Manatee Pocket in Port Salerno. The minimum weight of any shark considered in the tournament is 100 pounds.

The weighing station will be at Sandsprit Park and will be open 24 hours a day from the contest starting time at noon Friday until its close at 3 p.m. on Sunday.

All sharks must be taken on rod and reel and can be caught from the beach or in a boat.

The Stuart News will hold its fishing tournament this weekend.

The tournament, limited to the first 60 boats, will give prizes for wahoo, kingfish, barracuda, bonito and dolphin and also for the largest number of sailfish released.

The contest is limited to boats 26 feet and under and will run Saturday and Sunday from 8 a.m. until 3 p.m. each day.

Registrations will be accepted through Friday night at the Deck Restaurant on U.S. 1 in Stuart, north of the Roosevelt Bridge.

The third fishing tournament will be the Annual Izaak Walton League Boys and Girls Fishing Tournament the following weekend, Sept. 24, at the Jensen Beach Causeway.

The contest is open to any boy or girl up to 15 years old. The only rules are that fish must be caught on the causeway and anglers must furnish their own tackle.

–Optimist Club member Robbie ger walked away from the basket t the Jaycees Labor Day Field Day a nine out of ten score, winning the throw competition.

Billfish studied at meet

STUART–Little do they know it but billfish swimming off the coasts of Florida and Georgia are being publicly scrutinized and decisions made by a governing board could determine their fates.

The Southeast Regional Fisheries Council met with sports and commercial fishing interests last week for input of local knowledge of billfish, specifically sailfish, swordfish and white and blue marlin.

The council is making the study in order to draw up a preliminary management plan which will fit under the law of the extended 200-mile fishing limit of United States waters.

The U.S. has adopted the plan because of overharvesting of some edible species of fish in coastal waters.

The reason the council is studying the billfish is because they have been selected as the top species of fish prized by both sportfishermen and commercial trawlers and longliners.

At Wednesday's meeting, a crowded room at the downtown Stuart Holiday Inn heard of the possibility of establishing a bag limit on swordfish (which have just recently been tapped in the area by sportfishermen) and also of the chance of establishing a saltwater licensing program for anglers.

Sportfishermen opposed the possibility of the licenses and some said they did not think there should be a bag limit on swordfish because there are no such laws for commercial men.

"The next step will be that the National Marine Fisheries will take the comments on the preliminary management plan and submit it to the Secretary of Commerce for approval," said committeemember Trude Bernhard.

The preliminary plan will then be superceeded by a permanent plan under the 200-mile law.

The study of the billfish is only the first species to be considered under the law. After the billfish, snapper and grouper will be studied and later other species of desirable marine life.

Mrs. Bernhard said foreign vessels will be able to fish for some of the species after making application to the U.S. and, thereafter, following strict guidelines under the law. The management of the foreign vessels will even require the use of an observer on each of the foreign vessels allowed to fish within U.S. waters.

The contributions made by the local fishermen are not the only information to be considered in the creation of the law.

"This is a start," Mrs. Bernhard said.

High School Pigskin Preview

BY DONNIE WILKIE

JENSEN BEACH--The Suncoast Eastern Division football season is usually over before it begins, with Fort Pierce Central running away with the championship honors. But this year is different-- in a way.

There are at least four other teams in the conference with a shot at advancing to the first round of the state playoffs in December. Meanwhile, up the road in Fort Pierce Central, Head Coach Phil Farinella is saying what he says every year...things like, "I don't know why everyone is picking us," and "It will be a tough race to the wire."

But Palm Beach Gardens Coach Larry Hood sums it up when he says, "Fort Pierce has all the talent."

The list of pursuers includes Martin County, a miracle of modern mankind. The Tigers turned around from an 0-10 nightmare to a 6-4 last year under Wayne Bowling. Others who dream of the title include defending conference titlist Palm Beach Gardens, Boca Raton, and Lake Worth. Forest Hill and Twin Lakes are improved, but will find it hard to keep up the pace, and Lake Worth Leonard could be lapped before it gets out of the blocks.

FORT PIERCE CENTRAL

The Cobras were sensational for seven weeks last year, running up scores like 51-0 and 36-7 while marching to the state's number one spot. However, an off week in the middle of the Suncoast East race might have marked the downfall of the Cobras. Coming off an easy win over Orlando Jones, Farinella's forces relaxed a bit too much. They had to struggle in a 20-6 win over Martin County, and then lost their top rank to Merritt Island, 14-6.

Gardens then topped them for the conference title 15-14, leaving Central with one of their worst showings in seven years.

But, alas, FPC's blues are over. Despite the loss of All-State wide receiver Jackie Robinson and All-Everything defensive lineman Dock Luckie, the Cobras are loaded. The early-season routs enabled them to play some of their inexperienced players, who this year must fill the shoes of 17 graduated regulars.

Defensive back John Johnson is the only starter returning on defense, but the Cobras always seem to come up with a more than adequate squad of defenders.

Holding down the offensive line are center Willie Lanier, tackle Keith Schatz and guard Gary Schuler. All in all, FPC has a good shot at regaining the title they lost to Gardens last year. And if Farinella won't talk now, wait until the playoffs.

MARTIN COUNTY

Bowling's forces are coming off a 6-4 fourth place finish and this year look to be a contender for the crown held by Gardens.

Running back Danny Garland is gone, as are punter Danny Pignato and lineman Ted Cipra. But the Tigers have groomed replacements, and they are more than eager to see regular action.

Fullback Scott Albert is expected to join Curtis Davis and Charles Drayton in the Tiger backfield, which also hosts quarterback Jimmy Williams. Williams will be throwing to standout tight end Stan Beswick and wide receiver David Deakins, who appears to be ready to take up where graduated Mark Chadwick left off.

On defense, the Tigers will be very stingy indeed. Defensive backs Willie Garland and Mike Jones return to a defense which could be the best in the league. Indeed, it is a long road from 0-10 to 10-0, but the Tigers may have found a shortcut.

BOCA RATON

The Bobcats are looking quite good this year, despite the firing of three-year Head Coach Roger Coffey, who had piled up a 30-10 record.

Boca looked strong last year, peaking with a season-ending win over Martin County in Stuart. Twenty-five lettermen return to the gridiron in Otis Gray's first year at the helm, making the Bobcat picture all the brighter.

Quarterback Mark Richt leads a potent attack which features running back Al Lewis and receivers Lawrence Strange and Spencer Jackson.

The Cats could show their strength early, as they must contend with Fort Pierce Central in the season opener. They can't afford to breathe easy, even if they beat FPC, because Martin County, Gardens and Lake Worth lurk in the shadows.

GARDENS

Larry Hood has lost All-Area players Bernard Hay and Jim Rakels, but the defense will be good. John Hoelzer will head up a unit which allowed only eight points per game last year while winning the East.

Daryll Leonard will lead an offense which can explode at any time. Running back Vern Mann adds his ground game to the Gators' attack. Beating last year's 9-2 record and playoff appearance may be impossible, but after some of Gardens' final-minute heroics in 1976, don't be surprised if they do it.

LAKE WORTH

The pattern was set for the Trojans' 1976 season when, after a convincing 35-0 win in the opener against Twin Lakes, they were forced to forfeit because of an illegal placekicker.

But, as is usually the case, the Trojans are expected to make a run at a first division spot, and maybe even the title. Danny Barret and Alfred Josey are fighting it out for the QB spot. Whoever gets it will be throwing a lot to standout sprinter Javaro Sims, who can outrun any defender as a wide receiver. Runners Cedric King and Glenn Robinson head up a good running game, as the Trojans hope to improve on a 3-7 record.

TWIN LAKES

Picking between Twin Lakes and Forest Hill for sixth place is very difficult. But Twin Lakes gets the nod because of the closeness of many of their losses last year. They extended Martin County to three tiebreakers before succumbing 14-8. Quarterback Tony Lorick and running back Lavette Battle team up with Mike and Darrell Preston to form a good backfield.

FOREST HILL

Forest Hill could take advantage of the lack of depth which faces Twin Lakes to jump into the sixth spot. Fifteen starters-- seven on offense and eight on defense-- return, with the primary goal being to avenge a 61-0 embarrassment suffered at the hands of FP Central.

LEONARD

It will be a tough year for the Lancers, who have no man with the ability to match graduated quarterback Richard Casko's statistics. Running back Greg Richardson returns with 14 other lettermen to a team which went 3-7 a year ago. Head Coach DeWight Ward says his team "has lots of work ahead before we get the job done." That work will take at least all of this season.

Tigers, Cobras get votes in first poll

STUART--Both Martin County's Tigers and Fort Pierce Central's Cobras received votes last week in the first Florida High School football poll.

Tampa Hillsborough was top-ranked, followed by defending state champion Tallahassee Godby, Miami-Carol City, Winter Park, and Gonzalez Pine Merritt Island, FPC's late season opponent, was ranked ninth.

The Tigers and Cobras were the only area teams to receive votes in the Class AAAA poll, as a total of 25 squads were named as honorable mention.

Fort Pierce-John Carroll, who ran up an 8-3 record last year before running into Pahokee in the playoffs, also received votes in the Class AA poll, while Delray Atlantic was ranked fourth in Class AAA.

Leif Erikson Day parade is planned

JENSEN BEACH—Final planning for the seventh annual Leif Erikson Day celebration in Jensen Beach October 8-9 was completed last weekend, according to George Lewis, chairman of the Sons of Norway sponsored event.

For the first time a parade through Jensen Beach will kick off the Sunday pageant, Lewis reported. The parade will start at noon, with floats and marching units from the eleven Sons of Norway lodges in Florida gathering in the Jensen Beach Bank parking lot, traveling down Commercial Street, north on Indian River Drive and out the Jensen Causeway, dispersing at the causeway pavilion.

Trophies will be awarded to the lodge best representing the "Viking Heritage" theme, with judging at 11:30 a.m., just before the parade.

Grand marshall of the parade will be Bjarne Eikevik, third district president of Sons of Norway.

The pageant is set to begin at 2 p.m., following a concert of Norwegian music by Anders Bakke, popular Ft. Lauderdale accordianist.

Former State Representative Chuck Nergard, Port St. Lucie, and Bud Bjorgen, Ft. Lauderdale, will be masters of ceremonies for the pageant, which reenacts the landing of Leif Erikson in America in 1002 A.D. The landing features costumed Vikings sailing three one-hundred-year-old "Seterings" (ski-oar boats).

There will be a bunad (Norwegian costume) parade on the stage, followed by Indain dances by Ft. Pierce Troop 686 dancers in authentic costumes.

The first Leif Erikson Day queen contest will be held at 3:45 p.m. Each lodge has held eliminations for the finalists who will compete for the crown. The winner will represent Leif Erikson Day for the next year, attending various statewide functions to publicize the annual event in Jensen Beach.

The parade trophies will be awarded at 4 p.m., and the Viking crews of Ft. Lauderdale, Jensen Beach-Ft. Pierce and Orlando lodges will then take to the Indian River in their boats for the annual races that feature sailing and rowing on a measured course.

The pageant will end at 5 p.m. with the cleanup of the causeway by members of the lodges.

The Sunday pageant is open to the public. On Saturday, the over 500 members of Sons of Norway chapters in Florida will meet during the day and have their annual banquet that evening.

Political chiefs ponder water

JUPITER--There may not have been formal treaties signed, but a meet Thursday among Martin County and municipal bigwigs could have primed the pump a route to solving some of the problems facing a growing population of the need for water.

County Commissioner Dr. William Stuart City Manager Edwin Stuart, members of the Stuart City Commission, Sewall's Point Mayor Ed Jupiter Island Town Robert Vandeweghe met with in funding public water systems to determine a direction to go in water to the public.

City of Stuart, which has long been water business, has built a modern treatment plant to serve its but has been told by the Florida Water Management (SFWMD) to locate new for its water. One withheld the city is planning to explore is located inside Martin County, south of the city.

Meanwhile, the county, which has no water system at all, has been trying to decide how to serve the public, and has investigated the possibility of hunting wells in the so-called "northern well field" in Jensen Beach, or at another site west of the Florida Turnpike.

The purpose of the meeting was listen to the advice of the bond experts and to try to find out what steps to take next.

"What we are trying to do is determine whether or not it is feasible from a fiscal standpoint for us (the county) to go into the water business, to go together with the city, or whether we are just talking a bunch of nonsense and go to the SFWMD for a regional setup," said County Commissioner Meyers.

Carl Huskey, one of the fiscal experts, told the officials that there are certain things the commissioners should face before making any decisions. He said the SFWMD would rather there be one supplier for the whole area than to have a number of smaller water systems serving the public.

"They are trying to reduce private water systems and encourage regional systems," he said.

Huskey added that he could not make any comment on how much such a system would cost and how it might be financed until a number of technical factors were known.

"I think you should be thinking in terms of a long range plan," he said. "Not just two, three or five years from now, but ten and 15 years down the line. You should be thinking of an overall plan in getting water started in the area because it will grow. It has grown in the last five years."

"We're looking for any easy step in which way to go," Commissioner Meyers said.

The city, which has floated a large bond issue to pay for its expanding water needs, is wary about a partnership with the county.

"I don't think the city could sell enough to take care of the revenue bond," Commissioner Dale Anderson said.

City Finance Consultant Stu Hartman also said there are certain things which must first be decided.

"Who's going to be the regional head?" he said. "From the water and sewer standpoint, there is one water and sewer system and that is in the City of Stuart. The county has nothing."

Hartman said the city already has a credit rating established so it is in the position to borrow money. He said the county would have to rely on partial financing and partial monies from its general fund.

Stuart Mayor Kenneth Stimmell suggested a possible solution to the problem in building a "viaduct" from Silver Springs, 196 miles north of Stuart, to carry spring water to the area.

"We should tap Silver Springs via a viaduct, to bring water to our area," he said.

Commissioner Meyers said he would report the findings of the meeting to his fellow county commissioners.

DOT to install new traffic light

JENSEN BEACH--A traffic light, badly needed at the intersection of U.S. 1 and the Jensen Beach Cutoff Road (SR 707-A) is expected to be erected by the Florida Department of Transportation this week.

According to Martin County Engineer Jim Winn, the DOT informed the Martin County Commission last week that the poles for the stoplight should have arrived early this week and that the actual construction will begin on Wednesday.

"The poles they will use are permanent, but the light will only be on loan," Winn said. "When the proper light arrives, the DOT will replace it with a new one."

The intersection was the scene of a fatal accident last week when a hitchhiker was struck by a tractor-trailer truck after the truck driver attempted to avoid a turning car.

The intersection has been the scene of a number of fatal wrecks during past years.

My Husband Thinks I'm a Financial Wizard. He's Right!

My neighbor Joan told me about Community Federal's Key Account. How they got all the traveler's checks they needed for vacation without a service charge. But I found out I could get 10 more free financial services and interest, too. So, I opened a Key Account at Community Federal's Port Salerno office.

Jim says I'm a "financial wizard." Because these days any time you can get a free service, it really helps the budget. The folks at Community not only help with free services they pay me interest while I use them.

I really do better at Community Federal.

.9 per cent oppose anama Canal treaty

NGTON–President Carter's ...treaty giving the Panama ... to Panama is highly ... Florida's populous 10th ... U.S. Rep. L. A. "Skip" Bafalis ...

...ng on his fifth annual ..., Bafalis said only 12.1 per ... of the people support the Carter ...ty returning the canal to Panama by ... 2000 while 87.9 per cent want ... U.S. to retain control of the canal and ...one which surrounds it.

... to the 1977 questionnaire ...e hosiery, Bafalis said, with 36,004 ... 30,000 questionnaires returned.

...h advantage of the second ... boxes, the results ...the thinking of 52,020 of the ...'s many than 700,000 residents ...ished with this response," ...gressman said "It ... people are concerned, deeply ... about the Panama Canal ...and the other major problems ...this country.

...o-six will be most helpful in ...ing how I can best represent ...and desires of the people in ...District," he said.

...canal giveaway was not the only ...proposal to run into stiff ... in the 10th District ... Proposals to allow ...day voter registration or ... registration also won the ...of the district. Only 13.8 per ...those responding favored same ...postcard registration; 180.1 per ...those proposals would lead to ...fraud and abuse.

...th District voters were almost as ...as their opposition to proposals ...federal funds to finance House ...campaigns. More than ...thirds of the responses – 78.5 per ...cent – opposed funding congressional campaigns in the same manner as presidential elections, while 21.5 per cent said it would be a good idea.

The response was even more lopsided in opposition to organized labor's drive to repeal "right-to-work" laws, with 83.5 per cent in opposition.

Florida's 10th District voters are also opposed to legislation limiting the right of an individual to own a handgun – 68.6 per cent against – and to legislation decriminalizing the possession of marijuana for personal use – 58.8 per cent opposed.

The majority of the voters in the 10th District favor retention of the current tax deductions for charitable contributions, mortgage interest, state gasoline taxes and the like. Asked if they would favor elimination of such deductions in order to simplify the present tax system, 66.8 per cent said no, while 33.2 said they would accept such a change.

Not quite as strong was the district's support for continued subsidies for the Postal Service. Asked if they felt postal rates should be increased enough to allow the Postal Service to be self-supporting, only 38 per cent said yes, 54 per cent were opposed.

Only on the question of reduced troop commitments to Korea were the voters of the 10th District anywhere near evenly split. On the question of withdrawal of U.S. troops from Korea, 50.3 per cent said they favored such a withdrawal, while 49.7 per cent opposed.

There was no doubt, however, about the major issue facing the Congress, in the eyes of the 10th District.

Almost 40 per cent of the questionnaire responses listed inflation as the No. 1 problem, while another 13.5 per cent cited national defense and maintaining a military strength equal to the Russians as the major issue.

The energy crisis and confidence in government were next in importance, being cited by 11.8 per cent and 11.2 per cent of responses, respectively.

Welfare reform was fifth, winning mention on 10.6 per cent of the returns, while crime was sixth (5.6 per cent) and unemployment seventh (4.1 per cent).

Environmental protection ranked eighth, gaining mention on only 2.4 per cent of the returns.

Every domestic issue listed was ranked more important than foreign affairs by 10th District voters. Only eight tenths of a per cent of the returns cited the conflict in the Middle East as a major issue and only three tenths of a per cent cited warfare in southern Africa as a problem.

In announcing the results, Bafalis said he would share this sampling of public opinion with the Congress and with the President. "President Carter and the Members of the House and Senate should know just how the people of Florida's 10th District feel on the major issues facing this nation."

Now that the summer doldrums are just about over and people are starting to return from their seasonal junkets to other parts of the country, things start to fall into shape for the coming year. One of those projects in which our chapter was active earlier this year was the IRS-AARP Tax Assistance program, and the folks at national headquarters are starting to make plans now for the next one.

Bill McMorran, national tax aide coordinator, has dispatched a letter from her Washington headquarters to the 7,400 volunteers who took part in the 1976-77 program. He says in the letter that some [illegible] helped [illegible] with some 450,000 returns, adding that "the statistics are not yet complete, as nearly 1,000 volunteers continued to work on special state programs after April 15." Nine out of ten volunteers who worked last year plan to continue in the program this year, according to McMorran. Chairman Tom Carlile of our chapter's effort says it's too early now to say how many of our people will be back, but he thinks the national average probably will hold true here. Tom is now at work on the preliminary planning for resumption of the program if you are at all interested in taxes--and who isn't these days?--you might think about joining the VITA (Volunteer Income Tax Assistance) program for 1977-78.

As Andrew Carnegie and the Glaswegians used to say, "many a mickle makes a muckle." An opportunity to practice this thrifty philosophy has been given Cable TV subscribers in the Port St. Lucie area by Perry Cable TV, which has issued the following announcement: "Perry Cable TV, in conjunction with the First Federal Savings & Loan Association of Fort Pierce, is happy to announce that a payment station has been set up in the lobby of the bank's office at 7913 South U.S.1, Port St. Lucia. This will be in effect September 1." In case you don't know where 7913 is, it's in the Winn Dixie shopping center.

Like many other welcome develop-ments, this one did not just happen. It was the result of a two-month-long, one-woman campaign by one of our members, Ruth Gorman. Ruth is a determined gal, and she carried her campaign through to success after a number of frustrations and set-backs. So, if you want to save a 15-cent stamp, you can now pay your Cable TV bill at the First Federal. One such stamp may be a mickle, but if you add enough of them together, first thing you know, you'll have a muckle.

The chapter membership meetings will resume this month, on Thursday, Sept. 15. The program will deal with activities of VISTA (Volunteers in Service to America) in St. Lucie and Martin Counties. Speakers will be Charles W. Koenig, coordinator of these activities in the two counties, and Mrs. Vallis Miller, Fort Pierce, the supervisor. They will open up new horizons for AARP members who will be volunteer for programs that range from help for runaway youths to visits with old people who are lonely and want some one to talk to.

An important change is being made in the format for the meeting. Coffee, tea and refreshments will be served before the meeting, starting at about 13:30. This will give members a chance to have a social get-together before the meeting proper, scheduled to begin at 1:30 p.m., as usual. President Fred Wiggin will not be at the session since he and Mrs Wiggin will be attending a session of their high school class at Danvers, Mass.

Jerry Casperson, a member of the board of directors, is back home after a short stay in the hospital. She said she is feeling well and hopes to attend the board meeting this week.

We dropped into Ask Mr. Travel last Friday to pay the balance due on the Bahamarama cruise. Miss Krais reported that several additional members have decided to go on the junket and that the cruise is shaping up well.

In case you have just returned from a trip and hadn't been aware of the cruise, here are the basic facts: The trip starts Monday, Oct. 10, by bus from the Northport Marina to the dock in Miami, where participants will board the Sunward II and then spend three days at sea and island-hopping--Great Exuma, Nassau and Berry Islands. The vessel returns to Miami at about 8 a.m. Friday, Oct. 14, and AARP members will get aboard the bus for the return trip.

Make said that a few more cabins are available and may be acquired up until Sept. 15--$256 per person for an inside cabin and $270 for an outside cabin.

That leaves you one week, if you're interested.

Mike also said that around the last of September those who have signed up will receive a comprehensive information sheet with dates, times, places and all other data needed to be in ship-shape for the cruise. Bon voyage!

Yacht Club makes donations to charities

...ary ov. LUCIE—Two charitable ...ations from the treasury of the Port ...t Lucie Yacht Club were reported to ...mbers at the general meeting ...ursday, Aug. 25, held at the ...mmunity Center.

...Secretary Art Coulon reported ...ations for research were written for the ...ida Lucie Band and for the Crippled ...ildren's Pond of the Stuart Elks Club. ...Yacht Club, while primarily a social organization, is receptive to worthy causes. Last month it donated $100 to the St. Lucie County Council on Aging to assist in purchase of a bus.

Coulon also reported to the membership that the maximum of 250 family memberships had been reached for the 1977-78 club year. Four couples were inducted Tuesday evening and six are scheduled for induction at the September meeting. Meanwhile, Membership Chairman Gus Herrman will accept applications for processing when resignations create vacancies.

Those inducted Tuesday night were Mr. and Mrs. Floyd DeLozier, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Daniel, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Fouse, all formerly of Michigan, and Mr. and Mrs. James Lynch, formerly of Boston, Mass.

Commodore Coulon reviewed plans for the Sept. 17 Boat-A-Cade luncheon at Frances Langford's Outrigger Restaurant. Due to the illness of Fleet Captain Bill Hoover, those members planning to travel by boat are asked to contact either of two volunteer assistants: Floyd DeLozier, 878-1187, or Ann Dahlman, 878-1690. They will make arrangements for docking.

The flotilla will rendezvous at Sandpiper Bay Marina at 10 a.m. Deadline for tickets and for dock reservations is Sept. 12. Mr. and Mrs. William Thorpe are chairmen for the event.

PSL Men's Golf

PORT ST. LUCIE—Bill Sullinger, Roy Rutherford, Harry Kessler and Dan DiLoreto were the flight winners in the weekly golf tournament of the Port St. Lucie Men's Golf Association played last week on the Saints Course at Sandpiper Bay.

Leaders in the individual low net competition that took place under cloudy skies, high winds and occasional rains, were:

Flight A. Sullinger, 66; Bill Coone, Evan Phillips and Tom Chapman, 68; Bill Flanagan, 69.

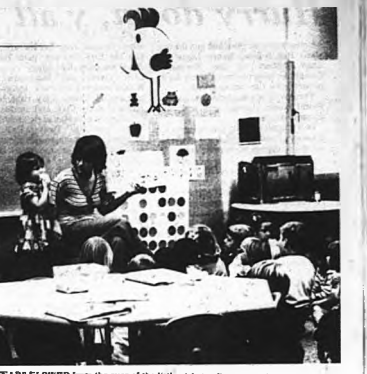
Flight D. DiLoreto, 70; Harry Lohman, 71; Evert Stabler, 72; Tom Francolino and A.C. Hofmeister, 74.

Low gross scores under 80 for the day: Chapman, 77; Coone, Phillips and John Huncharek, 78; Don McConnell, 79.

In a once in a season coincidence the foursome of Ryan, Loveridge, Fyler and Gaskill all shot gross 93's.



TEARS FLOWED from the eyes of the little girl standing next to her kindergarten teacher on the first day of school Tuesday. While her peers sat and listened to the Port St. Lucie Elementary School teacher read a story, the girl howled her obvious preference for "Mommy".

PORT ST. LUCIE—Newcomers and established residents in the St. Lucie County area who wish to give some of their time to a civic and humane cause, are those the Humane Society wants for its Women's Auxiliary.

Those who are concerned about the welfare of animals will find the work of the society interesting and rewarding. The proposed Auxiliary is not intended to be an entirely organizational activity, said a Society spokesman. "To the contrary, it will incorporate a program of fund raising by way of card parties, dog and cat shows, a Bargain Box and other social relationships."

The first meeting of those interested in joining the Auxiliary will be held Thursday, Sept. 15, at 1:30 p.m. at the Indian Hills Country Club. Refreshments will be served.

Enns says county budget is open for PSL audit

BY BOB FRYER

FORT PIERCE–St. Lucie County Commission Chairman Ed Enns said Tuesday that he has no objections to a request by Port St. Lucie city council members to audit the county budget, and added that he feels the audit will reveal no double taxation of Port St. Lucie residents.

Enns said, "I feel like I'm doing business third hand when I comment on this, because all I know is what I have read in the papers. The county has not formally received a request for an audit from the city yet."

The county commission chairman noted that "the books are open for anyone to inspect, and we even have to fill out a form to send to the state government in Tallahassee which lists where the tax monies come from and where they go."

The city council members decided to ask for an audit of the county general fund budget after county commissioners turned the city down on a request for $40,000 for capital improvements to Sportsman's Park in north Port St. Lucie.

City officials complained that during the current and upcoming fiscal year the residents of Port St. Lucie will have paid $1.6 million in property taxes to the county, yet only $20,000 will have been spent by the county on Sportsman's Park.

Sportsman's Park is a city owned park, but Mayor Bill McChesney argues that if the county could take over and fund five parks in Fort Pierce, which that city owned until last year, the county could spend $40,000 on a park that is used by many persons in the unincorporated area of the county just north of Port St. Lucie. He implied that the county may be guilty of double taxation.

But Enns, who extended an offer for the county to take over Sportsman's Park, says what is at issue is different layers of government and different responsibilities.

"I believe government comes in layers, and I believe recreation is a basic responsibility of county government," Enns said, adding that if the city wants to assume responsibility in that area, the city should expect to pay for it.

"Commissioner (Willie) McCain said it best when he said the county government was here first, and if people want services beyond what the county offers and if they want to tax their people for services over and above county services, then they can do it and they would be the ones causing double taxation," Enns noted.

Double taxation, which courts have recently ruled is not legal, is the taxing of persons by two governments for the same, single service.

When county commissioners offered earlier this summer to have the city deed Sportsman's Park to the county, all five city council members voted not to deed the park away.

Council adopts $787,052 budget

BY BOB FRYER

PORT ST. LUCIE–City council members voted Tuesday night to adopt a budget of $787,052 for the 1977-78 fiscal year, which begins on Sept. 30.

Included in the vote to adopt the city budget was a provision to impose a property tax millage levy of 1.50 mills on city residents.

Not included in the total budget figure, however, is a plan to withdraw $95,500 from city reserve funds to be applied toward a $150,000 down payment on a new city hall. The reserve funds, which have accumulated over the years, total $865,000. By taking $95,000 from the fund and adding $30,000 from property tax revenues for the upcoming year and $24,500 placed in a city hall trust fund during the 1976-77 fiscal year, the $150,000 down payment can be made. The new city hall is expected to cost about $750,000. In a workshop meeting after the special meeting on the budget ended, the council members discussed several changes to the architectural plans.

The sources of revenue for the $787,052 city general fund budget include $309,702 to be generated by imposing the 1.50 mill property tax levy. The balance of revenues will come from franchise taxes, license and permit fees, state and federal revenue sharing funds, fines and forfeitures, and interest earnings.

Several weeks ago, when the budget was first compiled, city officials had hoped to receive $40,000 from the St. Lucie County Commission for capital improvements to Sportsmans Park. However, county commissioners decided not to grant the request, so the budget was reduced by $40,000.

Last year, the city council imposed a 1.75 mill property tax and it generated revenues totaling $286,000. The reason council members expect to generate more revenue for the upcoming fiscal year with a smaller millage levy is because property assessments in the city have jumped by an average of 25.8 per cent this year.

On the revenue side of the ledger, $128,000 is expected to come from franchise taxes imposed on Florida Power and Light Company, Southern Bell Telephone Company, General Development Utilities, and cablevision. Another $175,000 is anticipated from building permits. That figure could be larger, if the building boom continues, but city council members decided to make a conservative estimate of building permit revenues, just in case a recession hits the construction industry.

Other large revenue sources expected include $83,542 in state revenue sharing funds and $24,800 in federal revenue sharing funds.

On the expenditure side of the ledger, the budget for City Manager Elmer Cox will jump from $17,915 to $24,558. Included in that is a jump from $15,761 to $19,500 for his base salary. Other increases are for maintenance, tires, gas and oil, workmen's compensation, health and other insurance, and federal income tax. He said he would decline participation in the city's pension fund.

A total of $20,105 is budgeted for a city engineer, up from $18,500 last year. In the current year the city hired Cal Montgomery of Stuart as an engineering consultant, but for the upcoming fiscal year, the city plans to hire its own engineer. Cox said he has placed ads for applicants for the job, but has not yet begun interviewing candidates.

The new city planner, Mike Snunyog, began work Tuesday and was officially sworn in Tuesday night. His salary is set at $17,512 and $7,939 is budgeted for a secretary for Snunyog.

Doug Stout, public safety director, will receive $13,427 as a salary, up from $11,247 this year, and Building Department head Ralph LaChance will be paid a salary of $13,430, up from $11,794 this year.

City Treasurer Gerald Van Patten is slated to get a raise from $12,376 to $15,143, and City Clerk Cathy Merritt is pay will jump from $7,280 to $8,621.

The $22,400 budget for the city council members' fees will remain the same.

The expenditure of cash for governmental services and operating expenses is budgeted to jump from $61,792 to $85,009. The budget for the Building Department, including salaries, will increase from $51,901 to $86,501.

The budget for the entire Engineering Department is to jump from $23,382 to $76,275. That includes the salary for the new city engineer, when that post is filled.

In the 1976-77 fiscal year a total of $52,493 was budgeted for the public safety department, but that figure will drop this coming fiscal year to $29,350.

In other action, the council was to have considered in its workshop meeting an ordinance to adopt the National Fire Prevention Code. The practicality of utilizing low-flush commodes in new homes in the city to cut down on water consumption was to be discussed also.

LaChance was to report on progress he is making to systematically number houses in the city and he was also to propose a compromise on side lot setback requirements. They are presently set at 10 feet, but some council members have asked to reduce the limit to eight feet.

A spokesman from the Red Cross was to report on possible designation of buildings in the city as emergency shelters for use during hurricanes and other disasters.

A third proposal for a new city pension plan was to be presented by Jack Holmes of Bankers Life of Iowa.

Finally, Cox was to report on a five-year projection for capital outlay in the city.

No end seen to building boom here

PORT ST. LUCIE–The building boom continues in Port St. Lucie, and city Building Department head Ralph LaChance said Tuesday that he sees no end to the boom anytime soon.

"We had 84 permits issued for new homes in August, and the pace continues to be brisk. If it keeps up, and I don't see why it wouldn't, 1977-78 could be the best year ever for construction in Port St. Lucie," LaChance said.

He noted that a lot of persons interested in building homes and a lot of developers have been coming into his office to get information about home construction. He predicted the winter tourist season will produce many more new homeowners for the city.

As of the end of August, a total of 514 permits have been issued this year, compared to only 259 at the same time last year. The total value of homes built or currently under construction in Port St. Lucie this year is a whopping $11,971,537. Last year, in the same time span, that total was $6,702,420.

Other comparisons of last year's figures with this year's totals are equally impressive. For instance, the highest total for housing starts during the first eight months last year occurred in May, when 44 permits were issued. This year that figure represents the slowest month for housing starts. That was when 44 permits were issued in February.

During August there were 33 permits issued for home additions, which are not reflected in the total of 84 permits for new homes. The value of the new homes is $1,969,955 and the value of the additions is $179,364. Last August there were 30 permits issued for new homes, valued at $809,085, and 26 additions, valued at $95,137.

In spite of the building boom, there have been no commercial structures built in the city this year. However, the City Council is now considering applications for two shopping centers in the city, one next to the present city hall site on Morningside Drive and another next to the future city hall site on Port St. Lucie Boulevard near Airoso Drive.

BRIGHT SMILES flashed from these girls as they put together a puzzle during their first day of school at Port St. Lucie Elementary. None of the girls seemed to know their last names, but they quickly identified themselves as, from the left: Nikki, Sharon and Dena.

There are hardly any blacks in Port St. Lucie, and that fact is reflected in voter registrations. A total of five are now registered to vote in Port St. Lucie, whereas last year only one black person was registered. The number of persons of other races registered to vote in the city changed from two last year to three this year.

Billy West is a two-year old boy who lives in Port St. Lucie and has a host of medical problems, including cerebral palsy. More events are planned for the fund drive and will be announced in the future.

PSL resident picked as Civil Defense Director

PORT ST. LUCIE–Phil Rodi, 55, was selected by St. Lucie County Commissioners Tuesday to become the county's new Civil Defense Director.

Rodi, a Port St. Lucie resident for the last three years, is a retired Ohio highway patrol officer. He served with the patrol in Ohio for 26 years and retired as a lieutenant.

Rodi takes the place of Ron Edwards, who recently resigned from the post of Civil Defense Director. It is expected that Rodi's first job will be to review and update St. Lucie County's seven year old disaster plan. Port St. Lucie city council members have recently called for a revision and called for Port St. Lucie to be included in the plan.

Mirror moves to home delivery in PSL area

PORT ST. LUCIE–Mirror subscribers in Port St. Lucie will be receiving their newspapers on Wednesday, rather than through the mail on Thursday, it was announced this week by Richard Campbell, editor.

Home delivery is being accomplished with the cooperation of Ad Pac Circulation Service, and will be the kickoff of a circulation drive for home delivery in Port St. Lucie.

"This will enable our customers who have had their newspaper delivered by mail to get The Mirror one day earlier, thus getting the news out faster, and giving our advertisers more coverage," Campbell said.

"In so many cases, there are important meetings on Wednesdays that need publicity. This will enable us to get the word to people in time to inform them of those events," he added.

Persons desiring to subscribe for the new service delivery can call 334-4333. The Mirror circulation rates are $7.50 per year.

Guards in river rescue

JENSEN BEACH–You might think Martin County lifeguards stick strictly to the beach for rescues, but last Wednesday, two Martin County men were lucky they don't.

James Broadhurst and Rae Bush were sailing in the Indian River Wednesday afternoon in their 16-foot Hobie Cat when it capsized. In the strong 18 to 20 knot winds, the boat got away and left them struggling together, treading water, sharing a single life jacket between them.

Martin County Chief Lifeguard Jack Cammack heard of the mishap on his CB radio and headed for the scene in his surf rescue van with lifeguards Teddy Pacer and Bob Phillips.

"We jumped in the van and saw the boat from Indian River Drive and took off from the Boat House Marina," Pacer said.

"Teddy jumped on a surfboard," Phillips said. "He's a good, strong surfer so we let him take the surfboard."

Then Cammack and Phillips borrowed a boat from the marina and headed for the two, still nearly halfway across the river.

"Teddy was first on the scene," Cammack said. "They were out 500 yards or more. The victims were cold and wet and they were in water six to eight feet deep treading water."

Cammack said the incident was a shock to the victims but, being employees at Martin Memorial Hospital, said they did not need medical attention.

Yacht Club makes donations to charities

PORT ST. LUCIE–Two charitable donations from the treasury of the Port St. Lucie Yacht Club were reported to members at the general meeting Monday, Aug. 22, held at the Community Center.

Commodore Art Coulon reported checks for $50 each were written for the Port St. Lucie Band and for the Crippled Children's Fund of the Stuart Elks Club. The Yacht Club, while primarily a social organization, is receptive to worthy causes. Last month it donated $100 to the St. Lucie County Council on Aging to assist in purchase of a bus.

Coulon also reported to the membership that the maximum of 250 family memberships had been reached for the 1977-78 club year. Four couples were inducted Tuesday evening and six are scheduled for induction at the September meeting. Meanwhile, Membership Chairman Gus Herrman will accept applications for processing when resignations create vacancies.

Those inducted Tuesday night were Mr. and Mrs. Floyd DeLosier, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Daniel, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Fouse, all formerly of Michigan, and Mr. and Mrs. James Lynch, formerly of Boston, Mass.

Commodore Coulon reviewed plans for the Sept. 17 Boat-A-Cade luncheon at Frances Langford's Outrigger Restaurant. Due to the illness of Fleet Captain Bill Hoover, those members planning to travel by boat are asked to contact either of two volunteer assistants: Floyd DeLosier, 878-1167, or Ann Dahlman, 878-1099. They will make arrangements for docking.

The flotilla will rendezvous at Sandpiper Bay Marina at 10 a.m. Deadline for tickets and for dock reservations is Sept. 11. Mr. and Mrs. William Thorpe are chairmen for the event.

PSL Men's Golf

PORT ST. LUCIE–Bill Sullinger, Roy Rutherford, Harry Kessler and Dan DiLoreto were the flight winners in the weekly golf tournament of the Port St. Lucie Men's Golf Association played last week on the Saints Course at Sandpiper Bay.

Leaders in the individual low net competition that took place under cloudy skies, high winds and occasional rains, were:

Flight A. Sullinger, 66; Bill Coane, Evan Phillips and Tom Chapman, 68; Bill Flanagan, 69.

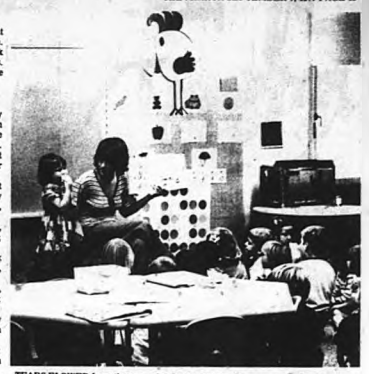
Flight C. Kessler, 65; Bob Downing, 66; Vince Metzger, 68; Joe Monty, 69; John Schwartz, 70.

Flight D. DiLoreto, 70; Harry Lohman, 71; Evert Stabler, 72; Tom Franconline and A.C. Hofmeister, 74.

Low gross scores under 80 for the day: Chapman, 77; Coane, Phillips and John Huncharek, 78; Don McConnell, 79.

In a once in a season coincidence, the foursome of Ryan, Loveridge, Plyler and Gaskill all shot gross 93's.



TEARS FLOWED from the eyes of the little girl standing next to her kindergarten teacher on the first day of school Tuesday. While her peers sat and listened to the Port St. Lucie Elementary School teacher read a story, the girl howled her obvious preference for "Mommy".

Pre-school program planned by library

FORT PIERCE–Now that the school-age children are all getting back to school, what do you do with your pre-schoolers? Why not bring them to the St. Lucie-Okeechobee Regional Library on North Indian River Drive?

The new session of pre-school story hour will begin Sept. 9 from 10 to 11 a.m., and it will be held every Friday. The story hour programs are for children three to six years of age. There will be stories, films, games, puppets and many other activities.

St. Lucie Humane Society proposes Women's Auxiliary

PORT ST. LUCIE–Newcomers and established residents in the St. Lucie County area who wish to give some of their time to a civic and humane cause, are those the Humane Society wants for its Women's Auxiliary.

Those who are concerned about the welfare of animals will find the work of the society interesting and rewarding. The proposed Auxiliary is not intended to be an entirely organizational activity, said a Society spokesman. "To the contrary, it will incorporate a program of fund raising by way of card parties, dog and cat shows, a Bargain Box and other social relationships."

The first meeting of those interested in joining the Auxiliary will be held Thursday, Sept 15, at 1:30 p.m. at the Indian Hills Country Club. Refreshments will be served.

Williams to address banquet

PORT ST. LUCIE–Lieutenant Governor James H. "Jim" Williams will be the principle speaker at the 71st annual meeting of the Fort Pierce-St. Lucie County Chamber of Commerce on Friday, September 23, at the Sandpaper Bay Resort at 7 p.m.

Williams will speak on the Florida economy, future growth and development, and plans for continuing industrial development and conserving our natural resources.

Williams is a life-long resident of Ocala and a successful businessman in agriculture and mining. He was elected to the Florida Senate in 1968 and re-elected in 1972 without opposition. He was selected by Governor Reubin Askew as his running mate in 1974. He is an unannounced candidate for governor in 1978.

Tickets for the annual meeting are on sale through the Chamber office. Over 125 reservations have already been made, according to the Chamber.

Junior Woman's Club begins new season

PORT ST. LUCIE–The Port St. Lucie Junior Woman's Club is getting ready to start another busy club year.

The first meeting of the season will be held Wednesday, Sept. 14, 8 p.m. at the Community Center on Prima Vista Blvd. Guest for the evening will be Winford Emil, who will give a demonstration on car care.

A membership tea for prospective members was recently held at the home of Linda Heckenderf, club president. Five prospective members were entertained, refreshments provided by club members.

Plans are progressing for the club's Halloween Carnival to be held in October.

Hog barbecue raises $602

PORT ST. LUCIE--In spite of rains, or perhaps because of rains, the Wild Hog Barbecue at the Port St. Lucie Community Center on Labor Day was surprisingly successful.

Community Center President Dick Lundin said the barbecue brought in $602 for the Center's operating fund.

"We expected to make $250 or $300 when we planned the barbecue, but when it started raining so much, we figured we wouldn't do so well. But all day people came in, and I think the rain helped. When people learned they would not have to wait in line outside or eat outdoors, they came here in droves," Lundin said.

A total of 253 persons enjoyed a dinner of barbecue hog or beef, and Lundin said the demand for food was so great the organizers ran out of potatoes and cake at the last minute. "But people didn't seem to mind," he said.

One of the key organizers of the barbecue was Heine Demeules. He and Ralph Huffman and Larry Hett and Mel Broom cooked 300 pounds of meat donated by Sonny Peacock. They did it with the aid of a smoking device which Demeules and his sons built.

"I got the idea from seeing the Masons use a smoker. This summer my sons, who operate a metal prefabricating plant up north, helped design one. It cut the cooking time in half," he said.

Will goblins meet at Langford Park

JENSEN BEACH--Now that Halloween is in sight, the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce finds itself facing a problem.

Every year the windows of the chamber building are decorated, and plans to do so this year will be carried out as usual.

The problem is whether or not the chamber should host its annual Halloween evening at Langford Park.

For seven years children have flocked to the park to play games, eat hog dogs and bob for apples. The chamber began the evening in the first place to try to keep children off dark streets while trick or treating, and to protect them from dangerous substances malicious people might put in candy and apples.

"There has been a problem with the evening," Chamber President Jack Klett said Monday to the members of the executive board.

"The chamber has been responsible for the evening entertainment at the park after the children have finished daytime trick or treating. They've had apple-bobbing, hot dogs, costume judging and movies. But last year, frankly, I thought it was a flop. We've had a showing of fewer and fewer kids in the last few years."

What the directors finally decided was to get feedback from the public as to whether or not to hold the entertainment.

"If the chamber wants to sponsor another evening in Langford Park, it will be up to the board," Klett said. "But I have mixed emotions about it. I would like to do it if we could get the kids together. They start at school at 9 a.m. and by the end of the day, they've had it."

The chamber, in the past, has rung the Jensen Beach Fire Siren when it was time for the children to congregate at the park. This year, whether or not the kids will hear the siren may be up to the parents.

If you are interested in having your children attend Halloween at Langford Park, contact the chamber and let them know what your thoughts are.

Aunt Sue, the turtle, moves to House of Refuge

BY ROBBIE BEDELL

JENSEN BEACH--It was all over in a splash. After being rescued by the Florida Marine Patrol in Rio three years ago, and spending her early years in a tank at the Martin County Environmental Studies Center, "Aunt Sue" was released into her new home in a large tank at the House of Refuge.

The young turtle was found in Rio by two school children in 1974. It had been abandoned behind a vacant house trailer. The children informed the Marine Patrol and the turtle was moved to the Environmental Center.

During the years the turtle was at the Center, she never had a name and the staff there were never really sure of its sex. During subsequent turtle releases at Jensen and Stuart Beaches, she was never included because of her small size. She was regarded as the "runt of the litter."

She grew rapidly at the Center, however, as soon as she was placed in a tank away from the larger turtles where she no longer had to compete for food.

Aunt Sue now weighs 28 pounds.

"This turtle," said Center Director Jay arrett, "means more to us than all we have had over the years because of the conditions under which we obtained it. We've kept it so the small children can get some idea of the size of a full-grown sea turtle. Unfortunately, we just didn't have a tank large enough to keep it in."

The tank at the House of Refuge where Aunt Sue makes her new home is the former home of Captain Louis, the more than 20-year-old loggerhead which was raised and died at the House of Refuge. He died two years ago of a liver ailment.

Aunt Sue got her name from the Martin County Historical Society. She is named after Mrs. Hubert Bessey, the former Susan Corbin of Nashville, Tenn., who went to the House of Refuge as a bride in 1895 and lived there until 1902.

ARDENT ADMIRER--"Aunt Sue", the former mascot of the Martin County Environmental Center in Jensen Beach, was placed in her new home at the House of Refuge on Friday morning. While swimming in her roomy new home, Aunt Sue paused to admire the footwear of an observer.

BALLET--Mike Kettner of Jensen Beach plays it to the limit atop the Rip on Linda Drive in Jensen Beach. The ramp was built by Dave Borrack of rive in Jensen and is located in his front yard.

REVEREND DR. JOHN DI GANGI

Church School starts Sunday at JBCC

JENSEN BEACH--The 1977-78 Church School begins this Sunday, Sept. 18, at Jensen Beach Community Church at 10 a.m. Nursery, kindergarten and primary classes will be held in the education wing and the Learning Center, for 3rd thru 8th graders, will be in the Community Hall.

All children of the community are welcome.

As well as a beginning, this week marks the ending of the Rev. Robert P. Cooper's educational ministry at Jensen Community.

Dave Fisher, chairman of the Christian Education Committee, said, "The Learning Center is the best Church School concept I've ever been involved with. I, personally, learned more in the first six weeks of Learning Center activity than in all my previous years in Sunday School."

"Rev. Robert Cooper did a fantastic service for the church and the children of the community. It was amazing what he could pull out from a group of adult participants who went into the situation thinking they had nothing to offer. His creativeness inspired us," Fisher continued.

"It will be very difficult to carry on without him, but with the guidance he has given us and all the preparation he has put into this year's work, even though he won't be here, we hope to be able to continue with the concept. It is the best program the church has to offer to the community at large," Fisher concluded.

In addition to the Church School and Learning Center, in his capacity as Minister of Education Rev. Cooper led the youth program, which included weekly meetings, retreats, fund raising pizza sales, dinners, car washes, directed the young people in productions of Godspell and Philemon. He produced Christmas pageants, college age holiday programs, directed the Youth Choir, counseled.

He produced Lenten and Advent Devotionals, the 1977 Lenten Devotional written by church members who, initially, "didn't think they could do it." He also organized the Lenten dinner programs, created and set up a new Church Library, led a young adult group, and taught adult Bible courses.

Church board leadership and planning retreats were innovative and productive under Rev. Cooper's guidance, and he was the "chief chef" in the church kitchen on many occasions, creating a special extravaganza for the Men's Brotherhood annual affair.

Rev. Cooper also served on the ad hoc committee, forming the Personal Growth Center at FIT and was a soloist with the Martin County Community Chorus.

Rev. Cooper moves on now to Columbus, Ohio, to new endeavors. Fisher said, "He will be sadly missed."

BICENTENNIAL AWARD--Ginny Scranton, Jensen Beach Bicentennial Committee Chairman, Monday night presented a Bicentennial Memorial Plaque to Jack Klett, president of the Jensen Chamber of Commerce. The plaque is dedicated to Ocean Breeze Park, Rio and Jensen Beach. The Bicentennial Committee chose the Chamber building on Commercial Street as the most appropriate permanent home for the plaque. It will be mounted on the side of the building by Mrs. Scranton's husband, Jack Scranton.

'September Song' is card party theme

PORT ST. LUCIE--"September Song" is the theme chosen for the card party planned by the Events Committee for Saturday, Sept. 26, 1 p.m. at the Port St. Lucie Community Center. Decorations will follow the motif according to Sally Coulon, chairman of the party.

Dessert will be served and door and table prizes will be awarded. This will be the last opportunity to purchase the "package deal" which the committee is offering, which includes the five card parties scheduled for the year, two of them featuring fashion shows, at a "tidy savings". Mary Jacobi, chairman of ticket distribution for events, will be on hand to sell the tickets.

Assisting Mrs. Coulon for the afternoon are Eddie Smith, Agnes La France, Marion Romberg, Helen McNally, Ila Mae Maderia, Wanda Lundin, Alice Bowse, Clara Clobus, Mary Sheehan, Mary Heyman, June Johnston and Nickie Porter.

'Cactus Flower' coming to the Barn

STUART--What's in a name? Plenty! Playgoers at the Barn Theatre may be puzzled as they scan their programs before the beginning of "Cactus Flower", by a name in the cast of characters. The name of this character, to be played by Cathy Ann Winton, is listed as "Botticelli's Springtime".

Written by Abe Burrows, "Cactus Flower" opens at the Barn Sept. 30 and will run for three weekends. Call 287-0878 for reservations. Season tickets are on sale now.

Fiorenta and Alroso speeders may soon be watched by deputy

PORT ST. LUCIE--Speeders beware! The City of Port St. Lucie hopes to crack down on speeders who have been zooming up and down Fiorenta Drive and Alroso Boulevard.

Vice Mayor Mike Reeb complained at the city council meeting Tuesday that persons are using the two roads "as an expressway" and he asked the city manager to see about getting a deputy to patrol the roads with a speed gun.

Farrells in family business

BY BONNIE BEDELL

JENSEN BEACH–Thom and Trude Farrell are proud of the business they have set up and they're planning on making it a family affair.

Owning and operating T-N-T Appliances on SR 707 in Jensen Beach, the couple is learning what it's like to be a member of the small business world.

"It really feels good," Thom said. "It's the first time I've had no boss over me and I had to learn that if I was going to make it, I really had to get out and work harder. It's taken a lot of inner drive for me to do it."

"We want to be part of the community," Trude said. "It's shown us that it's growing and we just have a beautiful outlook on everything. I've felt like I'm at home ever since I left the midwest. You really get sand in your soul after a while."

And, being a part of the community means backing up the name of Whirlpool. When the former Whirlpool dealer went out of business, one customer who was hurt was Michael Dryer, of Sixth Street in Ocean Breeze Park.

Dryer had paid $500 to the firm to buy a refrigerator. He lost his money when the former dealer closed.

But, Farrell backed the name of Whirlpool by working with the Whirlpool Company to get a refrigerator for Dryer. It was delivered to a very happy Mike Dryer on Tuesday.

"He worked awfully hard to make it good, and I certainly appreciate it," said Dryer, who broke his back, forcing early retirement. Dryer plays the organ for Prince of Peace Lutheran Church and teaches bridge classes in Ocean Breeze Park.

"I'm very thankful, to both Mr. Farrell and the people from Whirlpool."

Thom said he came to Florida when he was in the Air Force in 1958 and never had the desire to return to Illinois.

"We have three children and hopefully it will be a family business," Trude said.

The appliance store deals exclusively in Whirlpool appliances and in the near future Trude wants to hold microwave cooking classes in the store so people will learn to use the full potential of their microwave ovens.

"I'm going to have a kitchen built for the classes," Trude said.

In addition to selling appliances, Thom is also selling up a service division of the company.

"I would say the most important aspect is service," he said. "We do have two young men who are willing to do service work and I feel that service will be 50 to 60 per cent of our business. We feel people need a good service operation in the community."

So far the F—— family business is doing fine.

"There are times when I worry about everything," Thom said. "But that's where faith comes in."

occer registration is this Saturday

BY DONNIE WILKIE

JENSEN BEACH–Soccer is one of the fast-becoming sports in the United States, and Jensen Beach is no exception, as many youths are now playing football in favor of kicking the black and white ball recognized in England and most other countries as the true "football."

Saturday marks the registration for the sport in Jensen Beach, and local officials are readying for what will undoubtedly be a large turnout.

Youths (both boys and girls) aged 7-16 can register at the Langford Park fieldhouse this Saturday from 10 a.m. to 12 noon. Registration includes a $10 fee for insurance per child, or $25 for the special family plan, which includes three or more players.

However, if you miss the boat this weekend, do not panic. According to Paul Lopilato, registration will be held once more next Saturday, September 25, at the same time.

This year, each player will be issued a full uniform, including shirt, pants and socks, for the first time since the program began.

Polish-American meeting changed

JENSEN BEACH–The monthly meeting of the Polish American Social Club will be held Wednesday, Sept. 21, 7:30 p.m. at First Federal in Jensen Beach. All members are urged to attend. New members are invited.

Young aviators ride the wind

By Robbie Bedell

JENSEN BEACH–It took man 66 years from the time the Wright brothers flew their airplane at Kitty Hawk to the first manned spacecraft to land on the moon.

Airplanes have become very sophisticated and many pilots think that the true "feel" of flying has been lost.

Two young aviators, Brian Sherrill and Bob Humphrey, in the spirit of the early fliers, have built their own airplane. Flying it, the say, with just the power of a 12 horsepower motor to get them into the sky, is what flying is all about.

I'll tell you it's one rush when you get it up in the air", Sherrill said.

The two this week were spraying the orange wings of the plane with clear airplane dope to make the nylon covering airtight. They fly the plane from the playing field at Martin County High School. They do not fly from Martin County Airport because Federal Law will not allow taking off and landing at the airport without radio contact with the control tower.

"It's totally different than conventional flying," Humphrey said. "I gave up flying in regular planes because there was no more sensation. I took up skydiving but I quit that when I broke both of my legs. To take off, I run along holding the wing of the plane and you can feel it lift right up out of your hand."

"It only takes about 30 to 40 feet to get it off the ground", Sherrill said.

The point of the engine is just to get the flyer off the ground. Once airborne, the motor can be shut off and the pilot can glide the plane. If he wants to get higher, he can turn the motor back on and up he goes. You can fly with the motor on for an hour and 15 minutes before running out of fuel.

"It's a much more natural feeling," Sherrill said. "The motor is an invisible hill. That's what the company that sell it says."

Sherrill learned about the plane through Popular Mechanics magazine and built it with help from Humphrey. Sherrill said he does not really feel like one of the Wright brothers when in the air.

"Its all been done before," he said.

"I think man has an inborn feeling to want to fly," Humphrey said. "All humans are born with it but some learn to fear it and become scared to fly. My father has been a pilot all his life and I was raised chewing on the tire of an airplane. I was a sky diver and I'm a climber for a living. I have no fear of climbing a 400-foot tower".

Sherrill said he wants to sell the orange bi-plane to Humphrey.

"I'm saving my money to buy a big glider", he said.

PLAYING DOPE–Clear airplane dope is being sprayed by Brian Sherrill on the wing of his home-made aircraft. Sherrill and his friend Bob Humphrey sprayed the plane Monday behind Murray's Bug Works in Jensen Beach.

BI-PLANE WING–Bob Humphrey and Brian Sherill heft the orange nylon covered wing of Sherrill's home-made airplane. The plane is designed to take off with the power of a 12 horsepower motor and glide until more power is needed. The plane was built from a design in Popular Mechanics magazine.

FREEWHEELING PROS–Morris Chen, left, Doug Hughes and Mike Kettner practice skateboarding on the roadside next to Linda Drive in Jensen Beach. Though the ramp is located in Mrs. Loretta Borrack's front yard, passing cars are still a danger to the skateboarders. They are looking for a public park where they can safely enjoy their sport.

REPTILIAN BURDEN–Mike Deckter, an employee of the Martin County Historical Society, hefts 70-pound "Aunt Sue", the four-year-old loggerhead turtle moved Friday from the Environmental Center to the House of Refuge. The turtle was named after Mrs. Herbert Bessey, the former Susan Corbin of Nashville, who was the birde of former keeper, Herbert Bessey.

SKATEBOARDER–Mike Kettner of Jensen Beach rides his skateboard high up on the ramp in the "Bug" located on Linda Drive in Jensen Beach. Kettner and his friends are trying to get a public skateboard park will be made available in Jensen Beach.

34 tower approved by FAA

STUART–The Federal Aviation Administration has removed one obstacle in the way of plans for a 1,520-foot television towner to be build about 10 miles southwest of STuart's airport, but several other obstacles must be hurdled if the tower is to become a reality.

Officials of television station WTWV in Tupelo, Mississippi, are attempting to buy CBS affiliate station WTVX, Channel 34. The offices and tower of WTVX are currently located along U.S. 1 north of Fort Pierce.

If the Mississippi officials get approval to buy WTVX, they hope to build a 1,520 foot tall tower about 10 miles southwest of Stuart's Witham Field. In order to build the tower, approval of the Federal Aviation Administration, the Federal Communications Commission, and the Martin County Commission are necessary. Recently, the FAA issued a "no hazard" finding for the tower, in spite of the fact that a tower that tall would exceed FAA and state standards.

But that does not mean the tower will be built. Local pilots have objected to the tower plans on grounds that it would be a hazard to air traffic, and at the urging of pilots, the Martin County Commission also recently passed a resolution against the tower, That resolution was sent to the FAA.

Frank Spain, president of the Mississippi station, says he will seek Martin County Commission approval of the tower in about 60 days, and added that he will likely make a formal application to the FCC for approval of the proposed purchase and modification of the Channel 34 station in about three months. He noted that it will take at least six months for the FCC to act on the application once it is made.

If the tower is approved by the Martin County Commission and the FCC, it would increase the signal of Channel 34 northward to Melbourne, south to below West Palm Beach, and west to the far side of Lake Okeechobee.

The tallest tower in Martin County now is a 625-foot tall Coast Guard LORAN tower, located just north of Jonathan Dickinson State Park.

TURTLE OGLERS–Staff members and friends of the Martin County Environmental Center watch as "Aunt Sue" becomes accustomed to her new home at the House of Refuge. The turtle was moved Friday from the Center to the House of Refuge so she could live in larger quarters.

Prews...in and out

Lou and Bud Prew were home just long enough to get ready for another trip. This time they are going back to Highlands, N.C., to take care of some business, and are stopping in Franklin, N.C., to attend an annual square dance affair.

Did you all happen to see the beard on Bud? Looks like "the old man of the sea" (Hemingway). Bud will be zipping around in his new blonde car when he returns.

Jane and Bob Dedaker took their new motor home and joined the Prews for the trip. Wish these travelers would light long enough for us to get some news of their trips. I do know the golden delicious apples that the Prews brought back are really delicious.

The meyers came and Kay and Dr. Bob Smyth moved out of Venture Harbour on Thursday. It is always sad to lose good neighbors and friends, but we all wish them good health and happiness in their Vero Beach home.

Aldith Coats has been in Martin Memorial Hospital for several days for tests and should be home when this is read. All wish her good health.

Bob Murphy, Lot 771 in St. Lucie, is also a patient in Martin Memorial, Room 317. He is improving, but would appreciate hearing from friends as it gets very boring confined to bed. Both of the Murphys had a virus and had to miss the last pot luck dinner, but Bob didn't recover very quickly and developed other ills that needed close attention, so off to the hospital for him. Get well soon, Bob.

No pot luck this past week and we all missed the fun. However, they will start again soon.

There is no let up in the bazaar work sessions and Betty Jones is still anxious for more workers, so as soon as you return to Venture Three, set aside Thursday at 1:30 p.m. to contribute your help to make this year's affair bigger and better than last year.

Palm Lake Park suffered the loss of another resident this past week. Wesley L. Dunkle, 59, of 1120 NW 16th Street passed away on September 3 at his home.

Mr. Dunkle had resided in the park for many years, a resident of the area for 26 years. He was a native of Pennsylvania and a veteran of World War II with the U.S. Army. He is survived by his wife June of Stuart, his father, and four sisters.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Reteiser of Antoch Court suffered complete interior damage from fire early last Thursday. Fortunately, there was no loss of life or injuries. However, their personal effects were lost and if any neighbors or friends can assist in any way with donations of household goods, clothing etc., they are urged to contact Betty North who is in charge and will send your donations to the family. If you do not have anything to give, cash would also be appreciated.

Dog owners are cautioned to make sure that their pets do not go into Palm Lake. This past week, a small poodle walking along the edge of the lake was snapped up by the alligator, but, fortunately, he was able to struggle away without injury.

The proper authorities have been contacted and we hope for the alligator's removal soon. In the meantime, keep your pets and children away and, especially, do NOT feed it.

Tom Carlile, a member of the nominating committee, attended the board meeting and President Wiggin asked him to serve as acting chairman of the committee in the absence of Fran Lee, who is now in Europe. The nominating committee is now moving into high gear, with the annual election only three months away. Tome also reported that he expects most of those who served on the TAP (Tax Assistance Program) in the first quarter of this year to act again next year, although he emphasized he hadn't talked to all of them. He noted that two requests have been submitted to expand the group's activities to Fort Pierce, but said he thought this would be too ambitious and undertaking for our relatively small membership. The board agreed with him and adopted a resolution of thanks for the highly effective job he did in organizing and managing the program this year.

Following the board meeting, the directors present prepared the September issue of the news bulletin for mailing. Working on the folding and affixing of mailing labels were Muriel Sysak and Messrs Wiggin, Maurie Arlack, Jim Kearney, Morgan Jones, Carlile, Peter Sysak and Hugh Jencks.

Martin County Chapter 2223

The Senior Information Center, that has been long talked about, will finally get off the ground. At a meeting with Don Alley, manager of Publix, Alley informed Ernie C. and Boyd Smith that it would be OK to set up a Senior Info table in front of Publix and a kick-off date was set for Friday, Oct. 7, 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Now it's up to the members to pitch in and help Boyd get ready. The AARP sign from the parade float can be used for background, but some table signs are needed. Does the chapter have a sign painter who can help out?

All the different committee chairmen are urged to supply Boyd with pertinent facts about services they offer. Also, all senior service groups are asked to submit info.

This Senior Info Center, which may become known as "SIC", will have to start off slow and small, but its potential is unlimited. Basically, and as a catch phrase, it might be an answer to, "All those things you've wanted to know about seniors but were afraid to ask." Soon AARPers may be saying, "I'll meet you at SIC 16:30 next Friday."

How about the chapter getting one of those engravers and, as a service to seniors, engrave their Social Security numbers on small, valuable possessions. Have any suggestions? Call 334-2344.

AARPers often write letters from or about far away places. Here's what Carrie Lou Arnold has to say:

"It was a beautiful summer day, Aug. 16, when I took off on Delta for Kennedy to join a large group of Zeta Phi Beta Sorority for a Pan Am flight to Monrovia, Liberia, on the west coast of Africa for an International Sorority Conference. While there, we stayed at Ducc International Hotel and visited a Firestone rubber plantation."

Next, they went to neighboring Abijan on the Ivory Coast for some entertainment before skipping across the continent to Beautiful Nairobe, Kenya, just south of the equator on the Indian Ocean. There they spent a day in the Animal Reserve before going south to Dar-es-Salaam, Tanganyika. From there, they took a side trip to an old Catholic Mission, established in 1863 at Bagamoyo. They saw nearby an old 1831 Slave Market.

Carrie Lou said she enjoyed the African dancers and trips to colleges the most, and that the tour greatly enlarged her outlook as she was able to view first hand the living conditions of many Africans and their means of livelihood. She returned tired but happy on Aug. 31.

...p council eyes budget

...WELL'S POINT–After revising the ...977-78 town budget, Sewall's ...nt councilmen have made room ... possible new police officer, ...ing the number of the force from ... to four men.

...ce department addition is only ... of the increases made in projected ...penses since budget proceedings ... several weeks ago.

...ommissioners have also included ... amount as a contingency for a ...ple path which could run from the ...ern town line to Sewall's Point ...

...f the budget stands, going into the ...ler meeting Wednesday night, it ...ns to $885,682, or $38,682 higher ...n this year's budget of $165,000.

...ause the higher amount projected ...e new taxes, the lowest will ...e the present millage rate of ... mills.

... the commission may be ... to maintain the current rate is ...ard of the combination of increased ... revenue from assessed property valuations, franchise taxes, real estate taxes and building permits.

There have been at least 56 new households added to the town over the past year giving a projected building permit jump more than $17,000 over the current budget.

Franchise taxes are up because of raised rates by Florida Power and Light, Southern Gulf Utilities and Southern Bell.

Expenses for the coming year have taken no great jumps. Town employees are getting a five per cent cost of living raise, a new patrolman has been hired, and the salary for the possible fourth patrolman has been budgeted.

"The money for the new patrolman is a contingency for if and when a new police officer is hired," Police Commissioner John Rositter said "If one night man comes along and he has the right qualifications, we might hire him. But we wouldn't hire anyone until October, November, December, or even after that I can see the need for a fourth man."

A breakdown of the projected expenditures is as follows:

Salaries, $58,500; Building and Grounds $7,350; Engineering, $11,000; Legal and Attorney Fees, $17,700; Police and Police Car Maintenance, $4250; Roads (including mowing), $71,300; and miscellaneous expenses, $33,534.

The commissioners will consider the budget for finalization at the regular meeting on Wednesday night, Sept. 14.

Skeeters under attack

JENSEN BEACH–Ah! You went to the beach early Sunday morning with the kids and found a nice shady spot under the trees to park the car.

The kids grabbed the beach gear and got out of the car.

What happened? They were devoured by mosquitoes. You rushed as fast as you could down to the beach where the wind was blowing and the sun was shining, away from the shady home of the needled marauders.

According to Martin County Environmental Services Director Lee Scherer, the latest rash of mosquitoes hatched from the more than 10 inches of rain which fell last week.

"Basically, the last real outbreak was caused by the really heavy rain we had the first week in September," Scherer said. "Some places have had from 13 to 13 inches of rain in a four to five day period. We got a real, super batch of freshwater, or Glades mosquitoes and [illegible] good number of salt marsh mosquitoes. With the two combined, we had a problem all over the county."

Scherer said that he had a mosquito plane in the air on Monday and Tuesday, spraying a very light dose of insecticide on the mosquito-breeding areas.

"The name of the insecticide is Dibrom and we sprayed an ultra low volume, about three quarters of an ounce per acre, from the plane," he said. "It takes several hours for it to kill an adult mosquito. It won't kill them quickly like a spray from an aerosol can. An can has 15 times the dose we spray from the plane. We put just enough so a few droplets will kill a mosquito in two to three hours."

Sherer added that there will be some relief from the mosquitoes unless we have more rain. In that case, the whole problem could start all over again. Usually the mosquito season is over by October, he said, but he has had to spray as late as January.

"It's very hard to predict," he said.

Sewall's Point may get center

SEWALL'S POINT–After plans for a shopping center have been scuttled at least once, it looks as if one might still be built at the intersection of A-1-A and Sewall's Point Road across from the Bessemer Building.

To be named Harbor Bay Plaza, Fort Lauderdale Architect Franz Joseph Shropa said that there are 32 stores proposed on the site.

"They will be specialty shops similar to those on Worth Avenue in Palm Beach," Shropa said. "There may also be one or two restaurants."

The project is proposed by a Canadian developer and is a totally different plan from that planned by the Bessemer Corporation two years ago.

Shropa said that there is no building date yet because "there are too many variables to work out."

He said he is preparing plans to submit to the town commission for concept approval of the shopping center.

WATER HEATER

POOL HEATER

SOLAR WATER HEATING

In a world of rapidly vanishing supplies of fossil fuels, use of gas or electricity for low temperature applications such as water heating is not prudent. Solar energy can do the job as it has in Florida for over 40 years. Solar energy will easily heat water to over 175° and can supply most of our needs right now. The energy is infinite and the technology is up to date. In the average family, SDI recommends one 4' x 10' copper solar panel with an 82 gallon tank, and one 2' x 10' panel with a 40 gallon tank for two people. Since approximately 30% of an annual utility bill is for heating hot water (every day, 365 days per year), a solar water heater makes sense — with an occasional boost from the back up electric or gas unit, approximately 25% of the annual bill can be saved. This provides an excellent "tax free" return on an investment and is particularly attractive in new construction where the SDI system can be included in all types of home mortgages, including FHA.

BIG GAIN–The longest run of the night for the Jensen Beach Razorback team came when Mark Desfonds, number 58, scampered for 29 yards against Hobe Sound. The Razorbacks, playing in the upper division of the Martin County Junior Football League, lost to Hobe Sound 13 to 6 during the league's jamboree at Long Field in Stuart Saturday evening. The regular season begins this coming Saturday, with the Razorbacks paired against Port St. Lucie's upper division Viking team at 6 p.m. at Langford Park.

Jamboree gives preview of season

BY BOB FRYER

STUART–It's football season again for the Martin County Junior Football League, and to get things rolling, teams in both the upper and lower divisions of the league each played one quarter during a jamboree at Long Field in Stuart Saturday night.

In lower division action, the Jensen Beach Barracudas blanked the Hobe Sound Trojans 6 to 0.

Barracuda Chris Fitzpatrick reeled off a fine 48 yard run against the Trojans, only to see the play called back on a clipping penalty. But a few seconds later Derick Johnson blasted through the Trojan defense for a 36 yard touchdown run.

In the upper division, the Jensen Beach Razorbacks were hampered by a fumble and an intercepted pass in their game against the Hobe Sound upper division Trojans. The Hobe Sound Sounders beat the Jensen team 13 to 0, but what hurt more than that was the loss of Wilford Battles with a shoulder injury. An ambulance had to be called in to transport Battles from the field to Martin Memorial Hospital.

The Port St. Lucie lower division Vikings lost to the Indiantown Thunderbirds with less than two minutes to play when Indiantown punched in a touchdown from the 10 yard line.

Port St. Lucie's upper division Vikings fell to the Indiantown Firebirds, last year's defending champions, by a 6 to 0 score. Again, the Indiantown score came late in the game, after Port St. Lucie put up a stubborn defense.

Port St. Lucie got as close as the Indiantown five yard line at one point in the game, but that gainer was set back to the 10 yard line after a penalty was called. Then the Vikings coughed up a fumble at the 15 yard line to end the threat.

Other league scores in the jamboree were, in the lower division: Indiantown Thunderbirds 14, Port Salerno 0; Stuart and Hobe Sound played to a scoreless tie. In the upper division the Indiantown Firebirds downed Port Salerno 8 to 6 and Stuart beat Palm City 6 to 0.

Device puts evil eye on crooks

PORT ST. LUCIE--Burglars and vandals had best steer clear of Port St. Lucie because soon that city will have a sophisticated device to spy on their illegal activities at night.

City Manager Elmer Cox announced Tuesday that the city has won a state grant of more than $28,000 for an anti-crime strike force.

Cox explained that under the provisions of the grant the city will receive enough money to hire a police officer and buy an unmarked car for him to patrol the streets at night. Gas, oil, walkie talkies and uniforms will be provided, but the most unusual thing the city will buy with the grant is a night viewing device.

"It is based on the devices used so successfully in the Viet Nam War," Cox said, explaining that it will allow the officer to see nighttime criminal activities clearly through a binocular-type device. He also said the city has applied for a second grant, to continue the strike force for the following year.

"I think we have every reason to believe we will get the second grant, but even if we don't, we'll get to keep all the equipment and the car," he said.

Cox credited Public Safety Director Doublas Stout for his hard work in securing the grant. Stout, who reported there were seven burglaries in the city in the last week, said, "If that continues, we'll need the night viewing device right away."

Cox says city will not let double taxation issue die

BY BOB FRYER

PORT ST. LUCIE--City Manager ...er Cox, after telling city council ...bers it would cost as much as ...,000 to have a Sheriff's sub-station ...h here, said the city will not let the ...e of double taxation by the county ...mission die.

City officials recently decided to seek ... audit of the county budget to ...ermine if city residents are receiving ...ir fair share of services for the ...unt of tax money city residents pay ...the county. Cox said after the city ...cil meeting that he is convinced the ...y is not getting a fair return on its tax ...ribution to the county.

The decision to seek the audit of the ...nty budget came on the heels of a ...sion by county commissioners ...eral weeks ago of a request by the ...y for the county to spend $40,000 this ...ear year on the city-owned ...rtsman's Park. City officials ...tain that many residents in the ...rporated areas of the county use ...rk.

But the denial of the request for county money for the park is apparently not the only sore spot with city officials. The city has been contracting with the county Sheriff's Department for extra police protection in the city for several years. The contract for the upcoming fiscal year will cost the city $171,140.

Council members plan eventually to start the city's own police force, but recently delayed the start of that force for at least one more year. When they took that action, they also decided to ask Sheriff Lanie Norvell to consider the feasibility of having a police sub-station located in the city, to prevent the extra deputies assigned to the city under terms of the contract from having to leave the city to deliver prisoners to the county jail in Fort Pierce.

The council members saw Nogvell's report on the feasibility of a sub-station and learned it would cost $174,000 over what the city pays for its police protection contract, they expressed disappointment and anger.

"Isn't police protection for the entire county, including areas in incorporated cities, a responsibility of the county?" asked councilman Merle Anderson.

Cox replied that this was just another example where the county does not provide sufficient service for the tax money it takes in from the city taxpayers.

Vice Mayor Mike, Reeb asked Cox after the meeting when the matter of auditing the county books will begin. Cox said "as soon as all the budgetary matters at hand are dispensed with and the new fiscal year starts (Sept. 30), I will request a meeting between myself and Mayor (Bill) McCheney and County Commission Chairman Ed Enns to discuss it."

Seymour Fleming, president of the Port St. Lucie Civic League, asked Cox if the Sheriff's Department had an obligation to incorporated areas. "The county has a definite obligation to incorporated areas and we feel they have not fulfilled their obligation to Port St. Lucie, or for that matter, to St. Lucie Village or Fort Pierce."

Cox said he and McCheney hope to determine areas where the city pays tax money for county services it does not receive. He pointed out that the county collects tax money countywide for the county engineering department, the county finance office, the county building department, the county planner, and "other administrative areas" but only provides those services to persons in unincorporated areas.

Cox further stated that the state League of Cities now has sufficient unity on the issue of double taxation to go to the state legislature next year to say, look fellas, we're not getting our fair share and we think something should be done about it."

Fleming quipped, "It sounds like taxation without representation."

Though building a totally new sub-station, as a separate structure, and providing for office equipment, prisoner holding cells, and jail personnel is estimated to cost $174,000, Norvell did offer an alternative. He said if the sub-station with holding cells is incorporated as part of the proposed new city hall, the cost would be reduced. In that case, Cox said, the cost of the jail would be $18,888 instead of $61,600. The police committee of the Planning and Zoning Department is expected soon to begin studying costs for starting a city police force, and Cox said the committee will review Norvell's report.

County Commission Chairman Ed Enns said recently the city, if anyone, may be responsible for double taxation and said the county books are open to anyone for inspection.

BOY IS HIS FIRST NAME, but he was too shy to tell his last name. Roy was one of about 100 kindergarten and and first grade students who enjoyed themselves during a recess break Tuesday at Port St. Lucie Elementary School. He may be shy, but he appears to have mastered the big slide at the school

The controversial question of annexation was raised by George Hanna, a county resident. President Bob Brunton said the board had not taken a position and would not do so until it has been given a definite opinion from area residents one way or the other. He added that the association plans to send a letter to all residents of the area after the first of the year, asking for an expression of opinion on annexation.

Council considers residential rezoning

PORT ST. LUCIE--In an effort to provide for a gradual shift in residential zoning from areas where small homes are permitted to areas allowing larger homes, the city council approved the first reading of an ordinance to rezone two tracts in the Cambridge Drive area.

City Manager Elmer Cox noted that the Planning and Zoning Board had designated a total of eight tracts where zoning changes are desirable for "making the gradual shift" from small home to large home areas. He said all eight tracts considered for rezoning were to be acted on earlier this summer, but got lost in the shuffle when more pressing zoning matters came up. The six remaining tracts are to be considered for a first reading of a rezoning ordinance during a special city council meeting Friday, Sept. 30, at 8 a.m.

"I'm upset. These should have been given priority and we should have had a follow-up on them sooner," said Councilman Mike Reeb, who served as acting mayor in the absence of Mayor Bill McCheney. He complained that some persons may have already started building in the area under present zoning. The second reading and a public hearing for the ordinance for the first two tracts will be held at 9 a.m. Tuesday, Oct. 25.

Cox said one reason for the delay was the difficulty in getting a legal description of the areas to be rezoned.

In other council action, the first reading of an ordinance to adopt the Southern Standard Fire Prevention Code was approved and a resolution to accept a five-year capital outlay plan drafted by Cox was adopted.

The capital outlay plan, which all agreed was flexible and subject to major changes if priorities shift, calls for $150,000 to be spent this coming fiscal year on a new city hall and for $85,000 per year to be spent on it for the following four years.

For vehicles to be used by law enforcement officers and city personnel, the plan calls for $13,231 to be spent in the upcoming year, for $72,000 the next year, for $15,000 the following year, for nothing to be spent the year after that, and for $83,000 to be spent in the 1981-82 fiscal year.

A total of $80,000 is projected to be spent in 1980-81 for graders and dump trucks and other equipment for the public works department.

No projection was made as to capital outlay over the next five years for a city police department, though city officials seem likely to start one within that time.

In an unrelated matter, Cox was granted authorization to check with two former and five current city employees whose pension plan policies can either be surrendered for cash value or converted to a new pension plan the city is considering adopting.

The council is considering three pension plan proposals and the city finance committee was to have met at 3:30 p.m. Wednesday to discuss the proposals. Then, on Friday, Sept. 30, at a special meeting, the council is expected to act on the proposals.

Slew of city meetings is on tap this week

PORT ST. LUCIE--A slew of meetings by city officials is scheduled during the upcoming week.

The city's finance committee meets at 3:30 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 14, to consider three proposed pension plans for city employees.

On Thursday, Sept. 15, at 4 p.m., the city's Disaster Preparedness Committee will meet to discuss plans for taking care of any emergencies in the area. City Manager Elmer Cox notes there are still two and a half months of hurricane season left.

Vice Mayor Mike Reeb is a member of the county Disaster Preparedness Committee and has been a frequent critic of the Civil Defense's seven year old disaster plan. Reeb says that the plan is obsolete and does not say anything specifically about Port St. Lucie residents.

At a city council meeting last week, Lou Costopolous, shelter coordinator for the Red Cross, was asked why there were no emergency shelters designated in Port St. Lucie. He responded that the elementary school is a class two shelter, meaning when other primary shelters in Port Pierce are filled up, the school will be used. City council members expressed displeasure at this.

At the meeting Thursday, Costopolous and the newly appointed Civil Defense Director for St. Lucie County, Phil Rodi of Port St. Lucie, are invited to attend.

On Friday the city council will hold a special meeting at 9 a.m. to choose a new pension plan for the city. The current plan is due to expire Sept. 30. The council may likely also consider rezoning six residential tracts in the city at that meeting.

On Monday, Sept. 19, the city Planning and Zoning Board will hold a regular meeting at 7 p.m. The new city planner, Mike Sryrnyog, will be introduced; a city council member will be appointed to go over newly proposed revisions for the plans for a new city hall; and the board will consider calling in three arbitrators, required by state law, to give the city estimates of what it will take to make the first step toward building the new city hall.

A board member will be assigned to study a report by Sheriff Lanie Norvell on the feasibility of building a police sub-station in the city, and board member Ed Jenkins will report on a study on planned unit developments.

The city's zoning ordinance will be discussed for possible refinements and city manager Elmer Cox will report on a meeting with General Development Utilities officials on the plans for expanding the sanitary sewer system in the city. Then, a report will be made on commercial zoning and green belt areas, and, finally, the city's proposed five year capital outlay plan will be examined.

On the next day, Tuesday, Sept. 20, the city council will hold a workshop meeting at 9 a.m. All the above meetings are to be at City Hall on Morningside Drive.

BIG GAIN–The longest run of the night for the Jensen Beach Razorback team came when Mark Desfonds, number 58, scampered for 29 yards against Hobe Sound. The Razorbacks, playing in the upper division of the Martin County Junior Football League, lost to Hobe Sound 13 to 0 during the league's jamboree at Long Field in Stuart Saturday night. The regular season begins this coming Saturday, with the Razorbacks pitted against Port St. Lucie's upper division Viking team at 8 p.m. at Langford Park.

Jamboree gives preview of season

BY BOB FRYER

STUART–It's football season again for the Martin County Junior Football League, and to get things rolling, teams in both the upper and lower divisions of the league each played one quarter during a jamboree at Long Field in Stuart Saturday night.

In lower division action, the Jensen Beach Barracudas blanked the Hobe Sound Trojans 6 to 0.

Barracuda Chris Fitzpatrick reeled off a fine 46 yard run against the Trojans, only to see the play called back on a clipping penalty. But a few seconds later Derrick Johnson blasted through the Trojan defense for a 39 yard touchdown run.

In the upper division, the Jensen Beach Razorbacks were hampered by a fumble and an intercepted pass in their game against the Hobe Sound upper division Trojans. The Hobe Sounders beat the Jensen team 13 to 0, but what hurt more than that was the loss of Willord Battles with a shoulder injury. An ambulance had to be called in to transport Battles from the field to Martin Memorial Hospital.

The Port St. Lucie lower division Vikings lost to the Indiantown Thunderbirds with less than two minutes to play when Indiantown punched in a touchdown from the 10 yard line.

Port St. Lucie's upper division Vikings fell to the Indiantown Firebirds, last year's defending champions, by a 6 to 0 score. Again, the Indiantown score came late in the game, after Port St. Lucie put up a stubborn defense.

Port St. Lucie got as close as the Indiantown five yard line at one point in the game, but that gainer was set back to the 10 yard line after a penalty was called. Then the Vikings coughed up a fumble at the 15 yard line to end the threat.

Other league scores in the jamboree were, in the lower division: Indiantown Thunderbirds 14, Port Salerno 0; Stuart and Hobe Sound played to a score less tie. In the upper division the Indiantown Firebirds downed Port Salerno 6 to 0 and Stuart beat Palm City 6 to 0

Otto Lugenbeel, where are you?

JENSEN BEACH–Evelyn Stewart of Kissimmee liked a letter in her morning paper, and wanted to write "Otto Lugenbeel" to tell him she liked his letter to the editor.

She wrote to him, to Mr. Otto Lugenbeel, Jensen Beach, Fla. 37???. Her letter was returned by the local post office, marked "insufficient address."

So, Miss Stewart wrote to the postmaster, enclosing the returned letter:

"I sent this letter to all the address I had.

"Did the gentleman give a ficticious name? He had a letter in our morning paper and I wanted to tell him I liked it.

"Also, that I myself once lived in Jensen, about a mile north of the post office, near the St. Lucie County line.

"Has it grown so much in sixty years? I am 73 now. I left there when I was 12.

"If you can't find the gentleman, I don't want the letter.

"Oh, my dad and mother and one brother are in your cemetery. 1906, 1913, 1954.

Sincerely,
Evelyn K. Stewart"

County Commission honors Dr. Stokes

STUART–Conservationist Dr. Walter Stokes was honored Tuesday by the Martin County Commission for his efforts in conservation and community affairs.

In a resolution read at the onset of Tuesday's regular meeting, the commissioners commended Dr. Stokes for his help in numerous community projects and work in the protection of the Jensen Savannas.

Dr. Stokes was a key figure in work leading to the purchase of the Savannas by the State of Florida. The commission extended its "sincere appreciation" for the Savannas work and for his "ceaseless work for the betterment of the community and the country."

Dr. Stokes is a leader in the Martin County Conservation Alliance and has worked for many years toward water conservation and improvement of the St. Lucie Inlet.

Student deluge on FIT campus

BY ROBBIE BEDELL

JENSEN BEACH–You are a young college freshman or transfer student on the campus. You may have left home for an extended duration for the first time. And there you are, facing the challenge of learning a new school, new courses and new people, and may not know where to turn next.

Well this year at the Florida Institute of Technology (FIT) such students had better rely on the advice of friends and their parents to learn the new things going on around them. And to learn those things in a hurry.

This year is different. For the first time the school is offering an orientation program to assist in helping the new student adapt to his new surroundings.

"It's called Orientation '77.

"This year we have about 300 new and transfer students," Orientation Director Jerry Holland said.

"What we want to do is orient the students on three levels. We want to orient them on the social level so they can meet the other students. We want to orient them to the faculty and administration on the academic level. And we want to orient them to the community."

With the Student Government (SGA) Task Force to carry out the orientation, station wagons and other cars are pulling up to the parking lots of the school's two dormitories and students are unloading suitcases and boxes, occasionally mingled with surfboards, scuba tanks and soaring kites.

The students are talking to coeds on benches and others, in the classroom building, are inspecting the scientific equipment they will be using as soon as classes begin.

Holland said that an information package has been assembled which will be distributed to students during the next few days providing information about the school and the community. There will also be a special edition of the school's newspaper, The Circular File.

Maps of the Martin County area areas to be handed out to the new students so they can grope their way around from the beaches to the shopping centers. Included is a little booklet on how to manage your money.

"We will also have a bus service running from the campus to Jensen Beach and back," Holland said. "It will get the new students out into the community so they can get their supplies and make banking arrangements."

By Wednesday all of the students will have arrived on campus.

Included in the orientation program will be softball and volleyball in the evenings. There will be films and students will be able to congregate in the coffeehouse in the evenings.

At 10 a.m., Thursday, there will be a faculty-freshman softball game at Langford Park and a cookout and poolside party.

The school also this year has added a placement office and a counseling service, plus a director of athletic activities.

A meeting will be held on Friday allowing every campus club to make a pitch to the new students. At the end of the meeting, students will be able to go to booths run by the respective clubs and sign up for those they are interested in.

"In this way the students will know what sort of activities are available to them," Holland said. "Those who never had the opportunity to get involved will have the chance to get involved."

On Saturday, there will be an SGA beach party at Stuart Beach.

To answer questions for students walking in bewilderment around the campus, there will be "runners" dressed in orange T-shirts with the Orientation '77 logo on the front.

"Their jobs will be twofold," Holland said.

"They will be walking telephone booths. If a student has a question, all he will have to do is look for an orange T-shirt and ask. The runners will also be prodding the students, encouraging them to become involved. They will pound on doors urging them to come out and join in on the activities."

Meanwhile, back in the dorm, Housing Director John Mulvaney and his wife Eileen are working non-stop checking new students into the rooms.

"It may look hectic but it's a lot better than it was last year because we have a better system," Mulvaney said. "I've checked in 165 students in two days. It looks like a total disaster but, really, it isn't."

The Mulvaneys describe their job as seeing to it that there is harmony in the dorms and settling any disturbances that may arise. They also take care of the physical aspects of the building itself.

"I love it," he said. "If I didn't I wouldn't be here. I was in construction all my life and I like deep sea fishing, but this can be a 24-hour-a-day job."

"We welcome the students to come in and see us any time," Mrs. Mulvaney said. "We like to feel that we are their parents away from home."

Optimists plan tournament

JENSEN BEACH–The Optimist Club of Jensen Beach will hold its annual golf tournament at Miles Grant on October 2. This year the field will be limited to the first 100 entries. The entry fee is $10 per person (green fee, cart and prizes included). For those looking for exercise, walkers are welcome at the reduced rate of $7.50.

Winners will receive their awards (plus a free meal as guests of the Optimists) at the Optimist meeting to be held Wednesday, Oct. 5, at the Tradewinds Restaurant in Jensen Beach.

Anyone interested in participating can contact any member of the Optimist Club, or call Bill Mang at 334-0767 for their starting position. A shotgun start at 8 a.m. is planned.

All entries will be by advance reservations only. All proceeds will be used to support the Optimist program in working with the youth of the community.

FIRST–The Town Council at Sewall's Point recently purchased this new economy pickup truck to help town Building Inspector Charlie Duryea carry out his duties. Duryea put more than 130,000 miles on his own van which he used before the purchase of the truck. The truck is the first vehicle, other than patrol cars, the town has ever purchased. "We bought it for its economy and its low gas mileage," Commissioner John Rossiter said. Shown are Rossiter, standing, and Duryea at the wheel.

JENSEN BEACH–Despite a record water level in the Jensen Beach canal plans are underway which will in the future make the wetland more healthy than it has ever been. It is lousy shape out there," Dr. Walter Stokes told members of the Martin Conservation Alliance last night.

There is a boat delivery on the south end of the head of the second lake. There is a 16-foot deep basin and canal with access to a half dozen other lakes. In the past year it has become impossible to boat into the surrounding waters. The openings are closed for the first time in years," he said.

Dr. Stokes said to get the water to rise he will take much more rain than the rain that fell two weeks ago causing some flooding in low areas.

"The water level is so low that it will have to fill from below," he said. "As much rain as we have had still has not had much surface rise."

However, County Commissioner Clyde Barcballa said at the meeting that plans are underway for the removal of the Universal Adams Causeway in the future. According to Dr. Stokes the removal will greatly help the water level north of the causeway.

The causeway was originally built some 15 years ago by Universal Adams to provide access to U.S. 1 from a development planned on the ridge on the north side of the Savannas.

Plans to develop the land were stopped by the General Development Corporation has agreed to remove the causeway as soon as the dry winter season arrives.

Dr. Stokes said the removal will probably not get underway earlier than February but when it is completed, the savannas will be on the way toward its restoration.

The causeway runs from U.S. 1 toward Walton Road, according to Dr. Stokes, and is about 125 feet wide. It was created from fill dredged up from either side.

Dr. Stokes said in removing it the land will be returned to its natural contours. The Martin and St. Lucie County Conservation Alliances will volunteer to reseed the land under the direction of the county forester, he said.

"I truly believe that the Savannas will be restored within 15 to 20 years to a better condition than anyone has ever seen," Dr. Stokes said. "There will always be adequate water, there will be an improvement in native vegetation, and there will be a much larger bird population."

Dr. Stokes added that there are a number of biologists who support his theory and who are interested in the return of the Savannas to its natural state.

Calkins to head new Winn-Dixie

PORT SALERNO–It's rare nowadays when a young college student can work his way up to become manager of a large corporation in just three years. And it's even more rare when he does not have to stray far from home to do it.

But that's what Tom Calkins has done, and Thursday he will step into his new position as manager of the new Winn-Dixie Store in Port Salerno.

Calkins started with Winn-Dixie as a produce clerk in Jensen Beach in 1973 while he was attending Indian River Community College in Fort Pierce and living in Jensen Beach.

"I was going to Indian River at the time," he said, as he looked over the spotless expanse of the new Port Salerno store.

"I don't know. It's an attitude you have. I wanted to be a store manager so I put my mind to it."

In working his way up in the company, Calkins advanced to produce manager and then assistant manager in Jensen Beach before he moved to become store manager at a Winn-Dixie in West Palm Beach.

Calkins likes the idea of being manager of the chain's newest store.

"It feels great," he said. "It's a dream come true, really. It's something you don't expect to become so young. It was an opportunity I was waiting for and I guess I was at the right place at the right time."

Accompanying Calkins at the new Port Salerno Store are market manager Harry Lippner, Jr., produce manager Gary Albrycht, deli manager Kay Zielinski, assistant manager Rob Tracey, junior assistant manager Jim Miller, dairy manager Randy Howard, and general merchandise manager Ida Roberts.

The store is located at New Salerno Village on U.S. 1 in Port Salerno.

Winn-Dixie is among the largest of the retail grocery companies in the United States and employs more than 47,000 full and part time employees.

There are more than 1140 stores in 14 states with warehousing and distribution centers throughout the south.

There is a modern food testing laboratory in Jacksonville which insures that that company manufacturing is maintained at top level.

Winn-Dixie personnel go through extensive training in proper food handling and sanitation.

There are Winn-Dixie Stores on Commercial Street in Jensen Beach and in the Port St. Lucie Shopping Center on U.S. 1 in Port St. Lucie.

NEW MANAGER–Tom Calkins, the manager of the new Winn-Dixie Store in Salerno Village Shopping Center in Port Salerno, began his career at the Winn-Dixie Store in Jensen Beach. It took him three years to move from produce clerk in Jensen to manager of the new store.

Clinic goal for Birth Control

STUART–The Martin County Animal Birth Control Association (ABC) is looking for land on which to build its low cost spay and neuter clinic.

The organization recently sent 1,000 letters to Martin County residents, officially kicking off its fund drive to raise money for the clinic. The group originally planned for the clinic when ABC was formed four years ago.

The non-profit group is hoping for a gift or a long-term lease of land on which to build the clinic, and funds raised during the drive will go toward building construction. Special projects of ABC such as the Animal Attic Thrift Shop, membership drives and plant sales will add to the fund.

According to Dorothy Butler, fund drive chairman, private veterinary costs for spaying and neutering are rising along with the number of animals which are to have the operations. She feels that a low cost clinic could be the answer to the problem.

She said the entire animal population of the county would benefit from the program because of the numbers of unwanted animals which would be done away with.

The next plant sale offered by the ABC will be held at Ocean East Mall on Saturday, Oct. 15.

Memberships can be obtained in ABC by sending $5 for active membership, $10 for supporting membership, and $25 and $50 for those wanting to share in the expense of spaying and neutering.

Memberships may be mailed to ABC, P.O. Box 199, Stuart, FL 33494.

William Escue receives degree

The meeting will be a workshop on orchid culture with member participation.

PL to shut off St. Lucie I

JENSEN BEACH–The St. Lucie 1 nuclear power plant on Hutchinson Island is scheduled to be shut down for refueling and maintenance during the last week in September.

"We have a scheduled maintenance shutdown at the end of this month," said Florida Power and Light Area Manager Van Caren. "It's a routine go over of the mechanical and steam systems."

Mr. Caren said the check is expected to last about two weeks with the plant to be "on the line" about the second week in October.

"We operate on an as needed basis," he said, "when they see the system not performing up to 100 per cent. They watch the devices, the monitors and steam flows, and when they notice a change, they pin point the problem. When the changes pile up, it's time to go in for routine maintenance."

Van Caren said that a routine shutdown is different from a sudden trip off. During regular maintenance the whole plant is turned down slowly as other FPL plants in the state pick up the load. After the maintenance is carried out, the plant is slowly turned back on to its full capacity.

The shutdown will not affect electrical service in the area, he said.

It ...took him at least four or five seconds to make his way around, over, and through the defense of Forest Hill but, since few of them knew he had the ball, it was easy for him to get into the clear. When he did, Williams was on his way to paydirt.

The next score for the localers came later in the season as Willie Garland took a Forest Hill punt, at his own 13, got outside, and headed down the west sideline for an 87 yard touchdown ...Black. That made it 15-0, and that's where it stayed as David Deakins, who had converted his first point-after kick, missed one.

Forest Hill got on the board in the same period as their passing attack began to reap some dividends. Finally, after six completed passes and two key penalties against the Tigers put the ball at the Tiger one-foot line, quarterback Paul Webber plunged in for the only Falcon tally of the evening. A two-point pass attempted moments later was intercepted by the Tigers' Sam Crane.

The 15-6 halftime was not indicative of the first half, in that the Tigers had totally dominated play while Forest Hill had moved the ball only once, with that coming on the touchdown drive at the end of the half. But, despite the dominance by the Tigers, the score was too close for comfort. So Martin County came out roaring in the second half.

The locals got another touchdown in the third quarter as Stan Beswick took in a 14-yard pass from quarterback Williams for the score. Deakins' kick was good, and while the Tigers had a 21-6 advantage, the defense had stiffened and Forest Hill was all but dead.

Charles Drayton, who rushed for 103 yards in only six carries, scored the final MCHS touchdown late in the fourth period on a 23-yard gallop around the left side. Drayton, who moments later rambled 40 yards to the Forest Hill 18, did not come out for the Tiger team until this year, his senior year, and Bowling certainly must be wishing he had been with him long ago.

The Tigers take on Twin Lakes at Long Field this Friday night at 8 p.m., and the Rams have been an up-and-down team so far this year. They began the Suncoast East season with a 20-13 upset over Lake Worth, although in light of Lake Worth's 0-5 record, it might not now be considered so upset. Then last week they tried to derail the Boca Raton express, but turnovers gave Boca a solid 30-0 shutout win.

Tickets for all Tiger home games can be bought by students at the high school for $1 during the week, and by adults at the gate before kickoff for $2.50.

Leif Erikson landing top pageantry

JENSEN BEACH–When the Vikings step ashore at the Jensen Beach Causeway on October 9, they will be wearing authentic costumes of Norsemen when the original landing in America took place in 1002 AD.

They will step from 100-year-old "seserings", wooden boats that haven't changed form in centuries, rowed by six Vikings. The boats are gifts of farmers in Norway in the annual Sons of Norway Leif Erikson Day celebration.

The pageant follows the story line of the Viking sagas, and is designed to spread the word of the Norwegian-American heritage to the children of Sons of Norway members and the general public alike.

Over 500 members of the eleven Florida lodges of S-N are coming for the two day celebration. The local Gulfstream Lodge is handling arrangements for the celebration, with George Lewis, chairman.

The opening day, Saturday, October 8, will be reserved for Sons of Norway activities, with the Holiday Inn, Ocean side, the hotel where the meetings will be held. Saturday evening, the annual smorgasbord will be held for members, with each family bringing a special dish of Norwegian food.

On Sunday, the first parade will feature floats from the lodges, and Scandinavian music. Local groups are invited to take part in the parade, entering a float. Phil and Denise Lee are parade chairpersons and can be reached at 287-4000 daily, or 283-6408 after 6 p.m.

Floats will line up at 10 a.m. Judging will be held before the parade for floats, and trophies will be awarded to winners. The parade will begin at noon and follow a route from the parade area in the Jensen Beach Bank parking lot, down Commercial Street to Indian River Drive, north to the Causeway, disbanding there.

The theme of the parade is "Viking Heritage".

S-N members will be wearing their "bunads" (colorful costumes from their home areas in Norway), and each lodge plans a booth of Norwegian souvenirs that will be sold to the public.

The pageant will begin at 2 p.m., rousvoice accompanied music by Anders Sakke, a noted Ft. Lauderdale musician.

Masters of ceremonies are Bud Bjorgan, Ft. Lauderdale, and Chuck Norgard, Port St. Lucie.

There will be a banned show, followed by Indian dances by the Port Pierce Scouting troop. Then the Viking pageant will proceed with the costumed Vikings landing from their boats.

A queen contest will be held, with each S-N lodge offering a candidate. Following the crowning of the queen, trophies will be awarded, and the annual competition in the Viking boats will be held.

The event will end at 3 p.m. with the traditional cleanup of the causeway by the Sons of Norway lodges.

Safe boating course begins September 27

JENSEN BEACH–Lecturers who ...ve been specially trained in making ...ssential principles easier to learn ...nd apply will address the annual free ...oating course of the St. Lucie River ...ompass Squadron which will open at 7 ...m. Tuesday, Sept. 27, at the Student ...ion Building of Martin County High ...chool. It is reported by Lincoln S. ...ent, commander.

The lecturers will be augmented by ...ther instructors who will coach ...ividual groups of six to eight ...tudents.

All study material in the course has been thoroughly updated, Grant said. ...ny interesting illustrations for the ...tudents overhead projectors have been ...rranged, he noted. The new audio ...quipment is the very latest, and ...perates perfectly with the excellent ...coustics. Moreover, in the new ...ourse, students will not need to ...emorize formulas for time, speed and ...istance, he revealed. These will be ...rovided in ready reference form, along ...ith simple instructions for their use ...overing a wide range of knowledge in ...he operation of all types of boats, the ...ourse will offer ten lectures to be ...onducted at 7:30 on subsequent Tuesday ...evenings.

The course will cover such subjects as ...tanding under normal and adverse ...onditions, seamanship and common emergencies, rules of the road, aids to navigation, compass and chart familiarization, running lights and equipment, boat trailering, inland boating, mariner's compass and piloting.

"The widespread need for adequate education in safe boating such as our course offers is pointed up by government figures which show that less than 15 per cent of boat owners have taken courses in handling watercraft," Grant said.

"Our aim is to reach and help as large a part of the untaught majority as possible. Boating safety demands not only seaworthy vessels and trouble-free waterways but, above all, knowledgable skippers."

The course is open to interested men, women and teenagers. Boat ownership is not required for enrollment.

Facilities available at the school, Grant observed, include ample parking and seating capacity.

No advance enrollment will be necessary. Registrants need only appear at the designated time and place.

The St. Lucie River Power Squadron is a unit of the United States Power Squadrons, world's largest boating fraternal organization, with approximately 80,000 members in more than 400 squadrons. The local group now numbers approximately 300.

Causeway tourney this weekend

JENSEN BEACH–The Jensen Beach Causeway this Saturday will be packed with kids, flying hooks and lines during the annual Boys and Girls Fishing Tournament.

The tournament will be held this Saturday, Sept. 24, from 8 a.m. until noon on the causeway.

Anglers 15 years and under can fish in the contest as long as they bring their own tackle and catch their fish from the causeway.

Sponsored by the Martin County Chapter of the Isaac Walton League, the tournament traditionally offers a large number of prizes to the young anglers. Winners may get a day fishing with a guide on a local charter boat, or a day's rental of a rental boat for fishing in the ocean. There will be seven spinning rods with reels and line, and a $30 gift certificate. Or, you may win a baseball glove, a fire preserver or a ski vest.

The first prize for the tournament will be for the most fish caught and the second prize will be for the largest snook caught. If no snook are caught, the second prize will go to the largest trout caught. The winner of the second prize will have his pick of one of the major prizes, will get one of the smaller prizes, and will have his catch mounted.

No matter who wins, all will have fun and many will win prizes.

Children under ten should be accompanied by an adult.

Seek adventure, race a raft with PSL Exchange Club

BY BOB FRYER

ORT ST. LUCIE–Looking for ...ercise and a good, stiff workout? ...k, look no more! The Port St. Lucie ...change Club is offering an opportu... for both adventure and exercise in ...form of their Great American Raft ...e.

The race will begin at noon on ...turday, Oct. 1, at the While City Park ...d will conclude at the Port St. Lucie ...ea with a dinner for participants ...d anyone else who may want to dine but forego the race. All proceeds will go to the United Way Fund.

Trophies will be given in the raft, inner tube and canoe categories for one-man crafts and for those holding two or more persons.

Though you can use paddles, all categories are restricted to arm power. "That means, if you have some sort of boat that you normally would paddle with your feet, you can't do it. You must use arm power only," said Dale Harmeson, publicity chairman for the race.

All rafts must not resemble any other type of boat. As for inner tubes, you can use one or more, but you cannot have any platforms on your tubes. In the canoe category, you can use a canoe or "anything that resembles a canoe or boat." Again, arm power-only.

The entry fee is $7.50 per person, and that includes a fish dinner at the end of the race. If you want to dine without racing, the price is $3 per person for the dinner.

You can enter by sending your name and the category you wish to compete in to either Trent Ebner, 3135 South U.S.1, Fort Pierce; or Hal Roberts at the First Federal Savings and Loan Association at the St. Lucie Plaza just north of Port St. Lucie. Make checks payable to the Port St. Lucie Exchange Club.

City will seek planning funds

PORT ST. LUCIE–In spite of complaints that the state has not set aside enough money to help small cities draft comprehensive development plans by 1979, Port St. Lucie will be seeking as much of the funds available as possible.

The state has passed a law requiring all local and regional governments to have a comprehensive development plan by July 1, 1979. On several occasions City Manager Elmer Cox has complained to state officials that, while the state requires the plan, it is not doing its share to help small cities get their plans written. A total of $750,000 has been set aside for small cities. Cox says that amount is woefully inadequate and says there is even a move on by some larger cities to tap those funds.

But in spite of complaining about the lack of state funds set aside for helping small cities, Cox told council members that the city ought to go ahead and apply for as much of the funds as it can. He figures some state assistance is better than none, and estimates the city may receive about $6,000 from the state.

The city recently hired a city planner, Mike Szunyog, and Cox has said Szunyog's primary assignment will be to work on the comprehensive plan for the city.

The council members passed a resolution to seek the state funds during a special meeting Tuesday, morning, Sept. 20.

At another special meeting, held Friday, Sept. 16, the council acted on another state grant. That one has already been approved, and the action Friday was for the city to accept the money. The grant is more than $28,000 from the state for a crime strike force. The funds will be used to hire a police officer to operate a special night viewing device. The officer will patrol the streets in an unmarked car to spy on criminals at night with his special device, similar to ones used in the Viet Nam War.

'Bavarian Night' set by Yachters

PORT ST. LUCIE–A "Bavarian Night" program will entertain Port St. Lucie Yacht Club members Tuesday, Sept. 27, at the club's regular meeting in the Port St. Lucie Community Center.

Vice Commodore E.K. Shinn said Joy Gould's Adult Dance Group will present a show featuring authentic German music, dances and costumes. The show will follow the 8 p.m. business meeting at which six couples will be inducted, bringing the Yacht Club membership to its cap of 250.

A capacity crowd attended Saturday's Boatacade to the Outrigger Restaurant. Committee Chairman Bill Thorpe said all tickets were sold several days before the deadline. Forecasts of rain cut the number going by boat, the majority using the highways. Boaters, however, enjoyed fair skies and easy waters for the lengthy trip.

Juniors sell PSL T-shirts

PORT ST. LUCIE–The Junior Woman's Club of Port St. Lucie is selling Port St. Lucie T-Shirts. They are made of white polyester, with navy trim, and P ort St. Lucie written across the front. Brian Tredway, Martin County Civil Defense Director, talked to the Town Council at its September meeting and brought councilmembers up to date on current regulations for handling a hurricane. Tredway emphasized that loose objects must not be left around to be hurled into adjacent homes. Complete instructions can be obtained at the office.

Shuffle courts are getting busy. Now, instead of one court playing in the morning, there's two or three, and at night, there're four at times. George Levangie still talks to distract, continuously, and Claude Burks has a new wrinkle, as a free service, he'll clean his opponent's glasses with a greasy smudge.

All are waiting for Barney Chase to get back to bring those tactics to an end.

CARD WINNERS

Contract, Sept. 13: Mildred Skinner, Jay Ebenger.

Pinochle, still no games played.

HOSPITAL

Al Colby, 14 SW 9th, is back home after tests at Martin Memorial Hospital. Avis says he's fine now.

Fritz Springman of 3 Vista Dr. is to have a final check at the Philadelphia hospital this week and, if all continues well, he and Bunny will take off in a day or so in their motorhome to return to OBP.

DO YOU REMEMBER WHEN....

The Town Council was mentioned this week, so the newer OBPers might be interested in the town's beginnings.

While talking to Freda Peterkin the other day, Harry Hoke's ol' battered hat was mentioned. He was very seldom seen without it, but Freda remembers one time he did have to dress up. It was for the inaugural ceremony when the park became an incorporated town.

This occured Nov. 17, 1965, when the residents assembled in the clubhouse, where Harry Hoke was sworn in as mayor by Judge Cortiss. Then the town council: Gene Hoke, John Cortiss, Leo Williams, John MacNab and Luther Weeks were sworn in, with Alice Hoke appointed town clerk and Dick Hoke town marshall.

Evans Crary, Sr., the attorney who handled the incorporation documents remarked that this was the county's fourth municipality and the only town-on-wheels in the USA. Therefore, a sign to that effect was mounted on the northern boundary.

It was deemed necessary to dedicate the sign, so everybody, including the 156 voters, paraded to that location. There ceremony interfered with traffic on Indian River Dr., so the newly incorporated townfolks asked their duly appointed town marshall, Dick Hoke, to handle the situation. He said he'd be glad to, but he hadn't been issued a badge.

This was an impressive ceremony and if any folks remember other interesting items about it, please let me know.

RAMBLING AROUND

Dick and Doris Reed of 9 LE Bit Lane are back from a three week visit with friends and relatives around Finlay, Ohio, their home grounds, where Doris did some genealogy investigating. They are travel trailer folks from way back, and found "mooching" not anywhere near as enjoyable. Some rain and fog on Blue Ridge, and they're glad to be back here.

Johnie Sumner was around last week and Doris Reed found that he had a good summer visiting family and, although he intends to make OBP his home, he'll spend the next period at Holiday Park in West Palm, making his Airstream a home for his grandson while he attends a Baptist University.

Ruth Phelps of 16 Pepper is back from six weeks in North Adams, Mass., visiting son and daughter. No blueberries, but she had fun.

Cliff and Gladys Ogle, 4 Bay Dr., are back from a three month visit in Idaville, Ohio, area, where he was a rural mail carrier 35 years ago. While there, Cliff was given a party on his 68th birthday as all friends from miles around came to wish him many more. Says it was hot in July, cool in September.

Bill and Ethel McDowell of 9 Cypress are back from three months up Detroit way. Saw a grandson graduate in Saginaw, watched 15-year-old granddaughter swim...she has the record for the breast stroke of her class (15-18 year olds) for Michigan and Junior Olympics. Bill had lumbar and sciatica in his 68th birthday party. Says it was terribly hot in July, but blankets needed now at night. Both glad to be back.

Art and Doris Lewis, 3 Arborvitae, are back from a two-week jaunt to a daughter's in Elmira, N.Y., for an 80th birthday party with 65 attending to enjoy a three foot long cake. They enjoyed seeing a granddaughter who is in her third year at Cornell, and a grandson, who is attending Alfred. Spent some time at Kluka Lake, where 30 friends gave them a "hello" party. Of course, darn glad to be back.

Rod and Jan Klear of 3 Anaca are back from fifties mecca in Daytona and mighty thankful to be back all in one piece, for they got the scare of their life. Sailing peacefully down the road near Smyrna, following a yellow VW at legal distance and speed, the VW appeared to jump onto the median strip and then back on highway again. Then they saw a big white car charging right at them, coming half past the wrong way. Rod says that before he could even think about it, he was onto the median as the wrong-way car whizzed by. Other than that, they had a good summer and are happy to be back.

Herman and Alice Albright, 18 E. 8th, are back from 3½ months around their hometown of Sucyrus, Ohio, where they attended a family reunion of 68 relatives. July was too hot but, otherwise, nice weather.

Bill and Helen Sanden of 6 Cocos are here for a visit, but they will have to return to Mount Clemens, Michigan, until about the first week of January. They had a garden, but the bunnies ate everything but the tomatoes. Before they came south, they attended 53rd family reunion with 94 at it. Found it hot here, but just love it in the winter.

Cyril and Mable Stevens of 18 Pepper have had a busy summer. May in California visiting oldest son in Santa Ana, where they got a chance to visit Dr. Stadler's Glass Church in Garden Grove and see the Bina Angels at El Toro Marine Airbase. Then to her they visited Nettie Lake in northwest Ohio and a Southern Baptist convention of 16,000 in the Rea Kertis Convention Center, Kansas City. They had a good summer.

LETTERS FROM OBPers

Ray Stiles writes to the Snyders: "Enjoying my visit here in Riversdale, Georgia, playing cards with grandchildren and taking rides around. Hope to be back to OBP around Oct. third."

De Mas Nunn writes the Nixons: "Now planning to return to OBP about the first of October, as its 68 to 91 degrees here in the morning (Gaylord, Mich.). Say 'hello' to everybody."

Myrtle Clayden writes to Freda Peterking from way up north, saying that they are having fall weather and the trees are golden red. Plan to return to Florida last of October.

Following the meeting, Jim Kearney, community service chairman, presented to participants in the Bahamarama, Mike Krain of Ask Mr. Travel, who provided basic information on the junket. A total of 53 have signed for the cruise. The bus for AARP members will leave at 12 noon from the Marina on Oct. 10, the Sunward II will sail that afternoon from Miami and return at about 8 a.m. Friday, Oct. 14.

Mike said that people going on the cruise must come into Ask Mr. Travel to pick up their tickets. At that time, they will be given a packet of information, which should answer most of their questions. Mike said the tickets probably will be ready about two weeks prior to sailing, which should make it the latter part of this month.

A touch of formality prevails at the captin's dinner, which is held the first night at sea (in contrast to the usual practice of having it on the last night aflaot). That is that ladies wear their best bib and tucker, while men are urged in don jackets and ties. This event no doubt will mark the only time that such apparel is trotted out. The food on the Sunward II is fabulous and plenteous, according to those who have enjoyed it. It sounds like a fun time for all.

...like the swallows to Capistrano

One breath of cold wind up north and our friends come flocking down like the swallows to Capistrano.

Eileen and David McBriar were joined by Agnes and Arthur Sorrancy at a cabin at Maggie, N.C., during July and August, and Eileen told me it was has rarely to have breakfast on the porch while enjoying the view of the Blue Ridge Mountains, that the walking was excellent from an aesthetic point of view and kept them in good trim for the winter months here.

Alice and Harry Eastlack drove in the same night as the McBriars and myself, just ahead of a wage war against the weeds that took advantage of their vacation in New Jersey to grow apace.

Ole Twelt is such a quiet soul, no one but his brother Emil knew he celebrated his 88th birthday Sept. 18. Had I known, I would at least have gifted him with a candle! Happy unbirthday, Ole.

Emil Twelt drew my attention to the fact that the other night, while the weather scanner on TV indicated no precipitation within 60 miles of West Palm Beach, a downpour was beating a urious on our metal roofs. I guess the rain clouds sneaked in under the radar.

Walter and Alice Reasler have been keeping me posted as to their whereabouts this summer, crisscrossing these United States visiting friends in many states, before settling in the Poconos for a few weeks with their daughter and her family, and their son Ken.

Alice's mother, Grace Stetser, lives in Wildwood, New Jersey, during the summer, so they went there for a short stay, also. After a few more stops we're looking for them, their motor home and boat, to arrive the end of this month.

When I returned on Sept. 7, I assumed Martha and Jim Duffy were still in New England, but several days later I learned that Martha had become ill, had had to be flown back, and is now in St. Mary's Hospital in West Palm Beach. Verna Moran told me she is doing quite well, but she had a rought time of it.

Alice Twit and I were seat-mates on the plane between here and Chicago where her brother-in-law met her and took her home for a visit with her sister, Ruth Korber, and her family. Later they drove Alice up to Clinton, Wisc., so she could spend the summer with her mother, Mrs. Carter and her sister, Helen Hamilton, and the whole family got together to celebrate Mrs. Carter's 92nd birthday.

During Alice's absence, Emil has been lavishing t.l.c. on her talented parakeet, Pepper.

My son-in-law SFC James A. Harris II, who is married to my daughter Jill, is now stationed in Salem, Oregon, where he is senior advisor to the Oregon National Guard, and they found it such a delightful place toglive they insisted I come see for myself and to get acquainted with that beautiful state. I found them, my grandchildren Shannon and Mark, the cats Mitten and Button, settled in their new home and enjoying the change of pace from the eastern seaboard.

It was blessedly cool, and that's why they say, "Summer came on Tuesday last year", but this year there were a few days when the temperature hit unusual highs. We didn't know about it until we rejurned from a long weekend of camping at Detroit Lake which nestles in the pine forests and where the fishing and boating are great.

We drove to the coast for a picnic and to look for agates, but we only found a gale blowing so hard it was almost impossible to walk along the shore, so we had out lunch in one of the shelters put together with logs tossed up on the beach.

The weather was kinder to us when we went to the Arts and Crafts Show at Bush Gardens, and walked through the famous rose garden. The State Fair counted us among its visitors and we were particularly interested in the fat lamb exhibit because Jill, when we lived in Farmington, New Mexico, raised them for her 4-H project and won several ribbons at the County Fair.

Morning and evening we see Darlene Patnaude and Hazel Proctor hot-footing it around and around the circle to promote their physical well-being, and sometimes Reta Crume dashes out to join them.

Celia and her young man, George Raynor, paid us an unexpected, but very welcome visit last week, and told me their month-long trip by plane was a huge success. A lovely letter from Elaine Gleason says she was very busy cooking and getting ready for, as she said, a gathering of the clan for the celebration of George's father's 90th birthday. She enclosed a copy of an article that was in their local paper in Valparaiso. It was as follows:

"The Valparaiso home of Dr. George and Elaine Gleason was bursting with joy and family who gathered to celebrate the 90th birthday of his father, Mr. A.J. Gleason. Among the guests were Mr. Ralph Gleason, brother, Deer Lodge, Montana; Mrs. Margaret O'Brien, sister, Seattle, Wash.; Mrs. Donald (Jean) Anderson, Monore, Wash., and her daughter, Mrs. John (Mary Jo) Jordon, Centrella, Wash.; Mr. and Mrs. Leslie (Helen) Neimi, St. Helena, Calif.; Mrs. Clyde (Barbara) Chappell, son Steve and daugther Buff, all of Stanwood, Wash.; and son William of Minneapolis, Minnesota.

"Mr. Gleason is a 1911 graduate of Houghton School of Mines and a retiree of Pickands Mather and Co., of Hibbing, Minnesota, in 1963.

ONSIDER the county's offer to take over Sportsmans
rk, a what Planning and Zoning Board member Vaughn

Lewis suggested Monday. He said if the county owned the park, the state may contribute up to 50 per cent of the funds needed for it.

Lewis: Council should reconsider

BY BOB FRYER

PORT ST. LUCIE--Although city council members have unanimously refused to accept an offer for the county to take over Sportsmans Park and have made the county's refusal to help fund the park a double taxation issue, Planning and Zoning Board member Vaughn Lewis says the council ought to reconsider the county's offer.

Lewis' comments came when the board was discussing the city's proposed five year capital outlay plan Monday. The plan shows a projected expenditure of $83,870 for the city-owned park over the next five years.

"I can't see how you can justify that amount of money for Sportsman Park when the state will provide 50 per cent of the funds if recreation facilities are part of the county system. I'd recommend highly that the council take another look at having the park part of the county system," he said.

The city council members had asked the county to ship in $40,000 this coming year for capital improvements to the park. County commissioners responded first with an offer to take the park over and to include it in its park system. The county took over five parks in Fort Pierce this year. But council members voted unanimously not to deed the park to the county.

Then the county commissioners turned down the $40,000 request, saying they could not appropriate any money for the park.

Following the county rejection of the funding request, city council members have made the park, as well as the city's contract with the county Sheriff's Department for extra police protection, as issues of double taxation. The council members maintain that the city should not have to pay for city services, then pay taxes to the county for the same services, or for services it does not receive. The council has called for an audit of county spending to see if city taxpayers are getting their fair share of service for the amount of tax money they pay.

she said, now that she is ready to ment officials say the ordinance prohibits it unless she builds a new carport. "I don't put my car in my carport anyway," she said.

Planning and Zoning Board Chairman H.R. Neighbours told Mrs. Busko that the matter was not in the jurisdiction of the board, but was an administrative matter. He suggested she talk with City Manager Elmer Cox or Building Department Head Ralph LaChance. Then he added that if she wanted to, she could apply for a zoning variance, pay a $150 fee, and have a public hearing on the matter.

"You don't have to stand behind what the people in the (Building Department) office say?" she asked.

"You've been misled," Neighbours said.

"Lied to is more like it. Three times is not misled," she replied.

Mrs. Busko said that she did not remember who she spoke to in the Building Department. But after the meeting, she and LaChance amicably discussed the ordinance, which took effect on Dec. 14, 1976. LaChance agreed with her that the ordinance "is not a good one." He said he would like to see the ordinance changed. However, no final solution to the problem was worked out.

City officials and planner frown on proposed center

BY BOB FRYER

PORT ST. LUCIE--The future dimmed this week for a proposed shopping center, in the area of the present City Hall, which was to have a major supermarket, a bank, a restaurant, and numerous offices and shops.

Objections to the shopping center plans were voiced this week by city Planning and Zoning Board members, city council members and the newly hired city planner. One local resident says that when the matter of rezoning the land for the center comes before the city council next Tuesday, Sept. 27, the council chambers will be packed with persons opposed to the center.

The Planning and Zoning Board first considered the matter last month, at an Aug. 16 meeting. At that time, the board members decided that the plans for the center would best fit in a PSC (Planned Shopping Center) category. They voted to recommend a change in zoning from B-1 (a business category that would not allow a major shopping center) to PSC.

During that meeting, Peter Smith, president of Sandpiper Bay, Inc. (a firm not connected with Sandpiper Bay Resort), showed plans for development of the center on a 7.2 acre tract along Morningside Boulevard. The tract includes the small shopping complex that houses the present City Hall, a convenience store and several shops. It also includes lands to the east of the existing complex and stretches west of the City Hall to Westmoreland Boulevard.

On the western part of the land Smith hopes to construct a two-story, 11,000 square foot building near Westmoreland Blvd. that would house a branch of a bank in the first floor and office spaces in the second floor. In front of the City Hall would be a 3,600 square foot restaurant. A savings and loan office, a convenience store and 10 retail stores would be housed in the center, with the facade of the existing buildings changed to match new structures. To the east of the existing complex would be a major supermarket in a 22,720 square foot building.

A total of 318 parking spaces would be provided.

During a meeting of the Planning and Zoning Board Monday, Sept. 19, members again considered the center. "When we voted last time, all the board did was to look at what Mr. Smith was requesting and determine what zoning category his plans would fit in. This time, the preliminary site plans are what we're considering," said board chairman H.R. Neighbours.

But discussion of the PSC zoning cropped up and, when the board finally took action Monday, it was in the form of a motion to again recommend to the city council that the land be rezoned PSC, but with the condition that the city council also be informed that the board opposed the preliminary site plans. A further part of the motion was to go on record in favor of a report the new City Planner, Mike Szunyog, issued on the site plans.

Szunyog's report recommends against the preliminary site plans on grounds that the size of the center is too large for that specific area, but also says there is a need for shopping facilities in the southern part of the city. He recommends the plans be scaled down to eliminate or reduce the size of the supermarket and to possibly eliminate some of the proposed shops. The report says Morningside and Westmoreland are not suited for the volume of traffic the center would generate.

"What the developer is proposing is more than I think the people can stand in this area and more than I think the people will accept," Neighbours said.

George Hudock, San Sovina Terrace, objected to the plans and complained that when he bought his lot a General Development Corporation salesman told him, the tract now proposed for the center "would never be used for commercial purposes." However, the tract has long been zoned B-1, Neighbours said.

Smith, who said last month that he has already lined up a number of tennants for the stores, defended the preliminary site plan. He said the Urban Land Institute in Washington, D.C., recommends there should be a four to one ratio between the total square footage of a tract and the square footage of buildings.

"The ratio for our plans is approximately five to one, so we are being very conservative," he said. He added that he felt the existing roads could handle the volume of traffic the center would generate.

"We're not even close to an understanding with the developer..." Neighbours said at one point in the meeting, later noting that if the tract remained zoned B-1, "it would allow about half of what he (Smith) is proposing now."

On Tuesday, when City Manager Elmer Cox reported the board's actions to the city council, several of the council members expressed opposition to the proposed size of the center. Mayor Bill McChesney said he felt "something this size does not belong in a residential area."

Vice Mayor Mike Reeb said he did not know of anyone who is in favor of the center, and councilwoman Lolita Kernohan said she had been getting calls from residents against the center.

Councilman Merle Anderson added that he is "in sympathy with the feelings of neighbors" who opposed the center.

Port St. Lucie Civic League President Seymour Fleming said he and many other area residents are against the center and he pledged to pack the council chambers next Tuesday when the council formally considers the recommendation to rezone the land as PSC.

Council members decided to invite Neighbours and other Planning and Zoning Board members to the meeting next Tuesday so they can express their views.

H.R. NEIGHBOURS, chairman of the city Planning and Zoning Board, said the Southport Shopping Center, proposed to be built at the site of the present City Hall, "is more than I think we can stand in this area and more than I think the townspeople will accept."

Low-flush commodes are favored by city council

PORT ST. LUCIE--City council members seemed to be in favor of a proposed ordinance that would require low-flush commodes to be installed in all new homes built within the city and in all homes when old commodes are to be replaced.

A low-flush commode works just as well as a regular commode, according to Building Department head Ralph LaChance, but uses only three and a half gallons of water per flush. The regular types, he says, use from five to six gallons per flush. He recommended the ordinance as a measure to conserve water.

Council members discussed the ordinance at a workshop meeting Tuesday and are expected to vote on the ordinance in the near future.

Holiday Out cordially invited Venture Harbourites to the Holiday Out rec hall Thursday, Sept. 22, at 7:30 p.m. to hear Barbara Asch in concert, playing selections from Bach, Hayden, Ravel and an original composition based on a lithograph by a famous Spanish artist, Carman Nagoss.

Barbara is visiting her family, the Willard Auchs, and the Fred Meekers. She has studied extensively in the states and in Italy. She will be returning to Saint Cecelia in Rome to complete another degree at the conservatory later this month.

Punch, coffee and cookies will be served by her family after the concert to give you an opportunity to visit with Barbara.

Ruth and John Balash have been having quite a time since Labor Day. John had an attack and Ruth took him to the hospital where he stayed for ten days. Tests showed he did not have a heart attack, but did show up other problems. He is better and is home, but the worry and strain has aggravated Ruth's chronic arthritis condition and she is not up to par. Hope they both recover completely very soon.

A lovely letter from Elaine Gleason says she was very busy cooking and getting ready for, as she said, a gathering of the clan for the celebration of George's father's 90th birthday. She enclosed a copy of an article that was in the clan's local paper in Valparaiso. It was as follows:

"The Valparaiso home of Dr. George and Elaine Gleason was bursting with joy and family when gathered to celebrate the 90th birthday of his father, Mr. A.J. Gleason. Among the guests were Mr. Ralph Gleason, brother, Deer Lodge, Montana; Mrs Margaret O'Brien, sister, Seattle, Wash.; Mrs. Donald (Jean) Anderson, Monore, Wash., and her daughter, Mrs. John (Mary Jo) Jordon, Centrella, Wash.; Mr. and Mrs. Leslie (Helen) Nelmi, St. Helena, Calif.; Mrs Clyde (Barbara) Chappell, son steve and daughter Suzi, all of Stanwood, Wash.; and son William of Minneapolis, Minnesota.

"Mr. Gleason is a 1911 graduate of Houghton School of Mines and a retiree of Pickands Mather and Co., of Hibbing, Minnesota, in 1953.

"Among greetings received by Mr. Gleason were ones from President and Mrs. Jimmy Carter, Senator and Mrs. Hubert Humphrey, Mr. Elton Hoyt III, president of the Pickands Mather Co., Cleveland, Ohio, and from the president of the alumni of Michigan Tech. University.

"A Saturday afternoon open house was held on Mr. Gleason could receive congratulations from area family members, grandchildren Mr. and Mrs. Dennis (Gayle) Brickley, Mr. and Mrs. Robert (Jane) Bly, Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Gleason; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gleason; Miss Victoria Gleason; and Kevin Gleason; and seven of his 13 great grandchildren, and friends."

New dock in sight at House of Refuge

BY ROBBIE BEDELL

JENSEN BEACH–The decrepit, 20-year-old pier jutting into the Indian River off the House of Refuge is finally being replaced.

This week, workers of the Ron Skelton Dockbuilding Company pulled a barge up to the dock and began to remove the old railings and pilings so that a new structure can be built.

In the final years of the old dock's history, the wooden pilings were so eaten away by marine worms that they were breaking and portions of the dock began to fall into the river.

Once a favorite fishing and spectator site for tourists and natives, the Martin County Historical Society closed the dock because of its dangerous condition.

During the House of Refuge restoration two years ago, an outhouse was added to the dock in the original design of more than 100 years ago. When the pilings beneath the dock gave way, the outhouse fell into the river. The structure is expected soon to be removed from its river berth.

Instead of perching the outhouse at the end of the new pier, the Martin County Commission has decided to add a wooden gazebo on the dock, similar to the wooden buildings located at Stuart Beach.

The dock will be open to the public for fishing or picnics.

The removal of the old pier and the construction of the new one are expected to take about one month.

County gets arch money

JENSEN BEACH–The historic arch which at one time crossed SR 707 in Jensen Beach is about to be rebuilt.

After nearly a year of delays, an insurance company has awarded the Martin County Commission slightly more than $5,000 to repair the damage which was caused by an automobile accident last November.

The accident resulted in the death of Neal H. Walker of Jensen Beach.

The historic columns were erected in 1924 and paid for jointly by St. Lucie County and the City of Jensen Beach.

The area was at that time part of St. Lucie County and Jensen was an unincorporated town.

The original sign across the road was made of cypress with bronze trim and lettering, but the bronze was stolen during the early years of World War II.

The old sign read "Welcome to Jensen Beach" on the entrance side and "Gateway to the Gulf" on the exit side.

The sign has been replaced many times over the years by local businessmen and the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce.

Memorial, to Martin County Attorney Jack Carmody, the sign, made of interlocking tile, will be rebuilt to its original specifications.

"Now that we have the money, we can get the work to begin very soon," Carmody said.

World War I Vets auxiliary meet Oct. 7

JENSEN BEACH–Barracks 854, Veterans of World War I, and the auxiliary will hold their regular meetings at 1:30 p.m. Friday, October 7, at the Jensen Beach Community Church on Skyline Drive.

All veterans of World War I and their wives are invited to attend. Refreshments will be served following the meetings.

Clarrese Wittnebert is president of the auxiliary and Henry Miller is commander of the Barracks.

HAPPY FATHER–"That's my boy," father Art Noble, left, was heard to say as he led his son to the weighing station. Son David, right, had just caught a 17-ounce whiting off the pier during the Izaac Walton League's Annual Boys and Girls Fishing Tournament.

Buildings target for attempted robberies

JENSEN BEACH–The Jensen Beach Post Office and Jensen Flooring were the targets of attempted break-ins sometime early Sunday morning.

Jensen Beach Postmaster Harold Salzler informed The Mirror that the suspects entered the post office through the open front doors and attempted to pry the inner doors of the building open with a heavy object. Damage to the aluminum and glass doors was so extensive that they had to be replaced.

In addition to the doors, the intruders smashed the glass windows of a number of small bronze post boxes and pried open several of the larger boxes at the end of the hallway.

"Those who have the larger boxes had removed their mail by the time they get here," Salzler said. "As far as we can tell, there is nothing missing."

Salzler added that since the incident is a federal offense, the U.S. Postal Inspector in West Palm Beach has been notified.

A post office employee was working inside the building until about 11:30 p.m., Saturday, and he reported the incident had not yet occurred. Salzler assumes that the damage must have occurred sometime after that time.

Apparently, the same suspects also attempted to break into Jensen Flooring on Commercial Street on the same morning.

According to store owner Charlie Greome, a metal door behind the store was severely damaged by a large instrument. The lock on the door was totally removed and there were pry-marks around the perimeter of the door. No entry was made at Jensen Flooring.

Hunt safety class offered

JENSEN BEACH–Many Florida sportsmen, planning hunts in other states this fall, may be out of luck unless they successfully complete an approved Hunter and Firearms Safety training course prior to departing the Sunshine State.

According to Lt. Jim Truitt, local Hunter and Firearms Safety training instructor, 21 states and Canadian provinces now require certification of training before a non-resident can obtain a hunting license.

Lt. Truitt said that a course which meets or exceeds the requirements of all these states and provinces will be offered in Jensen Beach on Sept. 28 and Oct. 6. The course will be held in the Harry Hoke Community Room, First Federal Savings & Loan, Jensen Beach. Classes will run from 6:30 to 10 p.m.

Kids swarm Jensen Causeway

BY ROBBIE BEDELL

JENSEN BEACH–The Annual Izaac Walton League Boys and Girls fishing tournament ended last Saturday amid a causeway filled with young anglers and their parents trying for the best array of prizes in the tourney's history.

A brief rain shower drenched the Jensen Causeway in the morning, but it broke up, giving beautiful weather for the remainder of the day.

About 130 young people showed up with a variety of types of tackle and bait, and, although no record catches were made this year, all had fun.

The species of fish most caught was the lowly dog fish. Because they are not considered a gamefish, they were not counted for prizes, but there were a lot of them caught.

"I've caught so many of those dumb dogfish," young Kevin Kinch was heard to say.

The angler who won the top prize for catching the most fish was Robert Snyder. He won an ocean fishing trip for catching a croaker, a mangrove snapper and five sheephead.

Steve Sherman won second prize, a rod and reel combination, for catching the largest trout. He also caught a second trout, a snapper, a jack and a lizard fish.

Richard Rice made off with third prize, also a rod and reel, for catching an 18-ounce mangrove snapper.

Kent Carter caught the most unusual fish, a small barracuda, and won an ocean fishing trip for doing so.

Chad Baker won fifth prize, a rod and reel, for catching a jack and a mangrove snapper.

Chris Fitzpatrick won sixth place with a 13-ounce ladyfish.

Three-year-old Robert Mostler was named the youngest fisherman and won a rod and reel for catching a stingray.

Mike Syryn won the eighth place rod and reel with a sheephead, and Charles Pine won a trip fishing in the Indian River for catching the second largest jack. The fish weighed 2 lbs.-11 oz.

Because there were so many prizes left over after the awards ceremony, members of the Izaac Walton League held a drawing to distribute the remainder of the awards.

Mike Hoyt won a rod and reel, Robert Snyder won a $20 gift certificate, Kirk Baker won a life jacket, and Kevin Kinch won a baseball and glove.

FISHY ANGLERS–Laura Richardson, right, and Althea Fishing Tournament this weekend, had a good time even though they didn't win any of the major prizes.

All Saints' to hear Bishop

BY ROBBIE BEDELL

JENSEN BEACH–The Reverend William C.R. Sheridan, the Bishop of Northern Indiana, will celebrate the Eucharist at All Saints' Episcopal Church on Sunday, Oct. 2.

Bishop Sheridan will celebrate Mass at 7:30 a.m. and preach at the 9:15 and 11 a.m. services.

Father Frank Alvarez, pastor of All Saints', will host Bishop Sheridan at the rectory on Sunday and arrangements have been made to go on a fishing trip.

Bishop Sheridan has spent 34 years in the priesthood and has served in nearly every diocesan position.

He is the author of "For High School Boys Only!" and "Journey to Priesthood." The books deal with vocation to Holy Orders. Bishop Sheridan has also written "Between Catholics", a book about Episcopalians for Roman Catholics.

ANOTHER DOG FISH–David Grable, of Stuart, walks off the causeway fishing pier during the Boys and Girls Fishing Tournament this weekend toting a dog fish. Many of the fish were caught during the tourney, but they were not counted toward prizes because they are not considered gamefish.

SOLAR WATER HEATING

In a world of rapidly vanishing supplies of fossil fuels, use of gas or electricity for low temperature applications such as water heating is not prudent. Solar energy can do the job as it has in Florida for over 40 years. Solar energy will easily heat water to over 175° and can supply most of our needs right now. The energy is infinite and the technology is up to date. In the average family, SDI recommends one 4' x 10' copper solar panel with an 82 gallon tank, and one 2' x 10' panel with a 40 gallon tank for two people. Since approximately 30% of an annual utility bill is for heating hot water (every day, 365 days per year), a solar water heater makes sense -- with an occasional boost from the back up electric or gas unit, approximately 25% of the annual bill can be saved. This provides an excellent "tax free" return on an investment and is particularly attractive in new construction where the SDI system can be included in all types of home mortgages, including FHA.

Castro hasn't changed tune...

Congressman Skip Bafalis

...VGTON—Almost 17 years ago, ...Kennedy decided the ...ctivi... ...of communist Cuba could ...longer go unpunished, so he severed ...omatic relations with Castro's ...

...was a drastic step. But it amply ...Washington's dismay at ...and all ...deemed attempts to export ...ism throughout Latin America ...ed of a gun.

...cutting of diplomatic ties came ...two years to the day after ...'s takeover of Cuba. But everyday ...over two years, it had become ...and more obvious that Fidel was ...hoarded George Washington and ...n U.S. newspaper and television ...dents had tried to make him ...look.

...he was a dedicated, determined ...ist, obeying every order from ...

...nationalized U.S.-owned busi... with no compensation at all to ...holders in America. He installed ...n every possible position of ...ership in the island government.

Even more condemning were the guerilla bands operating in dozens of Central American nations, each taking orders from Havana and each determined to bring communism out of bloodshed and terror.

So, the cutting of diplomatic ties appeared called for.

They remained cut until September 1 when Cuba opened what is euphemistically called an "interests section" in Washington and we did the same in Havana.

Still, that's mere recognition than the Castro regime deserves.

The arguments in favor of severing ties with Communist Cuba are as potent now as they were in 1962.

Castro-directed terrorists are still at work throughout the Western Hemisphere — even in the United States.

The August 3rd bombings in New York City were the work of a Castro-backed terrorist organization, the F.A.L.N. So were some 80 bombings in some four U.S. cities and Puerto Rico over the past three years — bombings which have claimed at least five persons.

That doesn't sound like Castro has changed his tune. And, if he hasn't — if he is still dedicated to destroying our country and our way of live — why should we have any kind of diplomatic ties?

Granted we have diplomatic ties with the Soviet Union and with Red China, two nations which are diametrically opposed to us and our way of life. But the Soviet Union and China are major powers, nations too big to be ignored.

Cuba isn't. It's a thorn in our side, but not a major threat.

And, therefore, there is no reason to rush into diplomatic ties with Castro.

But, if Castro's anti-American activities weren't reason enough to sever ties with the island regime, its economic problems should be. Cuba is in financial trouble. It is kept afloat only by massive assistance from the Soviet Union.

And I can see no reason for the United States to rush into diplomatic and trade relations with Cuba and ease the burden on the Russians.

A few of our country's more liberal senators may have found a friend in Fidel Castro, but that doesn't mean Castro has changed his ways.

He is still a dedicated communist, determined to undermine our way of life. He is still the man who stamped out freedom in Cuba.

And, therefore, he is a man whose regime doesn't deserve diplomatic recognition of any sort.

...PY STOREKEEPERS—Chris Miller, left, and Walter ...of Hibiscus TV on Commercial Street, are excited that their shipment of Panasonic and Admiral television sets has arrived. In addition to servicing all makes and models of TVs, they will now offer their new sales service.

...ibiscus TV gets into sales

BY ROBBIE BEDELL

...NSEN BEACH—Chris Miller and ...er Lars, over at Hibiscus TV on ...mercial Street, ... are like kids ...ng up presents on Christmas ...

...Lately the two have been running a ...ion service—center, but as of ...ay they are offering the public a ...the latest model Panasonic and ...ad television sets.

...ems to say, the grand opening of ...ales department is this week, and ...y afternoon they were busily ...ing the new sets and arranging ...shelves for shoppers to see.

..."We are primarily interested in ...ing a portable TV center," Miller said. "We will sell both Admiral and Panasonic sets and we will service all makes and models of sets."

Lars, who previously ran a service shop in Baltimore, is the service manager, while Miller handles sales.

Besides being in business together, the two young men are also related. They each married one of the Stoddard sisters of Jensen Beach.

"We're tickled to death," Miller said, as he opened one of the brown cardboard boxes and pulled out a brand new TV.

"It's been a uphill battle getting where we are," he said. "We're going to try to deal in good prices and good service."

The showroom at Hibiscus TV is glowing with the aura of color TVs, and there is one on the shelf which can be plugged to an AC or DC outlet, so it can be used in a car or on a boat.

"We're going to try and do as much portable business as we can," Miller said.

Keegan recalls years of travel with presidents

STORIES OF PRESIDENTS—Joseph Keegan, left, chats with Wade Boehm about the trips Keegan made with several Presidents. Keegan has many fond memories of service to the presidents. Boehm, Keegan's neighbor, had hoped to have a few memories of President Jimmy Carter. Boehm was stationed on the Presidential Yacht "Sequoia" until Carter recently ordered the yacht sold. Carter never took a cruise on the yacht before giving the orders to sell it.

BY BOB FRYER

PORT ST. LUCIE—When President Herbert Hoover cruised down the Intracoastal Waterway for a Christmas fishing trip to West Palm Beach in 1931, Joseph Keegan was with him.

Keegan, who lives at 121 Aldea Street in Port St. Lucie, not only travelled with Hoover, but also with Presidents Woodrow Wilson, Warren G. Harding, Calvin Coolidge and Franklin Delano Roosevelt.

Throughout those administrations, Keegan was the behind the scenes man who made sure the presidential trips went smoothly. For instance, when Hoover planned his fishing trip to West Palm Beach, Keegan took a trip down the waterway from Savannah, Ga., to West Palm Beach a week earlier to make sure the waterway would be navigable for the 165-foot long presidential yacht "Sequoia."

"It was tricky in places, especially in the narrow winding section from Stuart to West Palm Beach. Sometimes they didn't have to make half a turn, stop, back up, then complete the turn," Keegan recalled, adding that the waters of the Mosquito Lagoon were also "a little tricky because they hadn't dredged it out and there were no navigable channels."

In addition to making the advance trip, Keegan also came along for President Hoover's cruise.

"I was in charge of the flotilla carrying the President's yacht and I was with the newspaper people. I'd find out where the President wanted to stop and where he wanted to fish and then make arrangements for these things. I'd also help the newspaper people get their stories out," Keegan said, adding that he worked under Col. John Sparling, who was in charge of the President's transportation.

Keegan went back around 1930 that I got my security clearance by the Secret Service, Keegan said. After that, he made his first trip with President Wilson aboard the Rhodes aboard the U.S.S. Connecticut. When asked what sort of man Wilson was, Keegan said, "He was a professor and president of Princeton University before he was President, and you could see the professor in him. I thought he was a pretty nice guy," Keegan said, quickly adding that he thought "all the presidents were pretty nice guys."

In 1923, Keegan was a member of a cruise President Harding made to Alaska. "I never met him personally. We were on a large ship. But I saw him later, at the hospital in San Francisco," he said. Harding died in San Francisco shortly after his trip to Alaska.

Under the Coolidge administration Keegan made several trips. He recalled one trip with Coolidge to St. Mary's River at the Florida-Georgia border.

"He came down by train to Savannah, just as Hoover did in 1932, four years later. Then he got on the yacht for the trip to the St. Mary's River," Keegan said, adding that Coolidge stopped at the Howard E. Coffin estate in Camden County, Ga., to do some wild turkey shooting. "He did shoot a turkey, too, as I recall," Keegan said.

The goal of the trip was for Coolidge to see an old Spanish monastery at St. Mary's, but along the way Coolidge also went fishing.

During the 1932 trip with Hoover, Keegan remembers that "all the bridges along the way were lined with people."

Keegan said the yacht stopped at St. Catherine's Island and St. Simon's Island in Georgia, and someone brought them a huge load of oysters in Fernandina.

"The old bridge in Fort Pierce was a wooden one then, and I remember we got a load of oranges from someone when we came through Fort Pierce. I don't remember who it was that supplied the oranges, but I remember they were most delicious," he said.

"At Singer Island, the steelwork was up for Singer's Folly, a building Singer started, then abandoned in the 1928 bust. I remember there, and in the Riviera Beach area, there were bridges in the water that were not connected to land," Keegan noted.

Though it was about sunset, a large flotilla of boats was out to meet the "Sequoia" when it arrived in West Palm Beach. Keegan said Hoover used a friend's boat to go sailfishing and says Hoover caught some "though I can't remember how many now."

Following the fishing trip, Hoover returned to Washington by train. Keegan made several other trips with Hoover, but says he remembers one he didn't make.

"He was going to come to Fort Myers once, so I went down there to make arrangements. But at the last minute plans were changed and he went to Galveston, Texas, instead," Keegan said.

"Hoover was a nice gentleman and he liked to fish. A lot of people thought he started the Depression because of the Crash of '29, but I think they found out later that many of Roosevelt's policies to get us out of the Depression were programs Hoover started," he said.

Keegan was asked what his best memory of travelling with the presidents was, and answered, "There were no bad memories. I always had good jobs and lots of recognition. It was an honor to serve with them."

When asked how he got to travel with so many presidents, he replied, "Once you're in the service and you're inclined in this sort of assignment, you find it difficult to get away from it because you already have your security clearance." He said one time he put in for another kind of duty, so he could be close to his ailing father in Pennsylvania, but after getting approval "all the way to the top, I was turned down."

Keegan moved to Port St. Lucie from Pennsylvania about nine years ago. Back in Pennsylvania he had trunk loads of memories and souvenirs from his days with the presidents.

"I had a diary of events but lost it and a trunk full of pictures," he said, but added that he still has some photos of himself with presidents. And, he said he enjoyed working with the newsmen who covered the presidents.

"I can recall leaning one camera man to the rail of a boat so he could use both hands to take pictures of the President. In those days a lot of them were taking newsreels. There were not many still photographers. In fact, I saw myself in newsreels a couple of times when I went to the movies and they showed newsreels of the President," he said.

PORT ST. LUCIE—While Joseph [illegible] has many stories to tell of years [illegible] presidents, (see related story) Wade Boehm, just missed [illegible] to rub shoulders with Jimmy [illegible].

[illegible] yachting season started in April, [illegible] though we had heard Carter [illegible] to sell the "Sequoia", we felt he [illegible] change his mind until April 1, [illegible] got a letter from him saying to [illegible] Boehm said. He said, although President Carter never personally used the majestic, 53-year-old yacht, he sent Hugh and Jeff Carter down to inspect it. "We gave them a tour and they said they liked it and wanted to go out on it, but it was not much later that we got the letter," Boehm says.

As you might imagine, the "Sequoia" was a beautiful boat. Boehm says he enjoyed his service aboard her and says it was always kept ready for presidential use, even though it was never used by Carter.

Boehm is now stationed aboard a minesweeper in St. Petersburg, but he says he had bushels of souvenirs from the yacht, including playing cards, Jimmy Carter matchbooks, the "Sequoia" menu and glasses, and a letter of appreciation for his service from President Carter.

Folks hoarding trains at Stuart to go north would remain on the platform and Harry would announce on the PA system that he and he was going home, and everybody would assemble at the shuffle courts to wave goodbye. The cheesy shouts could be heard way over on Commercial Street, and would be long remembered.

Progress (?) and the strike made it uneconomical to operate th passenger trains, which before the strike had month-long waiting lists. The old Station became a shabby shack that had to be torn down a few years ago. The luxurious passenger trains deteriorated to empty single car units, to hold franchise, that had to be proceeded by a safety track-auto, to check for strike saboteurs who put dynamite, junk and old ties on the tracks.

Many have fond memories of these trains, that they used to go north or to West Palm and Cape Canaveral on excursions, with the conductor often forgetting to collect their tickets.

How many around now rode those trains?

RAMBLING AROUND

Warren and Evelyn Greese, 9 N. Fourth, are back again from a trip to Harrisburg, Pa. Earlier in the summer they were up there for eight weeks to help a daughter move into a new home. Then, after being there for a month, off they went for seven weeks to help the daughter get settled.

While they were away they ran into Ted and Olive Witmer, both fine and dandy and will be back here in two weeks. Also found George and Belva Dean are "AOK" and planning to be back in time for the first square dance class.

Charles and Irma Fair, 36 S. 5th, are back from a summer in Hendersonville. They had a nice cool apartment in the mountains, but downtown it was the hottest summer ever. OBPers, the Fuecos, the Mulles and Leythons, are all well. ExOBPers Ed and Martha Sheehy and Larry and Jean Fisher are fine, also.

They had a great summer until they hit Dayton, then the "Love Bugs". WOW! Irma, shuffle president, says the club meeting the first Monday in November will start the season here.

By the time you read this, Doreen Peet, 6 First Ave., will have been married to Edmond H. Kleling on Monday, Sept. 26, in the Port St. Lucie Lutheran Church, with Ed and Helen Tokash of St. Lucie standing up with them.

Mr. Kleling is a retiree from General Motors in Detroit, and recently, from Clearwater, Florida. They'll make their home on Eastaugh Pl., Pinelake Village, after a short trip to Clearwater to dispose of Edmond's property.

Doreen came to Ocean Breeze Park as a bride in 1958, then after 20 happy years, she is leaving here, again as a bride.

Irvin and Lena Keith have visitors, Tommy K Keith, grandson, and Cindy Hargis, both of Robinson, Ill., where they work for a Cadillac dealer. Tommy is a mechanic so his Gramp's car is now tuned up in fine shape. They came down on a huge motorcycle and, not knowing Irvin and Lena had moved, breezed right into the park. So, for those who wondered, if the prohibiting signs were being ignored, that's the reason.

They expect to fish and swim a bit before scooting back north.

Joe and Ruby Robinson, 10 Bay Dr., are back after 4½ months in Indianapolis. They, too, complained about the love bugs that hit them around Wildwood. They had a very pleasant summer visiting their daughter, her husband, and grandson. In regard to heat, they said, "We had an AC apartment, AC car and only went in AC stores", so it didn't bother them, but they are glad to be back and Joe is looking forward to his golfing.

The Walter Lindells, 4 Circle Dr., are back after nine weeks of travel trailering around Maine, Massachusetts and Connecticut, visiting friends and relatives. They had weather extremes, at first much too hot, then, just before they left, it was darn cold, however there was plenty of rain making countryside lush, green and beautiful. They took a short cut home by way of Missouri for some raspberries. Now, glad to be back, Walter says they will stay put for awhile.

Bill and Gertrude Jones, 13 Mango, are back from summering at Merry-meeting Lake, N.H., near Durham. Bill says they sold out up there and OBP is now their home. Weather was nice at the lake, but in town it was "hotter than hades" at times. Bill did some fishing for salmon and lake trout before taking off on a month's trip to Michigan where they saw about all the Michiganders. Nonna, Ruth Miller, Geberts, and many others. Bill, being vice president of the shuffle club, got right at his shuffling and, although he hadn't shuffled all summer, won the first game. Friends hint it was a "come on".

Edee Yango, 12 N. Melaleuca, has had visitors recently, Big and Hazel Halterman of Sidney, Va.

Eunice King, 22 S. 8th St., remarked the other day, "You ought to have seen the flood of cards I got after my recent trip to the hospital. From folks all over the north, saying they saw by The Mirror that I was ill."

LETTERS FROM OBPers

Freda Peterkin has heard from Hazel Wilson and the Eisenbarths, saying they'll be back mid-October.

Lawrence and Minnie Brammer wrote Mary Adrean that they are looking forward to getting back here by Oct. 15.

Boyd Smith reports that Mrs. Margaret Ahrits, formerly of 7 NE 9th. is now making her home at 223 So. Prospect St., Grandville, Ohio 43023. She's had a recent tragedy; her son Kenneth was killed in a bike-truck traffic accident. She would like to hear from her OBP friends.

Ruth Miles received a letter from Art and Blanch Guarino who live on the corner of Broad and Sixth. Blanch has a beautiful flower garden and Art is busy getting mushrooms, blueberries and wild grapes. Plenty cool up there in Bradford, R.I., but they won't be back until mid-November.

Ellen Nixon received letters from: Ethel Lowe, saying she's fine and expects to be down here with the Reyers in November; Frances Reese, saying her daughter Mary Ann is much better and they are leaving for OBP Oct. 17; Harry and Bernese Covell are counting down days by day until they leave for the south on Oct. 4; and Ada Bamm writes from Ontario, should be back by Sept. 28.

Ethel McDowell has heard that Ann Bartle is coming back soon and Marion Curwen has heard that Dot Beck and Vi Watts will be here late October.

In connection with the cruise, the time has now arrived for the final touches of preparation. Mike Krais of Ask Mr. Travel reports that the Norwegian-Caribbean line is in the process of making up the tickets, which should be received here sometime this week. Those who are going on the four-day outing should check in with AMT to see whether the tix are in because it will be necessary for them to go by, pick up their tickets and get the requisite information that they need to be ready to enjoy the cruise.

Mirasid that cabin assignments have already been made. When you do get your tickets, you will receive baggage tags which should be attached to your luggage before you leave home. Upon arrival in Miami, the bus will take us to the pier, and baggage, if properly tagged, will be taken to your cabin.

Incidental information on the cruise: on anything you purchase abroad, you're permitted $100 worth of duty-free items; liquor is no bargain in the Bahamas, unlike Bermuda, the Bahamian prices are just about the same as they are in Florida; the captain's dinner (or cocktail party) will be held the first night out on the cruise, rather than the last night before returning; there will be a minimum of official red tape- you'll receive immigration forms that must be filled in before you get back to Miami.

Fred Wiggin is investigating the possibility of setting up a course for mouth-to-mouth resuscitation, more formally known as cardiopulmonary resuscitation - the instant help that may be given to people who have collapsed. He said the course runs for eight hours and enables the people who take it to be of invaluable help in case of emergency. The Port St. Lucie Fire Department arranges for the course, Fred said.

One thing the new anti-65 mandatory retirement law (when passed) won't make any difference about is the age for becoming a member of AARP. People still will be able to join when they reach 55. The law is not actually a law yet; it's still a bill, but a nice non-controversial piece of legislation like that, which passed the House by a 358 to 4 vote, is what the legislators love, so it can be expected that the Senate will be in a hurry to get aboard the bandwagon, and sell the bill to the desk in the Oval Office for Mr. Carter's signature. As a matter of fact, Senate Majority Leader Robert Byrd was quoted in the newspapers over the weekend, saying that the Senate vote on the measure "might be very similar" to that in the House.

With more than 300 members, our chapter should be able to come up with a capable slate of nominees for 1978, Fred Wiggin believes. "I'm sure that among our members, there are plenty of able executives who could give our chapter the impetus it needs for an active program and for continued growth," Fred said. He appealed to any members who know someone they think would make good officer and director material to get in touch with the nominating committee.

As mentioned earlier, they are Fran Lee (878-2506), Tom Carlile (878-0675) and Jean Petrone (878-1041).

Venture Three

By Jessie Shaver, B-2, 334-2714:

Bits and pieces...

Toad Bowling has been in Venture Out for several days. He said he had a friend who was flying into South Florida and he was asked to come along for the ride to Stuart. He said he and Lucy, along with his two sisters and Lucy's sister Margie had a wonderful trip to the Scandinavian countries, even into Lapland.

He also said he had heard of the sad news about the death of E.B. (Pippy) Reau who used to live in Venture Out.

At the Barbara Auch concert at Holiday Out; I met Mrs. Rosamond Reau and she gave me her address, which is 8352 S.E. Skylark, Hobe Sound, FL 33455. Any of their former friends can write her at that address.

I had also told me that Kenneth and Isabel McKee were here for a few days and would be back sometime in January for several months. He certainly was a good reporter; and I need more like that. Thanks, Toad, and you and Lucy hurry back as early in January as possible.

The concert on Thursday night was well attended. Barbara Auch is not only a very talented young woman, but very beautiful and gracious as well. Several Venture Harbour people attended the concert.

The news is that Sam Tucker will be leaving for Venture Harbour by October 9.

Racing pigeons fly from Jensen Beach

READY TO RACE–Joe Ciechanowski, the treasurer of the Indian River Racing Pigeon Association, shows off one of the 20 homing pigeons he uses in races around Florida.

BY ROBBIE BEDELL

JENSEN BEACH–For most people, pigeons are city creatures which one cautiously looks up to while crossing a bird-filled city square.

But there's a lot more to pigeons than meets the eye.

The use of homing pigeons during wartime is a well-known fact. Armies throughout the ages have employed the birds to carry secret messages across enemy lines, yet their natural instinct to return to their roosts over many miles still baffles scientists.

In fact, their homing qualities are not only used to deliver messages, the birds have been used for hundreds of years for racing and it has become a highly refined sport.

In Jensen Beach there is the 14-member Indian River Racing Pigeon Association (IRRPA), which regularly holds races around the state and competes with a number of other racing pigeon clubs.

Its members are very dedicated to the sport.

"People think that a pigeon is just some bird that flies up and lands on your roof," IRRPA Treasurer Joe Ciechanowski said.

"But a racing pigeon is a bird that's trained to fly to a destination."

Ciechanowski, who lives in Palm Lake Park, keeps about 20 birds in his loft. He keeps a number of the younger birds for racing and the older ones are used as "stock" birds, kept for breeding purposes.

When the birds are bred, and the owner decides that he has all he wants for the time being, he merely puts plastic egg facsimilies under the birds. Apparently the pigeons mistake the plastic eggs for real ones and the birds stop breeding.

"You put the plastic in their nests and they sit on it," Ciechanowski said. "As long as you leave it there, they won't lay any eggs."

Young birds, those which are less than a year old, are raced from the beginning of September to the first week in November. During this time, the birds are raced each week. They begin by racing a distance of 100 miles and end their seasons racing up to 300 miles.

Yearlings, or "old birds", are over a year old and they are raced from March to July.

"We have two racing seasons," IRRPA President Bill Kenney said. "You have to give them time to rest and you have to give them time for the breeding season. The old birds race as far as 700 miles."

During a race, the pigeons are brought to a spot an exact distance from their lofts and are set free at a specified time. The owners then return home and wait for their birds to arrive. The distance they must fly, and the weather conditions they will fly in, determine how long they may take to return to their respective lofts.

"Weather is a factor in the races," Kenney said. "If they hit bad weather, it can really slow them down, but if they're in a tail wind, they can really get it on. I'd say you can expect a pigeon to fly at an average of about 40 miles per hour."

A special clock is used by the racers to check each bird as it returns to the loft. As they are checked in, a special tagged band on the foot is removed and inserted in the clock. The exact time is then mechanically recorded inside the clock so judges can make note of the time to determine who the winners are.

"Each racer owns his own clock as well as the master timer," Kenney said. "It's a sealed unit and it can record flying times down to small fractions of a second."

Though the price of a clock is expensive, pigeons can be obtained relatively cheaply.

"It's really a poor man's horse race to some extent," Ciechanowski said. "But it can be very expensive. One bird in Belgium recently sold for $23,000."

Ciechanowski said the expensive birds are sold for their lineage and that one which constantly rears fast racing birds is a very prized item.

HOMING PIGEON–This homing pigeon, owned by Joe Ciechanowski of Palm Lake Park, is an example of the type of bird used for racing. The idea of racing pigeons is many years old and has developed into an exacting sport.

Though the military and universities such as Rutgers and Cornell have performed extensive research on the bird's ability to return to its loft, the exact reason for it doing so is still a mystery.

"They really haven't come up with a true reason yet," Kenney said. "I just call it instinct. They don't know whether it's ions in the atmosphere or the sun or what. I think they do it just like a dog or any other animal does it."

The pigeon's instinct to home has mystified man through the ages. The birds have homed successfully after being transported away from the loft over unfamiliar terrain, taken through devious routes, transported while drugged or in cages with electrical fields, and even after being turned on a phonograph turntable. They have always found the way home.

During wars, however, birds became confused and lost if they flew too close to a bomb blast.

If the bird, because of weather or other factors, flies past its loft, it somehow senses it and turns back. Some have theorized that magnetism, the sun's position, geographical signs or telepathy from a sitting mate might be reasons for the homing instinct.

Though the majority of a racer's released pigeons return after a race, some are never seen again. Sometimes the birds are killed by falcons or other birds of prey, some become lost, and many are shot down by hunters who are unable to distinguish between a dove and a pigeon. Kenney thinks that shooters, especially during the hunting season, are responsible for many of the missing birds. Then, again, there are stories of birds which have been considered missing, and show up at the home loft as much as a year after it was released.

Ciechanowski said that his birds are more to him than just something to race. He also considers them his friends.

"When I get aggravated I get out of the house and go into the loft and then everything is all right," he said.

Why Tuff-Kote can effectively rustproof used cars.

Anyone you can rustproof used in one step, start asking questions. One-step rustproofing may look like it seals the metal on your car. But if it doesn't penetrate existing rust, it can seal in moisture and air, and create more rust damage than you may have had in the first place. Only Tuff-Kote uses the exclusive two-step system which stops rust cold in new and used cars. First, Tuff-Kote professionals apply a deep penetrant that creeps through all welds, seams and crevices. It displaces moisture, and goes right down to the bare metal to stop any existing rust. Second, Tuff-Kote applies a special abrasion-resistant sealant that locks out moisture and prevents any new rust from starting.

If you have a used car, your Tuff-Kote Dinol dealer can effectively rustproof it. And if you have a new car, your Tuff-Kote dealer is the only one who should.

Our two-step rustproofing is one better.

D&M Park
BY MILDRED TUE STINNETT

This brings me to the end of my reporting the D & M news for The Mirror, with whom I have enjoyed a most satisfactory relationship. I have sold my home in J. and Louisa Heidell who rented Noble Wininger's place last winter. They have many friends here, especially Fran and Bill Gehres, and they like our park so much they decided to purchase a place of their own.

My stay here has been a very happy one - the Hobby Club, Art classes, bingo, reporting the news, teaching Spanish - were all conducive to a busy, active life. I shall miss you all, but we'll keep in touch.

My new address is: 1580 Glen Creek Road, NW; Salem, Oregon 97304.

Kate and Frank Crume spent a long, lively weekend entertaining their nephew and niece, Skip and Kay Crume, and their grandson, Trent McCann of Orlando. Little Trent had a great time playing outside and greeting passersby with great glee.

Wasn't it wet on the Cruises recently, they showed me a dove with a broken wing that Frank found on his lawn. They were taking excellent care of it and had contacted persons able to help get it airborne again.

I was happy to have two guests - friends of long standing - here with me for a few days from Daytona Beach. Unfortunately, Mrs. Thurman did not cooperate so our activities were mainly confined to playing Scrabble and talking over old times.

We are delighted to report that Adrian's plumeria from Hawaii is growing apace.

Chris and Alice Willoughby are due back this weekend, and that is good news for the residents in their section of the park.

Palm Lake Park
BY ELENOR E. FALK, 287-2599

Association doings...

The first meeting of the Palm Lake Park Civic Association was called to order by President Joseph Ciechanowski. The meeting started a bit late as our recording secretary stretched his afternoon siesta, but, after a phone call, he rushed to the meeting and all was in order.

The president presented a drawing for a new sign. It was beautiful and is now out for estimates.

President Joe is submitting his resignation at the next meeting and Vice President F.A. Cary will assume the duties. Sally, Joe's wife, is still very ill. This is one of the many reasons that he finds it impossible to continue to his duties. Sally has been ill now for several months with confinements in a West Palm Beach hospital. This together with the fact that Joe has to work for a living and is limited to the amount of time he can put toward association work makes his resignation necessary.

He did a good job during his 18 months, considering the fact that he received a minimum of cooperation and respect warranted his position.

We regret his resignation.

A program to be announced each meeting, has been set up. If it proves successful, we will in all probability continue this each month.

Next meeting, on October 17 at 7:30 p.m.: Rep Dale Cassens will be our guest and will speak on subjects of interest to the homeowner. This meeting will be open to the general public and a large attendance is anticipated. After Rep. Cassens speaks, there will be a brief question and answer period pertaining to his remarks.

The regular membership meeting will start after Rep. Cassens completes his informative talk, perhaps shortly after 8 p.m.

A picnic will be held on the island on Sunday, October 16. This will be a pot luck as in the past. Should you desire any information, contact your correspondent who will attempt to get your answers.

Two new members submitted their requestions to join the association: Robert Dower and Pat Straubaugh. We welcome both.

Neighbors celebrating their birthdays in October are: Judy Deard, 1st; F.A. Cary and Jack Reddick, 7th; Frank Murphy, 20th; Grace Rauceulet, 28th; and Hallie Young, 31st.

We wish all these wonderful persons a great day.

Three couples will celebrate anniversaries this month. They are Ed and Pin Meade, Oct. 2; Bob and Marie Dower, Oct. 11; and the Bernard Funnells on Oct. 23.

We wish them the best of everything on their day.

Rape reported in PSL

PORT ST. LUCIE—A 26-year-old River Park woman has claimed that she was raped in Port St. Lucie by a man wielding a shotgun on Thursday, Sept. 15.

Though the alleged rape was reported to the St. Lucie County Sheriff's Department on the 15th, the report only got to Port St. Lucie Public Safety Director Doug Stout a few days ago, Stout says. He announced the rape at a city council meeting Tuesday, but when the Sheriff's Department was called Tuesday afternoon, a dispatcher said the only person who could release information about the incident was out of the office and would not return until Wednesday morning, after the Mirror's press deadline.

According to information Stout received, the woman left the Partners III lounge early Thursday morning, Sept. 15, and was followed by a man to a nearby 7-11 store. At the store, the man apparently agreed to give the woman a ride home. But instead of heading for her home, the woman says the man drove west on Prima Vista Drive, stopped at a house, picked up a shotgun, then got back in the truck and drove around. He allegedly pointed the shotgun at the woman and forced her to have sexual relations. The Mirror could not find out if an arrest has been made in the case.

Council votes 120 day moratorium on all zoning

BY BOB FRYER

PORT ST. LUCIE—In the wake of numerous protests against a proposed shopping center in the "country club" section of Port St Lucie, city council members voted Tuesday morning to institute a 120-day moratorium on all zoning and rezoning within the city.

The moratorium was requested by Mayor Bill McChesney near the end of the council's regular Tuesday meeting, held an hour after Peter Smith, the developer proposing the shopping center, and many residents opposed to it left the meeting. Councilwoman Ruth Bernahan was absent, but the four council members present unanimously voted for the moratorium.

The idea of a moratorium was discussed during the discussion of the shopping center plans by former city planning and Zoning Board chairman Jim Steel, but the council members did not take any action on the suggestion at that time. However, after the moratorium vote was taken later in the meeting, and after the meeting ended, McChesney said he and City Manager Joe Cox said the new city planner, Mike Stuyvesant, had come up with the moratorium idea as "a private meeting Tuesday."

In asking for the moratorium, McChesney said it should be "on all zoning and rezoning" in the city and said it should be for 90 to 120 days. Later, before the vote was taken, it was decided to make the moratorium for 120 days.

While discussing the moratorium, McChesney said it "does not apply to things pending now."

When asked after the meeting if this meant the moratorium would not apply to Smith's proposed Southport Shopping Center, the mayor said the moratorium would apply to it because Smith does not currently have a zoning request pending before the city council. "He has shown us proposed site plans but has not formally requested a zoning change," McChesney said.

Smith is proposing to build a 60,000 square foot shopping center on the 7.18 acre tract that now contains the City Hall, several shops and the Country Store. The proposed center would stretch along Morningside Drive from Westmoreland Drive to a point east of the Country Store. He said he already has commitments for a 39,680 square foot Winn Dixie supermarket located down from an originally proposed 22,700 square foot supermarket; for a branch of a local bank, for a savings and loan association branch, for a restaurant to seat 200 or more persons and for a 7-11 convenience store. He also plans to have 10 retail stores in the shopping center, with some of them using space in the existing shopping complex.

Smith has already been before the city's Planning and Zoning Board with his plans. When he first brought them to the board, he asked for the board to review the plans and to determine what zoning category the plans would fit under. The board discussed the plans twice, and at their last meeting, voted to reconfirm a recommendation they made the first time, that is, to designate the tract for PSC (planned shopping center) zoning. After the board makes a zoning recommendation, the matter normally goes before the city council for consideration. However, at the last board meeting, when the vote was taken to reconfirm the recommended PSC designation, the board members said even though they were recommending PSC zoning, they were opposed to the plans they had examined and expressed support of a suggestion by Stuyvesant that the plans "be scaled down."

On Tuesday, before discussion of the shopping center came up, it was announced that the Planning and Zoning Board will hold a special meeting at 8 a.m. Friday, Sept. 30, to reconsider its PSC zoning for the tract. Presumably, because the board plans to reconsider its recommendation, this means the zoning for the tract is not now pending before the city council.

As promised last week by Port St. Lucie Civic League President Seymour Fleming, the council chambers were packed Tuesday with persons opposed to the shopping center. Fleming read a prepared statement opposed to the plans for the center and presented a petition against it which he said was signed by 286 of 300 persons who were asked to sign it. He said he only had a short time to circulate the petition or he would have obtained more signatures of persons against the shopping center.

Fleming's statement termed the proposed center "a planned invasion of our privacy..." and said it "does not conform to the characteristics of our area." He and others at the meeting further claimed the center would devalue their property.

"The developer is imposing the will for profit against our will to protect the character and environment of our neighborhood," Fleming said.

The new city planner, Stuyvesant, recommended against the proposed site plan for the center at the last Planning and Zoning Board meeting. He said the city has a need for more shopping facilities, but said the tract in question is not suited for a shopping center of the size Smith proposes.

He said Morningside and Westmoreland Boulevards could not adequately handle the traffic such a center would generate and said the center could be bothersome to nearby residents because delivery trucks may be coming to it in early morning hours. He suggested the elimination of the supermarket and of some of the retail stores.

In Fleming's prepared statement he said, "I heard that the developer may go to court to insist upon his right to build a large shopping center on this site."

When asked if he would bring suit to get the shopping center approved, Smith said, "No comment." He said he will attend the Friday meeting of the Planning and Zoning Board.

During the discussion of his proposed center, Smith defended the site plan, maintaining that the roads can handle the traffic, that drainage problems could be solved with proper engineering, and that his plan is "very conservative" in the number of square feet of building space compared to the total number of square feet of the tract. He said he will have a 5.3 to 1 ratio of open space to building space, whereas the cities of Fort Pierce and Stuart only require a 4 to 1 ratio.

"We will have a minimum of 50 feet setback on the sides and back, where the city requires only a 25 foot setback from the side property lines and a 30 foot setback from the back property line," he said.

When questioned after the meeting, Stuyvesant said that it was on Monday that a decision was reached to have the special meeting of the Planning and Zoning Board to reconsider its recommendation of PSC zoning for the land. He said he and Board Chairman H R Neighbours discussed the matter and decided on the meeting. Stuyvesant noted that the tract in question is not now zoned, as are many other tracts in the city. He said that while General Development Corporation indicated tracts for schools and churches and commercial uses when it drew up plans for the city long ago, many of the sites designated for those uses were never zoned for those uses.

He said during the 120 day moratorium, he will "develop an interim policy plan regarding the use of non-residential properties", adding that he will use planning criteria such as "highway capacity, drainage, proximity to residential areas, and environmental factors" to come up with the plan.

He said he hopes to come up with a suggested zoning map for all lands now unzoned by the end of the moratorium and said he will work closely with the Planning and Zoning Board to develop the map.

When Smith was contacted after the meeting and told of the vote on the moratorium, he said "I'm totally confused and have directed my attorney to investigate this and to ask the city for copies of all zoning ordinances and zoning and land use maps pertaining to the tract."

He added that he did not know the Planning and Zoning Board was to meet Friday to reconsider its recommendation of PSC zoning for his land until he came to the council meeting Tuesday.

"I just think there is a gray area here that has yet to be explored. It would seem to me that the city should do something to clarify the situation. The city is on thin ice in letting this kind of situation occur," Smith said, noting that some churches have been held up in their plans for nearly a year while trying to get zoning approval.

"When property owners are denied the use of their property for reasons of undue delay by the city, it's a situation that needs correction," he said.

CROWDED HOUSE—The city council chambers were packed Tuesday morning by residents who came to the council's meeting to express opposition to a proposed shopping center along Morningside Drive. Shown at the podium is the new city planner, Mike Stuyvesant, who has recommended against the center, unless it is scaled down.

PRETTY GAIL RITCHEY is the new women's tennis pro at the Sandpiper Bay Resort. Though Gail is new to Port St. Lucie, she has been playing tennis since she was 11 and has had a lot of tournament experience.

Gail Ritchey 'loves' job as tennis pro

BY BOB FRYER

PORT ST. LUCIE—If you haven't been to the Sandpiper Bay Resort in Port St. Lucie to play tennis lately, you should go.

There's a new women's tennis pro there who just bubbles with enthusiasm for her job and for the game of tennis.

Her name is Gail Ritchey, and not only is she good at her game, but she's also excited about helping others improve their skills on the court.

Gail just started working at the John Gardiner Tennis Clinic at Sandpiper Bay this month, but she's had a lot of experience before coming here.

"I've been playing since I was seven, and I've worked at different John Gardiner clinics for two years now," she says.

Gail grew up in Phoenix, Arizona, and played on her high school tennis team there. "Then I played in local, city and state tournaments and was on the Northwest and Southwest States Tennis Tours for two years," she says.

Although Gail enjoyed tournament play, she said after awhile she "wasn't satisfied with tournaments." So, she went to school.

"That's how I ended up doing what I'm doing. I had a teacher who asked us to fill out some forms about ourselves. I listed that tennis was my hobby and told of some of my experience.

"My teacher told me I ought to go to a nearby John Gardiner Tennis Clinic to see what it was like. I went out there to observe it, and at the end of the day their head pro, who oversees all the head pros at the different clinics, asked me if I wanted to play. After 15 minutes, he asked me if I wanted a job," Gail recalled.

Since going to work for Gardiner's clinics, she has worked to winter seasons at Scottsdale, Ariz., was a counselor and tennis teacher at a clinic in Sun Valley, Idaho, the summer of 1976, and spent the last summer at a clinic in Sugarbush, Vermont.

"I started at the bottom and worked my way up. At first I was hosting, playing with the people coming to the clinics, and I was also busy picking up balls. Then I became a counselor at a children's clinic and now I've graduated to my job here at Sandpiper Bay," she says.

Her job here includes giving private lessons and clinic lessons and working in the pro shop.

"I'm learning a lot about how to run a shop and about the business end of it," Gail says.

Not only is she excited about living here, "I love the ocean and the nice weather here. The people here are friendly and this resort is lovely," she says; but she is also excited about the program John Gardiner Tennis Clinics offer.

"When we get groups out on the courts, we try to limit the clinics to six people, with two pros teaching them. And, we have so many teaching aids here," Gail says. One device she is especially proud of is the Autex machine, invented by Gardiner.

"There are only seven of them in the country, and only two in the east. One of them is here at Sandpiper Bay. It's an electronic machine that will pitch out a ball just about any way you want it. You can control the settings to vary the speed of the balls, the rate they come out, and you can pick whether you want a drive, a volley or a lob. You can even select the placement of the ball. It's a great teaching device," she says. The machine costs $6 a half hour and $12 an hour.

"We have the finest facilities around," she says.

Gail will work here throughout the winter season. After that, she does not yet know where she'll go. But someday, she'd like to go back on the tournament circuit.

"I've learned a lot teaching tennis, but when you teach, you hardly have time to practice to stay with your game. I'm happy doing what I do now, but someday, I'll probably get into tournament play again," she says.

ow flush toilets

PORT ST. LUCIE—City council members approved the first reading [illegible] of an ordinance that will allow low-flush commodes to be installed in all new homes in Port St. Lucie.

The ordinance is the idea of city Building Department head Ralph Chance, who says millions of gallons of water will be saved by the low-flush commodes. He says a low-flush toilet uses about 3.5 gallons of water per flush as opposed to five to six gallons for conventional commodes.

Initially does the ordinance apply to only homes built within the city limits. It also applies to additions to homes or in cases where an old commode is to be replaced in a home. In motels, motels, apartments, condominiums and rooming houses included in the definition of buildings that will be required to have low-flush commodes.

The second and final reading of the ordinance is slated for Oct. 25.

G ATHLETE--Young Tommy Daniel last Saturday won the 13-year-old on of the Punt, Pass and Kick Competition at Lawnwood Field in Fort Pierce. is the fourth time he has placed in the competition and the second time he has first place.

Landing is Sunday

The Vikings are coming

JENSEN BEACH--A day of Norwegian festivities are set to begin at noon on Sunday as members of eleven lodges of the Sons of Norway gather in Jensen Beach for a weekend to celebrate Leif Erikson Day at the Jensen Beach Causeway.

The Norsemen will be arriving Friday from throughout the state. The group will be staying at the Holiday Inn Oceanside for lodge events on Saturday and the public festival and pageant on Sunday. Over 500 are expected.

The opening parade, featuring floats from the lodges in the state and local participants, will begin at the Jensen Bank parking lot, go down Commercial Street to Indian River Drive and north to the Jensen Causeway, where it will disband.

There, Scandanavian music will be played by Anders Bakke, a well known accordianist from Ft. Lauderdale, who has played for all the Leif Erikson Day festivities in the eight years the festival has been held.

A program will begin at 2 p.m. that will see guests introduced, a parade of Norwegian costumes (bunads), and Indian dances by a Ft. Pierce scout group.

Then the pageant, reenacting the landing of Leif Erikson in America in 1002 A.D., will begin. Three Viking boats, called sexerings (rowed by six men), will participate. Their crews will be dressed in authentic Viking garb.

The pageant will be narrated by Bud Bjorgen, Ft. Lauderdale, and Chuck Nergard, Port St. Lucie, will be master of ceremonies. A featured guest, and grand marshall of the parade, will be Bjorne Eikevik, president of the Sons of Norway District that covers the eastern part of the United States.

Following the pageant, a queen contest will select a candidate from one of the eleven lodges as queen of the event, and trophies for prize winning floats will be awarded.

The annual sailing-rowing race between the crews of the three boats will follow. Boat crews will be from the Ft. Pierce-Jensen, Orlando and Miami lodges. The event will end at 5 p.m. with the annual causeway cleanup by the members of the lodges, according to Geroge Lewis, chairman, and president of the Ft. Pierce-Jensen lodge.

Tommy Daniel wins PPK in area

JENSEN BEACH--For many athletes football becomes serious when they get out on the high school football grid, but for Tommy Daniel, the sport got serious a lot earlier.

The Leilani Heights youth, the son of Mr. and Mrs. C.T. Daniel, started taking football seriously when he was eight years old.

Last Saturday, Tommy competed in the Ford Motor Company sponsored Punt, Punt and Kick competition in Fort Pierce.

Scoring a total of 265 points, he took first place among his fellow 13-year-olds. This is the second year he has taken first place and the fourth year he has competed and placed in the event.

In Fort Pierce Saturday, Daniel punted 75 feet, passed 105 feet and kicked 85 feet. After taking first place, he will go to the district meet which will be held in Orlando.

Tommy's goal in life is to become a punter for the University of Florida Gators.

Right now, he is a punter and quarterback for the Jensen Beach Razorbacks and his interest in sports doesn't end there.

He is also active in baseball, basketball, golf and tennis.

ommunity Center flap is continuing

NSEN BEACH--The Jensen Beach mmunity Center, a place where ost civic, social and church groups ve met since the turn of the century, me the center of attention last week the revelation that the center is ntrolled by a group of private citizens d the Jensen Civic League.

e Civic League, made up of W.B. , Norris Tilton and County mmissioner Frank Wachs, administe the Community Center, and has chartered, and was referred to by dozens newspapers as being perly owned by the former Town of ach.

town fell victim to the 1933 ression, and has since been porated.

the property on which the munity Center stands has been a Community Center, privately owned and operated by private parties in trust to the people since the early 1900s, according to Warner Tilton. He, Joe Pitchford and pioneer Fredrickson were the members of the Civic League since 1924.

Before that, the property was under the direction of Tilton's father-in-law, Ransom R. Ricou, one of the early pioneers of Jensen Beach, Tilton said. He added that the Community Center was never owned by the town.

In later years, Tilton was joined by others in administering the Community Center, along with former County Commissioner Seymour Gideon.

It was the Civic League that gave the county the two lots on which the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce building is located on Commercial Street, next to the Community Center. The county then leased the land back to the Chamber with the understanding that the land would revert to the county if it was ever used for anything other than the Chamber's site.

"It's always been here since I've been here," Tilton told The Mirror Tuesday. He came to Jensen Beach in 1921, three years before the death of Ricou, who operated a state-wide string of fish houses.

The building is open to any group, and is the home of the Jensen Beach Boy Scout Troop. It is used by the veterans organizations, church groups and civic organizations for their meetings, raffles, rummage sales, bake sales and other events.

Norris Tilton told The Mirror that an editorial referring to him having the key to the Community Center was wrong.

"I don't even have a key," he said. "The Chamber of Commerce next door has the key, and Peg (W.B. Tilton) also has a key. I gave mine to somebody...I don't remember who, a long time ago."

Tilton said that if the town of Jensen Beach ever incorporated, the Community Center and the 50-foot strip of land on Hutchinson Island, would be donated to the city. But, until that time it would be available for use by all the clubs and organizations in the area.

"All they have to do is register at the Chamber, or ask Pop, and they can use the building," he said.

The Civic League members have paid for all maintenance costs to the building through their own efforts or donations. The property is exempt from taxes, and does not receive county funding.

HONORED--Ralph Evinrude, chairman of the board of Outboard Marine Corporation and a resident of Jensen Beach, was honored in Chicago recently for fifty years service in marine industries. He was presented with a rebuilt Elto 4 horsepower outboard, the motor that was popular in 1927 when he joined the firm.

ater district eyes Jensen well locations site

SEN BEACH--Despite an appaold between the City of Stuart and County on where to search for fresh water, the South Florida Management District is recomding a team effort.

meeting Monday Pat Gleason, me head for the district, told County Commissioners he is not ut hunting for water in the so-called ken-wellfield" in Jensen Beach, t officials would have to gain val before doing so.

son said that the wells should e salt-water intrusion and that ject would cause no harm to the mer.

ugh Gleason had no objection to ells in Jensen, he recommended City and county officials join and look for water west of the Turnpike. Commissioner Tom pointed out that the northern will only be a temporary step. month the commission earmarked $40,000 to make the Jensen test wells just south of SR 707 in Jensen Beach.

Gleason said the district might approve the wells if the county can show that there will be no damage to the existing water table, no salt water intrusion to private wells located nearby the test wells, and that the water level of the nearby Savannas will not be affected.

If these priorities are met, the district might approve one large water operation, he said.

Presently, Martin County has no water system of its own, while the City of Stuart operates a water treatment facility and sells water to a private company which services both Sewall's Point and Hutchinson Island.

The City's plant is operating at full capacity and Stuart officials are wary of entering any agreement with the county. At a joing meeting last month, the city's finance director advised city commissioners to remain independent in a search for more water.

Though Gleason did not oppose the northern site, he suggested that the county look for water at the western site as soon as possible.

County commissioners seemed to think that the search at the western site could be postponed because of the water supplied from the northern field.

Officials are expected to meet again next Tuesday at the County Administrative Center to further discuss the issue.

Former chief dies in Italy

STUART--Former Sewall's Point Police Chief Dominick N. Anicito died Friday in La Distoli, Italy, at the age of 55.

Anicito came to Sewall's Point from Irvington, New Jersey, where he was a law enforcement officer for 25 years.

He lived at Kingswood Condominiums in Stuart for the past four years.

Anicito left Sewall's Point in May, 1976.

He had suffered from a heart ailment.

Ralph Evinrude honored for 50 years in boating

CHICAGO, ILL.--Pioneering and progressive achievement in the boating industry for fifty years was recognized Wednesday, Sept. 21, in Chicago on the occasion of the annual Marine Trades Exhibit and Conference Show, to Ralph S. Evinrude, chairman of the board of Outboard Marine Corporation, who lives in Jensen Beach.

The event was jointly sponsored by Boating Industry Associations, sponsors of the Chicago Boat Show, and the National Association of Engine and Boat Manufacturers. Evinrude was appropriately honored on the fiftieth anniversary of the very day he began working for Evinrude Motors, founding firm of OMC, started by his father, Ole Evinrude, inventor of the first practical, working outboard engine ever manufactured.

The night of appreciation was attended by approximately 100 of Evinrude's long-time friends in the industry, from the manufacturing, distribution and press fields, as well as overseas representatives of OMC. In addition to the presentation of a mint condition, restored Evinrude engine, a Super Elto 4 hp manufactured in 1927, the year Evinrude started with the company, he was honored by Boating Industry Associations' Executive Director Matt Kaufman with a gold plated marine clock and barometer, symbolic of the many years he spent in guiding OMC and the industry to the success it now enjoys. He was also surprised by a special award from NAEBM which was the annual Charles Chapman Award. This award was inaugurated in recent years to honor the pioneering publisher and founder of Motor Boating magazine, and publisher of one of boating's most popular guides, "Chapman's Piloting, Seamanship and Small Boat Handling."

The Chapman Award consists of a handsome engraved medallion, plus a check for $1,000 which Evinrude contributed to his favorite charity.

He was cited as being a motivating factor in the progressive innovation and growth of the marine industry. It was noted that the products produced under his leadership reflect his ingenuity, inventiveness and concern for reliability and safety.

Evinrude is active in all phases of OMC operations, which include Evinrude Motors, Johnson Outboards, OMC Stern Drive and OMC Parts and Accessories, plus numerous non-marine divisions. He resides at his principal home in Jensen Beach, where he maintains offices, with his wife, Frances Langford, the former actress and singer. Evinrude is also active in all phases of OMC operations, where he personally presides at all board of director and executive corporate meetings.

BY ROBBIE BEDELL

JENSEN BEACH–No matter what lifestyle a person chooses, there is always a person who comes along and makes improvements.

Bruce and Kathy Parmenter, who reside in a waterfront mobile home at Venture Out on Hutchinson Island, have taken full advantage of the space limitations of their home by making use of every nook inside to customizing their golf cart, which they use to visit friends.

The golf cart, named "Mamsell's Cadie", after their pet poodle, is one of the couple's prized possessions.

Sporting a television set, a CB radio, stereo radio, a loudspeaker and a red blinking emergency light, it is the most unusual of the many golf carts used to travel around Venture Out.

"It took me two years to fix it up," Parmenter said. "It has all the electronic equipment plus night lights under each wheel. One of these days I'll get around to putting the fringe on top."

"We take it out for rides to visit friends every night," Kathy said. "Mamsell enjoys it the most. We socialize with it and play around with it. It's just another toy."

The Parmenters visited the Venture Out Park several years ago, while traveling and fell in love with the area.

"We came here on a Saturday and bought a lot on Sunday," Parmenter said. "I lived in California all my life. I fell in love with this place. I don't think I'll ever go back."

Inside the home, Parmenter has cleverly camouflaged their washer and dryer with kitchen counter material and, beneath each step leading into the home, he has built a drawer.

"I'm always coming up with new ideas," he said. "We landscaped the yard with pine trees and palms and out back we have a raised deck by the water so we can get the breeze."

The furniture in the home is from their Spanish-style house in Van Nuys, California, and was remodeled to fit in the smaller mobile home.

Looking around the inside, it is decorated with a nautical decor and the porch is cooled with a wood-blade electric fan on the ceiling.

"I was the first one to fix up my porch this way," Parmenter said. "I put in the skylights and the fan and the paneling on the porch walls. Now there are other people here who are doing the same thing."

Parmenter is an enthusiastic fisherman who goes after all types of fish and he keeps his boat on davits outside his home.

"It doesn't matter what kind of fish it is," he said. "I like to catch them all."

Artists wanted for festival

STUART–A "Celebration of the Arts Festival" is being planned for Thanksgiving weekend, and sponsors of the event are looking for entrants to span a wide range of the arts.

The festival, to be held at St. Mary's Episcopal Church on East Ocean Boulevard, will be sponsored by The Fine Arts Emporium Inc., a newly formed non-profit organization dedicated to bringing quality art to the area.

Chris Perry, president of the organization, says he is looking for "artists and craftsmen with original work in the visual, preforming, and even the culinary arts, to exhibit and perform."

Perry, who organized an arts celebration at the church about four years ago, back before several local street festivals began, emphasized that he is looking for a wide variety of entrants. "Last time we had a lady who decorated a cake, and she was an artist at it. We want musicians, painters, sculptors, the whole range," he said.

The festival will be held from 10 a.m. to 11:30 p.m. on Nov. 25 and 26.

Perry says space is limited and that entrants will be screened. Those wishing to enter should do so before Oct. 22.

For more information, call Perry at 283-8619 or 283-6340, or call Sarah Woodcock at 287-4776. Or, if you want to write to inquire about the festival, mail your letter to 1261 Colorado Avenue, Stuart, Fl.

Parade scheduled for Fire Prevention Week

BY ROBBIE BEDELL

JENSEN BEACH--If you see a lot of fire engines running around town during the next few days in their uniforms, don't be alarmed.

Chances are that there won't be a fire, it will just be the Jensen Beach and Rio Fire Departments celebrating National Fire Prevention Week (Oct. 9-15).

The festivities have an action packed schedule being a parade, equipment demonstrations and an exhibition soft game.

The parade, which will go down Indian River Street, will get underway at 10 a.m. on Sunday. Parents are urged to bring their children because Smokey the Bear will be there to greet the kids. The Rio and Jensen Fire Departments will participate in the parade.

At 2 p.m. Sunday, the Rio Fire Department will demonstrate the "Jaws of Life" machine, a piece of equipment that cuts automobiles apart for access to trapped victims. The demonstration will take place at Langford Park.

Again at the park, at 8 p.m., Sunday, the two departments will compete against each other in an exhibition softball game.

The rest of the week, firemen will tour local neighborhoods distributing information and making free fire inspections.

At 7 p.m., Monday, the Jensen firemen will be at the Tropical Acres Mobile Home Clubhouse.

From 9 a.m. until 5 p.m., Tuesday, the firemen will make voluntary store inspections in the Jensen Beach area.

At 12:45 p.m., Jensen Beach Fire Chief Joe Luciano and Division of Forestry Fireman Tom Read will appear on the "Viewpoint" radio program.

At the same time, the Jensen department will give an equipment demonstration at the Jensen Beach Elementary School and at 7:15 p.m., they will be at the Pinelake Village Clubhouse.

At 7:45 p.m., the Jensen department will perform its regular weekly drill at Leilani Heights.

From 8 a.m. until 5 p.m., Wednesday, Oct. 12, there will be more voluntary store inspections in the Jensen Beach area.

During the same hours, there will be an open house at the Jensen Beach Firehouse. All are welcome to tour the department located just across the street from the railroad tracks on Palmetto Drive. Refreshments will be served.

On Thursday, Oct. 13, at 7 p.m., the firemen will be at the clubhouse at Angler's Cove on Hutchinson Island.

At 10:30 a.m., Friday, Oct. 14, the firemen will be at the Jensen Beach Community Church on Skyline Drive and at 7 p.m. the same day, the two departments will be at the Winn-Dixie Shopping Center.

At 9:30 a.m., Saturday, Oct. 15, the firemen will be at Ocean Breeze Park.

One of the things the firemen will do is pass out invalid escape door markers.

The stickers will be given to all disabled persons who might, in case of fire, have a problem evacuating the home. The Jensen department will distribute the markers for free at the fire house.

Those who do not get one at the fire house may call 334-2220 and a sticker will be delivered and installed.

Women Aglow meet Saturday

STUART--The Stuart Chapter of Women's Aglow Fellowship will hold its October luncheon meeting Saturday, Oct. 8, at 11:30 a.m. at Holiday Inn, Stuart.

Guest speaker for the occasion will be Pauline Harthern. She is the wife of Dr. Roy Harthern, pastor of Calvary Assembly in Orlando. Before coming to this country, Mrs Harthern taught school in London, England and she and her husband traveled in evangelistic ministry throughout the world. She is the mother of four teenagers.

Women's Aglow Fellowship is an international Christian organization, interdenominational in aspect. The monthly meetings are open to all women of the area. However, reservations are required.

Reservations for the Saturday affair may be made by calling Blanche Sergay at 287-7321. Free baby sitting is available at the First United Methodist Church for those attending the luncheon. Reservations should be made in this instance no later than Oct. 6.

Jensen woman may have encephalitis

JENSEN BEACH--Elderly persons in the Rio and Jensen Beach areas are being advised by the Martin County Health Department to stay away from low-lying and fresh water pond areas to prevent being bitten by fresh water Culex mosquitoes.

The warning is being issued because a Jensen Beach woman, whose name has not been released, could be suffering from St. Louis encephalitis.

The disease is carried by the mosquito. The symptoms are headache, fever and nausea, and the sickness could lead to death.

The Jensen Beach woman, who is under treatment at a West Palm Beach hospital, has also been suffering from an earlier, unrelated illness, according to Martin County Health Director Dr. Archie McAllister.

Dr. McAllister said that the woman's physician is considering encephalitis, but it is not a "diagnostic certainty." Blood tests for the disease have not yet been completed, he said.

The Martin County Department of Environmental Control is stepping up its spraying efforts to kill the fresh water mosquitoes.

"Basically, we are using the same methods to combat them," said Environmental Director Les Scherer. "But we are increasing our activity in fresh water areas."

Scherer said his men are spraying fresh water and pond areas with larvacide. The Culex mosquitoes are not common in areas away from fresh water because they do not fly far from where they are hatched, Scherer added.

"They're not real prevalent unless you get right into the cypress swamps," he said. "They don't fly far and they're only active for a short period a half hour before sunrise and a half hour after sunset."

Scherer suggested that anyone who must go to an area where the mosquitoes might exist wear clothing which will prevent bites.

"Take whatever precautions you can," he said. "Use repellant and wear shoes or boots so they won't bite you around the ankles. You might even want to wear a long-sleeved shirt. Try to avoid a bite as much as possible.

Scherer said the elderly and the very young are most susceptible to the disease, but anyone may get it.

Barracudas even record with first win

BY DONNIE WILKIE

JENSEN BEACH–The Jensen Beach Barracudas concluded their 1977 regular season home schedule in spectacular fashion last Saturday night, taking a 19-6 victory at the expense of the winless Palm City Dolphins.

The Jensen Beach defense led the charge, limiting the visitors to only 80 yards of total offense, including only nine yards and no first downs in the first half.

Meanwhile, the Barracuda offense looked improved since last week's 28-0 setback against Port Salerno, with running back Chris Fitzpatrick gaining a game-leading 68 yards in 14 carries. His running mate, Derick Jochem, added 34 yards in 11 tries as the Barracudas controlled the line of scrimmage.

Quarterback Todd Laycock hit on 4 of 9 tosses for 41 yards while leading the home team on all three of its touchdown drives. Also, the offensive line was brilliant, as Laycock did not have to run at all during the game.

Jensen Beach got its first score midway through the first quarter after recovering a Palm City fumble at the 21-yard-line, as Jochem burst around the right side of the field for a 6-yard touchdown run. The point-after was no good, so the score remained 6-0.

Fitzpatrick scored his only touchdown of the night after Rickie Lord blocked a Palm City punt in the second quarter, and this one came on a 3-yard plunge. Again, the Barracudas failed on the extra point attempt, so the score stood at 12-0 as the teams headed for halftime get-togethers.

Palm City quarterback Gerald Perla got things going for the Dolphins in the third quarter as he drove his team 43 yards after the second half kickoff for a touchdown. Perla gained 32 of those yards on quarterback keepers around end, and scored the touchdown, a 1-yard run. The success of Perla on this drive made everyone wonder why he had not run with the ball at all in the first half.

Holding a 12-6 edge, the Barracudas wanted to hold onto the ball and not commit any crucial turnovers after an exchange of punts gave JB the ball at the Palm City 38. From there, and with the clock now running down toward the end of the game, the Barracudas mounted their final drive, which saw Jochem get his second touchdown on a 1-yard dive. Fitzpatrick added the extra point run to make it 19-6.

The Barracuda defense did not want to go home without leaving their mark on the Palm City Dolphins. Fitzpatrick, who goes both ways for the Jemenites, almost intercepted a pass from Perla with time running out at the Palm City 15. If Fitzpatrick had held on, he would have run untouched for a fourth Jensen touchdown. But instead, the clock ran out on Palm City and the Barracudas had their first victory.

The win evens their record at 1-1-1, with the tie coming in the first week of the season against Port St. Lucie, 0-0.

Jensen Beach now will take to the road for its next two games, including next week's contest at Indiantown. After the Thunderbirds comes Stuart, and finally Hobe Sound. The game against the Trojans will be played at Langford Park only because Hobe Sound has no field and will count as a home game for the Trojans.

Southport center is exempt from city zoning moratorium

BY BOB FRYER

PORT ST. LUCIE--Contrary to an opinion expressed last week by Mayor Bill McChesney that the proposed Southport Shopping Center would be included in a city-wide, 120-day zoning moratorium, the controversial project will not be affected by the moratorium.

That was the opinion of the new city planner, Mike Sznuyog, when he discussed the Southport project after a Planning and Zoning Board meeting Friday morning, Sept. 30. On Monday, Oct. 3, City Manager Elmer Cox confirmed that the moratorium does not affect the Southport proposal.

Sznuyog said Friday that the mayor was apparently mistaken when he said the Southport center would fall under the moratorium.

"I don't think he realized there had been a formal zoning request filed for the project," Sznuyog said.

When council members voted to impose the moratorium, they decided to impose it on all zoning requests within the city "except those currently pending."

In addition to the Southport project, other zoning requests currently pending, and therefore exempt from the moratorium, are: a zoning request by developer Paul Zinter for a small shopping center along Port St. Lucie Boulevard, near the site of the future City Hall; a zoning request for St. James Church, a Greek Orthodox church, to be built east of the future City Hall site (which will be on a 14.5 acre tract at Port St. Lucie and Airoso Boulevards); a zoning request for a 714-unit mobile home park east of U.S. 1 near the Port St. Lucie Industrial Park; and residential zoning requests to allow larger homes on lots along Cambridge Drive and Elmhurst Road.

City Manager Cox said the city council will hold a public hearing for final approval of Zinter's proposed shopping center on Oct. 25. The residential zoning requests will also be presented for final approval at that meeting.

The zoning request and site plans for the St. James Church will come before the Planning and Zoning Board on Oct. 17. If approved, the project will then be referred to the city council for consideration.

Cox said the mobile home park will "probably" also come before the Planning and Zoning Board on Oct. 17. Cox noted that, so far, the mobile home park has been discussed by the board, but said the board has not granted zoning or site plan approval for the project.

...pposition is voiced against ...council zoning moratorium

BY BOB FRYER

...RT ST. LUCIE--The recently ...ved 120-day moratorium on zoning ...s the city met with stiff opposition ...ng a city council meeting Tuesday ...t, but council members voted three ...ote to confirm the moratorium ...sion.

...st Tuesday, Sept. 27, the council ...bers voted to impose the ...oratorium. At that time the Assistant ...y Attorney, Fred Horowitz, advised council that even though they had ...d to impose the moratorium, they ...ld formally confirm the vote by ...ing a moratorium resolution at the ...day, Oct. 4 meeting.

...en the moratorium vote came up ...week, it was at the end of the council ...g, after many persons in the ...ence had gone home, and the item ...d been listed on the agenda—even ...City Planner Mike Sznuyog, City ...ger Elmer Cox, and Mayor Bill ...ney had discussed the mora...m idea the day before.

...he meeting Tuesday night, several ...s voiced criticism on the way the ...rium vote was originally taken. ...ni Development Corporation ...ney Saul Sack told the council that ...t the moratorium "Violates both ...law and your own ordinances." He ...ld the council "should have given due ...rt notice of at least 14 days so there ...d be public participation" in the ...rium decision.

...ewhere in your city ordinances do ...provide for calling a moratorium," ...d said, adding that any decision to ...ge zoning should require proper ...ce to the public.

...istant City Attorney Horowitz ...reed with Sack, saying the city did ...violate state or city ordinances in ...e the moratorium. "We're not ...ging our zoning laws, just imposing ...ratorium and keeping the status ...it as a result of the moratorium ...re zoning changes or Modifi...ns to zoning laws, then we would ...to give due notice and proper ...earish. If we make any changes, we ...be required by law to give the notice ...tify the property owners in the ...nding area," Horowitz said.

...official C.C. Crump said it was ...air "to impose the 120 day ...rium without going through the ...e procedure and going first ...gh the Planning and Zoning ...We think it's a bad precedent."

...recent weeks strong opposition has ...ed to a proposed zoning change to ...a large shopping center in the ...y club section of the city. ...per Peter Smith of Sandpiper ...lic, (not related to Sandpiper Bay ...rts) has submitted plans for a large ...Dixie supermarket, a two story ...building, numerous retail shops, a ...rant seating more than 200 ...ns, a bank branch, and a 7-11 ...nience store on a 7.18 acre tract ...Morningside Drive. That tract ...in the present shopping complex ...the City Hall is located.

...wo Planning and Zoning Board ...ngs the tract in question was ...ssified by board members for a ...ning category. What Smith has ...ed could be built with PSC zoning, ...board members said in voting to ...mend PSC zoning that they would ...ally approve the original site plans ...e came time to consider them.

...the Planning and Zoning Board ...mends a zoning category for land, ...atter goes to the city council for a ...decision. The city council was ...ally to have considered the PSC ...ng recommendation at the Tuesday,

DEFENDING THE MORATORIUM--Assistant City Attorney Fred Horowitz defended the action of the city council to impose a 120-day moratorium on all zoning within the city. Though a General Development Corporation attorney said the moratorium violates state and city laws, Horowitz said the action was legal.

Sept. 27 meeting. But, on the day before--the same day Cox, Sznuyog and McChesney discussed the moratorium--Planning and Zoning Board Chairman H.R. Neighbours met with Sznuyog and said rather than have the PSC zoning recommendation come before the city council, he wanted the Planning and Zoning Board to call a special meeting to reconsider its PSC recommendation. So, the next day the council did not consider the PSC zoning, and after hearing numerous residents voice opposition to the shopping center plans, voted to impose the moratorium. By the time the vote came, Smith and many of the residents against the shopping center had left the meeting.

But Smith was called by this reporter after the meeting and told of the moratorium decision and of the decision to have a special meeting of the Planning and Zoning Board on Friday, Sept. 30 to reconsider the PSC zoning recommendation. Smith said he would contact his attorney about the moratorium decision and said he would attend the Friday meeting.

However, at the Tuesday, Oct. 4 council meeting Smith told council members, "I was not appraised the Planning and Zoning Board would meet on Friday and that they would change their recommendation (of PSC zoning) they'd confirmed at two previous meetings." Smith asked whether there had been any public notice about the meeting and was told the media was given an agenda of the meeting prior to it occurring.

Smith then said, "On recommendation and instructions from my legal counsel, I have no further comment."

Horowitz then instructed council members not to discuss the Shopping Center plans, as he felt there may be litigation over it.

Sznuyog said when the moratorium was announced that he would use the 120 days to review all non-residential tracts in the city that are currently unzoned and that he hopes to come up with a map at the end of the moratorium with suggestions for zoning those tracts. There are several hundred tracts now unzoned in the city, including the tract Smith wants to develop his Southport Shopping Center on. Sznuyog also said that during the moratorium he will review the various zoning categories, including B-1 (a neighborhodd shopping center classification which the Planning and Zoning Board voted to recommend for part of the Smith tract on Friday), and said he may suggest revisions to the zoning categories to make them more restrictive.

Crump of GDC said his company has been working for 20 years to come up with a comprehensive plan for the city and said "it is rediculous" to review a zoning plan for the city in 120 days.

Another GDC official, Eric Traub, said he is negotiating the sale of some land in the industrial park area which he is not sure is zoned. "If it isn't, it (the moratorium) means we may be saying no to a small industry that would generate some employment."

Only those projects which had zoning matters pending before the city before the moratorium was imposed (see related story) will be exempt from the moratorium.

When it came time for the vote on the resolution to confirm the moratorium decision, Mayor McChesney, Vice Mayor Mike Reeb and councilman Merle Anderson voted for it. Councilman Schuyler Sharpe, who expressed fear the moratorium would be extended beyond the 120 day limit and who said he hated to see the city possibly lose an industry, voted against it. Councilwoman Lolita Kernohan was absent.

A HOUSING BOOM is underway in Port St. Lucie and city building officials says there is no end in sight. A total of 696 permits were issued for new homes in the city during the recently ended fiscal year. Shown working on one of those new homes are Dave VanCise, foreground, and Tom Morgan.

Building boom continues

PORT ST. LUCIE--The building boom in Port St. Lucie seems to be without limit.

City Building Department Director Ralph LaChance announced Tuesday that during the fiscal year which ended on Sept. 30, a total of 696 permits were issued for new homes in the city, and, he says, "As each month goes by, we're getting busier and busier. Sometimes I feel like I'm in New York City, with all this construction going on."

In reporting on the building trend for the last fiscal year, LaChance noted that the value of the homes built or now under construction during the last 12 months totals $16,265,058 and that the issuance of permits resulted in more than $240,000 in revenue to the city.

As an example of the building boom, LaChance points to statistics for the last month, when 77 permits for new homes were issued. That markes the fifth month in a row that 70 or more permits were issued.

Since the beginning of 1977, a total of 591 housing permits have been issued, valued at a whopping $13,763,193. During the first nine months of 1976, only 283 housing permits were issued, with a total value of $7,408,884.

"This is by far the best year the Building Department has had since it was originated in 1968. The department started with three employees and now we have 11. From all the people I've seen coming in the office to inquire about building houses and commercial structures, I would say next year will be even better," LaChance said.

PORT ST. LUCIE--The attck on a 70-year-old Port St. Lucie man Sunday by a nine-foot alligator prompted city councilmen to vote Tuesday night to send a letter of commendation to John Carroll, a city resident credited with saving the life of the alligator victim.

Thomas Rogers of 2799 Pine Valley Road was clearing weeds from his back yard Sunday when the gator attacked and dragged him into a nearby pond. He lost related to Sandpiper Bay Rogers received severe lacerations to his skull and face, nearly had his left wrist cut off, and sustained a gash on his leg. He was taken to Martin Memorial Hospital in serious condition and quickly underwent surgery. Hospital officials reported Tuesday that Rogers has now been moved from the intensive care unit and is in satisfactory condition. According to a New Caanan, Conn., newspaper, Rogers lived in that city for at least 26 years, where he worked as an electrical engineer before coming to Florida in 1973.

Had it not been for the quick action of a neighbor, John Carroll of 2939 San Geronimo Road, Rogers may well have died from the alligator attack. Carroll, who is a retired judge from Connecticut, was playing golf on the Saints course with his wife and a friend when they heard noises and groaning coming from a pond next to the second hold. Carroll went to investigate and saw the gator dragging Rogers into the water.

Carroll grabbed a rake from his golf cart and began beating the alligator. He managed to free Rogers from the grip of the gator and carry him to the golf cart. Then he called out for help and another resident called for an ambulance. A number of observers said the quick response by the ambulance, plus the application by Carroll of a tourniquet around Rogers' arm were responsible for keeping the victim alive. Until the tourniquet was applied, Rogers was bleeding profusely from the cut on his wrist.

"Until an emergency happens, you just don't know how you would react. A lot of us found that out in World War II. Some people act with courage and some don't. John Carroll reacted with courage, and I'm sure it was his quick thinking that saved Mr. Rogers' life," Mayor Bill McChesney said as he and other council members voted to send Carroll a letter of commendation.

A Fresh Water Fish and Game Commission officer was called to the pond and the alligator was destroyed. But the attack prompted city councilmen to call for removal of all alligators from golf course ponds.

"It's a difficult task to remove the alligators because you can take them out of a pond and, during the night, another alligator will move in. There are so many alligators in the North Fork of the St. Lucie River that I'm sure we will not get rid of all of them. But we should have better control," McChesney said.

Though it was reported that the alligator which attacked Rogers was a male, McChesney said most alligator attacks this time of year come from female alligators because they are protecting eggs or newly hatched alligators. He asked for all city residents to be very cautious around ponds and said, "Please, don't feed them. That's the worst thing you can do because if they get used to being fed, they may come after you when you have nothing to feed them."

Councilman Merle Anderson noted that alligators like to live among tall weeds and he said if there were tall weeds around the pond where Rogers was attacked. He called on General Development Corporation officials to clear the tall weeds around all the golf course ponds. GDC representative Bob Seeley said this would be done, and noted that from time to time GDC has called on game wardens to remove alligators and that GDC has posted warning signs in areas where there may be alligators.

City Public Safety Director Douglas Stout said he heard that Rogers told a deputy that he (Rogers) has previously fed the alligator which attacked him. Stout said he also understood that the attack did not occur in the area of the tall weeds.

In addition to voting to send Carroll a letter of commendation and calling on game wardens to remove alligators from golf course ponds, the council members said they would look into the possibility of getting other organizations to issue commendations for Carroll.

Accident ...

DOUBLE FLIP--This van and car both flipped over during an accident Tuesday afternoon on SR 707 in front of the Beau Jardine Apartments. Tyrone Woods, shown sticking his head out of the van, was towing the car when the car's bumper came loose. Mark Begley, owner of the car, said when the bumper came loose, "the car swung around and just flipped both vehicles over." No serious injuries were reported, but a passenger in the van, Tricia McCrain, received a bruise on her arm.

Wow, it is hot here!

Many Ocean Breezers came back last week, most remarking, "It's getting cold up there and, wow! is it hot here." Next week, when they get acclimated, they'll know this OPB weather is just right.

The week's arrivals include Ursula Short, Jack and Edith Dodge, Marie Short, Otto and Dorothy Schorer, Mildred Fenwick, James and Frances Wood, Fritz and Bunnie Springman, W.P. and Helen Kronenbitter, Vera Falk, Pete and Peg Muller, Earl and Irvin Sheehy, Treva Kane, Ada Baum, Earl and Lila Ehrmann, Frank and Rose Miller, Warner and Sophia Johnson, Earl and Marion Burbank, making the season's total more than 102.

Last week's "Do You Remember When" train story caused some discussion about present day trains. Some say the engineers have individualized their horn-blasts and can be recognized each time they go by (like San Fransisco Cable Cars). Others wonder why some have a gentle "toot toot" and others wail long blasts (enough to wake the dead). Some find it comforting and friendly to hear the trains go by in the dead of night, counting the "clicks" instead of sheep, while others find the clatter almost unbearable. Let's have your comments.

The notice is up on the shuffle court bulletin board: "Martin Co. Health Dept. Clinic for free blood pressure checks and nutrition counselling will be held at Langford Park, Friday, Oct. 21."

This clinic is under the supervision of Dr. Archie MacCallister, with Nurse McNamenon in charge. Be sure to visit and find out what other free services can be made available.

PARK EVENTS

Bingo will be starting up very soon. Watch the bulletin boards and keep ears open for PA system announcement.

Shuffle courts now look like winter time with seven courts busy most nights, and four or more in the morning. That's the place to find out who's back and if they've practiced a little during the summer.

CARD WINNERS

Contract, Sept. 27: Gladys Gilbert, Mildred Skinner, Gert Kline.

Pinochle, Sept. 26: Ruth Troger, Charles Wiedemann.

Pinochle, Sept. 29: Gladys Baier, E. Martin, E. Sheleski.

Pinochle, Oct. 1: Jo Doring, Emma Saum, Ruth Troger, Carol Chapman, Charles Slezak.

AMBULANCE & HOSPITAL

David Donaldson asked Jim Nixon to dispose of odds and ends left after his yard sale. Warren Grove bought a gas heater and the proceeds were donated to the Samaritan Ambulance.

Ann Saunders is now back home, after siege of pneumonia in a New Jersey hospital. (See "thank you" elsewhere on this page for address.)

Fritz and Bunnie Springman arrived home sooner than expected, but the flags were waving and joyous shouts of neighbors welcomed them, after their five month Philadelphia stay where Fritz underwent surgical treatment. It was a fabulous homecoming and Bunnie remarked on the many cards they'd received from folks who said, "Saw by the Mirror that Fritz was in the hospital." Those very welcome cards were much appreciated.

THANK YOU

Mrs. Ann Saunders, of 11 NE 6th St., wants to thank all the Ocean Breeze folks and all her northern friends for the deluge of get-well cards she received while in the hospital.

She is now back at "Friends Home", Friend Drive, Woodstown, N.J. 08098, and says, "Thank you all very much."

DO YOU REMEMBER WHEN...

It looks as though the 1977-78 shuffleboard season is about to get underway, so maybe some of the relative newcomers would like to know how it got started here in OBP.

According to Freda Peterkin's scrapbook, Jack MacNab noted that shuffleboard originated aboard ship and was first played in Florida on the Peabody Courts in Daytona Beach. Then, in 1940, Harry made two courts behind the office, where they had to use wooden discs, warped and cracked, and for cues they resorted to heavy broom handles and big wooden heads.

It wasn't long, however, before someone came up with the idea of using bamboo poles with potato mashers for heads...at one time, there wasn't a potato masher to be found in local stores.

So popular did the sport become that two more courts had to be made between 7th and 8th streets, south of Broad. Soon there was a furious rivalry between the "River Rats" (office courts) and the "Track Walkers" (8th St. courts). There were frequent tournaments, with the whole park rooting on favorites.

These tournaments were such fun that Harry Hoke and Ernie Springer decided everybody should get a chance at the fun, so in 1949, they formed the "Indian River League".

The first trophy was won by OBP with Harry making the presentation at Fort Pierce, where crowds of 500 to 2000 watched. Ocean Breeze has continued to be a winner throughout all these years.

The league activities made it necessary to increase the number of courts, so in 1949, ten courts were built in their present location by Clement Hall. Harry had the courts constructed exactly to tournament specifications and when first used by a number of state champions, they were dubbed "finest around the state".

Throughout the years, the courts were improved. Lighting, bleachers, awnings, and for awhile a Snack Bar, with sun bathing facilities on top that were of considerable interest to low flying planes and slow moving trains.

By the 70's there were OBP tournaments for all, with the Petticoats vs. the Stags attracting wide attention for their season-end show where losers suffered embarrassing forfeits. How many remember the mock funeral of a few years ago?

RAMBLING AROUND

Earl and Irvin Sheehy of Oak St. are back from five months in Larsen, Wisc., where they had an acre garden. Seems that Irvin was the gardener, producing green beans, tomatoes, carrots, 10-lb. cabbages, all completely organic (no commercial chemicals or pesticides).

Earl was the canner, putting up 96 quarts, 144 pints and 288 half pints of delicious food for the winter. They were busy, but not too busy to jaunt into town, 30 miles away, once or twice a week for breakfast.

Where are the Sages? Well, Milt and Bertie have moved into their Airstream on 9th St., while waiting for their new home at Spanish Lakes.

Otto and Dorothy Schorer, 16 Ocean Breeze Drive, are back from four months in Huntington, Mass. Otto's granddaughter's wedding in June got them off to a good start, even though it caused them to cancel their Scandinavian tour. They were at a lake where Dorothy had a beautiful flower garden. It was nice weather at the lake, but often 100 plus in town. They took and eight day tour around the Gaspe Peninsula and then, as it was getting too cold for their open cottage, they took off early for OBP and are glad to be back.

Elston and Doris Lehning, 1 Key Lime, have returned from a Hawaiian trip. Doris is no longer skeptical about flying. "Bring on the planes and away I'll go," says Doris, after experiencing the comfort of the big 707 and the huge 747. Even the nine hours coming back were taken in stride, maybe a little groggy and bleary eyed as an early morning call, flight delay, and going against time made it 36 hours from between the sheets to between the sheets again.

Hawaii was great. They'll be going back.

Earl and Marion Burbank, 6 Bay Dr., are back. They didn't go ti Idaho this year, but did take a 3500-mile, one-month trip to Omaha, Nebraska, to visit family and take care of some business. Overall, the weather was ideal, maybe too hot going up, but fine after that, until they hit the love-bugs around Jacksonville.

Ada Baum of 2 Pepper, a park resident since 1955, is back after spending five months at St. Williams, Ontario, on the shores of Lake Erie. She says she had a good summer on the lake with some side trips to see friends and relatives. Good cold weather up there now, trees have turned, even some are bare. Fall has arrived a month ahead of schedule.

Ada had a good flight back and doesn't find it a bit too hot here as she busily works in her flower garden.

Earl and Lila Ehrmann, 7 Kumquat, have just returned from a seven month stay in Flint, Michigan. While up north, Earl underwent surgery at Ann Arbor and Lila was also under treatment there. A family reunion was attended by more than 50 persons. It is an annual affair in Frankfort, Mich., where pot luck meals are enjoyed by all, even the great great grandchildren.

Earl is another who found the northern circulation of The Mirror great, the get well cards sure came his way and, after two months of recuperating, they were appreciated.

Pete and Peg Muller, 19 Kumquat, returned after five months in Hendersonville, where they shuffled with Guy Fusco, the Leyshons and the Fairs. Pete says it was hotter than hades at times, but he had two nice trips to New York to see his kids.

Hunter and Helen Hudson, 4 Bay Dr., have been back for a while, but fresh in Helen's mind is how they conducted bingo up there in Methuen, Mass. The Twilight Senior Citizen Club has bingo one afternoon a week, with a 65 cent charge for prizes and refreshments. It's the latter that pleased Helen, as at 3 p.m., there was a stop for coffee and danish.

Port St. Lucie Chapter 2086

A series of changes in the chapter's standing rules was discussed by the board of directors at its October meeting, which was held in September, actually, because of the Bahamas cruise this month. The meeting took place last Thursday at the Port St. Lucie Medical and Professional Center under the aegis of President Fred Wiggin.

The modifications in the standing ...promises, as a result of one year's experience of operating under the rules. They are designed to facilitate and strength the operations of the chapter. The proposed amendments will be submitted to the members at the next regular membership meeting, which will be in November.

This month's meeting, as most members know, will be an open meeting to hear experts on Medicare tell how to file Medicare claims.

Advance publicity material has been received from Blue Cross-Blue Shield headquarters in Jacksonville and this information will be given wide distribution so that all senior citizens will know they're invited to attend the meeting.

Some folks have raised the question of why Blue Cross is running this show. The answer is that they are the "carriers" or agents of HEW in Florida, and as such they process all Medicare claims.

The seminar will provide step-by-step instructions for filling out Medicare claim forms. The purpose of the program, according to the advance material, "is to inform you how you and your physician can prepare your claim so that it will not be delayed due to insufficient information when submitted. The meeting will be held at the Port St. Lucie Community Center on Thursday, Oct. 20, at 1:30 p.m.

The usual AARP business meeting will be dispensed with in order to provide all the time needed for the Medicare presentation and the question-and-answer session that will follow.

All interested senior citizens in the area are invited to attend the seminar. An indication of its value is the fact that about 85,000 Medicare claims monthly are received by the processing center at Jacksonville, which can't be processed because of insufficient information on the claim form. This results in tortuous delays for folks who need the money.

In St. Lucie and Martin Counties last year, Medicare B claim payments (for doctors and medicine, but not for hospitals) came to approximately $3 million, a sizeable amount of money even in these days of astronomical budgets.

Starting in January, our regular meetings will be held in the Community Center, giving us more ample accommodations and facilities to take care of our growing membership. The board voted at its meeting to move the meeting place from the Marina to the Community Center and adopted a vote of thanks to the Marina for providing the chapter with a place to gather during its early phase.

As already stated, the October meeting will be open to all persons who want to find out how to file Medicare claims and will be held at the Center.

Our final meeting at the Marina will be held in November, since the annual meeting in December will be a luncheon at a restaurant yet to be decided on. Jim Kearney and Maurie Arluck are now scouting around for a suitable place.

The program for the November meeting will be a presentation by Edward A. Menninger of Stuart, author and horticulturist, who will talk about plants and seeds, both of which are subjects of direct concern to many of our members.

Jim Kearney reported that advertising for the Bulletin is coming along for the next year. Muriel Sysak and Maurie Arluck, plus Margareth and Charles Coffman are the stalwarts who put out the Bulletin every month.

Bill Kosloge, assistant state AARP director for our region, had planned to attend the board meeting, but was unable to do so because of illness in his family. We look forward to seeing Bill at the December meeting, when new officers will be installed, following the election.

Bill McMorran, national tax aide coordinator in Washington, is in with a letter about plans for the Tax Aide Program (TAP) for 1978. One point of interest is that membership in AARP is not necessary in order to be a tax aide. However, all participants in our program were last year and probably will be this time.

Tom Carlile, program coordinator for our chapter, said he has been in touch with most of the volunteers who participated last time. Everyone with whom he has spoken has indicated readiness to serve again, Tom said.

Greeted Charles and Carrie Ullmann on their return. As usual, Carrie may be seen every day at the pool and beach, or riding through the park on her three-wheeler.

Other returnees I visited were John and Grace Madden, who say they are glad to be back, after spending a rather lazy summer up north.

Bob and Gert Long and Bob and Rita Royal are vacationing in the park for the week. The Longs spend the first week at home, putting a new roof on their garage.

Welcome to Mr. and Mrs. Figgs, who are new owners of lot 425. Stop by and say hello to these friendly people.

The Bob Royals' daughter Linda was married Sept. 24 to Lenny Cobeek in Bal Harbor Church by the Sea. They are honeymooning in Carolina and were thrilled to find three sapphires, one garnet and a three-carat ruby, gem hunting. They will reside in Miramar.

Holiday Outlines

Assisted by Elizabeth O'Donnell and Peg Ray

A letter from Lisbee and Artie Smith reports they are now relaxing at home at Crator Lake in Virginia after a busy summer of traveling. Soon their college football schedule will keep them busy. They will be down here the latter part of November.

News from Ray and Kay Johnson: Ray has recovered fully from his operation and they will return the first week of November.

We have learned that Harold Landis is recovering successfully from recent surgery. We wish him well.

June Carleton of lot 162 came out to the park over the weekend to really labor in her yard. She cut a large banana tree that was twining around her palm tree by hand with a 12-inch saw. Some men passing by remarked, "What a woman!" Also, she cleaned up her other plants.

William and Jean Sprout had a new trailer delivered to their lot last week, so they should be coming into the park very soon.

Austin and Mae Williams returned from their summer spent with their son Peter and daughter Nancy in New York state. They said it was an uneventful summer, but a very happy one, and they were glad to be able to help the family, baby sitting Peter's cat while he and his family were in California for three weeks, and helping out when daughter Nancy returned from the hospital after surgery.

We were sorry to learn that Raymond Dahlstrom died at their summer home in Warsaw, Indiana, last week. We extend sincere sympathy to his wife Hester and her family.

Mac and Betty O'Donnell have returned many stray dogs to their rightful owners over the year. In fact, they keep a dog and a cat leash on hand for emergencies. But a large turtle poses a dilemma.

Where do you put a leash on a turtle, especially one that measures 18 inches in length? Mac finally herded the frightened creature into a pail and then had to exert all his force to keep him there until Betty could drive the car to the nearest wooded area. When he was released, the turtle scrambled off into the brush, but he did leave a "thank you"? card in the pail.

Many more familiar faces around, as more lot owners return. Among the arrivals last week were Mr. and Mrs. Richard Taggs, new owners of lot 425; the Charles Ullmans, lot 290; the J.C. Freemans on 374; Maurice McKeevers on 133; Charles Leach on 445; and the John Maddens, lot 288.

Happy birthday wishes are this week to John Smanioto, Millicent Furman and Loren Oct. 6; Paul Pisklewicz and Schmidt, Oct. 7; Carrie Lang, and Ronald Levine, Oct. 9.

Take driving seriously

We congratulate Donna Olesen on her driving advancement....last week she passed a riding mower in the subdivision ...the same mower that passed her a few weeks back. Donna is a student at Indian River Community College and her sister Melanie is attending pre-school and loves it.

With the critical assistance of father Bob, Sheila Dowers is a good driver, too. Coming from a state of rough driving schools, Bob decided that if she was to drive down here where drivers from 50 states aim at you in 50 different ways, she would have to take the acid test on defensive driving. Bob proved to be a good teacher as she now has her license and, like Donna, will be racing riding mowers until she has the courage to get it into high gear.

Now that our new young residents are taking their driving seriously, maybe we should send some of the 20 through 30 year olds through the same course...especially those going 50 mph on Palm Lake Drive.

WARNING: In the event of an auto accident, keep your driver's license on your person until a law enforcement officer arrives.

Palm Lake Park

BY ELEANOR E. FALK, 287-2999

There have been cases throughout the state where a driver will demand to see a license, and then drive away, and the obliging driver must go through all of the red tape of a duplicate license. This is especially pulled on the female driver who become nervous at an accident.

Sally Ciechanowski, wife of President Joe, is still confined to a West Palm Beach hospital in Intensive Care.

We learn that Carrie Arnold has been ill, too, but is feeling better.

The picnic scheduled for Sunday, Oct. 16, on our island has been cancelled due to lack of support and enthusiasm. Another entertainment attempt will be made later in the year.

Do not forget the meeting of the Palm Lake Park Civic Association on Monday, Oct. 17, when Rep. Dale Cassens will be the guest and will speak on subjects that are of interest to the homeowner.

We urge a large attendance. This will be open to the public and not restricted to residents of Palm Lake Park.

Rio Lindo Garden Club plans busy year

PORT ST. LUCIE–The Rio Lindo ...ne Club of Port St. Lucie, affiliated ...the Florida Federation of Garden ...bs, Inc., met last week at the Port St. ...ie Community Center.

...s program chairman, Mrs. Paul Wilkens, gave a schedule of programs planned for the year and told of special events.

Two workshops are scheduled for making Christmas articles to be sold at the Christmas House, Dec. 3, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Herman. The first workshop is set for Monday, Oct. 17, with the second scheduled for Wednesday, Nov. 2. Mrs. Lawrence Hett, Junior Gardener chairman, introduced Marirose Insogna and Christine Foley, the girls who went to Camp Wehiva for a week, sponsored by Rio Lindo. The girls said they had a very exciting week, filled with different activities, and displayed articles they had made during the week at camp.

Mrs. Clyde Edwards reminded members that all tickets must be sold and turned in by Monday, Nov. 28, for the two oil paintings displayed at the Community Center, painted by Mahlon Cline, given to the club to raffle, with proceeds to be equally divided between Rio Lindo and the Community Center building fund.

Christmas decoration contest is planned

PORT ST. LUCIE–The Port St. Lucie Woman's Club and General Development Corporation are combining forces to sponsor a Christmas home decoration contest this year. The contest will be open to all householders in Port St. Lucie and River Park.

"We want to do something which will make our community the most beautiful on the east coast at Christmas," said Mrs. Clarence A. Frazer, chairman for the event.

Cash prizes will be awarded for both lighted and unlighted outdoor decorations. Categories will include best decorated home, best religious display, best roof display, best lamppost or mailbox display, best door decoration, and best outdoor greeting card.

No contest of this sort was undertaken in the Port St. Lucie area last year. In 1975, the local Junior Chamber of Commerce sponsored a contest which was judged by members of the Woman's Club. At that time, Mrs. Frazer said, it was apparent that some type of registration for a home to be judged would need to be instituted another year.

"In 1977, there are many more homes on the 500 to 800 miles of streets in town," Mrs. Frazer said. "We might miss some unless we knew just where to look."

Entry blanks to be filled out and returned by the householders entering the contest will be distributed in late November and December.

The best outdoor greeting card is a new category this year. According to the contest plans, no size limits will be specified and it can be a lighted or unlighted greeting to passersby.

VOL. 18 NO. 40 OCTOBER 12, 1977 36 PAGES

OFFERED—Land in the proposed industrial park is being offered in this sign on the property. The zoning of the property is R-2, but an application has been made for zoning to industrial M-1. The land is located near the VFW Club on South Savanna Road.

Industrial Park plan opposed in Jensen

JENSEN BEACH—A proposal to rezone 28 acres of Jensen Beach land from R-2 to M-1 industrial has aroused Jensen Beach property owners and residents in opposition, and Thursday night's zoning board meeting should be the scene of heated protest.

The rezoning is asked by Richard Geisinger, Stuart and Ft. Lauderdale real estate developer. The land is located along the FEC Railroad, is divided by Warner Creek and has frontage on South Savanna Road (SR 723).

Geisinger is already advertising the proposed park with a sign on SR 723 offering to "subdivide or build to suit."

Opposition is expected from neighboring property owners and residents, including the Veterans of Foreign Wars, with a post home adjoining the property, Beacon 21, across the FEC tracks from the property, and neighbors in Pinelake Village, Tropical Acres, and developers W.B. Tilton, Coy and Deggeler and G.A. Construction. Petitions against rezoning have been received in the planning and zoning office from Tropical Acres and Pinelake Village.

Rezoning would, in effect, challenge the recently approved master plan of the north county area.

As it exists, there is an industrial park owned by W.B. Tilton just to the southwest, with a 200-foot B-1 buffer strip between that park and the Geisinger land to provide the transition to residential. The FEC Railroad owns a fourteen acre tract just to the east of the Geisinger property, zoned R-2, which would then be eligible for rezoning to industrial if the Geisinger request is approved.

Ransom Tilton, Jensen Realtor, and developer of Pinelake Village with his son, Jim, strongly opposes the change.

"This is a typical example of a real estate broker buying land and rezoning for a profit. If this move is approved, the land will become worth more than twice what Geisinger purchased it for just recently," Tilton said.

He added that if the zoning change is approved, it would open the way for the FEC to request industrial for its tract, a move that would be upheld in court if not granted.

Shirley Wetzel, president of Tropical Acres, said she felt there was a consensus of opinion among the residents of the area in opposition to the proposed zoning.

"I just don't think we need an industrial park that close to a residential community," Miss Wetzel said. "The people have a lot of money invested there and they are all opposed to it."

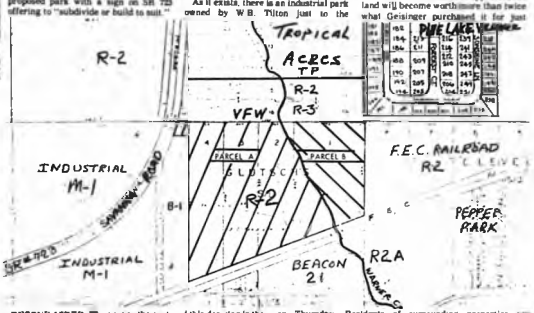
Roy Coy, developer of the large tract across Savanna Road from the Geisinger property, said, "I just don't think it is right to put an industrial park across from our residential area. We have one park, Tilton's, just to the south and we can't do anything about that. I don't want to see any more."

"This place is building up into a residential community. We want to protect that," he added.

Ed Lydon, planning and zoning department, indicated that the application is premature in that the master plan for the north county calls for a "PUDI" planned unit development industrial for the future, with R-2 as the holding category of zoning.

But the county has not yet developed the PUDI zoning category, so any application for change would have to await the setting up of criteria to meet for the PUDI. Thus, Lydon said, the recommendation Thursday would be for the applicant, Geisinger, to withdraw the application until the PUDI category is set up and a part of the zoning ordinances of the county.

If the application was resubmitted under a PUDI, and all criteria are met, "we would react favorably," he said.



REZONE ASKED—The area in the center of this drawing is the location of the 28 acre tract of R-2 zoned land that could be rezoned industrial M-1 under an application by Dick Geisinger on Thursday. Residents of surrounding properties are opposing the application, and two petitions have been submitted to oppose the change.

Shark bites youth

BY BOBBIE BEDELL

STUART—It's something I'm not gonna forget right away."

Said Gregory Hurley, a victim of a suspected shark attack off Hutchinson Island, who will have a lot of time to reflect on the incident before he gets back into the water.

While surfing off "Riley's Rocks" on the Hutchinson Island at about 2 p.m. Thursday, Hurley rode a wave through a school of mullet being fed upon by a number of predatory fish, one of which was nearly five-foot bull shark.

He rolled down the wave right into a "school of mullet," 18-year-old Hurley said. "I saw the shark on the way down and when I turned to go back out he struck me. That's known for this time."

Hurley said the shark had hold of his left leg around the ankle.

"I was shaking my foot to pull it off," he said. "And he was holding on shaking my foot with his mouth."

The young surfer said he went into shock and lost the feeling in his foot.

"I was afraid to look down," he said "I was afraid my foot was gone."

He managed to ride the next wave to the beach clinging to his surfboard and tried to call for help failed because his voice was lost in the wind.

When he got to the beach he called "shark" and waved for the rest of the group of 20 or so surfers to get out of the water. Hurley said observers thought he was joking until they saw the condition of his foot.

"A lady and man on the beach wrapped a tourniquet around my leg and one of the guys drove me to the emergency room," he said. "I guess in a way I am kind of lucky. If that shark had been any bigger I know I would not have my foot now."

Hurley has from 70 to 180 stitches in his foot and he is expected to be recuperating for about three weeks. It may be several months before he gets back on his surfboard.

"I love to surf," he said. "I know I'll get out there again. But it's something I'm not about to forget right away."

Martin County Lifeguard Captain Joe Greenwald advised swimmers and surfers to go in the water only where there is lifeguard supervision, especially when there is a lot of baitfish in the surf.

"If they go out on their own, they are taking a very serious risk," Greenwald said. "This time of year we have a lot of mullet in the surf and there are bluefish and other kinds of fish, including sharks, feeding on them. It's good for the fishermen, though."

Point gets River Road link

SEWALL'S POINT—River Road, the dream of the founders of the Town of Sewall's Point nearly thirty years ago, had a new section completed last week.

The River Road was envisioned by the first Town Commission of Sewall's Point as an emergency road running along the high land on the west side of the peninsula, safe from the high tides of hurricanes and winter storms.

Sections of the road have been built through the years as a number of river to river subdivisions have been built, but the whole road, planned to stretch from High Point to the Town Hall, has never been totally linked together.

On Friday, workmen put the finishing touches on the new section of the road which runs from High Point to the Riverview Subdivision, a distance of about 3,000 feet.

The finishing touches included painting the lines on the road and erecting street name signs, stop signs and speed signs.

Now that the new section is completed, the Town Commission will continue efforts to build more new sections until, ultimately, the whole road is done.

According to Town Road Commissioner John Rossiter, a number of rights of way for the unpaved portions of the road have been donated to the town, but there are some portions which will have to be purchased or even condemned.

"There is some property acquisition to be accomplished," Rossiter said. "And we have had some commitments. But, we have a lot more to go. Some of the pieces we want may be contested."

Rossiter said that some of the recent opposition to the road being built existed because of fears speeders would use the road. He said the stop signs at a number of the intersections and the 30 mile-per-hour speed limit will probably deter any speeding.

"I think it's by far the prettiest road in town, and the most peaceful," he said. "I don't think there will be any real traffic problem."

This year the town has budgeted $30,000 for work on new portions of the road, a duplicate of last year's road figure. Rossiter said it may take a number of years for the road to be fully completed.

Bottles broken at beaches

JENSEN BEACH—Martin County Lifeguards manning the beach at Jensen are alarmed about the large amount of broken glass appearing daily on the beach, some of it causing wounds to guards and tourists.

"We had one of our lifeguards badly cut last Saturday," Lifeguard Captain Joe Greenwald said. "Chris Tutu stepped on a chunk of broken glass and he needed eight stitches to sew him up."

Apparently, the glass is showing up on the beach each morning after vandals have broken it up the night before. Not only have they broken many beer bottles, but they have also smashed some picnic benches.

"They have been smashing beer bottles up against the lifeguard shack," Greenwald said.

"It's there every morning and you have to go over the beach with a fine-toothed comb to find it. It's impossible to find it all. We have tourists complaining every day about cut feet."

Greenwald said he thinks all the vandals are teenagers who get older persons to buy their beer for them. The youths then come to the beach to drink it.

"It's going to have to be an all out effort from everybody to get it cleaned up," he said. "It's happened every year, but this year it's getting worse."

Greenwald added the beaches are crowded late into the night with weekend nights attracting the biggest crowds.

"I came over last Saturday night at 11 o'clock and there were 300 people in the parking lot," he said. "I came back at 3 a.m. and there were still people here. Weekends are by far the busiest times."

Twister hits Ocean Breeze

JENSEN BEACH—A small tornado touched down in the leading edge of last Thursday afternoon's storm, tearing a screen porch off the front of the mobile home owned by W. Orlando Johnston at 3 Vista Drive in Ocean Breeze Park.

The twister tossed an eight-foot piece of aluminum gutter three blocks, from Vista Drive to a palm tree on a corner lot at Second Street and Broad, according to Gene Hoke, mayor.

Garbage cans were tossed into the air, with one resident reporting that one can flew to a height of ten feet when the top was spun off and crashed through the window of Jerry Beagle's mobile home.

The piece of gutter might have hit a main power line as it flew through the air, Hoke reported, as power was off for an hour and a half.

"It came in from the northeast. I could see the rain, but didn't see the twister," Hoke said.

Aycock to head VNA speakers

JENSEN BEACH–At the last board meeting of the Visiting Nurse Association of Martin County, Chairman Dr. Robert Randall announced the appointment of Wade Aycock to head the Speakers Bureau. Appointed to serve under Aycock's direction are Leta Williams, also vice chairman of VNA; Steve Frasier, attorney and board member; Ross Philbrick, past county commissioner and current VNA board member; Felix Williams, VNA board member; and Gloria Petkas, supervisor of surgical acute care at Martin Memorial Hospital.

The Speakers Bureau of the VNA can provide programs as requested by program chairman of the organizations in Martin County, by radio and TV stations, and by interested private groups in this area wishing to learn about VNA services.

During the first year of VNA operations in Martin County, programs have been presented for Jensen Beach Community Church, Soroptimist, Rotary, Martin County Council on Aging, martin County Medical Society, Interagency Committee of Martin County, Chapter 2222 of AARP, Kiwanis and the American Medical Assistants Association. In addition, a display booth was prepared for the Martin County Fair, and VNA Auxiliary volunteers were present to answer questions.

Any group wishing special demonstrations of breathing equipment or therapy, enterstomal care, speech therapy procedures of physical therapy service can make the request to Aycock through visiting or calling the VNA office Monday through Friday at 273 Osceola Avenue from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m., 286-1844.

Many kinds of presentations are available which show the services of VNA: slide film presentations, panel-type discussions with a nurse and doctor, forum interviews with board members who represent special areas in VNA such as tax savings for citizens, the difference Medicare-Medicaid makes in the home health care field, home care as an alternative to institutionalization, and cost comparison presentations which explain how city, county, state and federal monies can be saved when home health care is fully utilized.

Registered Nurses Libby Purdy and Debbye Adkison of the Stuart office are available to give demonstrations and explain nursing procedures VNA can provide such as surgical dressings, injections, irrigations, intravenous fluids, diabetic care, and dialysis, in addition to teaching follow-up care in those situations. These nursing services also relay medical evaluations to physicians, which means fewer office or home visits are required of the doctor.

All members of the VNA Speakers Bureau are fully qualified to represent agency policy on serving community needs: that referrals for care may be made by anyone; that all ill persons will be provided with skilled nursing care regardless of race, religion, or ability to pay.

Aycock, who is a well known resident and civic leader, gave VNA a grant last year for Nurse Adkison to attend a three day "Death and Dying Seminar" in Orlando. This year on October 24, at Sandpiper Bay Resort on Morningside Blvd. in Port St. Lucie, the seminar entitled "Quality of Life" will be presented under his chairmanship.

Aycock serves the Rotarians as well as being district director for the Florida Funeral Directors Association, and has been past president of Palm Beach County Funeral Directors Association. He is also a past master of the Acacia Masonic Lodge No. 163 of Stuart.

Social security disappointments

WASHINGTON–House Ways and Means Committee liberals have turned thumbs down on proposals to correct the most obvious inequity in the Social Security system – the government-imposed limitation on permissible earnings.

Under present law, Social Security recipients can earn no more than $3,000 a year without endangering their benefits. If they earn more than that, they lose $1 in benefits for every $2 earned.

And that is patently unfair.

Social Security isn't welfare or some government dole to help senior citizens. It is a forced investment which pays a modest return once age 65 is reached.

Therefore, Social Security recipients should be allowed to earn as much as they can – with no loss of benefits at all.

That's what some of us on the Ways and Means Committee wanted to bring about.

We had a Republican alternative to the package before the committee – one which would eliminate the earnings limitation completely over a three-year span. Under the alternative, the earnings limitation would have jumped from $3,000 to $5,000 in 1978, then to $7,500 in 1979. In 1980, it would be gone completely.

Unfortunately, the manner in which the entire Social Security hearing was handled precluded the consideration of this proposal.

But it didn't matter because the liberal majority on the committee wouldn't even endorse a somewhat less liberal relaxation of the limitation.

The original draft under consideration called for raising the limitation from $3,000 to $4,500 next year and then to $6,000 the following year.

But, by a 20-to-17 vote, the committee instead adopted a much more stringent limitation.

The bill now reads that Social Security recipients can earn $4,000 in 1978, an increase of $1,000. Then, in 1979, it jumps to 14,500.

It's bad enough that the big spenders in the Congress and in the executive branch have dipped into the Social Security Trust Fund so heavily and for so long that the whole program is on shaky financial ground.

But to add to that, a refusal to allow a man or woman to earn a decent wage and still get the benefits he's already paid for – that's wrong, dead wrong.

Fortunately, however there is still some hope wisdom and prudence will prevail. There will be a chance to amend the Social Security package when it reaches the floor.

And, there will definitely be an effort to loosen the earnings limitation beyond that meager amount allowed by the Committee.

Should we fail on the House floor, the only hope will be the Senate which will consider the entire package after the House finishes.

So, as disappointing as the Ways and Means Committee's action was – and it was very disappointing – there is still hope.

Sports News

BY DONNIE WILKIE

The leading offense in this division continues to be the Anthony Carter show, otherwise known as Suncoast, averaging almost 30 points per game. The leading defense in the West is that of the Atlantic Eagles, who are unscored upon in three games, while Fort Pierce and Boca each have allowed just 12 points per game to pace the East. Martin County is fifth in this category, averaging 16 points given up per contest.

In the various races, Boca, Twin Lakes, FPC and Palm Beach Gardens lead the 4A-District 11 contest with 3-1 District records. Boca and Gardens are 3-1 overall, while Twin Lakes and FP Central are 3-2.

The 3A-District 13 standings show Suncoast in the lead at 2-0 in the district, while North Shore trails at 1-1. Meanwhile, in 2A-District 14, Atlantic has the edge over Newman, but their meeting later in the year will decide who makes the post-season wars.

John Carroll is hoping for St. Cloud to beat Melbourne Central Catholic later in the season, a result which will knot the three teams at 1-1 in the district and force a decision to be made on who goes to the playoffs to face Pahokee. The Blue Devils have clinched the 2A-District 15 title by beating both Bishop Verot and Clewiston, who are knotted at 1-1.

In other action last week, the John Carroll Rams stumbled to Miami Westminster 28-8 on Saturday.

Atlantic needed only a field goal late in the game to down Twin Lakes 3-0; North Shore stopped Pahokee, who was forced to miss the services of injured quarterback Ronnie Osborne, 14-0; Clewiston edged Fort Myers, 14-8, LaBelle downed Glades Day 7-0; Sebring zapped Okeechobee 34-6; Moore Haven squeaked past Sarasota Cardinal Mooney 15-14; Jupiter scored 30 fourth quarter points to beat Fort Lauderdale Cardinal Gibbons 36-30; Satellite, one of the stronger teams from the Cape Coast Conference, stopped Lake Worth 29-13; Suncoast rambled past Forest Hill 30-0; Orlando Tabernacle handed Benjamin their first loss of the year, 22-15; and Miami Gulliver stomped Berean Christian 35-14.

In more Saturday action, John I. Leonard, Martin County's next opponent, steamed past winless Miami Pace 30-0, as MCHS' coaching staff, including Head Coach Wayne Bowling, scouted the Lancers in person; St. Andrew's got their first victory in a 14-6 win over Miami Christian and King's Academy upped their mark to 3-2 in an 18-6 triumph over Miami Loyola.

Conference action resumes this weekend as Martin County hosts John I. Leonard in the Tigers' homecoming. Fort Pierce Central meets Twin Lakes in Forest Hill at the Falcons' home field.

Other action will see: Cardinal Newman at Atlantic; Miami Pace at Glades Central; Okeechobee at North Shore; Pahokee at Miami Curley; Jupiter at Suncoast; Clewiston at Moore Haven; FL Gold Coast Christian at Glades Day; Florida Air Academy at John Carroll; and Westminster at King's Academy (Saturday).

What to cut down on if you want to cut down on your electric bill.

Today, everybody is trying to use less electricity. Partly to conserve energy. But mostly to have lower-cost electric bills.

Yet many consumers don't know which appliances or products use the most electricity. So they go all out trying to save money without really cutting down on their bills.

To help you choose the best ways to conserve energy, we've provided the chart below. Itemized are "typical" appliance usage figures based both on Florida Power & Light research and industry-wide statistics. These figures are intended strictly as examples in that they reflect the average operating costs of various appliances. However, they are a helpful guide to effective cost-cutting. (Also, keep in mind that power usage varies among different product brands; weather conditions; size, location and insulation of a home; and each family's pattern of usage.)

You'll notice that air-conditioners are the heaviest users. But you can still keep cool, dehumidify your home, and realize substantial savings on your cooling costs by setting your thermostat at 78 degrees. If your thermostat isn't marked in degrees, place a good thermometer in a room out of the air-conditioning flow to be sure you're maintaining 78 degrees.

In addition to the information below, our booklet "HOW TO SAVE MONEY ON YOUR ELECTRIC BILL" will give you many helpful tips on energy conservation. And it's free, at any FPL office. Because at FPL, we want to help you save.

*Assumes compressor is continuously thermostat-controlled and operates 50 percent of the time during hottest months. Kwh use is substantially less for lower SEER units. Actual costs will vary with seasonal and weather variations, efficiency of unit, thermostat setting, insulation, family living habits and other factors.

Each dishwasher load uses about 2¼ kwh for hot water. Each washing machine load uses about 1 kwh for hot wash/hot rinse cycle and about 1 kwh for warm wash/cold rinse cycle.

Each water heater load uses about 2½ kwh for hot water. Each washing machine load uses about 1 kwh for hot wash/hot rinse cycle and about 1 kwh for warm wash/cold rinse cycle.

*Kwh usage shown is for constant operation of compressor for one hour. When unit is operated full-time on a daily basis, subject to thermostat control, the compressor may cycle off up to 40 percent, and the hourly average cost would be lower.

Note: energy consumption is measured in kilowatt hours (kwh)—the units of energy which flow through your electric meter. These estimated monthly costs are computed at the rate typical FPL residential customers pay. Approximately 4.5 cents per kwh, including franchise charges, fuel adjustment costs, and local taxes.

Former Holiday Out lot owners, who now live in Venture Out, had an unexpected contretemps on their return from summer vacation. They were traveling in their motor home and pulled into a rest area which had minimal facilities. While the husband checked under the hood of the vehicle, poking at this, tickling that, engrossed in his occupation, his wife visited the rest room. When she returned she found to her consternation, no husband, no motor home, no cigarettes, no money and no traveler!

Then it was two glamorous days in Las Vegas and on to Hoover Dam. They are not in desert land, Phoenix and Tucson and expect to be back in H.Out in about two weeks.

We were sorry to learn that Merrill Webb is back in Martin Memorial Hospital. We wish him a speedy recovery.

It is good to see Anna and Albert Criscuni back from their four month trip to the Pacific northwest, Canada and the U.S. They traveled 12,000 miles and say they enjoyed it all.

They visited favorite cities San Francisco and New Orleans for the fourth time. Their avocation is culinary art, at which they both excel, so when they go to an especially fine restaurant, they compliment the chef or owner and hear many interesting things, and always bring back some delicious new recipes to try at home.

A cordial welcome back is extended to Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Nueman on lot 314; the Wesley Arbon, lot 324; Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Graber, 83; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Trupiano, 364; Mr. and Mrs. Albert Crisconi, 486; and the James Lewis' on lot 433.

Mr. and Mrs. G.L. Vallee also returned last week to lot 67; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hutchison on 503; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gilbert, 246; and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kiefaber, lot 74.

Martha and Jim Lewis had a very busy summer in Ohio. He is president of the Akron Shuffleboard Club and that and traveling to tournaments all over the state kept them active. They have many new trophies to show us.

Dave and Flora McCarthy entertained Flora's brother, Donald Edmondo of San Rafael, California, over the weekend. They met him at the West Palm Beach airport on Saturday, then Sunday afternoon they all went to Lake Park to visit another sister. It is nice the weekend weather was no delightful to show the visitor from California.

San Rafael is in Marin County where the prolonged drought has had such serious effects. The Edmondo family, Mr. and Mrs. Edmondo and four young sons, are allotted only 300 gallons of water a day. As any mother knows, young boys have a habit of collecting dirt on themselves and their clothes. However, they are permitted only ten seconds use of water in the shower to soap themselves and ten seconds to rinse off.

Mrs. Edmondo uses only biodegradable laundry products and waste water from the washer and kitchen and bathroom sinks is drained into large barrels outside the house, then carried back in by the boys in pails to be used for flushing the toilets. Some of the collected water is sprinkled on the thirsty back garden, too. What was once a lovely lawn in front of their home is desert. The dishwasher is never used. The boys take turns helping mother with that chore, too.

There is a lesson for all of us in this. We MUST NOT waste our natural resources. It could happen here!

Holiday Outlines

BY RUTH BOWES 334-4946

Assisted by Elizabeth O'Donnell and Peg Ray

It was a cool day, but as the lady waited, her temperature reached the boiling point. Finally she surrendered her pride and borrowed a dime from a man who was collecting trash at the rest stop. She call the local police who issued an alert for the errant husband.

When a State Trooper finally located the motor home and made an attempt to [illegible] the villain, being a [illegible] person, waved back but only did decide the Trooper was trying to sell him something. The following exchange then took place.

Trooper: "Sir, where is your wife?"

Driver: "She is in the back [illegible]."

Trooper: "Yes, she is in the back 100 miles north of here."

It was then arranged that the distressed husband drive back 50 miles to the police at the rest stop location where he stranded wife 50 miles down the highway, and the couple had a happy reunion.

The balance of the trip was without further incident, but it wasn't until reaching Florida that the temperature of the motor home reached normal.

We welcomed Ruth and Wes Arbo back to the park last week, with a guest, their charming granddaughter Debbie [illegible] from Leominster, Mass. Debbie is visiting two weeks here and will return [illegible] next Sunday, with regrets She has fallen in love with H Out and also enjoyed a shopping spree in West Palm. She'll be back soon.

Ted and Eleanor Quaderer are the new owners of lot 150. They are from Northport, Long Island, N.Y., where Ted retired as a construction inspector. They came as guests to Holiday and after six days, became owners. They are delightful people and we welcome them.

They have returned to New York where they will leave Oct. 17 for a Holy Land tour, returning to the U.S. Nov. 4. They have children: Sister Eleanor and Ted.

New owners of lot 425 are Richard and Esther Figgs, who purchased from Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Rickard of Newark, Delaware. They mentioned that they were coming to Florida to look around and, perhaps, purchase a place. Friends told them of his place here and they followed suit. So they came down, fell in love with the park, and are leaving owners. They have children: Dorris [illegible], Teresa, Phillip, and Wm [illegible].

We had a newsy letter from Al and Peg [illegible]. They have really been island hopping to Hawaii, Maui, Hana, Oahu and Waikiki, enjoying the beautiful scenery, swimming and meeting gracious people, plus visiting and learning the island history. Back on the mainland, they visited all the way from San Pedro to Seal Island, [illegible] the water quite cold. They visited Apple Valley for a festival; [illegible] Lawrence Welk's Restaurant in Branson, where they met both Welk and Shepstad, of ice skating fame.

Film kicks off new adult ed course

STUART—"The Twisted Cross", a film that has been acclaimed one of the best historical documents about Nazi Germany, will kick off an 8-week adult education course entitled Nazi Germany, a Case Study, at 7 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 13 at Martin County High School.

The new adult ed course will cover the rise and fall of Hitler's Third Reich, using ...ctures, tapes, filmstrips, several films, slides made in Germany, and materials dealing with Hitler and Germany.

Many questions have been asked and are still being studied by historians: how did Hitler come to rule one of the most powerful nations in the world? Who or what was responsible for the basic assault on sanity? Who or what was responsible for the atrocious crimes committed in the name of government? How could so literate a country become the scene of book burning and thought control?

By tracing the answers to these questions, an understanding of Hitler's Germany can be reached. Fee for the course is $2. For further information, call the Adult Education Office at 287-6400, ext. 131.

Registration fee for the course is $2. Interested adults may register at the Guidance Office at the high school the first night of class.

...RETING COMMISSION members ponder a map of the ... they attempt to trace the new boundaries of four ... districts for Port St. Lucie. The Commission has been ... on the task of redrawing the boundaries for most of the year and members complained Monday that one major obstacle to completion of the job is the lack of an adequate city map. Shown examining the map are, from the left, Seymour Fleming, Hughes Brininger, Bob Johnson and Chairman Harold Shear. (For more details, see story inside.)

Council frowns on claim for unemployment compensation funds

PORT ST. LUCIE--A claim for $1,216 in unemployment compensation funds by a former Port St. Lucie employee will be opposed by the city, it was decided during a city council meeting Tuesday.

City Manager Elmer Cox asked for permission to oppose the claim when he reported on a new allocation of federal funds to pay the salary of a worker at the city's Sportsmans Park.

Cox noted that the city got federal funds for one Sportsmans Park employee last year and that he just received word the funds for that job have been authorized for this year.

Though Cox declined to identify the person asking unemployment compensation funds, he said the person applying for the money was hired with the federal funds for the Sportsmans Park job last year, then suspended in April this year when he was arrested on a drug charge. Cox said the person who replaced the suspended man has turned out to be a good employee.

But when we get funding for that position this year, the state requires that we will have to open the job up to new applicants and that the state Employment Bureau will hire the person for the job. We want to keep the man we have now, so I'm asking that we make him a city employee and put him on our payroll. There is money budgeted for this. Then, we would have the state employment service find a new person for the job federally funded," Cox explained.

The person now holding the federally funded job would get the title of assistant park supervisor when he becomes a city employee and the title for the federally funded post will be assistant caretaker.

Cox got permission from the council to put the present employee on the city payroll and to have the state fill the assistant caretaker job opening. Then he asked for and got council approval for him to oppose the claim for unemployment benefits by the person suspended from the job after being arrested on a drug charge.

Cox said that man "proved to be very unsatisfactory" and said on one occasion he found the man "in a reclining position, drinking Cokes and listening to the radio when he should have been working."

Cox said if the man won his claim for unemployment compensation, the city would have to pay him $76 a week until the $1,216 was exhausted.

"I'm not about to take that sitting down," Cox said, adding that to pay the man would be giving "a reward for incompetency."

In other action, council members learned that the city has been granted $2,400 in Law Enforcement Assistance Administration (LEAA) funds for police equipment. City Public Safety Director Doug Stout said the money will be used to buy two walkie talkies and to buy accessory equipment for a new night viewing device the city recently won federal funds for.

The council members congratulated Stout in getting the funding approved and then voted to authorize spending $1,485 for a radar gun for Stout and $207 for blue lights for Stout's patrol car. The radar gun and lights had not been budgeted for this year, but they agreed with Stout that the price of the radar gun was good and that he would need new lights on his car.

After hearing a report from Cox that the city could save $100 a month by replacing an IBM copy machine with a new Xerox machine, the council authorized purchase of the new machine.

ox-county to talk taxation

BY BOB FRYER

...RT ST. LUCIE--The issue of ...ged double taxation of Port St. Lucie ...ents will be discussed this ...day, Oct. 13, when City Manager ...e Cox meets with St. Lucie County ...ssioner Weldon Lewis.

...y officials have recently con...ded that the county is unfairly taxing ...ty residents for services the city ...s not receive or for services the city ...is providing.

...e issue has been kicked around for ...ral years, ever since court rulings ...other areas of the state declared ...e situation was not fair. It flared ...p when the county commissioners ...ed down a request by the city for $40,000 this year to be used for capital improvements to the city's Sportsmans Park. County commissioners offered to take over the city park, but city council members voted unanimously against that. Then, several weeks later, the county commissioners denied the $40,000 request.

Also at issue is a squabble over police protection. The city contracts with the county Sheriff's Department for about $173,000 a year to get extra police protection. But city officials have indicated they are not sure they are getting their fair share of extra protection and have complained that when they asked for a sub-station in the city, to temporarily house prisoners, the Sheriff said the city would have to pay the cost of it.

City council members have called for an audit of county books to determine what services the county provides city residents and to determine if the amount the county spends on city residents equals the amount of county tax money city residents pay.

The county commission was recently criticized in a state audit report for failure to make a separate list of expenditures in unincorporated areas and in cities within the county. But Lewis responded to the state audit report by saying the county has been listing those expenditures separately for several years, even before the law required it.

Cox said he will ask for those listings when he talks with Lewis and said he will also ask for copies of the county budget for last year and this year.

Cox pointed out that several years ago the county attorney, Ralph Wilson, drafted a memo to county commissioners reminding them of the commission's obligations toward municipalities, and he indicated that memo may also be brought up in the discussions.

Additionally, Cox will approach Lewis on a proposal to have the county chip in for partial funding of sidewalks along Prima Vista Boulevard and Irving Street, which lead to Port St. Lucie Elementary School.

eague plans community meeting

...RT ST. LUCIE--The Port St. Lucie ...t League announced that it will hold ...mmunity wide meeting at 7:30 p.m. ...day, Oct. 17, at which speakers will ...k down the road" toward the city's ...re development and discuss county-...mmissioning.

...e meeting will be held in the Great ...l at Sandpiper Bay convention ...

...e league hopes to draw a large ...dance for the event, according to ...ident Seymour Fleming, "because ...atters to be discussed are of vital ...rest to all area residents."

"That's why we are opening the ...ing to the general public as well as ...own members," he added.

...kers will be two speakers: William C ..., assistant vice president of ...ral Development Corporation for ...ronmental planning, and Edward G. ... of the St. Lucie County ...ssion.

...ey will disclose GDC's comprehensive development plans for Port St. Lucie, which encompass a well-defined program that reaches as far ahead as the year 2050. Through the use of charts, maps and other visual aids, he will present a graphic picture of GDC's plans.

"I'm sure that the residents of Port St. Lucie will be highly impressed by the scope and details of these plans," Fleming said.

Enns will present a background of governmental responsibilities in the county-city relationship and discuss the services that each local government is required to provide under the law.

A question and answer period will follow the two presentations.

"Everyone who is interested in the growth of our city and in the maintenance of its quality of living will want to attend this meeting, we believe," Fleming said.

Special meet on Vikings Landing

PORT ST. LUCIE--A special meeting of the Port St. Lucie Planning and Zoning Board has been set for 4 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 13, to review the site plan for the Vikings Landing housing project.

The project, which features 32 half-acre lots with homes beginning at $100,000, is being developed by Victor Georgeff of Victory Construction, Inc.

The city's consulting engineer, Cal Montgomery of Stuart, has examined the roads in the first phase of the project and says they meet city standards. Also, permit exemption has been granted by the South Florida Water Management District.

The zoning for the project was approved several months ago and the next normal step in city review of a project is examination of a site plan. The Planning and Zoning Board usually reviews the site plan first and recommends acceptance or rejection to the city council. However, in this case, if the Planning and Zoning Board approves the site plan Thursday, building permits can be issued immediately, based on a decision by city council members at a Tuesday, Oct. 11, council meeting.

City Manager Elmer Cox said if Planning and Zoning Board approves the site plan, the city council would likely grant routine approval later, after construction permits are issued.

hiles assistant to PSL

PORT ST. LUCIE--Thomas Hayes, assistant to U.S. Senator Lawton Chiles, will be at the Port St. Lucie City Hall from 11:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 26, to confer with citizens.

Anyone who would like to speak with Hayes to find out Chiles' position on issues before the Senate, or who would like to offer an opinion, suggestions or criticism, is welcome to come to the meeting.

City Manager Elmer Cox noted dismal turnouts at previous meetings like the one planned and urged a more active participation by area residents.

Man fatally stabbed at PSL home

BY BOB FRYER

PORT ST. LUCIE--A 22-year-old Port St. Lucie man was fatally stabbed at his home early Saturday morning, Oct. 8, and one of his roommates was arrested in North Carolina Sunday on a homicide charge in connection with the stabbing.

Dead is James Tressler of 325 N.W. Curtis Street. He was reportedly a construction worker who moved to Port St. Lucie from Pennsylvania about three weeks ago.

According to a report from St. Lucie County Sheriff's Deputy Ed Rinaldo, Tressler was found lying on the floor of his living room with a knife in his chest around 4 a.m. Saturday. The body was discovered by Clark A. Matthews, who lived at the Curtis Street home with Tressler and with Richard Dale Matthews, 20, who was arrested in connection with the stabbing. Clark Matthews is the brother of Richard Matthews.

Richard Matthews was arrested Sunday on the homicide charge in Yadkin County, North Carolina, where he was originally from and apparently the county where his mother lives. According to a Sheriff's Department spokesman, Matthews has agreed to waive extradition and to return to St. Lucie County to face the homicide charge.

When Clark Matthews discovered Tressler's body, he called the 911 emergency number and Sheriff's deputies went to the scene. Clark Matthews reportedly told the deputies of two bars that his brother and Tressler frequented and told the lawmen that his brother had left a note about going to see his mother in North Carolina.

Port St. Lucie Public Safety Director Douglas Stout said he went to the Curtis Street home Saturday morning to assist the deputies. He said when he got there the knife was still in Tressler's chest and that Tressler had apparently been dead a while "because his body was cool."

Stout noted that he saw Tressler and Richard Matthews together around 11 p.m. Friday in front of the 7-11 store on Prima Vista Boulevard. "They were apparently involved in a hit and run accident," Stout said, noting that Matthews told investigating Florida Highway Patrolmen he was driving a car when he attempted to pass another car and ran into it. The car that was hit kept going, however, Stout said.

Stout said that when he saw Tressler and Matthews Friday night, Tressler "was intoxicated, to the point where I told him to go sit in my car." He added that Matthews "appeared to have had some drinks" but Stout said he could not tell if Matthews was intoxicated.

When asked if he knew of a possible motive for the stabbing, Stout replied, "I have no idea what the motive was."

Anthony Rojt

Tony Rojt, 68, has been with the Jensen Beach Volunteer Fire Department for five years and can be found just about any given day at the station working on the trucks keeping them in good running order.

Tony, who claims his rank in the department is "volunteer grease monkey", built the first fire truck for the department he helped to organize in New York State a number of years ago.

Tony resides with his wife Etta at 3629 N E Marion Street in Jensen Beach.

Thomas G. Scott

Tom Scott, 20, has been with the Rio Fire Department for a year, having been recruited by one of the Rio firefighters.

He lives at 2216 NW Fork Road in Stuart, and is a student.

His most memorable fire in the past year was a woods fire that raged from Highway 707 to U.S. 1 on May 18.

Tom spends 24 to 35 hours a month working around the Rio Fire House, and "I enjoy my work as a volunteer very much." He recommends to others that they become involved in firefighting.

The secretary-treasurer of the Rio Fire Department is 58 year old Kenneth Klager. He lives with his wife, Yvette, at 2146 SW Gull Harbor Lane, Stuart.

At 58, and retired, Klager has been a member of the Rio Fire Department for eight and one-half years. He was first brought into the department by Chief Bill Gass. He remembers the Jonathon Dickinson State Park fire as the most memorable event in his service.

Spending twenty hours a month at the fire house, Kenneth works mostly on Mondays and Wednesdays at his job. He enjoys being a firefighter.

"Any man who is physically capable should volunteer some time to his community," Klager says.

Richard F. Sanchez, Jr.

Rick Sanchez, 21 years of age and an automotive machinist by trade, said it was a friend who first interested him in firefighting.

While Rick does not have as much time as he would like to spend at the fire station, he still manages to attend the drills and does help out with the various chores at the station when time permits. He has been a member of the Jensen Beach Volunteer Fire Department for eight months and, not only does he enjoy serving as a volunteer, he recommends others join in the organization.

Rick was a part of the team who fought the large brush fire which covered nearly 2,000 acres of the savannas and jumped U.S. 1.

Rick resides at the Outrigger Resort in Jensen Beach.

OLD GLORY–The Jensen Beach Volunteer Fire Department headed down Commercial Street Sunday during the parade officially kicking off National Fire Prevention Week. Here, they drive No. 102 toward the Jensen Beach Causeway, marking the beginning of the Leif Erikson Day activities.

Richard White

Companionship and a desire to serve his community brought Rick White into the Rio Volunteer Fire Department. He is 24 years of age and has been with the Rio Volunteers for the past three years.

Aside from working full time with Grumman Aircraft, Rick spends an average of 20 hours per month at the local station sharing in the chores and attending the weekly drills.

Rick's most memorable experience as a firefighter was being a part of the team fighting the windblown weeds fire which threatened the Winn Dixie Shopping Plaza this spring.

He enjoys serving his community and highly recommends others become more involved.

Invalid rescue markers offered for front doors

Invalid persons living in the community will be interested in knowing that the Jensen Beach Fire Department will be distributing invalid rescue markers.

The markers which should be placed on the front door of homes where an invalid or disabled person resides.

The stickers will be given to these persons, who might, in case of fire, have a problem evacuating the home.

The Jensen Beach Volunteer Firemen will distribute the markers for free at the firehouse.

Those who do not get one at the fire station may call 334-2220 and a sticker will be delivered and installed.

Fire prevention week activities are continuing

Local firemen in full regalia began National Fire Prevention Week by taking part in the Leif Erikson Day Parade. Forming at the Jensen Beach Bank, the marchers paraded down Commercial Street to Indian River Drive, then north to the Jensen Beach Causeway.

Starting with the noon day parade Sunday, local fireman kicked off the week long schedule of activities marking the Fire Prevention week.

Fire Prevention Week is a time marked by the local firemen instructing citizens on fire safety and demonstrations of various types of equipment.

After the parade, the Rio Fire Department gave a demonstration of the "Jaws of Life" at Langford Park. The "jaws" are actually an extremely powerful tool, a type of reverse pliers, which are used to pry crumpled steel enabling workmen to free a trapped victim from an auto crash.

The demonstration was followed by an exhibition softball game, also at the park, where the Rio department came out the victors with a final score after 7 innings of play of 15-10 over the Jensen Beach Fire Department.

During the first part of the week the firemen toured local neighborhoods distributing information and making free fire safety inspections.

On Tuesday, shortly after noon, the Jensen Beach department went over to the Jensen Elementary School and gave a demonstration of their equipment for the children.

On Wednesday, from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m., there will be an open house at the Jensen Fire house.

All are welcome to tour the department located just across the street from the railroad tracks on Palmetto Drive. Refreshments will be served by members of the Fire Department Auxiliary.

On Thursday, Oct. 13, at 7 p.m., the firemen will be at the clubhouse at Hutchinson House on Hutchinson Island.

At 10:30 a.m., Friday, Oct. 14, the firemen will be at the Jensen Beach Community Church on Skyline Drive, and at 7 p.m. the same day, the two departments will be at the Winn-Dixie Shopping Center.

At 9:30 a.m., Saturday, Oct. 38, the firemen will be at Ocean Breeze Park.

MASCOT–While little Jessica Wright might not have the experience to be a firefighter, nor qualify as a member of the Auxiliary, she is as much a part of the Jensen Beach Fire Department as her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ken Wright. Ten month old Jessica is the mascot of the local department and can handle a coffee mug with the best of the members.

Jack St. Clair

Jack St. Clair, 16, is an associate member of the Jensen Beach Volunteer Fire Department, a youth group of junior firefighters.

Chief Joe Luciano organized the junior group in July of this year to give the youth of the community, 13 through 17 years of age, who are interested in participating in fire department functions.

As a junior fireman, Jack participates in the weekly drills, learns to use the equipment, lay hoses, operates the radio and accepts the same responsibilities and duties the regular firemen share. The exception is that the junior firefighters do not fight the actual fire, nor do they drive the trucks.

You will find Jack at the station most any Saturday morning helping with the chores of the day. Jack also assists his two brothers in doing the mechanical work on the trucks.

He spends between 20 to 25 hours per month attending the drills and working at the station.

Steve Reheiser says it was community interest and his acquaintance with the former Fire Chief, Randolph Spinney, that aroused his interest in becoming a volunteer fireman.

Steve has been a member of the Jensen Beach Volunteer Fire Department for more than four years and has played an active role in the organization. A meat cutter by trade, Steve can be found at the fire department just about any time he is off work, cleaning, polishing, answering the phone, or performing any of the odd jobs around the station.

Joe Luciano joined the Jensen Beach Volunteer Fire Department four years ago because, as he put it, "Moving to this area upon my retirement, I thought working with the local volunteers would be an excellent way to become involved in the community."

A dedicated worker, Joe was elected chief of the department in January 1972, following the retirement of Randolph Spinney.

Chief Lucia no came into the local fire department with five years experience in firefighting techniques.

The chief spends approximately 170 hours per month at the station and enjoys every minute of it.

While Luciano is proud of his department, he is equally proud of the residents of the Jensen Beach area for the support they have so willingly given to the Volunteer Fire Department.

He had little difficulty in recalling his most memorable experience with the local fire department.

"There is no question about it, the experience I will never forget was fighting the massive woods fire which burned the area from the Wilton Road extension through to Indian River Road in Rio. Every experience is "most memorable"

What constitutes a most memorable experience for a volunteer fireman?

For the most part, volunteer firemen encounter such a wide variety of experiences that some find it difficult to cite the one most memorable.

Richard Pinsky, a four-year member and president of the Rio Volunteer Fire Department, furnished a written reply when asked his most memorable experience as a volunteer firefighter.

"This is a very difficult question to answer. As volunteers we receive no actual classroom instruction or experience simulated fires as do paid firemen. Whatever we learn comes from real life fire experience and, therefore, whatever we do or wherever we go is usually a memorable experience.

"Certainly any volunteer's first structure fire is memorable. Mine was particularly so because we were short handed and I had to enter the house with breathing apparatus on for my first time.

"At the same time, my first woods fire was memorable. It was about four years ago and although my life was not endangered, I spent nearly 24 straight hours on the scene. That night was one of the coldest of the season and we had at least one unit from every department in the county at the scene.

"Not to take anything away from the recent brush fires we had on Commercial Street and Savannah Road for at one of those fires my life was endangered and that was indeed memorable! Imagine approaching the very large head of the fire, ploughing palmettos down in front of you, when all of the sudden the front end of your truck drops six feet straight down into a ditch.

"Trying to get out, the fire jumped over our heads surrounding us in flame. We really did just get out in the nick of time.

"On the lighter side, when we won our field day competition against the other county departments, not once, but two years in a row.

"Seriously though, the point is there is no one single memorable experience. Everything, the parades, the fund drives, our first and only new truck ever, they'll all be 'most memorable experiences' to me."

Report fires to 287-5575

While some individual fire stations throughout the county have listed their numbers on the inside cover of the phone directory, it is recommended emergency calls be placed through Civil Defense by dialing 287-5575.

WALL OF FLAMES—One of the worst brush fires in Jensen Beach history occured this spring when flames engulfed a good part of the northern Savannas and territory along the Jensen Beach Cutoff Road and U.S. 1. All fire departments in Martin County helped extinguish the blaze which burned intensely for more than 12 hours. Helping the firemen were students from Florida Institute of Technology and a number of local business leaders. Here, the Jensen Beach Volunteer Fire Department attacks a wall of fire bordering the Savannas.

Because fire stations are manned on a part-time basis by volunteer workers, valuable time could be wasted by calling directly to the station involved.

Depending on the availability of the volunteers to man the stations, it is not possible to have someone present on a 24-hour a day basis.

For example the Jensen Beach Fire Station is manned from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. six days per week, however this scheduling is not possible for the Rio Fire Department since the majority of their volunteer firemen hold regular jobs in addition to serving with the fire department.

Every resident of Martin County should make themselves aware of the correct number to use and how to report the emergency.

The quickest and safest way of reporting a fire is to dial 287-5575, give your name, the location of the fire and, if requested, be prepared to provide brief directions should you happen to live in an isolated area.

The area served by the Rio and Jensen Beach Volunteer Fire Departments include Palm Lake Park, North River Shores, Beau Rivage East, Rio, Jensen Beach and Hutchinson Island from the St. Lucie County line south to the Stuart city limits.

Due to the consistant cooperation between the two local volunteer fire departments, the residents of this area have a minimum of 44 dedicated, hard-working volunteer firemen and an elaborate fleet of twelve fully equipped firefighting units providing 24-hour a day protection.

John Kovarik

One of the few firefighters in the Rio Fire Department that has had experience outside of the local scene is John Kovarik, assistant chief.

Kovarik, 35, served two years in a fire department in New York before coming to Rio. He lives at 2564 NE Arch Street in Jensen Beach with his wife, Carol, and their three-year-old daughter, Lauri. He is a service manager.

Kovarik estimates he spends 32 hours a month working around the fire station in his spare time, and oversees the captain to make sure that all equipment is in working order. He has been with the department five years.

"I enjoy it, very much so," Kovarik says of his volunteer service, and added that he would like to see "all men who are able to lend a helping hand take an active part in becoming a volunteer."

While the associate members can work around the trucks during an emergency, operating the pumps, laying hoses and use the radio equipment, they do no actual firefighting, nor do they drive the trucks.

Jamie spends between 20 to 30 hours per month attending the drills and sharing in the routine chores at the station.

More than firefighting to firemen

As a general rule, most of us think of our local fire department only in an emergency . . . those times when we so desperately need these dedicated men to protect our life or property from devastating flames.

Little do we realize that actual firefighting is only a small portion of the duties and services these men provide, year round, for the residents of their communities.

Probably the most time consuming are the training sessions and the lengthy hours of drilling these men do on a regular weekly basis.

All the volunteer firemen have attended numerous courses provided through the Florida State Fire College in Ocala, Florida. These courses have covered every aspect of firefighting, and included the proper use of every type equipment available to the area and an update on the latest techniques of combating the various types of fires.

Through the years, numerous fire fighting demonstrations have been provided by the State Fire College and held on one of the two local causeways.

The most recent of these was the liquid propane gas fire training and exercise. In addition to Rio and Jensen Beach, all the departments of Martin County were on the scene, plus units from Grumman Aerospace Corporation, the Vero Beach Fire Department and local ambulances. There were 180 men in attendance at that session, each of whom participated in extinguishing the two types of liquid petroleum fires and a structure fire.

Maintaining good public relations is also a vital function of both the Rio and Jensen Beach Volunteer Fire Departments.

Simply by request, the men from either department will inspect your home or business for fire hazards free of charge.

Aside from the free inspections, the fire department will send representatives to lecture before organized groups on the "do's and don'ts" to consider during an emergency. For example, many a structure, including mobile homes, could be saved, or damage kept to a minimum, if the occupants would shut doors and windows before vacating, if possible. Such action cuts down on the supply of oxygen needed to feed the fire.

Equipment demonstrations are also available from both departments. Fire drills at the local schools are combined with equipment demonstrations in an effort to make the younger members of our society more aware of the hazards of fire.

Each of the local fire departments also organize their own annual fund drive. At this time, letters are delivered personally, or mailed, to the residents of the area asking financial support for their respective stations. All money collected during these drives is used to purchase new equipment or provide necessary improvements to the fire station.

In response to the annual fund drives, both department heads are unanimous in their statement, "The residents have always been generous in supporting the local departments."

Be it a major fire, or the time when little tabby is stranded atop the tallest tree in the neighborhood, be assured the dedicated firemen of the Rio and Jensen Beach Volunteer Fire Departments are always on hand to assist.

ODD JOBS--Fire fighting and weekly drill sessions to master the latest in fire fighting tecniques is only a part of the duties carried out by the volunteer firemen. On Saturdays or week nights you can find them around the station doing their part in keeping the department and equipment in tip-top shape. Pictured above are three of the volunteers painting the new addition to the Rio Fire Department.

Youth group being organized by Jensen Fire Department

There was a time when if young boys dreamed of becoming firemen they had no alternative but to wait until they had become adults to join the fire department, but that isn't necessarily the case today, particularly if those young boys happen to live in Jensen Beach.

While the Jensen Beach Volunteer Fire Department holds weekly drills and takes advantage of the various study courses to keep abreast with the latest techniques in firefighting, they are always mindful of the need to keep young blood in their department.

It is no secret the most up-to-date equipment can be of little benefit without a sufficient number of knowledgable, able bodied firefighters to man it.

To make certain the demands of tomorrow will be met, Chief Joe Luciano of the Jensen Beach Volunteer Fire Department just this year organized an Associate Membership Group at the local station. The associate memberships are available to the youth of the community, 13 through 17 years of age, who are interested in participating in fire department functions.

The responsibilities and duties of these younger members are identical to those of the firemen with only one exception, they do not actually fight fires nor do they drive the trucks.

The associate members are a real part of the fire department team. They take an active part in the weekly fire drills and learn from beginning to end how to use all the equipment. During a fire, the associate members work on or near the trucks, they can and do operate the pumps, lay out the hoses and handle any of the duties relative to the firefighting operation. Each member is both knowledgable and experienced in operating the radio equipment.

They pitch in to clean and polish the equipment and readily accept assigned duties at the fire station.

When the associate youth group reaches a membership of ten, according to Chief Luciano, they will conduct their own monthly meetings and elect their own officers. At the age of 18, the associate member will become a full-fledged fireman on the regular volunteer fire department.

Young people interested in joining the associate membership group should call the local fire department at 334-2220, or drop by the fire station on Palmetto & Church in Jensen Beach for information.

Larry Metzler

A friend who is with the forestry service interested Larry Metzler in joining the department in Rio. the 38 year old volunteer has been with the fire department for two years, after having served as a volunteer fireman in Louisville, Kentucky.

Larry lives at 525 California Avenue and is "extremely" pleased with his work as a volunteer.

"It really rounds out one's life in the community," Metzler said in recommending the fire department to anyone interested.

He spends ten hours a month in training and service, mostly on Monday nights and on weekends. His most memorable experience in fire fighting came at the Fireman's Field Day in 1976.

Jensen volunteers' history is one of community support

While it is a well known fact the people of Jensen Beach have always taken great pride in their community, never failing to come forth in support of area projects, no matter how large or small, that support has never been more in evidence than with the Jensen Beach Volunteer Fire Depagtment.

How many folks realize the Jensen Beach Volunteer Fire Department is the only fire department in Martin County that has literally purchased all its own vehicles?

While a certain amount of funding is derived annually through special district taxes, it is the people of Jensen Beach who have donated all the funds used to purchase the trucks and much of the equipment for their fire department.

Today, the Jensen Beach Volunteer Fire Department has a fleet of six units and a department which ranks second to none in Martin County.

It was Randolph Spinney, a comparative newcomer to the area, who was so concerned over the lack of fire protection in Jensen Beach that he, along with other interested citizens, went to the Martin County Commission with a request that some type of firefighting equipment be placed in the north county area. The venture was successful in that the county agreed to give the group and old used truck complete with tank.

The truck was housed in an old frame structure at the foot of Commercial Street on Indian River Drive adjacent to what is now the Jensen Bait and Tackle Shop.

Although Spinney recalls the rig as being a real junker, that truck was, nonetheless, the beginning of the Jensen Beach Fire Department.

The handful of dedicated men who worked diligently to repair and man that truck were the original volunteers of the Jensen Beach Fire Department.

The year was 1947.

With the organization of the local volunteer fire department, it was William "Boots" St. Clair who became the first fire chief, a position he held for thirteen years before stepping down in 1960. St. Clair was, and is, the owner-operator of his own garage in Jensen Beach.

Randolph Spinney served as assistant chief throughout those early years and as chief from 1964 until his retirement in 1977, when Joe Luciano took over the top position.

While the volunteers were proud of their one-unit department, they realized it was just the beginning. They were aware of the impending growth of the area and recognized the need for more and better equipment.

To raise money, the firemen held cookouts, spaghetti dinners, day-long picnics and even square dances. St. Clair noted that local businesses were very generous in donating supplies to be sold for these various fund raising functions.

"Many are the square dances that were held at Seymour's Inn and I couldn't begin to recall all the contributions of food and drink that Poor Bob's Restaurant supplied for our fund raising get-togethers," St. Clair said.

Later, the fire department appealed to every resident of the community by letter soliciting cash donations, a practice which has continued on an annual basis from that time on.

The important thing is, however, that in every instance, be it in the form of a letter or a fund raising social function, the people of Jensen Beach have turned out in support of their fire department.

By 1956 the Jensen Beach Volunteer Fire Department had sufficient funds to purchase the first new truck. The truck was equipped through a combination of county funds and local money.

It was in the mid 1960's the land was purchased by the county to move the fire station from Indian River Drive to the present Palmetto Street location. The building was then constructed using 60 per cent county funds and 40 per cent local funds raised by the department.

Today there are six units at the Jensen Beach Fire Station.

Starting with the smallest, there is the chief's car, a station wagon which is equipped with first aid equipment, fire extinguishers, axes, shovels, tow chain, entry tools, jumper cables and even a stretcher. It is equipped with 4-wheel drive and is the first unit at the scene of a fire.

Truck No. 101 is strictly a woods truck and is equipped to carry 300 gallons of water.

Number 102 is the lead attack truck and is used for structure fires. It has a standard drive and is never used off the road.

Truck No. 104 is a combination house and brush unit which the county equipped with a 500 gallon tank. It also is a 4-wheel drive.

The latest unit to be purchased by the department was a 1976 tanker truck equipped with a 2,100 gallon tank.

Truck No. 106 was purchased in 1972. It is equipped with a 600 gallon tank and has a 34-foot ladder which is usually referred to as a "snorkel" or a "cherry-picker."

While it is inevitable the local fire department must expand to keep pace with the rapidly growing area, certain facts remain unchanged....the dedication of those who serve on the volunteer fire department is ever present, just as is the support, both moral and financial, of the Jensen Beach residents.

CHIEF'S CAR – –The latest piece of equipment to be purchased by the Jensen Beach Volunteer Fire Department was the 1977 four-wheeled drive Jeep which is used by Chief Luciano. The vehicle was purchased with funds donated by the residents of the area. Auxiliary member Mrs. Martha Moore donated the emergency equipment carried inside the jeep.

it its way to achieving its $115,000 goal. Above, United Way Publicity Chairman Ginny Scranton presents a donation of $7,500 from Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Evinrude to Campaign Chairman Jim Bowdish.

United Way aims at $115,000

STUART--The United Way plans to raise $115,000 during a five week period for the 1978 year.

Last week, during a kickoff luncheon at the Downtown Stuart Holiday Inn, local business leaders learned of donations which have already been made to the United Way, and of commitments and goals which must be met to meet the challenge.

Fund Chairman James L.S. Bowdish said the officers of the drive expect to raise the money with as little expense to the fund as possible.

Used as a single monetary amount, money from United Way is used to aid handicapped persons, accident victims and non-profit organizations which are in need of funds.

"The United Way knows no boundaries when it comes to serving people," Bowdish said. "There is no set amount given to any individual or group, it may fluctuate from year to year."

Speaking of the $115,000 amount, Bowdish said, "We are confident we can reach our goal."

Bowdish said corporations have aided in the fund drive in past years by employees taking voluntary payroll deductions.

"Where we go from here is going to depend on your commitment," Bowdish said.

He added that 16,000 letters have been mailed throughout the county asking businessmen, professional men and citizens to participate in the drive. The letters were prepared with the help of Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts.

So far, private persons and some companies have donated or made commitments to donate funds.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Evinrude donated a check for $7,500 and the Pratt and Whitney Aviation Company is committed to donate more than $16,000, an 81 per cent increase over last year's pledge.

Frank Walton, of Grumman Aircraft, said that his company has commitments of $8,000 so far, and said there is more yet to come. Last year Grumman contributed $18,000 to the United Way in Martin County.

"If we have donations like that, I don't think we will have a difficult job in the next few weeks," Bowdish said.

So far, he said, $29,700 has been raised, 25.8 percent of the total goal.

"The more money we will be able to raise, the more agencies we will be able to support," he said.

iremen douse two brush fires

BY ROBBIE BEDELL

NSEN BEACH--The Jensen Beach ster Fire Department responded brush fires this week, just after ose of National Fire Prevention

Monday, the firemen extinguished all fire just south of SR 707A which ed about an acre of woodlands. ording to Jensen Fire Chief Joe Luciano, the Monday blaze was extinguished quickly because the flames headed for a marsh area where there were no dry palms or pines to allow the fire to grow.

"It could have been bad if it didn't hit that marshland," Luciano said.

However, the fire on Tuesday burned about four acres of Savannas, and firemen were afraid of a repeat performance of a major brush fire which occured last spring.

"It started somewhere just behind the Jensen Beach Women's Club and burned about four acres," Luciano said.

"When I got to the top of the hill and saw the smoke coming from the same spot as last spring, I was afraid we might have a repeat. It started in the exact same spot as last time. This time, though, nature was on our side. We didn't have the big wind that we had last time."

Luciano suspects that both fires were started by careless smokers. He said some fresh beer cans were found in both areas and speculated that people out target shooting tossed lit cigarettes into the brush.

On Tuesday morning it took four trucks carrying eight firemen and the chief in his jeep to put out the fire.

Both fires were spotted by firemen and were not called in by the public.

Chief Luciano urged all using the Savannas and surrounding woodlands to be especially careful when extinguishing cigarettes. A lack of rain in the area has made the area extremely dry, he said.

Vets day is ignored

JENSEN BEACH--There will be no veterans' activities on Monday, Oct. 24, the U.S. Government-named Veterans Day.

In addition, the Martin County administrative offices and local banks will be open on Oct. 24.

On Nov. 11, the Veterans of World War I, the VFW and the American Legion will hold traditional ceremonies at the Jensen Beach Women's Club.

The banks will also observe the Nov. 11 date and will be closed.

Congregate meals offered

JENSEN BEACH--Those who qualify and who are over 60 years of age may participate in the Treasure Coast Congregate Meal Program scheduled to begin Tuesday, Oct. 25, at Langford Park.

The free meals are being offered to senior citizens as a nutritional supplement and to provide recreation for those who may live alone and desire companionship.

According to Martin County Commissioner Frank Wacha, the meals will be served at the Langford Park Fieldhouse at 4:30 p.m. each day, Monday through Friday.

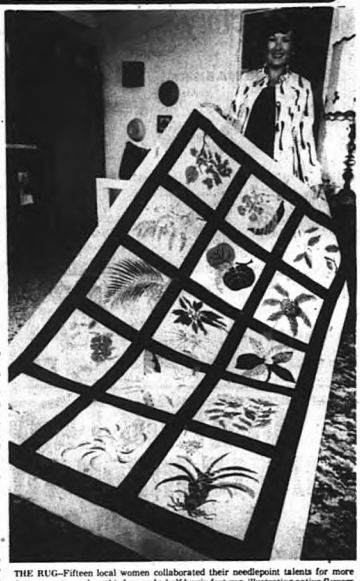
Mrs. Doris Walker of Jensen Beach will be site manager in charge of the recreation programs and the meal serving, Wacha said.

Since there is only room for about 30 persons in the Jensen Beach program, those who are interested in participating are urged to obtain applications as soon as possible from either the Martin County Council on Aging, 278 Flagler in Stuart; Ernie Curwen, Ocean Breeze Park; or from the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce.

Recreational activities at the fieldhouse will begin each day at 2:30 p.m., Wacha said, with the meals following.

The meals are free, however those who may wish to contribute cash or food stamps may do so, and volunteers are welcome to serve in any capacity.

Wacha said there will be other sites chosen in Martin County to serve more congregate meals to county residents.



THE RUG--Fifteen local women collaborated their needlepoint talents for more than a year to produce this four and a half by six foot rug, illustrating native flowers of the state of Florida. Chances are being sold to area residents to raffle the rug off with proceeds going to the Audubon Society's Possum Long Nature Center.

t tells of Russian monkeys

SEN BEACH--Dr. Stanley Wamp-
he Jensen Beach Animal Hospital was given an honor this spring anyone might envy, whether you are a practicing veterinarian or not.

Dr. Wampler was named to be a consultant to the Russian government in an exchange program with Russian veterinarians.

He related his experience to the Jensen Beach Kiwanis Club Monday at the Holiday Inn Oceanside.

In relation to the medical facilities in the United States, Dr. Wampler said the Russian technology is years behind.

He said machines used to carry out simple tasks are similar to those used in the United States in 1940.

Although the Russian technical facilities are poor, there are things in Russia American vets might envy, he said.

"They have a primate facility they began in 1928," Wampler told the Kiwanians. "They found they could not easily get monkeys in Africa so they built their own facility to raise them."

He added that in Georgia, near the Black Sea, there is a preserve where monkeys roam wild.

"It was very impressive," he said.

Dr. Wampler said the reason the country is behind in some areas and ahead in others is in the methods used to train scientists. He said a typical Russian scientist is taught to learn only one facet of one subject while an American scientist is taught a very broad range of subjects in relation to his specialty.

Dr. Wampler termed their teaching methods a "serious problem," which may hurt the country "down the highway."

FIT divers graduate

JENSEN BEACH--Florida's first class of Underwater Technologists graduated Wednesday with associate degrees from the Florida Institute of Technology.

Guest speaker Thomas Angel, manager of diving services for a large Louisana construction firm, heralded the brief ceremony as the end of "the days of all brawn and no brains in diving."

Eight of the 22 graduates received degrees with distinction, including Wayne Bywater, Joseph Kasper, Douglas Kirkbride, Cominic Libratore, Craig McKee, Tom Miller, Collin Reid and Maurice Smith. Five of the graduates were absent from the ceremony, choosing instead to use the time interviewing for positions in the diving industry.

Daniel is third in PPK

JENSEN BEACH--Thirteen-year-old Tommy Daniel, who won the Ford Motor Company Punt, Pass and Kick competition in Fort Pierce several weeks ago, placed third in the Regional Competition last Saturday.

In Orlando on Saturday, Daniel competed against 10 other 13-year-olds from around the state and placed third with a total point number of 250 feet.

The score is determined by adding the total mount of footage from the best punt, pass and kick of a football.

Engagement announced

JENSEN BEACH--Mrs. Donald Anderson of Jensen Beach announces the engagement of her daughter, Edith B. Ford, to Rober J. Moffitt of Philadelphia, Pa. The future bride is a former resident of Jensen Beach.

November 12 is the date set for the wedding at Villas, New Jersey.

Flowered rug complete

STUART--There are 15 women from Sewall's Point and Stuart who are giving their hands and fingers a needed rest.

Collaborating their talents at needlepoint, the ladies got together more than a year ago and began a four and a half by six foot rug which illustrates a number of the native plants of Florida.

Called "The Rug", the creation is now finished and has been offered to be raffled to area residents to raise money for the Audubon Society's Possum Long Nature Center.

With the help of Cheryl Kessel, Carol Talbot, Fran Guenther, Bonnie Peter, Rosemary Lizar, Sally Russell, Peggy Craig, Peg Matheson, Jenny Baquie, May Johnson, Jean Hupfel, Mary Jo Mark, Elie Easton, Tops Bryant, Mary Bayley and Ann Dutcher the rug was completed.

Research was done on the types of flowers which were to be depicted on the rug and each of the women were given paintings with which to match their needlepoint talents.

By this spring, all of the needlepoint canvasses were complete and the 15 squares were put together. At the point, the squares were sent to Mrs. Robert K. Smith in Pompano where they were cleaned, blocked and sewn together into one rug.

Those who are interested in taking a chance for the rug may call The Sampler on Osceola Ave. in Stuart.

Funds raised will go toward the cost of maintaining the Possum Long

United Way to benefit

STUART--Indian River Plantation Resort, in conjunction with the United Way of Stuart and Martin County will, in celebration of its grand opening, conduct a county-wide search for a couple to among the first guests, it was announced by Jack Snyder, vice president and general manager of the resort.

Snyder said local newspapers will be used to circulate application blanks which readers may send in to the resort in hopes of winning a free weekend for two persons as guests of the resort.

Snyder said Indian River Plantation will contribute one dollar to the United Way for each of the first one thousand applications received and an official of the United Way will draw the winning application from a large pineapple, the symbol of the resort, on a designated date.

The winning application will entitle the couple to free lodging at the resort's oceanfront villa for two nights, all meals at its soon-to-open restaurant and as much tennis, swimming and other activities as can be crammed into a two-day visit.

"The only restriction," said S... "is that the couple select some ... between November 4 and Dec... 1977, for their visit."

VICTOR GEORGEFF, left, won site plan approval for his Village Leaning development, shown as appeared before the City Planning and Zoning Board last week. 260,000 by 2050?

BY BOB FRYER

PORT ST. LUCIE–In the year 2050, the city of Port St. Lucie will have a population of approximately 260,000, will contain 30 elementary schools, seven middle schools, five high schools and a community college, if all goes according to General Development plans.

A long range plan for the city, showing the above projections, was outlined Monday night to more than 250 members of the Port St. Lucie Civic League by GDC assistant vice president of environmental planning and design, William C. Kreidt.

In making his presentation, Kreidt noted that the sprawling city of Port St. Lucie contains 42,621 acres and that more than 31,000 acres of that land is already platted. In fact, he said 28,500 acres have already been sold and that eventually there will be a total of 31,097 acres for residential developments.

Kreidt noted that the maps he presented showing the GDC plan have not been adopted by the city council, but said they should help the city in its planning efforts. He pledged that GDC will help new City Planner Mike Stynyog come up with a comprehensive plan for the city which the state requires to be completed by July, 1979.

Included in the GDC plan are 706 acres designated for commercial use, 287 for industrial use, 1,165 for institutional use, 4,945 for open space and recreation, and 538 for other purposes. He added that there are still some areas not yet designated for a specific use.

If all goes according to plan, there will be a golf course, community college and industrial park in the northern section of the city, west of the Florida Turnpike and south of Prima Vista Boulevard.

In the area west of the Florida Turnpike, which is now accessible by Port St. Lucie Boulevard, GDC hopes to eventually build another golf course, surrounded by large, country club type homes, and to have a large shopping center complex. A number of schools are also planned for that area.

When the city reaches its full population in 2050, Kreidt said GDC projects the overall density for the city will be 2.5 units per acre. That includes a total of 107,712 housing units, of which 79,126 will be regular single family homes, 780 will be larger, country club homes, 8,970 cluster homes of five units per acre, 3,728 townhouses with eight units per acre, 1,394 multi-family units with 10 units per acre and 14,694 multi-family dwellings with 15 units per acre.

Kreidt also said GDC is looking at the possibility of developing a shopping center along U.S. 1 near Walton Road in the not too distant future.

Showdown on to tap for democrats

BY BOB FRYER

PORT PIERCE–A showdown between former members of the South County Democrat Club and the St. Lucie County Democrat Executive Committee may result when the executive committee corrects its regular monthly meeting at the St. Lucie County Courthouse at 8 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 20.

In recent weeks a rift between the two organizations has resulted in a decision by the south county group to disband and form a new organization, known as the St. Lucie County Political Action Association.

According a Mrs. Angelo Impreasil, secretary of the former South County Democrat Club, she has heard that executive committee members do not intend to allow former south county members to speak at the meeting and that lawyers may be on hand to remove any south county people from the meeting.

"But we're going there with a full list of charges we intend to voice. We intend to be heard, and will make public that meeting," Impreasil said, even if the list has to be distributed to members of the press outside of the meeting. The meeting is to be held in county commission meeting room, Room 203.

Mrs. Impreasil indicated the split among the Democrat groups occurred after the South County Democrat Club gave a vote of confidence to Stanley Ostrowski.

Ostrowski supported the successful Republican candidate for St. Lucie County School Superintendent, Dr. Nolan Skinner, in the election last year, and the South County vote of confidence for Ostrowski apparently angered some members of the executive committee.

But Mrs. Impreasil said at the time Ostrowski support Skinner, Ostrowski was not a member of the South County Democrat Club and, therefore, was under no loyalty oath to support only Democrats.

The executive committee met the day after the vote of confidence was given and declined to support an application for the south county club to be rechartered by state Democratic officials, Mrs. Impreasil said, adding that John Pugh, president of the south county club and a member of the executive committee, "voted against us and resigned as president of our club at that meeting."

Mrs. Impreasil said the south county club them voted to fire Pugh.

The deadline for being approved for rechartering was Sept. 30. Mrs. Impreasil said Harry Jennings, Tom Lily and Shirley Walker, of the executive committee, wrote a letter to Alfredo Duran, chairman of the Democratic Executive Committee of Florida in Tallahassee, recommending against rechartering the south county club.

However, Mrs. Impreasil said the executive committee never took an official vote against the south county club being rechartered, even though a letter from Lilly indicated such a vote was taken. "The only vote taken was to table the matter," she said.

Mrs. Impreasil also said that "We've never seen a letter to Tallahassee stating say charges and were never officially told we would not be rechartered. All letters were always directed to the executive committee."

Mrs. Impreasil said Doran indicated the south county club could have until Oct. 22 to appeal the decision not to recharter the club, but she said the members of the club opted to disband the club and form the new St. Lucie County Political Action Association. "It would be too costly and take too much time to appeal," she noted.

The only stipulation for membership in the new association is that members must be registered Democrats, she said. She added that a committee has been set up to draft a constitution and bylaws for the new association and said after some difficulty, $500 from the south county club funds was withdrawn to be donated to the new association. The squabble over the money is still brewing and comments about it may likely be voiced at the executive committee meeting Thursday.

Frank Rose of Port St. Lucie, who was a member of the south county group, is a member of the new association, and is on the executive committee, reported that former members of the south county group were permitted to vote during elections at the Treasure Inn last Saturday to pick seven county delegates for the state Democrat Convention in November. The south county group had a slate of seven candidates and the executive committee had a slate of eight candidates. Mrs. Impreasil had said she received word the south county persons may not be allowed to vote.

"Apparently the executive committee was able to turn out more people than the south county people for the vote," Rose said. He noted that the top six vote getters were all supported by the executive committee, while positions seven through 10 went to those supported by south county persons Judy Franklin was the only delegate elected who was supported by the south county group, while Phil Thibidaau, Ann Bahlman and Rose were picked as alternates. All the alternates were on the south county supported slate.

Moratorium may end before deadline

PORT ST. LUCIE–A 120-day moratorium on zoning within the city, which was imposed by the city council on Sept. 6 and confirmed by a council resolution Oct. 6, may end considerably before the 120-day limit is up.

The moratorium is on all zoning changes within the city except those which were pending before the moratorium took effect. The council members voted for it in order to give the new City Planner, Mike Stynyog, time to familiarize himself with the city and to come up with a zoning map that is to include recommendations for the zoning of (non-residential) tracts in the city that are now unzoned. Additionally, Stynyog is to review all the current zoning classifications and to recommend changes for some of them and is to come up with a separate zoning classification for churches.

City Manager Elmer Cox said at a recent City Council and Zoning Board meeting (Oct. 12), that the city has been using a map prepared by GDC (General Development Corporation) since 1961 to be sure all zoning designations made by the council are included on the defacto map. He said that as for the tracts that have been designated for a specific use, but have never actually been zoned, he will most likely recommend that they be zoned as designated.

Cox indicated it will take Stynyog two to three weeks to finish reviewing and modifying the map, then it can be sent to the Planning and Zoning Board for approval. The city manager said it would probably only take a week after Planning and Zoning Board approval for the city council to review it and begin advertising for a public hearing on the map. He said because so many tracts on the map are designated for a use but have not been officially zoned, it would be nearly impossible to follow the regular procedure of notifying all residents within 500 feet of the designated but unzoned tracts by registered mail of the city's intention to zone the lands as designated. But, Cox said all legal requirements for notifying residents of the proposed zoning of the designated tracts could be done by taking out quarter page ads in a newspaper. "It is highly possible that if the council approves the map, the moratorium could be lifted within a month," Cox said.

Stynyog said he will likely recommend that two tracts along Morningside Drive, which include the existing City Hall and several stores, will retain their present designations when the council is asked to officially zone the parcels. Most of the land in that area is designated for B-1 (neighborhood shopping complex) zoning, while about two acres from the City Hall to Westmoreland Boulevard would be recommended to keep its residential zoning designation. Developer Peter Smith of Sandpiper Bay, Inc. has presented plans for a shopping complex on these two tracts, and so far his proposal has met with stiff opposition from nearby residents.

At a recent council meeting Smith hinted he may sue the council over the matter. At that same meeting, several GDC officials complained that there was not proper advance notification about the council's intention to declare the moratorium. One GDC attorney said the council moratorium decision may have violated state law and city ordinances.

SPEAKING IN FAVOR of the proposed Golf Village Mobile Home Park were Spanish Lakes residents Gene Menasck, standing, and Mel Parke. They said the developer of Spanish Lakes created a high quality park for them and would do the same if permitted to build Golf Village. For details, see story inside.

City attorney criticized

PORT ST. LUCIE–For the second time within a week, the services of the Port St. Lucie City Attorney Spencer Gilbert and his assistant, Fred Horowitz, were criticized by an advisory board to the the city council.

The first criticism was voiced during a Districting Committee meeting on Monday, Oct. 16. At that meeting committee members complained that they had not had good communication with Gilbert or Horowitz over what was required to come up with legal definitions of proposed city political boundaries. The members also complained that they had asked for Gilbert or Horowitz to come to their meeting to give them advice, but that neither man came.

On Monday, Oct. 17, several Planning and Zoning Board members complained about the attorneys. Board member Vernon Forrar said, "We asked the city attorney to come up with a sign ordinance amendment and I haven't see any progress on it."

Chairman H.R. Neighbours said there has been "a lack of cooperation from the assistant city attorney."

Then board member Vaughn Lewis said, "The services we're getting from the city attorney and assistant city attorney have been called into question several times." He added that he felt the city attorney "should be available for every legitimate meeting we have" and suggested that the city attorney should live within the city. Both Gilbert and Horowitz live in Fort Pierce.

"It's a matter of real concern for all of us," Neighbours said.

SANDRA KRAUSE was officially sworn in Tuesday as the new Port St. Lucie City Clerk. Ms. Krause began working for the city in August and was selected for the job after acting Clerk Cathy Merritt declined an offer for the position. Ms. Krause formerly worked for the City of Fort Pierce.

Mormons seek expansion

PORT ST. LUCIE–Two young men are riding the circuit in Port St. Lucie on bicycles, knocking on doors, and seeking to inform residents on the Church of Jesus Christ, Latter Day Saints.

The two Mormons are missionaries from the central church in Salt Lake City, Utah, and are driven by a religious fervor that is designed to spread the word of their church to expand the ministry being given at the Mormon Chapel in Fort Pierce.

Elder J.R. Lee, 18, and Elder B. Dennis, 20, seek to do two things in their project. The first is to win people to their faith, the second is to let people on Port St. Lucie know what their church is all about.

Lee is a native of St. George, Utah, and Dennis is from Roosevelt, Utah. Their two year assignment in mission in Port St. Lucie.

"We do not collect money, nor do we accept donations," Lee said.

"We have been very well received, and we enjoy talking with the people," he added.

Appearing before civic groups and organizations, the two young men present the facts about the Mormon Church, and answer questions. They key their explanation to the family strength that is the result of teaching of the Book of Mormon.

They also welcome newcomers to the community as a part of their ministry.

The two Mormon missionaries live at 7700 South Federal Highway, apartment one, in Port St. Lucie. Persons interested in learning more about the Mormons can reach the missionaries at 461-3561 before 9:30 a.m. and after 9:30 p.m.

The Mormon Chapel is located in Fort Pierce at 2900 Virginia Avenue.

Double taxation is eyed by city

BY BOB FRYER

PORT ST. LUCIE–The issue of alleged double taxation of city residents came up again at a city council meeting Tuesday, Oct. 18, but City Manager Elmer Cox indicated it may take a long time to resolve the issue.

Cox told council members that he met last week with County Administrator Weldon Lewis and obtained copies of the county budget for the fiscal year that ended last month and for the current fiscal year.

The issue has been brewing for a long time, and, basically, the city contends that Port St. Lucie residents are getting doubly taxed by the city and county for the same services or, in some cases, county taxes are collected from city residents for services they do not receive.

Cox said he and City Treasurer Gerald Van Patten will meet with the city Finance Committee soon to make a line by line review of the county budgets. "We will especially look into those gray areas, where money may be spent on unincorporated areas but not in the city," Cox said.

Cox said after the budget review is made, recommendations will be made to the city council for possible action.

"The Sheriff's Department budget will come under close scrutiny," Cox said, expressing a belief that the city may not be receiving the same level of basic law enforcement protection that unincorporated areas receive.

For a number of years, the city has contracted with the Sheriff for extra police protection, over what the city would normally receive. This year the contract is costing the city around $175,000.

Council member Schuyler Sharpe said he felt that with the Sheriff giving a service under the contract for extra protection, the amount of protection the city would normally receive without the contract has been cut. "I just don't think we're getting the service from the Sheriff that we should get," he said.

Cox said he and Lewis did not get into any substantive discussion of double taxation, as "neither of us could make commitments for our local governing bodies." But he said Lewis is now "aware of the council's attitude and the council will be in a better position to approach the county commission after a thorough study of the budgets is made." He said the budget review will be "a slow process."

One of the problems that brought the double taxation issue to the forefront was a recent rejection of the county commission of a request from the city for $40,000 in county funds for improvements to Sportsman's Park. The city owns the park and city council members have said several times they do not intend to deed it to the county.

County Commissioner Ed Enns repeated an offer for the county to take over the park when he addressed the Port St. Lucie Civic League Monday night. Enns said the county recently took over a number of city parks in Fort Pierce and he repeated a view that he believes recreation is a basic service responsibility of the county.

Enns has stated on numerous occasions that he feels government should come in layers of service and that he feels maintenance of arterial roads, fire protection, operation of the library system, and park operations are among basic services the county should provide. He said if the residents of cities want service in those areas over and above what the county provides, then they can impose city taxes for those purposes. "But then, if anyone is guilty of double taxation, it would be the city," Enns said in a recent interview.

At the Civic League meeting Monday, Enns said, "It is my philosophy that people want an accounting for their taxes. I think it is a growing philosophy and I think the county commission has had it for the last three or four years. We're trying to define the services the county should provide on a countywide basis."

He said the county has had problems separating responsibilities it and the state have and that it and cities have. "County government is not here to jointly fund projects. We're trying to get away from that and to get away from giving funds to cities for their projects."

At the city council meeting Tuesday, a resident suggested that the city ought to deed Sportsman's Park to the county, but several council members said they did not want to do that.

"If you have seen how the county maintains its parks, you would not want that for our park. I think it is the best in the county and I want it to stay that way," Mayor Bill McChesney said.

PSL Homeowners meet October 26

PORT ST. LUCIE–The Port St. Lucie Homeowners Association will hold its quarterly meeting of the membership on October 26 at 7:30 p.m. at the Port St. Lucie Elementary School.

President Ed Ebling has arranged to have the 40 piece Port St. Lucie Band give a concert before the meeting. The band is sponsored by the people of Port St. Lucie and played in the 4th of July parade. The band is directed by Charles Edgette.

Refreshments will be served following the meeting.

Commercial vehicle ban

PORT ST. LUCIE–City council members approved the first reading of an ordinance Tuesday which will prohibit parking a commercial vehicle in residential areas of the city for more than an hour.

The ordinance provides for a fine of up to $250 and a jail term of up to 30 days for violators.

A commercial vehicle is described in the ordinance to mean any vehicle designed, used, or maintained primarily for the transportation of property with a gross vehicle weight of 5,000 pounds or more, and it will be presumed that any vehicles with license plates bearing TA,TB,TC,TD,TE,GW, or L designations are commercial vehicles.

Exceptions to the ordinance will be made for vehicles on private property where construction is underway, for vehicles making deliveries or providing a service, or in cases when a vehicle become disabled. However, in the latter case, vehicles will have to be removed from residential areas within 24 hours, regardless of the nature of the emergency.

Naturalist's book is published

FORT PIERCE–A Fort Pierce teenager, Michael Sneed, recently had his first book, "Hutchinson Island, Reef to River", published. The book is a guide to the ecology of Hutchinson Island, one of the last remaining unspoiled and sparsely settled barrier island on the South Florida coast.

The 16-year-old author is a junior at John Carroll High School in Fort Pierce and the son of Jimmy Sneed, a Fort Pierce automobile dealer, and Julie Bartlett, a reporter for the Fort Pierce News Tribune.

Michael won a first place award for the 100-page book, his entry in a St. Lucie County Conservation Alliance contest designed to stimulate interest in ecology among young people. Ocean Village, a condominium development on the island where Michael lives, published the book.

The book includes sections on the various ecological systems present on Hutchinson Island and the adjacent bay and ocean waters. The book also contains a catalogue of descriptions and illustrations of some 58 species of fish, plants, birds, shellfish and animals found in the area. In addition to writing the text, Michael illustrated the book with ink drawings and photographs which he took and developed himself.

The book, copies of which have been donated to area schools and libraries, is available for a charge of $1.50 from the Ocean Village Information Center at 2400 South Ocean Drive, Fort Pierce.

West and Ruth Arbo and granddaughter Debbie and Frank and Ann Gilbert went to Palm Beach to say goodbye to Debbie at the airport. Then the Arbos and Gilberts went out for dinner to celebrate Frank and Anne's anniversary. Later in the evening Debbie phoned that she had arrived home safely, although the weather was troublesome. The plane circled Boston several times before they could land, due to high winds and rain. Then the plane had to detour several underpasses from the airports which were flooded.

Al and Peg Ray are glad to be home in H.O. after a wonderful summer. After leaving California, they visited Las Vegas, then drove the southern route through Arizona, New Mexico and stopped at El Paso to walk across the border to Jaurez, Mexico. Then it was on to New Orleans where they spent two days and their final stop was in Destin, Florida, where they saw a fishing boat unloading a 176-lb grouper, along with other grouper weighing 15 pounds.

Thursday, Ellen Freeman fulfilled a three-year dream by catching a 5-lb snook.

Ann Criscuol was so glad to be back in H.O. and get back to her garden that she ripped into the cleanup task with too much zest. Two sandspurs flew out of the garden beds and lodged in her eye. They had to be removed surgically, not a pleasant experience. Ann vows she'll wear protective glasses even when just looking at the plants from now on!

Charlie Blake and Helen are back in H.O. for a rest after a busy working summer. Charlie, an independent insurance adjuster, was called into Johnston, Pa., after the disastrous floods there in July. When he got the call for help, Charlie and Helen packed their trailer, closed their home in Ft. Myers and took off. They got to Johnston the end of July and did not get back to Florida until the first of October. The sights they saw in Johnstown still chill them. Sluggish two foot wide creeks before the rains had become twenty feet wide and seven or eight feet deep rivers in a few hours. Raging torrents had hurled boulders the size of travel trailers against houses, bridges, highways, anything in their destructive path. There was thick mud and four feet of water most everywhere. Even the central city of Johnston was flooded and the Bethelehem Steel plant was covered with water.

But human nature is indominatable and, when the Blakes left, Johnson was rebuilding, many dwellings rebuilt on the very sites which had been flooded. Other people, however, who had been loaned new mobile homes by the U.S. government agency HUD, are so delighted with them that they do not want to give them up.

Vikings Landing gets nod from P&Z Board

PORT ST. LUCIE—City Planning and Zoning Board members voted six to one Thursday, Oct. 13, to grant site plan approval for phase one of Vikings Landing, an exclusive housing development near the southern end of Floresta Drive, bordering C-34 and Mud Cove.

The action by the board was, basically, a confirmation of site plan approval the city council gave the project on Tuesday, Oct. 12. When the council approved the plans, it was made contingent upon subsequent Planning and Zoning Board approval.

City Planner Mike Sinnyog said that, normally, a site plan is first reviewed by the Planning and Zoning Board and, if approved, goes to the city council for review, then acceptance or rejection.

But Sinnyog said developer Victor Georgeff of Victory Construction, Inc., was anxious to begin construction at the project, so the order of reviewing the project was reversed. "It was just an accommodation for him," he said.

When board member Clyde Blank asked about the potential of a flood in the area, Georgeff told him that the area was in a flood-prone area, but that he had met requirements for development in such areas by having roads 8.5 feet above the mean high water mark and houses 8.5 feet above the mark. He added that Federal Flood Insurance would be available to the homeowners.

Georgeff said there would be a 50-foot setback from all waters and said he has tried to keep as much natural vegetation at the project as possible.

When the motion to approve the project was made, it was worded to take note that the city council had already approved the project and that the board agreed with that approval. The only board member voting against the site plan was Henry Sewell, who said he has consistently voted against all projects along the St. Lucie River.

Earn 18%-40% on Solar Investment

SOLAR WATER HEATING

"You probably have heard of Solar Energy and surely are aware of our energy crisis, but did you ever consider solar energy as an investment?"

Let's take a simple example.

You have $900 in a bank at 6 percent, taxable income. That is $54 per year.

Take that same $900. Invest in an all copper Solar Water System and you will make from $120 to $300 per year, tax free.

You can learn more about this and see documented proof if you will take the time to call me and see for yourself how solar heats a 20x10 swimming pool or one 42 gallon water heater.

Most people are skeptical when told they can earn 18 to 40 percent tax free on an investment in Solar energy. We have even better news. House Bill H1000 has been passed and is now in the Senate. This can give you up to a $800 tax credit on your solar investment. For instance, say your solar investment is $900, you can deduct $360 from the bottom line AND your total solar investment is now only $540.

We hope everyone will do his part to fight the energy crunch and rising prices. We can help.

Call John Coffin at 286-2183 and see if your home will qualify for solar investment.

City continues search for health policy

PORT ST. LUCIE–City council members continued their search for a health insurance policy for city employees Tuesday when they heard proposals from two insurance companies.

Blue Fisher of Prudential Insurance Company outlined a plan his firm is offering and compared it to benefits in the proposal from Independent Life representative, John Bateman. Bateman showed council members a comparison chart that indicates the two dental plan benefits are equal to or better than the Independent Life plan.

The city is currently contracting with Independent Life for a health insurance package policy, but that plan expires at the end of this month. The new proposal from Independent Life includes higher rates than the existing plan, and Bateman explained that is because his company took a 40 per cent loss on the existing policy and because the cost of medical care and hospitalization is increasing.

Bateman said many insurance firms are getting away from insuring municipalities and said Fort Pierce is having a hard time getting anyone to bid on a policy for its employees. He recommended the councilmen against frequently switching policies, as they currently decide it is not worth the trouble to prepare a new proposal each year.

City Manager Elmer Cox said one other firm may make a proposal soon, but he said by this Friday he will be ready to make a recommendation to the council, so council members can select a policy at their meeting next Tuesday, Oct. 25.

In other action, council members gave a favorable response to a suggestion by GDC representative Bob Seeley that there should be an ordinance prohibiting the feeding of alligators.

City Public Safety Director Doug Scott and Councilman Dan Richardson said in the wake of the recent alligator attack on a city resident, three alligators have been removed from golf course ponds and that more alligators will be removed soon.

Cox reported that he did not have an informational brochure on the city ready, as he had planned to have by Tuesday, because he had so many other duties to fulfill. At the suggestion of Councilwoman Lolita Kernohan, a committee will be formed to complete the brochure. The brochure will be printed to acquaint new residents with services in the area, with the history of the city, and with some of the city's laws. Herb Tschudy, Hugh Jenks, and Ed Fessel will be asked to serve on the committee.

Council member Schuyler Sharpe reiterated a position by council members that the city is still looking for an architect for the new City Hall. Cox said he still has hopes that construction of the City Hall can begin before the end of this year. The City Hall will be located on a 14.5 acre tract at the northwest corner of Airoso Boulevard and Port St. Lucie Boulevard.

Cox also reported that the city Districting Committee, which was to have met Monday, Oct. 17, to finish a project in come up with new political boundaries for the city, did not meet. He said the meeting was cancelled because the legal description of the proposed boundaries was found to be faulty. Committee member Bob Johnston and Cal Montgomery, city consulting engineer, were to meet Tuesday afternoon to work on the problem.

Council members authorized the city attorney to draft an ordinance for granting a zoning request by the St. James Orthodox Church so that group can build a church on Airoso Boulevard between Deacon and Thanksgiving Roads.

Vikings bow to Firebirds

PORT ST. LUCIE–The Port St. Lucie Vikings went down to their first defeat of the season at the hands of the Indiantown Firebirds by a score of 19-13.

Indiantown scored first on a 25 yard pass from Craig Johnson to Isaac Young. The other two Firebird scores were on runs of 35 yards by Young and a 1-yard plunge by John Murphy. Young added the 19th point on a run.

For Port St Lucie, Vince Insogna was the leading ball carrier and quarterback Will Wilson completed 9 of 21 passes for 78 yards, including a 13 yard scoring strike to John Sewell. The Vikings' second touchdown came on a 1-yard drive by Denny Green. The final point for the Vikings was a Wilson to Tommy Schwarz pass for the conversion.

Kelly Thomas and Rudy Ferguson were outstanding on defense for Port St Lucie. Thomas recovered two fumbles in addition to 10 tackles and assists. Ferguson had nine tackles and assists.

The Vikings' next game will be Saturday, Oct. 22, at 8 p.m. in Stuart.

In lower division action, the Indiantown Thunderbirds defeated the Port St. Lucie Vikings 25 to 6.

In spite of many penalties, the Thunderbirds tallied four touchdowns, including one on a 70 yard pass interception play.

The lower division Vikings, whose record now stands at 2-1-1, will play the lower division Stuart team, in Stuart, at 6:30 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 22.

Congregate meals coming to Martin

Congregate meals are finally coming to Martin County. Through the efforts of the Council on Aging, AARP and the County Commission, after years of striving, the congregate meals for 25 will start Tuesday, Oct. 25, 4 p.m. at Langford Park Fieldhouse.

A meeting was held last week to discuss procedures for getting the program underway, with Arlene Fletcher, program manager; Doris Walker, site manager; Horace Donley, custodian; and Ernie Curwen, to inform participants. Mrs. Fletcher explained that the program is being put on by "Treasure Coast Congregate Meals Program" (855 7th Ave., Vero Beach, FL 32960, tel. 569-2044). It is funded by the federal government with matching money being supplies by the county in the form of "supplied facilities".

A person must be over 60 and have a need for the service to qualify for these meals. A nutritional meal will be served at 4 p.m., Monday through Friday, and there is a possibility of transportation if needed. There will be entertaining recreational programs, a chance to meet new friends, and to obtain information in regards to other community services.

There will be no charge for the meal, however one can contribute cash or food stamps if able. A person may volunteer to help in some capacity. Remember, good nutrition is important to health, recreation is important to well being, and getting to meet with others of your age group will keep your interest alive.

This program has been a long time in coming and is something that will be of great benefit to senior citizens of Martin County, so let's all strive to make it successful.

For further information and applications, call Ernie Curwen at 334-0756; MCCA, 283-2242; or Doris Walker, 334-2576.

The second SIC session last Friday in front of Publix Market was even better patronized than the first. Boyd Smith, who is in charge for AARP, says the folks had more specific questions this week. Also, many who just stopped for a chat while their ladies were shopping had a question or two after a few minutes conversation.

They came in all age groups, according to Boyd, from a lady with babe in arms to a 86-year-old lad. It was noted that at least half the folks that passed by were senior citizens, doing their part, to keep Martin County economy booming.

The questions were about the same as the previous week: 8 to 10 regarding AARP applications; five or six on insurance problems; three for bus schedules and this and; three for medical services (and they invited right over to SeniorCare Center, the same as they did last Friday. elderly care; funeral expenses, congregate meals; meetings, etc. This center is supplying a needed community service and is being well received.

This is a good place to find out what "AARPers are talking about" and a place for committees to meet for a quick exchange of ideas, literally "meeting in the sunshine".

AARPers invariably mentioned their problems with health services. This is quite understandable as HEW Director Robert Derzon points. Those over 65 need 2½ times more medical care than the younger groups. Also, he remarks, there'll be 31 million in this group by the year 2000, and very few physicians are being trained to treat this huge older population.

Sense citizen health care at affordable costs is often the main topic when AARPers get together. They ask, "Why can't there be a tourist class like the airlines have, getting you there just as well as the luxurious first class section, but dispensing with all frills" Martin County Hospital has floors for this and that, how about a plain, down to earth section for the elderly, without all the frills?"

Anyway, while waiting for that to come to pass, there's the economical SeniorCare Center under Norman B. Schnider, M.D. at the Monterey Plaza. Also, there is the monthly Martin County Health Dept. Clinic under the direction of Archie MacCallister, M.D., held on the third Friday of each month at 8 a.m. at Langford Park. The next is Friday, Oct. 21, for free blood pressure checks and nutritional counselling.

The ExCom meeting last week was a humdinger, even though there were only 18 attending (a quorum, however). Many items were taken up and the controversial ones were well discussed. Here are some of the highlights:

Nominations, as drawn up by the nominating committee, were submitted to the board for approval. The slate was approved, but the offices of recording secretary is still open.

An AARP Prime Time show on Ferry Cable Channel 11 is scheduled for taping the week of Nov. 28. A chairman is needed to get the show on the road, and, although the general format has been worked out, if no chairman volunteers there will be no show.

HUGH JENCKS, 878-2666 ERNIE CURWEN, 334-0756

this very worthwhile project will have to be cancelled.

Frank Edwardso, chairman of "Do it yourself with help" reports the program has been quite successful so far this year. More than 30 requests for assistance have been taken care of. We will start off this season with the following men ready and willing to do small jobs for small fees: Edwardson, 283-0473; Martin Myer, 283-6014; Clyde Lellarge, 283-6873; Charles Croswell, 287-8644; Elwyn Burnett, 334-1740; and, not back yet, August Burmeister, 334-1480, and Ronald Walker, 283-4580.

The Fair Booth for next spring was discussed, but again, if no chairman can be found to tie it all together, this project will have to be dropped.

The chapter has been without a parliamentarian for some time, as Director Harry Bayliss agreed to take it on. Now, we'd better follow established procedures.

The Golden Eagle Bulletin that has grown from a 4-page brochure to a 10-page booklet with a page of off set photos was discussed, and it quickly became apparent that, unless an advertising manager is located soon, future issues will be in jeopardy.

The start of Defensive Driving classes will be somewhat delayed this year with the problem of recertification of regular instructors and certification of new instructors. However, plans are under way to have the class resume in the near future. All interested, leave your names with Adult Education, 287-6400, ext. 138, or call Ed Annable, 546-6580 in regards to his Hobe Sound class on Nov. 1 and 2.

The picnic is back at Langford's, as the 4 p.m. time for congregate meals makes the 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. hours available to AARP after all. So, in order to avoid confusion about whether to go out on the causeway or to Langford Park if it storms, it was decided to use Langford Park for the winter months. Next picnic, Langford Park, Nov. 3, 11 to 2 p.m.

A new services has been added for seniors by the Adult Education Department of Martin County Schools.

Seminars on topics of interest to AARPers and seniors will be held in the library every Wednesday, 1 to 3 p.m. Mrs. Esther Kildea, AARP V.P. and coordinator of career development, and "Chlac" MacIntyre, AARP director and past president, will sponsor the programs. For information, call 283-4077 or 283-7628.

Port St. Lucie Chapter 2836

All the folks who went on the Bahamas mini cruise are now back home after a rewarding experience that everyone will remember for a long, long time. The cruise was all it was cracked up to be, with stops at one main island of the Bahamas (New Providence-Nassau) and at two "out" islands (Exuma and Berry), with luxurious accommodations on the ship (the Sunward II), and with the usual shipboard supply of food that was very good and in more than ample supply. It was a delightful mixture of the urbane and the exotic.

The weather was what one would expect in the Caribbean—until the final day when we arrived at Miami in what could only be termed Arctic temperatures, compared with the previous four days. The wind howled on the decks and the thermometer plummeted into the beyond the call of duty to make sure that everything went according to Hoyle. Mike drove his car down to Miami on departure day and saw everyone on board, and when we got through customs on the return, there was Bill with the bus! Bill also got a station wagon to help people get home from the Martin who didn't have any transportation. This was a real example of service.

Those who left from the Marina were 50's. Of course, this was the case all over Florida last Friday, so the travelers experienced nothing that other Floridians didn't.

Everyone with whom we spoke was more than satisfied with the cruise. There were 31 people from our chapter, six from the Martin County chapter, who were picked up and deposited by the bus at Stuart, and five cruisers who boarded the bus at Ash Mr. Travel before it proceeded on to the Marina to pick up our group en route to Miami. At this point, we would like to daff the hat to Bill Christian and Mike Krain of Ash Mr. Travel, who certainly went above and

At the open meeting tomorrow (Oct. 20), we will have two experts on Medicare from the Blue Cross-Blue Shield state headmasters at Jacksonville on the program. Their objective will be to explain, in simple terms, how to fill out Medicare B claims, the ones you send infor doctors' fees and medicine. They are David Mancini, director of communications, and his assistant, Michael Poe.

Mancini has been with Blue Cross for some years 20 years and has been involved directly with Medicare claim processing in Florida since it started in 1966. He is a graduate of Columbia University.

Poe is a graduate of the University of Florida and is in his fourth year of working on claim processing.

Don't forget that the meeting will be at the Port St. Lucie Community Center, and not the Northport Marina, to which we will say farewell after our November meeting, with a hearty vote of thanks to General Development for making the space there available.

On the recommendation of Jim Kearney and Maurie Arluck, who investigated several possible sites, the board of directors has selected Treasure Island Inn as the place where the annual meeting will be held Tuesday, Dec. 13. Tickets for the lunch will be $4.50.

As announced earlier, three things are scheduled to happen: presentation of the chapter sensal service award to President Fred Wiggin; election of officers and directors and installation of the new team that will direct the chapter's business next year.

We'll have more later on how, where and when you can buy tickets.

Did you notice in the AARP News Bulletin that an AARP member in Vermont is leading a campaign to change the national anthem from the Star Spangled Banner to America the Beautiful?

She says, with reason in our opinion, that America the Beautiful "is more symbolic of the true spirit of America" than the present anthem with its rockets and bombs bursting in air and its main theme of warfare.

She's getting up petitions. If you feel like circulating one, you can obtain it by sending a pre-addressed, stamped envelope with your request to: Mrs. Robert G. Rosegrant, RFD 3, Putney, Vermont 05346.

More power to her, we say, in addition to everything else, the Star Spangled Banner is difficult to sing because of its wide range of notes in the upper and lower registers.

Dowers and friends celebrate 25th anniversary

Bob and Marie Dower's recent guests were Al and Janice Wentz of Pittsburg, Pa. They met 25 years ago while both couples were on their honeymoons in the Pocono Mountains. They were married on the same day, October 11, 1952.

The two couples renewed their marriage vows at St. Joseph Catholic Church on October 11. A double ring ceremony was performed. They have kept in touch and gotten together on many of their anniversaries.

The Dower children had planned this wonderful occasion for the past year. Bob and Marie were really surprised. This truly was an exciting time for all.

Planners ask hearing for mobile home park

BY BOB FRYER

PORT ST. LUCIE–A request by the developers of Spanish Lakes and spacious Lakes Riverfront mobile home parks to develop another mobile home park, within the Port St. Lucie city limits, got at least a temporary delay Monday when Planning and Zoning Board members opted to hold a public hearing on the matter before deciding to favor or oppose the object.

The Spanish Lakes developers, represented by Harvey Newman, asked the board for zoning of a 320-acre tract along Commercial Boulevard to build a 740-unit park to be known as Golf Village Mobile Home Park. The tract is east of the only existing building in an area now designated for an industrial park. The existing building, east of U.S. 1, is used to build pre-fabricated homes.

The overall density of the project would be 3.7 units per acre and would include lakes and a golf cobrse.

City Planner Mike Szyszog issued a report at the Monday meeting recommending approval of the zoning request. In the report he said the project "will not burden the service capabilities of the city, but will, I think, provide tax revenue beyond the expenditures for city services."

However, it appeared that a majority of the board members were opposed to the zoning request, or at least to some factors about the proposal.

The most common objection voiced by board members is that granting the zoning request would eliminate some of the land within the city that is designated for industrial development. Several board members said they felt the city needs all the land currently designated for industrial use, and may need even more industrial land in the future.

Newman argued, however, that in the last four years only five acres of the entire area along Commercial Boulevard set aside for industrial use has actually been put to that use. And he added that even if his proposal is approved, there would still be 114 acres left for industrial use. He further added that the tax revenues from the mobile home park would be three times greater than the city now receives from the lands designated for industrial use.

Vernon Forrar expressed concern about what would happen in the event of a hurricane, should the mobile home park residents need to be evacuated. He said mobile home park residents would have to be evacuated in some cases where residents in concrete block homes would not have to be moved.

Board Chairman H.R. Neighbours said the city needs to preserve all the land it has which is designated for industry and for schools and recreation because the land will be needed for those purposes in the future.

Cal. John Huncharek, Vaughn Lewis, Ed Jenkins, George Montooth and Milton Riedel all voiced some concern over granting the mobile home park zoning request.

Henry Sewell, who said he opposes all heavy industry and most light industry in the city, said, "We should have a good mobile home park in our city and I can't think of a better place for it."

Clyde Blunt said, "There are just as good people living in mobile home parks as we have anywhere in town. A city this size will have to arrange for some place for mobile home parks within the city."

Hughes Brininger also expressed favor for the park.

Several Spanish Lakes residents attended the meeting and spoke in favor of the proposed park. After Montooth said he worried about a hurricane ripping apart mobile homes and sending aluminum parts flying, he said he was glad that at least the proposed new park was east of U.S. 1.

Spanish Lakes resident Gene Messick said he objected to Montooth's remark about the park being planned for "the other side of U.S. 1."

Spanish Lakes Mel Parks said the park he lives in is well managed, that parks such as the one he lives in have "reached a point of dignity" not formerly associated with mobile home parks and added, "This is a good area (to live in) but lots of people can't afford a concrete block home."

Ray Prior of Spanish Lakes said he is proud to be a resident of Spanish Lakes and said the class of people that would live in the new park "would be good for the city of Port St. Lucie."

Harold of Abbot of Spanish Lakes said Spanish Lakes is one of the finest parks he's seen, but said the city should give serious consideration to its future needs for industrial use land.

On Tuesday, Cox asked city council members for permission to immediately advertise for a public hearing on the matter. The council granted permission.

Before that hearing is conducted, General Development Corporation officials will present newly developed plans for possible use of lands west of the Florida Turnpike for industry.

In other action the board approved a zoning request for a two-acre tract near the future City Hall for St. James Episcopal Church of Stuart, will entertain.

"They feature arrangements of patriotic songs and spirituals," Shinn said, and are under the direction of Allen Ledford, formerly of the University of Tennessee.

The medical self-help course of instruction in two hours once a week for five weeks, Shinn said. It is funded by the State of Florida through the adult education program. There is no charge for instruction or course materials.

"It can be extremely important to know what to do if a medical emergency arises in your home, on your boat, or at a neighbor's home," Shinn said. "I think husbands and wives should take this course together."

Details of time and place for the instruction and initial sign-up of students will be ironed out at Tuesday's meeting. Class size is limited, Shinn said, but there is enough interest, sessions can be held.

Conservation Alliance meets next Tuesday

The Norwegian Caribbean Lines, operators of the cruise, said they would distribute forms on which people could write their comments and suggestions about the ship and the facilities, but some people didn't receive the forms. If you have any comments, critical or constructive, that you would like to pass along, you can turn them in to Mike Krain at Ask Mr. Travel.

At the open meeting tomorrow (Oct. 20), we will have two experts on Medicare from the Blue Cross-Blue Shield state headquarters at Jacksonville on the program. Their objective will be to explain, in simple terms, how to fill out Medicare B claims, the ones you send infor doctors' fees and medicine. They are David Mancini, director of communications, and his assistant, Michael Poe.

Mancini has been with Blue Cross for more than 20 years and has been involved directly with Medicare claim processing in Florida since it started in 1966. He is a graduate of Columbia University.

Poe is a graduate of the University of Florida and is in his fourth year of working on claim processing.

Don't forget that the meeting will be at the Port St. Lucie Community Center, and not the Northport Marina, to which we will say farewell after our November meeting, with a hearty vote of thanks to General Development for making the space there available.

On the recommendation of Jim Kearney and Maurie Arlich, who investigated several possible sites, the board of directors has selected Treasure Island Inn as the place where the annual meeting luncheon is to be held Tuesday, Dec. 13. Tickets for the lunch will be $4.50.

As announced earlier, three things are scheduled to happen: presentation of the chapter annual service award to President Fred Wiggin; election of officers and directors and installation of the new team that will direct the chapter's business next year.

We'll have more later on how, where and when you can buy tickets.

Did you notice in the AARP News Bulletin that an AARP member in Vermont is leading a campaign to change the national anthem from the Star Spangled Banner to America the Beautiful?

She says, with reason in our opinion, that America the Beautiful "is more symbolic of the true spirit of America" than the present anthem with its rockets and bombs bursting in air and its main theme of warfare.

She's getting up petitions. If you feel like circulating one, you can obtain it by sending a pre-addressed, stamped envelope with your request to: Mrs. Robert G. Kneegrant, RFD 3, Putney, Vermont 05346.

More power to her, we say. In addition to everything else, the Start Spangled Banner is difficult to sing because of its wide range of notes in the upper and lower registers.

Dowers and friends celebrate 25th anniversary

Bob and Marie Dower's recent guests were Al and Janice Wentz of Pitsburg, Pa. They met 25 years ago while both couples were on their honeymoons in the Pocono Mountains. They were married on the same day, October 11, 1952.

The two couples renewed their marriage vows at St. Joseph Catholic Church on October 11. A double ring ceremony was performed. They have kept in touch and gotten together on many of their anniversaries.

The Dower children had planned this wonderful occasion for the past year. Bob and Marie were really surprised. They received many flowers and gifts. This truly was an exciting time for all.

Ruth and Ray Miller have returned from their vacation home at Walker, Minnesota, and find everything pretty well in order. They stopped at Ottumwa, Iowa, enroute home to visit friends and relatives.

Mae Duggan has settled in a fine retiree apartment. Many are telephone workers in this New Haven location, so there's plenty of "shop talk". She seems happy in her new location.

Convalescents: We are very happy to announce that Sally Ciechanowski has returned home after a serious operation and many weeks of confinement in a West Palm Beach hospital. She is still very weak, but coming along fine and says she appreciates all the cards.

Clair Baker was in the hospital for a check up...still clicking on all four.

Cari Kuebler is feeling much better. Marion has things pretty well packed and will be enroute here as soon as Carl is physically able and gives the word. It is a bit crisp in Lansing, Michigan, right now.

We welcome to the park Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Holthauser, nee Patricia Ann Dubley, who were recently married at the Prince of Peace Lutheran Church. They are making their home at 1190 NW 15th Street. Congratulations to you folks.

The Drinkards rolled into town in the "Pumpkin Express", so called because Betty had packed lots of pumpkins, Indian corn and gourds from Paul's Michigan garden to help decorate the rec hall for the Halloween party.

They had a pleasant trip down, with a stopover in Kentucky to visit Paul's four sisters, and they feel lucky to have escaped the first snowfall in Michigan.

VICTOR GEORGEFF, left, won site plan approval for his Vikings Landing development when he appeared before the City Planning and Zoning Board last week. The development will feature homes starting at $100,000 and will be located along the St Lucie River at Mud Cove and the intersection of C-34. (For more details, see story inside.)

260,000 by 2050?

BY BOB FRYER

PORT ST. LUCIE—In the year 2050, the city of Port St. Lucie will have a population of approximately 260,000, will contain 30 elementary schools, seven middle schools, five high schools and a community college, if all goes according to General Development plans.

A long range plan for the city, showing the above projections, was outlined Monday night to more than 250 members of the Port St. Lucie Civic League by GDC assistant vice president of environmental planning and design, William C. Kreidt.

In making his presentation, Kreidt noted that the sprawling city of Port St. Lucie contains 43,631 acres and that more than 31,000 acres of that land is already platted. In fact, he said 28,500 acres have already been sold and that eventually there will be a total of 31,097 acres for residential development.

Kreidt noted that the maps he presented showing the GDC plan have not been adopted by the city council, but said they should help the city in its planning efforts. He pledged that GDC will help new City Planner Mike Sznyag come up with a comprehensive plan for the city which the state requires to be completed by July, 1979.

Included in the GDC plan are 706 acres designated for commercial use, 287 for industrial use, 1,145 for institutional use, 4,943 for open space and recreation, and 536 for other purposes. He added that there are still some areas not yet designated for a specific use.

If all goes according to plan, there will be a golf course, community college and industrial park in the northern section of the city, west of the Florida Turnpike and well north of Prima Vista Boulevard.

In the area west of the Florida Turnpike, which is now accessible by Port St. Lucie Boulevard, GDC hopes to eventually build another golf course, surrounded by large, country club type homes, and to have a large shopping center complex. A number of schools are also planned for that area.

When the city reaches its 260,000 population in 2050, Kreidt said GDC projects the overall density for the city will be 2.5 units per acre. That includes a total of 102,712 housing units, of which 79,136 will be regular single family homes, 760 will be larger, country club homes, 3,970 cluster homes of five units per acre, 2,728 townhouses with eight units per acre, 1,294 multi-family units with 10 units per acre and 14,424 multi-family dwellings with 15 units per acre.

Kreidt also said GDC is looking at the possibility of developing a shopping center along U S 1 near Walton Road in the not too distant future.

Showdown on to tap for democrats

BY BOB FRYER

PORT PIERCE—A showdown between four members of the South County Democrat Club and the St. Lucie County Democrat Executive Committee may end when the executive committee submits its regular monthly meeting at the St. Lucie County Courthouse at 8 p.m., Thursday, Oct. 20.

In recent weeks a rift between the two organizations has resulted in a decision by the south county group to disband and form a new organization, known as the St. Lucie County Political Action Association.

According to Mrs. Angelo Impresti, secretary of the former South County Democrat Club, she has heard that executive committee members do not intend to allow former south county members to speak at the meeting and the lawmen may be on hand to remove any south county people from the meeting.

"But we're going there with a full list of charges we intend to voice. We intend to be heard, and will make public that list of charges," she said, even if the list has to be distributed to members of the press outside of the meeting. The meeting is to be held in the county commission meeting room, Room 208.

Mrs. Impresti indicated the split among the Democrat groups occurred after the South County Democrat Club took a vote of confidence to Stanley Ostrowski.

Ostrowski supported the successful Republican candidate for St. Lucie County School Superintendent, Dr. Nolan Skinner, in the election last year, and the South County vote of confidence for Ostrowski apparently angered some members of the executive committee.

But Mrs. Impresti said at the time Ostrowski support Skinner, Ostrowski was not a member of the South County Democrat Club and, therefore, was under no loyalty oath to support only Democrats.

The executive committee met the day after the vote of confidence was given and declined to support an application for the south county club to be rechartered by state Democratic officials, Mrs. Impresti said, adding that John Pugh, president of the south county club and a member of the executive committee, "voted against us and resigned as president of our club at that meeting."

Mrs. Impresti said the south county club them voted to fire Pugh.

The deadline for being approved for rechartering was Sept. 30. Mrs. Impresti said Harry Jennings, Tom Lily and Shirley Walker, of the executive committee, wrote a letter to Alfredo Duran, chairman of the Democratic Executive Committee of Florida in Tallahassee, recommending against rechartering the south county club.

However, Mrs. Impresti said the executive committee never took an official vote against the south county club being rechartered, even though a letter from Lilly indicated such a vote was taken. "The only vote taken was to table the matter," she said.

Mrs. Impresti also said that "We've never seen a letter in Tallahassee stating any charges and were never officially told we would not be rechartered. All letters were always directed to the executive committee."

Mrs. Impresti said Doran indicated the south county club could have until Oct. 22 to appeal the decision not to recharter the club, but she said the members of the club opted to disband the club and form the new St. Lucie County Political Action Association. "It would be too costly and take too much time to appeal," she noted.

The only stipulation for membership in the new association is that members must be registered Democrats, she said. She added that a committee has been set up to draft a constitution and bylaws for the new association and said after some difficulty, $500 from the south county club funds was withdrawn to be donated to the new association. The squabble over the money is still brewing and comments about it may likely be voiced at the executive committee meeting Thursday.

Frank Rose of Port St. Lucie, who was a member of the south county group, is a member of the new association, and is on the executive committee, reported that former members of the south county group were permitted to vote during elections at the Treasure Inn last Saturday to pick seven county delegates for the state Democrat Convention in November. The south county group had a slate of seven candidates and the executive committee had a slate of eight candidates Mrs. Impresti had said she received word the south county persons may not be allowed to vote.

"Apparently the executive committee was able to turn out more people than the south county people for the vote," Rose said. He noted that the top six vote getters were all supported by the executive committee, while positions seven through 10 went to those supported by south county persons. Judy Franklin was the only delegate elected who was supported by the south county group, while Phil Thibdeau, Ann Bahlman and Rose were picked as alternates. All the alternates were on the south county supported slate.

Episcopal Women offer salad bar

PORT ST. LUCIE—The Episcopal Church Women of Holy Faith Episcopal Church, 7704 So. U.S. 1, Port St. Lucie, are having a Salad Bar Luncheon Wednesday, Oct. 26. There will be two sittings - 12 noon and 1 p.m. Donation is $2.50.

SPEAKING IN FAVOR of the proposed Golf Village Mobile Home Park were Spanish Lakes residents Gene Menaick, standing, and Mel Parke. They said the developer of Spanish Lakes created a high quality park for them and would do the same if permitted to build Golf Village. For details, see story inside.

Moratorium may end before deadline

PORT ST. LUCIE—A 120-day moratorium on zoning within the city, which was imposed by the city council on Sept. 6 and confirmed by a council resolution Sept. 6 may end considerably before the 120-day limit is up.

The moratorium is on all zoning matters within the city except those which were pending before the moratorium took effect. The council imposed it in order to give the City Planner, Mike Sznyog, time to familiarize himself with the city and to come up with a zoning map that is to be recommendations for the zoning of all non-residential tracts in the city which are now unzoned. Additionally, Sznyog is to review all the current zoning classifications and to recommend changes for some of them and is to come up with a separate zoning classification for churches.

City Manager Elmer Cox said at a City and Zoning Board meeting Monday, Oct. 17, that the city has been using a map prepared by GDC (General Development Corporation) since 1970 as a "a defacto zoning map" even though the map was never adopted as an official zoning map. That map contains many tracts that are designated for non-residential uses such as schools, parks, commercial centers and an industrial park, but most of the tracts with those designations are actually unzoned.

Cox said the defacto zoning map could be slightly modified and could be updated to show any zoning designations that have been approved since the map came out, then adopted as a zoning map to work from until a longer range study could be done to come up with a new zoning map.

He said an official zoning map to refer to. As a defacto map, it means there has actually been a zoning map in use for a long time. The council and Planning and Zoning Board have acted in good faith based on this map," Cox said.

Sznyog said he and other city officials have been reviewing all minutes of council meetings since 1961 to be sure all zoning designations made by the council are included on the defacto map. He said that as for the tracts that have been designated for a specific use, but have never actually been zoned, he will most likely recommend that they be zoned as designated.

Cox indicated it will take Sznyog two to three weeks to finish reviewing and modifying the map, then it can be sent to the Planning and Zoning Board for approval. The city manager said it would probably only take a week after Planning and Zoning Board approval for the city council to review it and begin advertising for a public hearing on the map. He said because so many tracts on the map are designated for a use but have not been officially zoned, it would be nearly impossible to follow the regular procedure of notifying all residents within 300 feet of the designated but unzoned tracts by registered mail of the city's intention to zone the lands as designated. But Cox said all legal requirements for notifying residents of the proposed zoning of the designated tracts could be done by taking out quarter page ads in a newspaper. "It is highly possible that if the council approves the map, the moratorium could be lifted within a month," Cox said.

Sznyog said he will likely recommend that two tracts along Morningside Drive, which include the existing City Hall and several stores, will retain their present designations when the council is asked to officially zone the parcels. Most of the land in that area is designated for B-1 (neighborhood shopping complex) zoning, while about two acres from the City Hall to Westmoreland Boulevard would be recommended to keep its residential zoning designation. Developer Peter Smith of Sandpiper Bay, Inc. has presented plans for a shopping complex on these two tracts, and so far his proposal has met with stiff opposition from nearby residents.

At a recent council meeting Smith hinted he may sue the council over the matter. At that same meeting, several GDC officials complained that there was not enough advance notification about the council's intention to declare the moratorium. One GDC attorney said the council moratorium declaration may have violated state law and city ordinances.

MORMONS—Elder B. Dennis and Elder J.R. Lee are missionaries of the Mormon Church, presently on a two year tour in Port St. Lucie. They are explaining their faith and seeking new members for the Mormon Chapel in Fort Pierce.

Mormons seek expansion

PORT ST. LUCIE—Two young men are riding the circuit in Port St. Lucie on bicycles, knocking on doors, and seeking to inform residents on the Church of Jesus Christ, Latter Day Saints.

The two Mormons are missionaries from the central church in Salt Lake City, Utah, and are driven by a religious fervor that is designed to spread the word of their church to expand the ministry being given at the Mormon Chapel in Fort Pierce.

Elder J.R. Lee, 19, and Elder B. Dennis, 20, seek to do two things in their project. The first is to win people to their faith, the second is to let people in Port St. Lucie know what their church is all about.

Lee is a native of St. George, Utah, and Dennis is from Roosevelt, Utah. Their two year assignment in mission is Port St. Lucie.

"We do not collect money, nor do we accept donations," Lee said.

"We have been very well received, and we enjoy talking with the people," he added.

Appearing before civic groups and organizations, the two young men present the facts about the Mormon Church, and answer questions. They key their explanation to the family strength that is the result of teaching of the Book of Mormon.

They also welcome newcomers to the community as a part of their ministry.

The two Mormon missionaries live at 7700 South Federal Highway, apartment one, in Port St. Lucie. Persons interested in learning more about the Mormons can reach the missionaries at 461-2581 before 9:30 a.m. and after 9:30 p.m.

The Mormon Chapel is located in Fort Pierce at 2900 Virginia Avenue.

City attorney criticized

PORT ST. LUCIE—For the second time within a week, the services of the Port St. Lucie City Attorney, Spencer Gilbert, and his assistant, Fred Horowitz, were criticized by an advisory board to the the city council.

The first criticism was voiced during a Districting Committee meeting on Monday, Oct. 10. At that meeting committee members complained that they had not had good communication with Gilbert or Horowitz over what was required to come up with legal definitions of proposed city political boundaries. The members also complained that they had asked for Gilbert or Horowitz to come to their meeting to give them advice, but that neither man came.

On Monday, Oct. 17, several Planning and Zoning Board members complained about the attorneys. Board member Vernon Forrar said, "We asked the city attorney to come up with a sign ordinance amendment and I haven't see any progress on it."

Chairman H.R. Neighbours said there has been "a lack of cooperation from the assistant city attorney."

Then board member Vaughn Lewis said, "The services we're getting from the city attorney and assistant city attorney have been called into question several times." He added that he felt the city attorney "should be available for every legitimate meeting we have" and suggested that the city attorney should live within the city. Both Gilbert and Horowitz live in Fort Pierce.

"It's a matter of real concern for all of us," Neighbours said.

SANDRA KRAUSE was officially sworn in Tuesday as the new Port St. Lucie City Clerk. Ms. Krause began working for the city in August and was selected for the job after acting clerk Cathy Merritt declined an offer for the position. Ms. Krause formerly worked for the City of Fort Pierce.

Gullywasher hits Jensen

JENSEN BEACH–It began in the late afternoon, Monday, and continued on through the night, with from one inch to six inches of rain reported hitting Jensen Beach.

The torrent laid six inches of water on Indian River Plantation, according to Tom Falkenberg, tennis pro.

The official weather report indicated 4 3 inches of rain at the WSTU tower site.

Kiwanis battles insurance reform

JENSEN BEACH–The deputy insurance commissioner from Fort Pierce found the Jensen Beach Kiwanis Club with too many lawyers Monday as he tried to sell Insurance Commissioner Bill Gunter's [illegible] proposal to the club.

"I can see I have a problem with your president a lawyer," he joked as he opened his speech.

Paul Fisher was hardly through the presentation, which he said was being made "on my own time", when Kiwanis president and local attorney Bill Selmi began questioning the merits of the Gunter plan.

The questioning period was dominated by Selmi's opposition to the constitutional amendment process that would limit drastically the damages obtainable through suit by an injured person, especially in the area of "speculative damages", which would be wiped out entirely.

Some of the constitutional amendment petitions passed out in the room were signed and handed in to be sent to Gunter, who is conducting a statewided

Some of the constitutional amendment petitions passed out in the room were signed and handed in to be sent to Gunter, who is conducting a statewide drive for the number of signatures necessary to put the item on the ballot next November.

The amendment is supposed to cut liability insurance rates by thirty percent. Even that item was questioned by the lawyer.

The debate continued even after the meeting was adjourned.

Kenny-Wacha join in CPA partnership

STUART–Frank A. Wacha announced that his CPA firm will become Wacha and Kenny, PA, on November 1.

Kenny is a University of West Florida graduate (1971), and worked for three years for an international public accounting firm in Washington, D.C., before coming to Stuart. He is certified in both Virginia and Florida as a CPA.$

Kenny is treasurer of the Treasure Coast Chapter of the Florida Institute of Certified Public Accountants, and is a member of the Stuart Sunrise Kiwanis Club and Stuart Chamber of Commerce. He also serves on the board of the Visiting Nurses Association.

ospital to increase PR, and gag board

BY DICK CAMPBELL

[illegible]–The public image of Martin [illegible] Hospital took two steps [illegible] and one step back Monday as [illegible], chairman of the [illegible] board, held a press conference [illegible] the atmosphere of secret [illegible] at the hospital.

The wall who was responsible for [illegible] information, and who could or [illegible] not speak on policy and [illegible] action of the non-profit, but [illegible] organization.

[illegible] the age-old confrontation [illegible] the press and the administra- [illegible] has been press editorial criticism of the hospital committee meetings being held behind closed doors.

Wareheim began the meeting, telling the members of the press that there were no secret operations at the hospital, that the management of the hospital "has nothing to hide," adding that monthly audits of the records of the hospital by a firm of certified public accountings would show that "if anything was going on in the hospital, they (the auditors) would detect it."

He added "We want to be fair with the press, but there are interior functions (relative to personnel and payroll) that have nothing to do with the public."

Wareheim defended the closed meetings by saying that "The end result is when points are settled."

It was then that the chairman, who is also president of the Martin County Taxpayers' Association, told the press that members of the board of the hospital would pass a rule that only the chairman would speak publicly on topics relative to the hospital.

"Some of the articles in the press haven't done the hospital any good in public relations. Part of this is our fault, and part of this is your fault," Wareheim said. "We haven't done what we are trying to do this morning."

The chairman added that in the future, comment would come from himself or Guy Cromwell, hospital administrator.

"We'll tell you, clean or dirty," he said.

Asked if it was a gag rule on the members of the board, Wareheim said, "No, the board members themselves voted for it."

Wareheim said later that the board planned to pass the rule later this week.

He defended the operation of the hospital, noting that all items over $5,000 must be passed by the finance committee and passed on by the board. He added that the board worked hard to "improve services, hospital operation and control expenditures."

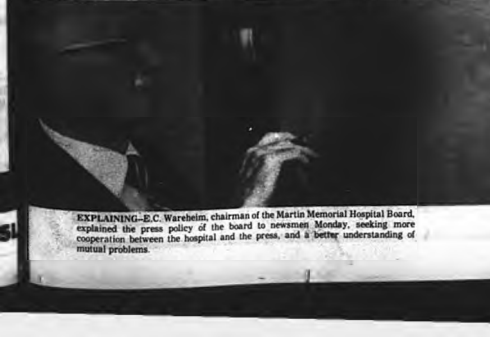
He outlined the effort to reduce payables by making a loan so that the discounts allowed on purchases would more than offset the cost of the loan.

"We are not down to 14 days (in accounts payable) and are taking our discounts to more than recover our interest (on the loan)."

Cromwell said that the committees that work on hospital matters include doctors from the staff so that "they know if we have to raise prices it will cost their patients more."

Wareheim praised the work of the committees, saying members are "very dedicated."

Members of the press complained about the lack of information available on accidents when deadlines press, and Wareheim and Cromwell passed a notepad around so that ideas for better press relations could be put down for further study.



EXPLAINING–E.C. Wareheim, chairman of the Martin Memorial Hospital Board, explained the press policy of the board to newsmen Monday, seeking more cooperation between the hospital and the press, and a better understanding of mutual problems.

AND ANOTHER 56–Mr. and Mrs. Carl Engel celebrated their fifty-sixth wedding anniversary last week. Engel is known in the area for his outstanding artistry during the bicentennial year, and was called "Mr. Bicentennial" by the local Chamber of Commerce. Fence and wall set for Langford Park

JENSEN BEACH–The surveyor stakes that are all over Langford Park are just to find out where the park is, according to County Commissioner Frank Wachs. They are also to set the route of a retaining wall and fence on the west end of the park.

Wachs said that a retaining wall and fence would be built on the west end to keep children from crossing private property to reach Arch Street, and to reinforce the bulding back of the hill that stands just above the softball field.

The retaining wall and fence are financed through an EDA government grant for $14,980.

Artists of the month named

STUART--Dorothy T. Ross of Jensen Beach and Edna Jane (Janie) Smith are the October artists of the month at the Stuart National Bank.

Mrs. Ross has won ribbons in at shows and is continuing her studies with local teachers. Mrs. Smith has studied with various local teachers and now teaches, as well, in the Martin County Adult Education Department.

The public is invited to view the exhibit during banking hours under the sponsorship of the Art Associates of Martin County. All works are for sale and a portion of the sales will be donated to Art Associates.

Art Associate Ruth Bowman is artist of the month at Martin County Library. She has taught for Adult Ed during the past four years and for Indian River Community College. Her exhibit consists of oil and acrylic, landscapes, seascapes, florals and portraits. The public is invited to view the show and all work is for sale.

Annabelle Stevenson and Ruth E. Monteluis are artists of the month for October at First Federal in Jensen Beach, sponsored also by Art Associates. The paintings reflect many styles and include many subjects. The works are for sale and a portion of sales will be donated to the Art Associates building fund.

GROUNDBREAKING ceremonies were conducted for the first phase of the Port St. Lucie Community Center recently. The new building, which will be constructed with volunteer help and at a pace dependent on the flow of donations, should take 18 months to two years to finish. It will contain 7,400 square feet of floor space and will feature partitions that can be used to form small meeting rooms or pulled back for dinners and large gatherings. A full scale catering kitchen is included in the plans. Shown with shovel at the ceremony is Dick Lundin, left, president of the Community Center. On the shovel to the right is Guy Bruni, chairman of the expansion fund raising committee, Heine Demeules, head of the building committee, and Mayor Bill McChesney, who presented the third and final payment of $2,000 to the Center's building fund.

Stuart tops PSL Vikings

STUART--The Stuart Jaguars stopped Port St. Lucie Viking passing attack, held with it, posted a 12-6 victory over the Vikings in upper division play of the Martin County Junior Football League.

The loss was the second in a row for upper division Vikings, after winning the first three games by big margins. It could be a costly loss, too, since the Downtown Firebirds are stills undefeated and the win by Stuart moves the Jaguars into second place. Only one game remains in the regular season, and that will be played at 8 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 29, when the Vikings meet the Hobe Sound team in Hobe Sound.

Jaguar L.D. Atkins averaged five yards a carry and posted nearly 100 yards in the game. The Jaguars scored in the second and third quarters and the Vikings struck back late in the final quarter when Danny Green tossed a seven yard pass to Tommy Schwartz.

The lower division Vikings squeaked out a 6 to 0 victory over the lower division Stuart Hornets and now hold a 3-1-1 record, keeping alive a chance for a playoff birth.

The Vikings scored late in the final quarter after both teams exhibited strong defenses. Curtis Wilson got the touchdown for the Vikings.

The lower division Vikings will play the lower division Hobe Sound team in Hobe Sound at 6:30 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 29.

Following regular season play, there will be a playoff game between the top two teams in each division on Nov. 5. Then, on Thanksgiving weekend, the top upper division and top lower division teams will compete with teams from out of this area in the Sailfish Bowl. At that game a squad of top cheerleaders will be selected from all the cheerleading groups.

Additionally, an all-star game is planned for the future.

New art gallery opens in Stuart

BY ROBBIE REDELL

STUART–Those with a yen to spend some cash on fine paintings or to merely browse at artistic talent are in for a treat.

The Gallery of the Three Princes, Martin County's newest art gallery, opened last week at 2160 East Ocean Blvd. in Stuart.

Marilyn Cornell has opened the gallery, and along with secretary Kathy Imbriale, has acquired and hung an impressive collection of paintings from Florida and other states.

"The art community has responded very well," Mrs. Cornell said. "I have some well known artists and some who have not yet been shown in this area. Altogether, they represent a beautiful cross section of American art."

In seeking the collection at the Three Princes, Ms Cornell contacted a number of painters and craftsmen to find a variety of pieces from the art world.

"We want to take these American crafts and paintings and treat them as the objects of art that they are," she said. "By placing them in the gallery, they will have ... exposure."

Right now, there is the work of more than 40 artists hanging in The Three Princes.

Those who are interested are invited to visit the gallery, located near the Ocean East Mall.

BY DICK CAMPBELL

...NEY–The weather was dismal, ...ream of rain covering the streets ...County with deep water. The ... for Lou Frey was the same ... at the Holiday Inn in Stuart. ... the party faithful showed up, and ... county leaders of the Republican Party ... braved the wet to hear gubernatorial candidate Lou Frey, and Orlando Congressman, try to build support in his battle against drug store millionaire Jack Eckerd.

"I think the primary is helpful. It (Eckerd's candidacy) is the best thing that could have happened," Frey said.

The young congressman, 43, opened his remarks by telling his audience, "I am a winner." He cited seven elections in a row that he won, and the five times he has been to Congress representing the central Florida area.

He was optimistic of Republican chances in 1978, saying that Republicans won 17 of 23 races nationwide in the past year.

In major platform points, Frey said that the state had grown in budget and bureaucracy over the past seven years, with red tape keeping people from their government. He opposes a state income tax, and made a strong pitch for balanced growth.

"We need a place for our kids to work. Thus, we need balanced growth," Frey said. "We need industry compatible with our Florida in bring the jobs and the revenues that go with jobs."

Frey teaches some classes, if only by a telephone hookup, and promised to continue teaching while in Tallahassee as governor.

He developed a strong plank for education, saying that the teacher-pupil ratio in lower grades should be lowered, an enlarged plan for vocational education implemented, and the home developed as the beginning place for education and crime prevention.

Funding of education was not as clear, though Frey did say he didn't think that the present system should be replaced. He keyed additional education funding to the expansion of jobs and tax revenues from new industry.

Frey was strong on crime. While he felt that the home is the best place to begin crime prevention, Frey said that the habitual criminal should be put in jail.

"Society has the right to draw the line," Frey said. "There should be mandatory minimum penalties and sentences for the person who is a habitual criminal."

He added that he felt that capital punishment should be continued.

"We need it. Society needs it. Society has to do it. There is no choice," he affirmed.

He also said that gun laws are not the answer.

"We've proven it is not the answer."

The law enforcement direction should be in move with strength against organized crime, Frey said, adding, "It is growing in Florida and we should move against the cause."

Frey talked on the problems of condominium owners, saying that they might have to be solved in Washington, rather than in Tallahassee.

He also delved into solar energy.

The congressman said that Florida should be the center of solar energy development, and complained bitterly of the lack of cooperation from Washington bureaucrats in developing new and different energy sources.

Following the speech, Frey answered questions and talked with reporters before leaving for Stuart airport.

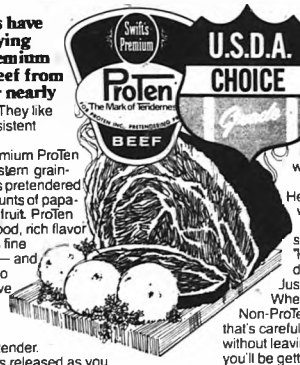
Publix is the only supermarket in Florida that gives you a choice when it comes to choice beef.

Floridians have been enjoying Swift's Premium ProTen Beef from Publix for nearly 20 years. They like ProTen's consistent tenderness.

Swift's Premium ProTen is Heavy Western grain-fed beef that's pretendered with tiny amounts of papaya, a tropical fruit. ProTen has all the good, rich flavor and juiciness fine beef should — and, from steaks to less expensive cuts you can count on ProTen to be consistently tender. Tenderness is released as you cook ProTen so it takes less cooking time.

Just try oven roasting a ProTen chuck roast. Tender? You bet.



You'll find Non-ProTen U.S.D.A. Choice Heavy Western Beef at Publix, too.

We're the Place for Beef, so if your choice is Non-ProTen Beef, you'll find it at our meat counter along with Swift's Premium ProTen.

Our U.S.D.A. Choice is Heavy Western, grain-fed beef, well-marbled to give it all the qualities fine choice beef steaks and roasts should have. "Have a favorite cut? If you don't see it, we'll cut it for you." Just ask us.

Whether you select ProTen or Non-ProTen, you'll be getting beef that's carefully trimmed to ensure juiciness without leaving excess fat or bone. And you'll be getting beef with the Publix guarantee. If you're ever disappointed in one of our roasts or steaks, tell us about it. We'll replace it or refund your money. As simple and cheerfully as that.

Just look for the label. At the Place for Beef, you'll now find all packages clearly labeled with the cut, weight and whether it's Swift's Premium "ProTen" or "Non-ProTen U.S.D.A. Choice." The choice is up to you. And Publix is the only supermarket in Florida that gives you this choice.

...ne meeting and quite a few more ...estion blanks home with them. ...e were asked to fill them out and bring them back to the November meeting, which, it may be timely to recall, is to be held at the Northport Marina. So, as the year draws to a close, it looks quite possibly as if our membership rolls will approach 250. Not bad for an organization that has been going for less than two years.

Poe explained to the crowd of some 250 people that his boss, David Mancini, director of communications for Blue Shield-Blue Cross, who was scheduled to make the presentation, "had to leave town," so he (Poe) was on his own. Young Poe filled in for Mancini in highly capable fashion, lacing his authoritative explanation of the Medicare B form with good-humored comments and asides.

He gave a methodical, step-by-step presentation of the correct way to fill out the forms. Each member received a package of material that included the form itself and accompanying material that helped to clear away some of the confusion inevitable in any piece of government red tape. Following his presentation, Poe answered questions for about half an hour and, as many in the audience started to leave then, he said he would cut off questions but would gladly remain behind to answer any individual questions people might have.

One interesting point Poe made was that, in most states, HEW has contracted with a carrier to administer the payment of Medicare claims. Major insurance firms and health coverage companies, such as Blue Shield-Blue Cross, are hired to do this job, the major part of which is to process Medicare claims. In Florida, the number of claims processed each year runs into the millions, and last year, he said, $276 million was paid out. Approximately 200 claims have to be returned to the people who send them in each week because they're improperly filled out, usually because essential information was not included. And that was the main thrust of Poe's talk -- what information has to be put in and the proper answers to each of the blanks on the form.

President Fred Wiggin said he was very encouraged by the large turnout. "This is the kind of service that AARP is designed to provide for older persons in our community, and I hope we can expand our efforts in this field," he said.

Don't forget that the November meeting will shift back to the good old Northport Marina.

It will be our chapter's ave atque vale to this friendly gathering place, which is convenient to all, but which has become inadequate for our needs.

At that meeting tickets will be available at $4.25 each for the annual luncheon on Tuesday, Dec. 13, at Treasure Island Inn, Route A-1-A, Hutchinson Island. As announced earlier, the luncheon features will be election and installation of new officers for 1978, and the presentation to Fred W. of the chapter's first annual award for service to older people. The tab will include tips and taxes. A bar will be available for those who wish to buy drinks prior to the luncheon.

Maurie Arkett is now working on plans for the November meeting program and has tentatively arranged for Dr. Edwin A. Mensinger, the well-known "food man" and nutritionist of Stuart, to be the speaker. Dr. Mensinger's goal is to make Florida beautiful through careful planting. He recently had an announcement in the Stuart News that he would send seeds to anyone on request to Gainesville. More than 1,000 responded to the seeds. Among his many accomplishments has been the publication of several horticultural books.

Fred Wiggin and Legislative Chairman Frank Alexander have an active time ahead of them on legislative matters. The national and state AARP organizations have convoked a meeting of chapter presidents and legislative chairmen for Melbourne on Nov. 22, and another meeting is being contemplated for Orlando, the date not yet fixed.

Venture Three

By Jessie Shaver, R-2, 334-3714:

Lu and Bud Prew and Jan and Bob Dedaker returned last week from a "color tour" of the mountains of North Carolina. However, the color tour had a few fringe benefits they hadn't expected.

A five inch snowfall turned the fall beauty into a "winter wonderland" and both couples packed their master home freezers with snowballs to surprise their Venture Three friends upon their return.

More and more of our regular winter residents are returning. I can't give all the names for, as yet, I do not have a reporter in St. Lucie or Indian River sections to get the news to me.

However, the Wayne Barretts were riding fly in their golf cart and stopped to say "hello".

Please pass the news of the latest arrivals on to me or Vita Autenrieth so we can have it for the next time.

Louise Sheppard is due to arrive as are the Van Willigahs this week.

Lee and Harriet Price had house guests for the weekend - the Stuart Westneys of Miami and Springfield, Vt. They have been friends and neighbors of the Prices for about 25 years, and also are friends of Jessie Shaver. Mrs. Westney was head of the sewing dept. of Dade County for many years. Lee has almost finished his utility shed, and he has done a fine job. At least, it gets him out of the house for awhile.

WHY SHOULD CHILDREN see 18,000 video murders by the time they graduate from high school without learning what grief is all about and how to handle the death of a close person when it comes? Hedda Sharapah, associate producer of the television show "Mr. Rogers' Neighborhood", feels death is a proper subject for children's television shows. She was one of three nationally known speakers who addressed the audience at a "Quality of Life" seminar at Sandpiper Bay Resort Monday. For more details, see story below.

Council okays zoning for shopping center

PORT ST. LUCIE--Final approval of an ordinance to zone a 5.16-acre tract along Port St. Lucie Boulevard for a neighborhood shopping center was granted by city council members Tuesday morning.

The center, to be built by developer Paul Zinter, will include a convenience store, most likely with two self-service gas pumps. The tract is located between West and Beas Avenues and at a previous meeting with council members, Zinter said the center would contain about 25 store units with a bank branch office and a 40-seat restaurant.

Port St. Lucie Civic League President Seymour Fleming said he hoped that the council would not allow liberal shopping center zoning along Port St. Lucie Boulevard, as he felt it should "be a showplace for people coming through our city from the (Florida) Turnpike."

Mayor Bill McChesney responded by noting that this is the only tract along Port St. Lucie Boulevard from the Turnpike to U.S. 1 that is designated for commercial use. He said other than residential lots and Zinter's center, the only things planned along the road are a school and the new City Hall.

When local resident Henry Baker asked if the zoning approval would allow Zinter to build a large supermarket, McChesney replied, "No."

Council members have expressed concern previously over the possibility of having the convenience store open late at night. They indicated they will soon consider passing an ordinance to set limits on store hours for the shopping center.

Americans don't know how to handle death

BY BOB FRYER

PORT ST. LUCIE--Most Americans don't know how to handle dying, death or bereavement, and what lessons they are taught for dealing with these situations are often superficial and negative.

That was perhaps the underlying message of three nationally known speakers when they addressed area nurses, funeral directors, mental health workers and clergymen at a "Quality of Life" seminar Monday at the Sandpiper Bay Resort in Port St. Lucie.

Hedda Sharapan, associate producer of the Public Broadcasting System show "Mr. Rogers' Neighborhood", spoke on the problems children have in dealing with the death of a person close to them and of the problems parents have in explaining death to children.

She noted that not only is there a need for children to be educated about death, but that most of the education they receive is negative.

While pointing out that "the average American child will see 18,000 television or movie murders by the time he graduates from high school," the media rarely deals with the grief of those who knew the victims.

"Trust, reassurance and support" are the feelings parents need to bestow upon their children when someone dies, she said, adding that it is important to tap a child's inner feelings and to be aware of a child's concerns.

Mrs. Sharapan said the television series she helps produce has tried to deal with a child's reaction to death in a positive manner.

She said often parents (try to shield children from the pain of bereavement or from the understanding of what death is, but she said, children are constantly exposed to death in an impersonal manner when they watch television shows or listen to news accounts of massive disasters.

"There is a real reluctance to talk about death with children, perhaps because it makes us face our own mortality," she said, but recommended that children should "be included in the mourning of a family."

The three main points the television show "Mr. Rogers' Neighborhood" tries to make to children about death are that they are special, that feelings are mentionable and manageable, and that no man is alone.

"We try to teach children that they are special, just because they are who they are. We tell them that, in the whole world, no one has ever existed who is just like them and that no other person ever will be just like them.

"We also try to teach them express their feelings. If we don't tell others how we fell, nobody will know, so they can't know us. And, we point out that none of us are alone. It is through relationships that we grow best," she said.

Rabbi Dr. Earl Grollman, a pioneer in family crisis intervention, titled his speech, "Dead, a four-letter word." He emphasized the point that most Americans are uncomfortable when confronted with a death and, usually don't know what to do.

"We have a long list of euphemisms for death, such as 'passing away' or 'passing on' or 'going on a long trip', or 'expiring', or 'going to sleep,'" Grollman said, but added, "Good mental health is not the denial of tragedy, but the learning of how to live with tragedy."

Grollman said the most difficult part of life for a clergyman is dealing with death, and he said most clergymen, like most other persons, don't know what to do. "When it comes to death, all of us are children," he added.

Grollman said we should recognize death as death, without resorting to pleasant euphemisms about it, and he said that while we all react differently to death, it is often best "not to say the stupid things about death that are said so often, but to remain silent or to evoke the person grieving over a death to express his feelings."

Grollman said persons usually react to death by refusing to believe it happened, hence the use of the euphemisms, or we react with some sense of guilt, as though it was our fault that someone close died.

Dr. William Lamers of Marin County, Ca., outlined the Hospice movement that has been taking place in the country in the last decade.

Dr. Lamers said the Hospice program is based on an idea from medieval times, when dying elders of the community were regarded as prophets or pilgrims, who warranted the respec of the community.

He said the Hospice program is designed to give medical, social and spiritual care to dying persons and their relatives.

"Though medical care in the United States is excellent, we often lose sight of the needs of those dying," he said, but noted under the Hospice program, the social and spiritual needs of the dying and relatives of the person dying are attended to.

"Hospice is an attempt to bring together the varieties of care under one program," he said.

"It is only in daring to accept death that we may find meaning in life," he said.

DR. WILLIAM LAMERS, head of the Hospice of Marin County, California, told the "Quality of Life" seminar members Monday that there is a hospice movement going on in the country, to bring home care for the dying, including social and spiritual care as well as medical aid.

COUNT DRACULA and his friends will be on hand for the Port St. Lucie Halloween Carnival this Saturday, from 3 p.m. to 7 p.m. at the Port St. Lucie Community Center on Prima Vista Boulevard. There will be a host of activities at the carnival, including a costume contest at 6 p.m. All area youngsters and their parents are invited to come join the fun.

STRIP ZONING will result if city council members approve an ordinance to upgrade residential zoning in two areas of the city, Herbert Haughton said during a council meeting Tuesday, but the council members voted to approve the final reading of the ordinance. Haughton used a map to pinpoint the area under consideration for rezoning.

Residential upgrading approved by council

BY BOB FRYER

PORT ST. LUCIE--An ordinance to upgrade the zoning of residential lots in two sections of the city was approved by city council members Tuesday, but not until after one resident asked for a further study of the area so strip zoning could be avoided.

More than 2,500 registered letters went out to property owners within 500 feet of the tracts to be rezoned, but resident Herb Haughton of Bernado Terrace said his notice went to the former owner before he received it. In spite of that, Haughton apparently had time to study the proposed zoning, as he made several suggestions about the proposal.

Basically, the ordinance changes the zoning in two areas to either R-2A or R-2B classifications, which require homes with more square footage than the residential classification that previously existed for the tracts. One area is in a section northwest of the intersection of Port St. Lucie Boulevard and Westmoreland Drive. It includes sections of Dolphin Drive, Portillo Road, Carnation Road, Sidonia St., Grapeland Avenue and Gaucho Avenue. The other tract is along Cambridge Drive at the Wilderness Golf Course. It extends several blocks north of Cambridge Drive in some sections.

While Haughton said he agreed with the council that the residential tracts needed an upgrading of zoning to prevent small, inexpensive homes from being built next to large, expensive ones, he said the ordinance did not go far enough. He pointed out that the areas affected will be, in effect, strip zoned and that, in some cases, it may still be possible to have small homes next to larger homes which front the golf course.

"Residential neighborhoods should be separated by natural boundaries, so far as possible, and not by lot lines," he said. He suggested that the City Planner, Mike Szunyog, study the entire area so there would not be drastic changes in residential zone classifications from one area to an adjacent one.

Ken Beckman, another resident near the affected area, suggested that a moratorium be placed on construction of homes in the area until a more in-depth study could be made by Szunyog.

The city Planning and Zoning Board took the initiative in suggesting the rezoning of the land, and the proposition has been discussed numerous times in the past. Rather than delay action on the tracts any longer, for more study, several council members said they felt the rezoning ought to first be improved, then the possibility of rezoning other lots in the area could be studied. The vote to rezone the tracts was unanimous.

In other action, council members voted unanimously to grant final approval of an ordinance requiring low-flush commodes to be installed in all new housing units built in the city.

Vice Mayor Mike Reeb said he got a call from a woman who plans to have a pre-fabricated house installed. "The woman said the house comes with a conventional commode and that the contractor said it would cost her to change types of commodes," Reeb said. He also said he has been told there is now only one person in the area who stocks low-flush commodes and that he had been asked if the council was requiring low-flush commodes to help that businessman.

City Building Department Director Ralph LaChance said that although the city "may be a couple of years ahead of the (commode) industry," he felt that in the near future all commode manufacturers would be switching to low-flush models.

News deadline

PORT ST. LUCIE--The heavy load of news that comes into the offices of The Mirror each Tuesday has necessitated the establishment of a new deadline for "time copy".

"Time copy" includes golf and bowling scores and sports news, local social items and news, and correspondents serving Port St. Lucie. The news deadline for time copy is 3 p.m. on Monday at the Community Center office.

This new deadline will assist The Mirror in setting type during the day.

lifetime in the bush is destroyed

...Bud Hillson, who has served 43 years as caretaker of an isolated lake in three Narrows Lakes in Ontario's Killarney Provincial Park.

BY DICK CAMPBELL

BAYE FYN, CANADA–His smile is infectious, his speech tinged with a slight British accent, and when he talks it is with an intelligence far beyond his education.

He is a man of the bush, who has lived in the isolation and beauty of Three Narrows Lakes of Killarney National Park in Ontario, Canada, since 1934 as caretaker of a wealthy industrialist's camp.

He is Maxwell Alexander Hillson, 61, of Dutch ancestry, who spends his four-month-long winters in nearby Little Current, and the rest of the year on a string of lakes that can be reached only by a rocky creek roadbed he himself has maintained for all those years...a roadbed strewn with memories of lumbering, of crawling miles to safety with a broken back, and of idyllic fishing and hunting.

His grandfather before him had been caretaker of the camp, a group of cabins owned by American Aggregate, a gravel firm located in Greenville, Ohio. The grandfather retired in 1934, having managed the camp since 1907.

Hillson's days are numbered, for the government of Ontario is buying all privately held lands within the twelve-square-mile wilderness, and burning down the camps they buy. In a few years, the provincial government will outlaw outboard motors and generators, making is impossible to operate the camps.

Then, only hikers will walk the rugged shores and canoeists will dip paddles in the mirror waters of the lake.

"If they take the motors out of the lake, there is no point in us staying on here," he says philosophically. "We are the last of the lakes with motors."

Hillson owns a small, 1½ acre homesite next to the camp. He raised his five children at the camp until they "came of age." He loves the isolation and beauty of Three Narrows.

"I could be up there and never see anyone, and never be lonely," he smiled. "I enjoy all kinds of people. Every person can be a wonderful person."

Hillson objects to the wilderness status of the park with the feeling of ownership that comes with his 43 years as trustee of the area. He feels that the moose, deer and bear are overpopulating to the point of danger due to the government eliminating hunting from the park.

He also worries about the end of private ownership camps, because he and his friends at the few other camps on the lakes are the ones who put out forest fires started by careless campers and canoeists who follow the marked trails of Killarney.

"We put out eight to ten fires a year, and the park rangers won't touch those fires since this area is on a low priority. They'll just let it all burn over, and ruin the lakes."

Hillson goes home every weekend to Little Current, a town of 1,600 people, spending the night with his wife and family before returning the next day to his wonderland.

To get home, he must drive a jeep over the rocky creek bed one mile, driving at sixty-degree angles up and down the mountain side to Baye Fyn, where he keeps a small outboard boat. He then drives the boat 26 miles to Little Current.

"If I stay there more than a week or two, I get on edge. Just too many people," he says.

He has hauled six camps over that rocky creek trail to be constructed on the lake. He attaches a travois to the back of the old jeep, and hauls lumber and boats over the creek to his Three Narrows.

He built another road, four miles long, through the mud and muskeg of Kirk Creek, but uses his creekbed due to the shorter distance.

Once, while maintaining a private telephone line that runs over three ranges of mountains to Whitefish Falls, Hillson fell from a telephone pole and broke his back. He was up in the second range. No one knew he was there.

He had to crawl over the range to the place on the Baye Fyn where he had left his boat, a distance of three miles with a broken back.

"I crawled on my hands and knees. When I got to the boat I couldn't start the engine, so I crawled around the lake and over the creek, several miles further, to the camp. I stayed there two days.

"Then I crawled back over the mountain to the boat, dragging a block and tackle with which I started the boat. I drove the boat twenty-two miles to the landing (where a road leads to the water's edge) where I got help," he said.

Hillson was crippled for four years, but still worked, wearing a split-cast on his body. As he put it, "My back got well and I still work today."

He looks to his retirement as the park is taken over by the government, and sees ruination of his paradise in the construction of the Blue Water Highway by the government through the area of his lake.

"Too many people will come," he said sadly. "In summer season there are already 60 to 70 canoeists coming over the trail every day. There will be nothing left when the road goes through."

He looked over the clear, blue Canadian lake and shook his head.

"I'll retire then."

MOUNTAIN TRAIL–Logs and heavy boards cover the creek bed that serves as the road to Three Narrows Lake. Bud Hillson, a pioneer bushman, has mainted the trail for 43 years, and travels the one-mile mountain route at least three times a week. With him, above, are Dick Campbell, Talley Crary and Mary Jane Wick.

WELCOME–Dottie Kalb, Jensen Beach Community Church officer, welcomes the Reverend Dr. John DiGangi. Dr. DiGangi will be officially installed as Minister of the church in special ceremonies at 10 a.m. Sunday. Members will make presentations and communion will be served. All area residents are welcome.

NYC marine fireman recalls life's work

BY BOBBIE REDELL

JENSEN BEACH—"If they had that dream here I would never retire."

That's an amazing statement for any retired person to say, but for Bob Carruthers, a retired marine fireboat engineer, the statement is true.

Carruthers, a Loxahatchee resident, started working on New York City fireboats in 1952, and during the next 21 years fought hundreds of fires and helped on all of the city fireboats which patrolled the nearly 600 miles of New York City coastline.

In addition to extinguishing fires aboard ships in New York harbor and the surrounding rivers, Carruthers and his fellow firemen helped out land fire units on four waterfront fires, and answered a number of emergency calls, including three barges, dragging the rivers for bodies, assisting from bridges and plane crashes.

"The biggest fire we worked on was the aircraft carrier Constellation which burned in the Brooklyn Navy Yard in the mid-1960s," Carruthers recalled. "It took us more than 48 hours of straight work to get it out. The temperature was five degrees above zero."

Carruthers said the ship caught fire before it was launched at the yard, and firemen had to cut holes in the sides of the steel hull to get Navy yard workers from the burning craft.

Another bad fire was a pier explosion on the Brooklyn waterfront in the late 1960s.

"We used to average 100 fires per month on our fireboat," he said.

Carruthers said there were at one time 10 steam-powered fireboats in the New York Harbor area, but over the years the steamships were phased out and diesel-powered craft are now used. There are six diesel fireboats in use.

The big engines, which number two per boat, turn out 1,000 horsepower each, and are used to propel the ships and to provide pressure for the water pumps.

The water which runs through the hoses is pumped through filters in the bottom of the boat at tremendous pressure. One hose on the "Firefighter", the largest fireboat in the world, can pump 22,000 gallons of water per minute.

"We called it the pertuater," Carruthers said.

The hose was strong enough to knock down doors and peel the roofs off pier houses along the waterfront.

The smaller fireboats, which were designed for speed rather than water pressure, were able to pump 6,000 gallons of water per minute. Sometimes, at low tide, the ships pumped black mud from the bottom of the river on whatever happened to be burning at the time.

"Those firemen are a unique breed of men," Carruthers said. "They have a great Esprit de Corps. If a building collapsed and trapped some of the men, about 95 percent of the city's 19,000 firemen would arrive to help out, whether they were on paid time or not."

Not all of the fires were marine fires. The pressure from the boats made the firemen able to stretch hose as far as four city blocks to help put out building fires.

Carruthers said there was one fire in a building in Greenwich Village on the East side. The building was old and made of mortar. Large rolls of newspring were stored inside and as firemen drenched the rolls they took on weight and caused the building to collapse.

"The whole building went down," Carruthers said. "We worked 48 hours straight and nine men died. It was in the middle of winter."

Not only did the marine firemen help in emergencies and put out fires, they also performed water displays for special holidays, and for visiting dignitaries or ships' christenings.

"I saw my boat last Fourth of July on TV when the Big Ships came in," he said.

One of the major model toy companies came aboard Carruther's boat one day to take designs for a plastic model. The boat was the Firefighter, and one day, after he retired and moved to Florida, his family presented him with one of the kits. He spent 25 hours, on and off, assembling it, and along with his hat and other firemen's memorabilia, it helps him recall a business he loved.

"If they had that job down here, I would never retire," he said.

MARINE FIREBOAT—The marine fireboat which Jensen Beach resident Bob Carruthers served for more than 21 years on New York City fireboats has many stories to tell, recalling the fighting of hundreds of fires along the New York City

BIG FIREBOAT—The "Firefighter", the largest fireboat in the world, is depicted here in a model built by former New York City Marine Fireman Bob Carruthers. Carruthers worked on the Firefighter and other city fireboats for 21 years.

WHAT DO I.R.A. and HR-10 MEAN TO YOU?

If you think they're abbreviations for the Irish Republican Army and a 10-point home run baseball average, then this message is for you. I.R.A. stands for Individual Retirement Account or Annuity and HR-10 is the nickname for the Self-Employed Individual Retirement Act.

So what else is new? You'd better believe these programs are good news for employees who don't have retirement benefits or for sole proprietors and partnerships who wish to establish such plans. And when it comes to explaining these programs and helping you implement them in the best way possible for YOU, there's nobody more experienced than Al Winters, CLU, Manager of the Life Division of Hartman, Tilton and Wilson. Give him a call at 283-4548. He's been on the job for 30 years, helping people just like you with their retirement plans.

Barracudas close out winning season

JENSEN BEACH--The Jensen Beach Barracudas rolled up 34 points en route to a crushing 34-6 season-ending win over Hobe Sound at Langford Park last Saturday night.

With the victory, the Lower Division Jensenites closed out the 1977 campaign with a 3-3-1 record, a bit might have been 5-1 if not for an 0-0 tie with Port St. Lucie and a 25-6 upset loss to Port Salerno, their only home loss.

Chris Fitzpatrick, who was forced to quarterback the Barracudas throughout much of the second and third periods, did not get his usual yardage on the ground, so the heavy wool, went to Derick Jochem, and he didn't disappoint anyone. Jochem gained 141 yards in 13 carries, by far the most yardage gained by a Barracuda all year.

The Jensen Beach offense rolled up 208 yards on the ground, one of the best performances in the league this season, and the best for the Barracudas. Another 25 yards was gained in the air, as Todd Laycock threw only three times, but completed all three.

However, the casually hapless Trojans got a scare into the Barracudas in the first half. On the first play of the game, Jerry Patterson scampered around the left side of his line and went 80 yards for a touchdown.

From that point on, the Trojans got one first down, 18 total yards on offense, and fumbled the ball away five times in the second half.

Jensen Beach piled up 15 first downs en route to the victory, most of them in the second half. Their only score of the first 36 minutes came when Jochem burst 18 yards to tie the two scores at 6-6.

In the second half, the Barracudas recollect field position due to the fumble recoveries, and capitalized on four of them.

Jochem put the home team ahead at 7-6 to play in the third stanza with a 9-yard run, then solidified the lead running for a 28-yard touchdown on the last play of the period. That made it 13-6.

Fitzpatrick got the Barracudas on the 25-6 in the fourth quarter when he went through for a 16-yard touchdown. Later, Blair Pfinaur scored on a touchdown with a 1-yard run. Just over three minutes later, the Barracudas scored their final points when Sound's Patterson was tackled in his own end zone for a three-yard loss on a safety.

In the Upper Division games, the Razorbacks lost to Hobe Sound despite scoring their true points in two games.

Tom Daniels continued his cold mastery throwing 18 times and completed only three of his tosses for 38 yards. The team's leading ground gainer, Wilfred Rattler with 28 yards in carries. The Razorbacks got only yards total offense in the game, but helped somewhat by 128 yards in penalties assessed against the Trojans.

Jensen Beach took the second half kickoff and marched down the field for a touchdown, but it was too little as overcome the powerful Trojan offense. Andrew Daniels gained 128 yards rushing, and Fred Wiley added 70. Daniels scored on runs of 30 and 4 yards, while Wiley tallied on bursts of 16 and yards. Pat Ferguson added the extra point touchdown on a 13 yard interception runback.

The Razorbacks got their score when Battles scored on a 4-yard run early in the right end with 8:00 to play in the second quarter. The drive started at the JBL 31 and was helped by 25 yards of penalties.

Jensen Beach's record dropped to 1-5-0, while they finished the 1977 season with only a 1-6 win over Port Salerno in the tiebreaker.

Community Bridge Charity tourney ends in tie

JENSEN BEACH--The Community Bridge Club met Oct. 17 for the Charity Championship, benefiting the Arthritis Foundation. The game was a 13 table Mitchell movement with an average of 108 and tied for first place overall, with 131½, were Al and, Betty Dinger, Charlotte Finnan and Betty Wehrman.

Others placing were Lee and Lucy Pelot, 128; Bill and Ben Snelling, 125; Martin and Ellis Quirk, 121; Otis Kendall and Steve Stanton, 120½; Dr. and Peggy Waring, 118; Bob and Sara Classen, 113.

For October 14, it was a 3½-table Howell movement, with an average of 24. The winners were Harriett Cooley and Hazel Whicker, 29; Joe Cea and Grant Shaffer, 27½; Earl and Alma Wagner, 26½.

Game time is 1 p.m. Mondays and Fridays in the Harry Hoke Community Room of First Federal Savings and Loan, Jensen Beach. All players are welcome and a partner is usually available, according to Kay Monroe.

Barracudas could still win

JENSEN BEACH--The Jensen Beach Barracudas could not rest on their 34-6 victory over the Hobe Sound Trojans last Saturday night. Instead, they were to go into practice sessions Tuesday night for a "playoff game" against the Port St. Lucie Vikings sometime next week at Langford Park.

Both teams are fighting it out for the final playoff spot in the Junior Football League's Lower Division. Indiantown (5-0-1) has clinched at least a tie for the regular season title, but must play the second place team in the championship game November 5. Port St. Lucie (3-1-1) and Jensen Beach (3-2-1) are within one game of each other for the second spot.

Port St. Lucie has one more game to play, but their game with the Hobe Sound Trojans (0-5) does not affect the standings in any way as far as the Barracudas are concerned.

If the Vikings win this week, as they are expected to do, they will lead the Barracudas by one game. If Jensen then beats PSL in the makeup game, the teams will tie for second place, and the Barracudas will take the playoff spot because of their victory in head-to-head competition over Port St. Lucie. If the Vikes should lose this week and slip to 3-3-1, then the winner of the JB-PSL game will automatically win the playoff spot.

A check of the Upper Division standings finds the Indiantown Firebirds in front at 5-0-0, while Stuart is second, with a 4-1-0 mark. Both teams have clinched playoff spots, and will play in two weeks for the title. It should be an interesting matchup, as Indiantown defeated Stuart early in the season 13-6, with the Jaguars stopped at the Indiantown three-yard line when the clock ran out.

Jensen Beach is off this week, but there is a full schedule of games in the JFL, as Port Salerno plays Stuart, Port St. Lucie takes on Hobe Sound, and Indiantown meets the challenge of Palm City.

What to cut down on if you want to cut down on your electric bill.

Today, everybody is trying to use less electricity. Partly to conserve energy. But mostly to have lower-cost electric bills.

Yet many consumers don't know which appliances or products use the most electricity. So they go all out trying to save money without really cutting down on their bills.

To help you choose the best ways to conserve energy, we've provided the chart below. Itemized are "typical" appliance usage figures based both on Florida Power & Light research and industry-wide statistics. These figures are intended strictly as examples in that they reflect the average operating costs of various appliances. However, they are a helpful guide to effective cost-cutting. (Also, keep in mind that power usage varies among different product brands; weather conditions; size, location and insulation of a home; and each family's pattern of usage.)

You'll notice that air-conditioners are the heaviest users. But you can still keep cool, dehumidify your home, and realize substantial savings on your cooling costs by setting your thermostat at 78 degrees. If your thermostat isn't marked in degrees, place a good thermometer in a room out of the air-conditioning flow to be sure you're maintaining 78 degrees.

In addition to the information below, our booklet "HOW TO SAVE MONEY ON YOUR ELECTRIC BILL" will give you many helpful tips on energy conservation. And it's free, at any FPL office. Because at FPL, we want to help you save.

*Assumes compressor is continuously thermostat-controlled and operates 50 percent of the time during hottest months. Kwh use is substantially less in milder months. Consumption varies greatly with seasonal and weather variables, efficiency of unit, thermostat setting, insulation, family living habits and other factors.

Each dishwasher load uses about 2½ kwh for hot water. Each washing machine load uses about 3 kwh for hot wash/hot rinse cycle and about 1 kwh for warm wash/cold rinse cycle.

Kwh usage shown is for constant operation of compressor for one hour. When unit is operated on time on a daily basis, subject to thermostat control, the compressor may cycle off up to 40 percent, and the hourly average cost would be lower.

*Note: energy consumption is measured in kilowatt hours (kwh)—the units of energy which you purchase from your electric meter. These estimated monthly costs are computed at the rate typical of residential customers pay: Approximately 4.5 cents per kwh, including franchise charges, fuel adjustment costs, and local taxes.

lifetime in the bush is destroyed

BEE--Bud Hillson, who has served 43 years as caretaker of an isolated lake in three Narrows Lakes in Ontario's Killarney Provincial Park.

BY DICK CAMPBELL

BAYE FYN, CANADA--His smile is infectious, his speech tinged with a slight British accent, and when he talks it is with an intelligence far beyond his education.

He is a man of the bush, who has lived in the isolation and beauty of Three Narrows Lakes of Killarney National Park in Ontario, Canada, since 1934 as caretaker of a wealthy industrialist's camp.

"He is Maxwell Alexander Hillson, 61, of Dutch ancestry, who spends four-month-long winters in nearby Little Current, and the rest of the year on a string of lakes that can be reached only by a rocky creek reached by himself has maintained for all those years...a roadbed strewn with memories of lumbering, of crawling miles to safety with a broken back, and of idyllic fishing and hunting.

His grandfather before him had been caretaker of the camp, a group of cabins owned by American Aggregate, a gravel firm located in Greenville, Ohio. The grandfather retired in 1934, having managed the camp since 1907.

Hillson's days are numbered, for the government of Ontario is buying all privately held lands within the twelve square-mile wilderness, and burning down the camps they buy. In a few years, the provincial government will outlaw outboard motors and generators, making it impossible to operate the camps.

Then, only hikers will walk the rugged shores and canoeists will dip paddles in the mirror waters of the lake.

"If they take the motors out of the lake, there is no point in me staying on here," he says philosophically. "We are the last of the lakes with motors."

Hillson owns a small, 1½ acre homesite next to the camp. He raised his five children at the camp until they "came of age." He loves the isolation and beauty of Three Narrows.

"I could be up there and never see anyone, and never be lonely," he smiled. "I enjoy all kinds of people. Every person can be a wonderful person."

Hillson objects to the wilderness status of the park with the feeling of ownership that comes with his 43 years as trustee of the area. He feels that the moose, deer and bear are overpopulating to the point of danger due to the government eliminating hunting from the park.

He also worries about the end of private ownership camps, because he and his friends at the few other camps on the lakes are the ones who put out forest fires started by careless campers and canoeists who follow the marked trails of Killarney.

"We put out eight to ten fires a year, and the park rangers won't touch those fires since this area is on a low priority. They'll just let it all burn over, and ruin the lakes."

Hillson goes home every weekend to Little Current, a town of 1,800 people, spending the night with his wife and family before returning the next day to his wonderland.

To get home, he must drive a jeep over the rocky creek bed one mile, driving at sixty-degrees angles up and down the mountain side to Baye Fyn, where he keeps a small outboard boat. He then drives the boat 38 miles to Little Current.

"If I stay there more than a week or two, I get on edge. Just too many people," he says.

He has hauled six camps over that rocky creek trail to be constructed on the lake. He attaches a travois to the back of the old jeep, and hauls lumber and boats over the creek to his Three Narrows.

He built another road, four miles long, through the mud and muskeg of Kirk Creek, but uses his creek-bed due to the shorter distance.

Once, while maintaining a private telephone line that runs over three ranges of mountains to Whitefish Falls, Hillson fell from a telephone pole and broke his back. He was up in the second range. No one knew he was there.

He had to crawl over the ranges to the place on the Baye Fyn where he had left his boat, a distance of three miles with a broken back.

"I crawled on my hands and knees. When I got to the boat I couldn't start the engine, so I crawled around the lake and over the creek, several miles further, to the camp. I stayed there two days.

"Then I crawled back over the mountain to the boat, dragging a block and tackle with which I started the boat. I drove the boat twenty-two miles to the landing (where a road leads to the water's edge) where I got help," he said.

Hillson was crippled for four years, but still worked, wearing a split-cast on his body. As he put it, "My back got well and I still work today."

He looks to his retirement as the park is taken over by the government, and sees ruination of his paradise in the construction of the Blue Water Highway by the government through the area of his lake.

"Too many people will come," he said sadly. "In summer season there are already 60 to 70 canoeists coming over the trail every day. There will be nothing left when the road goes through."

He looked over the clear, blue Canadian lake and shook his head.

"I'll retire then."

WELCOME--Dottie Kalb, Jensen Beach Community Church officer, welcomes the Reverend Dr. John DiGangi. Dr. DiGangi will be officially installed as Minister of the church on special ceremonies at 10 a.m. Sunday. Members will make presentations and communion will be served. All area residents are welcome.

MOUNTAIN TRAIL--Logs and heavy boards cover the creek bed that serves as the road to Three Narrows Lake. Bud Hillson, a pioneer bushman, has mainted the trail for 43 years, and travels the one-mile mountain route at least three times a week. With him, above, are Dick Campbell, Talley Crary and Mary Jane Wick.

NYC marine fireman recalls life's work

BY ROBBIE BENELL

JENSEN BEACH–"If they had that down here I would never retire."

That's an amazing statement for any retired person to say, but for Bob Carruthers, a retired marine fireboat engineer, the statement is true.

Carruthers, a Linda Drive resident, started working on New York City fireboats in 1953, and during the next 21 years fought hundreds of fires and worked on all of the city fireboats which patrolled the nearly 600 miles of New York City coastline.

In addition to extinguishing fires aboard ships in New York harbor and the surrounding rivers, Carruthers and his fellow firemen helped out land fire units on near waterfront fires, and answered a number of emergency calls, including those barges, dragging the rivers for bodies, suicides from bridges and plane crashes.

"The biggest fire we worked on was the aircraft carrier Constellation which burned in the Brooklyn Navy Yard in the mid-1960s," Carruthers recalled. "It took us more than 48 hours of straight work to get it out. The temperature was five degrees above zero."

Carruthers said the ship caught fire before it was launched at the yard, and firemen had to cut holes in the sides of the steel hull to get Navy yard workers from the burning craft.

Another bad fire was a pier explosion on the Brooklyn waterfront in the late 1950s.

"We used to average 100 fires per month on our fireboat," he said.

Carruthers said there were at one time 16 steampowered fireboats in the New York Harbor area, but over the years the steamships were phased out and diesel-powered craft are now used. There are six diesel fireboats in use.

The big engines, which number two per boat, turn out 1,800 horsepower each, and are used to propel the ships and to provide pressure for the water pumps.

The water which runs through the hose is pumped through filters in the bottom of the boat at tremendous pressure. One hose on the "Firefighter", the largest fireboat in the world, can pump 22,000 gallons of water per minute.

"We called it the pierbuster," Carruthers said.

The hose was strong enough to knock down doors and peel the roofs off pier houses along the waterfront.

The smaller fireboats, which were designed for speed rather than water pressure, were able to pump 9,000 gallons of water per minute. Sometimes, at low tide, the ships pumped black mud from the bottom of the river on whatever happened to be burning at the time.

"Those firemen are a unique breed of men," Carruthers said. "They have a great Esprit de Corps. If a building collapsed and trapped some of the men, about 80 percent of the city's 13,000 firemen would arrive to help out, whether they were on paid time or not."

Not all of the fires were marine fires. The pressure from the boats made the firemen able to stretch hose as far as four city blocks to help put out building fires.

Carruthers said there was one fire in a building in Greenwich Village on the East side. The building was old and made of mortar. Large rolls of newspring were stored inside and as firemen drenched the rolls they took on weight and caused the building to collapse.

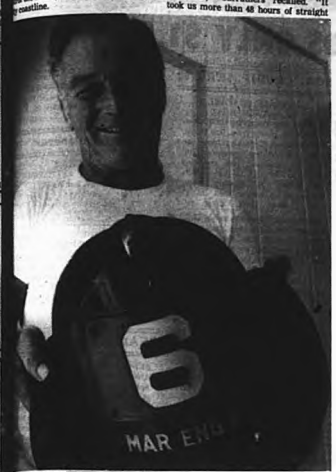
"The whole building went down," Carruthers said. "We worked 48 hours straight and nine men died. It was in the middle of winter."

Not only did the marine firemen help in emergencies and put out fires, they also performed water displays for special holidays, and for visiting dignitaries or ships' christenings.

"I saw my boat last Fourth of July on TV when the Big Ships castle in," he said.

One of the major model toy companies came aboard Carruther's boat one day to take designs for a plastic model. The boat was the Firefighter, and one day, after he retired and moved to Florida, his family presented him with one of the kits. He spent 25 hours, on and off, assembling it, and along with his hat and other fireman's memorabilia, it helps him recall a business he loved.

"If they had that job down here, I would never retire," he said.



MARINE FIREHAT–The marine firehat which Jensen Beach resident Bob Carruthers used for more than 21 years on New York City fireboats has many stories behind it, recalling the fighting of hundreds of fires along the New York City coastline.

BIG FIREBOAT–The "Firefighter", the largest fireboat in the world, is depicted here in a model built by former New York City Marine Fireman Bob Carruthers. Carruthers worked on the Firefighter and other city fireboats for 21 years.

WHAT DO I.R.A. and HR-10 MEAN TO YOU?

If you think they're abbreviations for the Irish Republican Army and a 10-point home run baseball average, then this message is for you. I.R.A. stands for Individual Retirement Account or Annuity and HR-10 is the nickname for the Self-Employed Individual Retirement Act.

So what else is new? You'd better believe these programs are good news for employees who don't have retirement benefits or for sole proprietors and partnerships who wish to establish such plans. And when it comes to explaining these programs and helping you implement them in the best way possible for YOU, there's nobody more experienced than Al Winters, CLU, Manager of the Life Division of Hartman, Tilton and Wilson. Give him a call at 283-4548. He's been on the job for 30 years, helping people just like you with their retirement plans.

Barracudas close out winning season

JENSEN BEACH--The Jensen Beach Barracudas rolled up 34 points en route to a crushing 34-6 season-ending win over Hobe Sound at Langford Park last Saturday night.

With the victory, the Lower Division Jensenites closed out the 1977 campaign with a 3-3-1 record, and it might have been 5-1 if not for an 0-0 tie with Port St. Lucie and a 25-6 upset loss to Port Salerno, their only home loss.

Chris Fitzpatrick, who was forced to quarterback the Barracudas throughout much of the second and third periods, did not get his usual yardage on the ground, so the heavy work went to Derick Jochem, and he didn't disappoint anyone. Jochem gained 141 yards in 13 carries, by far the most yardage gained by a Barracuda all year.

The Jensen Beach offense rolled up 206 yards on the ground, one of the best performances in the league this season, and the best for the Barracudas. Another 23 yards was gained in the air, as Todd Laycock threw only three times, but completed all three.

However, the usually hapless Trojans put a scare into the Barracudas in the first half. On the first play of the game, Jerry Patterson scampered around the left side of his line and went 50 yards for a touchdown.

From that point on, the Trojans got one first down, 18 total yards of offense, and fumbled the ball away five times in the second half.

Jensen Beach piled up 16 first downs en route to the victory, most of them in the second half. Their only score of the first 24 minutes came when Jochem burst 16 yards to tie the score at 6-6.

In the second half, the Barracudas excellent field position due to the fumble recoveries, and capitalized four of them.

Jochem put the home team ahead with 7:02 to play in the third stanza with a yard run, then solidified the lead running for a 28-yard touchdown on last play of the period. That made it 18

Fitzpatrick put the Barracudas ahead 25-6 in the fourth quarter when he threw through for a 10-yard touchdown pass. Later, Blair Feinaur scored the final touchdown with a 1-yard run. Just three minutes later, the Barracudas scored their final points when Hobe Sound's Patterson was tackled in his own end zone for a three-yard loss and a safety.

In the Upper Division game, the Razorbacks lost to Hobe Sound 34-0 despite scoring their first points in two games.

Tom Daniels continued his cold streak, throwing 18 times and completing only three of his tosses for 30 yards. The home team's leading ground gainer was Wilfred Battles with 20 yards on 8 carries. The Razorbacks got only 82 yards total offense in the game, but were helped somewhat by 128 yards in penalties assessed against the Trojans.

Jensen Beach took the second half kickoff and marched down the field for a touchdown, but it was too little to overcome the powerful Trojan offense. Andrew Daniels gained 110 yards rushing, and Fred Wiley added 81. Daniels scored on runs of 39 and 4 yards while Wiley tallied on busts of 16 and 2 yards. Pat Ferguson added the other touchdown on a 13 yard interception runback.

The Razorbacks got their score when Battles scored on a 4-yard run around right end with 8:00 to play in the third quarter. The drive started at the JB 49 and was helped by 25 yards of penalties.

Jensen Beach's record dropped to 1-5-0, while they finished the 1977 season with only a 1-0 win over Port Salerno in the tiebreaker.

Barracudas could still win

JENSEN BEACH--The Jensen Beach Barracudas could not rest on their 34-6 victory over the Hobe Sound Trojans last Saturday night. Instead, they were to go into practice sessions Tuesday night for a "playoff game" against the Port St. Lucie Vikings sometime next week at Langford Park.

Both teams are fighting it out for the final playoff spot in the Junior Football League's Lower Division. Indiantown (5-0) has clinched at least a tie for the regular season title, but must play the second place team in the championship game November 5. Port St. Lucie (3-1-1) and Jensen Beach (3-2-1) are within one game of each other for the second spot.

Port St. Lucie has one more game to play, but their game with the Hobe Sound Trojans (0-5) does not affect the standings in any way as far as the Barracudas are concerned.

If the Vikings win this week, as they are expected to do, they will lead the Barracudas by one game. If Jensen then beats PSL in the makeup game, the teams will tie for second place, and the Barracudas will take the playoff spot because of their victory in head-to-head competition over Port St. Lucie. If the Vikes should lose this week and slip to 3-2-1, then the winner of the JB-PSL game will automatically win the playoff spot.

A check of the Upper Division standings finds the Indiantown Firebirds in front at 5-0-0, while Stuart is second, with a 4-1-0 mark. Both teams have clinched playoff spots, and will play in two weeks for the title. It should be an interesting matchup, as Indiantown defeated Stuart early in the season 12-6, with the Jaguars stopped at the Indiantown three-yard line when the clock ran out.

Jensen Beach is off this week, but there is a full schedule of games in the JFL, as Port Salerno plays Stuart, Port St. Lucie takes on Hobe Sound, and Indiantown meets the challenge of Palm City.

What to cut down on if you want to cut down on your electric bill.

Today, everybody is trying to use less electricity. Partly to conserve energy. But mostly to have lower-cost electric bills.

Yet many consumers don't know which appliances or products use the most electricity. So they go all out trying to save money without really cutting down on their bills.

To help you choose the best ways to conserve energy, we've provided the chart below. Itemized are "typical" appliance usage figures based both on Florida Power & Light research and industry-wide statistics. These figures are intended strictly as examples in that they reflect the average operating costs of various appliances. However, they are a helpful guide to effective cost-cutting. (Also, keep in mind that power usage varies among different product brands; weather conditions; size, location and insulation of a home; and each family's pattern of usage.)

You'll notice that air-conditioners are the heaviest users. But you can still keep cool, dehumidify your home, and realize substantial savings on your cooling costs by setting your thermostat at 78 degrees. If your thermostat isn't marked in degrees, place a good thermometer in a room out of the air-conditioning flow to be sure you're maintaining 78 degrees.

In addition to the information below, our booklet "HOW TO SAVE MONEY ON YOUR ELECTRIC BILL" will give you many helpful tips on energy conservation. And it's free, at any FPL office. Because at FPL, we want to help you save.

Consumption varies greatly with seasonal and weather variables, efficiency of unit, thermostat setting, insulation, family living habits and other factors.

ARCHITECT'S CONCEPT of new Southern Bell office on Hutchinson Island. It will be of brown and gray river rocks set in panels framed with heavy concrete.

Island phone office underway

JENSEN BEACH--The promise of more extensive telephone service on the Hutchinson Island side of Jensen Beach came another step closer to fulfillment this week, with the beginning of construction on a $4.5 million central office at 10990 S. A1A, near Windmill Village.

The completion of the building will round out the expansion program initiated this past summer to give better service to the island, according to Glenn Sutton, Martin County District Manager.

The new office, a one-story structure of 7,800 square feet, will house a new Electronic Switching System (ESS), the most modern computerized equipment available, Sutton said.

Baker and Associates are the architects for the building. Gerrard and LaRoche, Inc., of Fort Lauderdale is the general contracting firm.

The ESS, Sutton said, will make available four new custom-calling features -- call-waiting, call-forwarding, three-way calling and speed-calling.

The building itself is due for completion June 30 of next year. The system will go into service in May of 1979.

Work began on setting the stage for the new exchange in July, when construction crews started digging their way east from U.S. 1 down Commercial Street and up Sunrise Road to lay 26,700 feet of PVC conduit.

The million-dollar project is extending the "paired" cable system under the Florida East Coast Railway, under the Indian River across the Jensen Beach Causeway and out to A1A.

It will given Southern Bell 1,100 extra pairs of wires, or a total of 2,800 on the island.

Elarde was freed Monday on a $2,627 bond.

Deputies are investigating another Saturday night incident in which a man was beaten and robbed of $20, at the point of a gun. He was taken to the hospital for treatment, and released.

Yet another beating victim was 18-year-old Scott Tift, of Jensen Beach, who told deputies he had been struck from behind by an unknown assailant while he was in the beach parking lot. He also was taken to the hospital for treatment of a cut over his right ear. He was released after treatment.

County Commissioner Frank Wacha has asked his fellow commissioners to ban all drinking from Jensen's beach, and to establish a curfew. An ordinance is in the mill.

MINISTRY--"Conwheresus," a mime program at the Jensen Beach Kiwanis Club meeting Monday, was a somewhat controversial minister to the organization. At left is George Wilson, program chairman.

Controversial ministry stirs Kiwanis program

BY DICK CAMPBELL

JENSEN BEACH--He said he was a ...lay minister, after the program, but some Kiwanians would rather it hadn't happened.

Jeff Alter, a Jensen Beach youth who said he was an appliance salesman, appeared as "Conwheresus," a name that means "completed" in Latin, wearing a clown costume and makeup, was the program.

He did not speak, and presented his program in "mime", moving from table to table in a quiet, almost defiant manner.

He first handed out paper matches that had been peeled to form a stick-man to each person. That completed, he lit the first match with a candle, asking (by pointing) each to light the match of another. Matches that went out were hastily relighted from other matches.

Once the matches were lighted, and extinguished, he went from table to table, collecting them in a bowl. He mashed them all together, forming ashes in the bottom of the bowl, and went back to each person in the Kiwanis audience, making a cross in the palm of each and folding the hand into a first.

It was the dot of lipstick that caused some to withdraw. "Conwheresus" went from man to man, pointing to the cheek of each as if to ask for permission to place the dot of lipstick on the cheek. Some refused.

Once all who would had received their lipstick dot on the cheek, "Conwheresus" removed his clown hat and wiped some of the makeup off his face.

"I can talk now," he told program chairman George Wilson.

He introduced himself as Jeff Alter, who, as "Conwheresus" had taken a vow that he wouldn't speak as he unfolded his ministry to Christ. He is sponsored by Redeemer Lutheren Church.

"I saw the rejection in your eyes as I went around. I am happy with it," he said.

"You are men of power, businessmen. To you, a clown is a demeaning thing. I want you to know that you must be childlike to understand Christ."

Alter then explained that his ministry was to spread the word of Christ as a clown. The matchsticks "are you, and you are marked by the cross." He added that the red dot meant "love and benediction," and said, "now you are one with Christ."

The meeting closed with scattered applause for the program.

Realtors planning beach improvement

STUART--Plans for ten picnic sites were announced last week for construction at Stuart public beach. Leading the effort will be the Stuart Board of Realtors, with county cooperation.

Doug Cook, chairman, with Ralph Clemons, Drew Poston and Dick Geisinger, Jr., unveiled the first phase of the project at a press conference.

The first phase involves having ten clubs or organizations donate $250 each to pay for the construction of a concrete pad and install a picnic table in the pine area of the beach park. There will be five grills, one for each two pads.

Construction is expected to be completed by November 20, Cook said. A work party of county officials and Realtors plans to install the tables on November 19.

He added that $750 had been raised at the time from three groups, with the remainder of the $2,500 hoped for by November 8. If there are extra funds, they will be added to a fund for the playground phase of the development.

A site plan has been developed by County Commissioner Tom Higgins and Planner Tom Mumford for the 10' x 10' pads. Each pad will have a wood plaque embedded in the concrete naming the donor.

Cook urged donations from the public. For information, call 283-1748.

Encephalitis is confirmed for Jensen woman

BY BOB FRYER

STUART--A woman in the Jensen-Rio area was confirmed to have become infected with St. Louis encephalitis, a form of "sleeping sickness", from a mosquito bite, but the head of the county health department says the woman is now recovering.

Dr. Archie McAllister announced last week that the woman, whom he did not identify, had two different tests to determine if she was suffering from encephalitis. Results of the second test recently arrived and confirmed that the woman had become infected with the disease.

Dr. McAllister was quick to point out that the disease is not infectious, and that it is transmitted by a species of mosquito that does not travel far from its birthplace in its life span.

"The county Mosquito Control Department made extra samplings in the area near her house and sprayed heavily. They resprayed in a two mile radius," he said.

Several weeks ago, a Palm Beach County woman died of encephalitis, although McAllister said that woman was suffering other illnesses too. About 15 to 20 cases of encephalitis have been recorded throughout the state since the outbreak of the disease began early this month, but McAllister said all victims, other than the Palm Beach County woman who died, are recovering. He said the Jensen area woman is taking "convalescence serums".

One of the worst intersections in Fort Pierce, U.S.1 and Virginia Avenue, shown above, should be extra crowded. Says septic tank problem is minimal

BY BOB FRYER

PORT ST. LUCIE–Although county Health Officer Bill Richards recently put the City of Port St. Lucie on notice that he will strictly enforce a state law requiring the floor level of a home to be three feet above the water table before a septic tank permit will be issued, City Manager Elmer Cox says the situation is not as critical as some reports have said it is.

Cox said a meeting between himself, Richards, several General Development Corporation officials and about a dozen local contractors was held last week to seek solutions to the problem.

"There are a number of lots, relatively small compared to the overall number of lots in the city, that will require filling to bring them up to three feet above the water level or that will require improvements to drainage systems to lower the water table. But this will slow building in relatively few areas, and by no means will stop it. There is no way to visualize the situation as critical," Cox said.

Cox said the city administration has pledged to do all it can to help improve drainage problems and said GDC officials have pledged to cooperate in areas that are still GDC responsibilities.

"Some lots will have to have a foot to a foot and a half of fill to be at the proper level, but in areas where the elevation of the land isn't critical, but where drainage will interfere with the function of septic tanks, we will ask GDC to correct the drainage problems," Cox said.

Cox pointed out that the city has received very few complaints about septic tank problems, even though rainfall since Labor Day has been heavier than normal. "The complaints we received during the rainy season were absolutely minimal and Richards said he had received only a few, too," Cox noted.

C.C. Crump, a vice president of GDC, Harold Schmidt, president of General Development Utilities, and Dr. Timothy Weinberger, a nationally known GDC expert on septic tank and drainage problems, attended the meeting last week.

Cox said he and GDC officials will meet next week with Richards and Richards' assistant to review the problem again. City Building Department head Ralph LaChance and city consulting engineer Cal Montgomery will also attend that meeting.

Road work to snarl Ft. Pierce, Stuart traffic this season

BY BOB FRYER

...ORT PIERCE–If you think traffic is ...ing bad these days, as the first swell ...seasonal visitors is being felt, wait ...f the season really gets underway.

...addition to the hefty swelling of the ...ulation that normally accompanies ...season, it looks like many of the main ...ds in Fort Pierce will be torn up this ...ter. And in Stuart, East Ocean ...levard will receive work on two ...ntersections during the time of year ...n traffic on the road is heaviest.

...ven when area roads are not under ...truction, the influx of seasonal ...itors and of tourists passing through ...resorts south of here makes for ...ngled roads. Part of the problem ...es from the fact that I-95 is not ...mpiete through Martin and St. Lucie ...unties. This means many persons ...ded in the Miami-Fort Lauderdale ...a must pass through Fort Pierce and ...art on the way.

...everal months ago I-95 was opened ...m SR 60 west of Vero Beach to Indrio ...d, north of Fort Pierce. The next ...tion of I-95 will be completed, to SR ...but the date for completion has not ...been firmed up.

...hen that happens, it will be easy for ...h headed south to get off —95, travel ...ew blocks and get on the Florida ...rnpike

...e until that happens, the distance ...m the present end of I-95 to the ...rida Turnpike interchange in Fort ...ce may prompt motorists to take ...1 through Fort Pierce and Stuart.

...ording to Gary Lester, Fort Pierce ...fic Maintenance Supervisor, U.S. 1 ...m Taylor Creek at the northern end of ...t Pierce, to Midway Road, several ...es south of Fort Pierce, will be under ...struction this season. Lester said ...t stretch of U.S. 1 will be resurfaced, ...k work expected to begin this month. ...expected the work would not be ...leted until the season ends.

In addition to the resurfacing of U.S. 1, the road will also be widened to five lanes in the Fields Plaza area, from Edwards Road to Ixora Street.

If that's not enough to snarl traffic, resurfacing projects on both Orange Avenue and Delaware Avenue, from 13th Street to U.S. 1, will be done this season. Lester said the resurfacing of Delaware Avenue will begin this month and he said it may take six to seven months to complete.

The resurfacing of Orange Avenue is not expected to begin until February or March next year. But, before that happens, the Fort Pierce Utilities Authority will be installing new sewer lines under the road. The resewering project will be from Seventh Street to 13th Street, according to Ewell Menge, head of the Utilities Authority. He said bids on the project will come in on Nov. 7, and he expected it would not take too much time after that to award a contract.

As for Virginia Avenue, the second most heavily travelled road in Fort Pierce (U.S. 1 gets the most traffic), the status of work on the road is indefinite. Lester said the City of Fort Pierce is working on designs for improving several intersections along Virginia Avenue, but no major work on the road will likely be done this season.

The City of Fort Pierce and county commissioners are trying to get the state Department of Transportation (DOT) to remove the designation of Delaware Avenue as SR 70 and apply that designation to Virginia Avenue, from its intersection with SR 70 to U.S. 1. Virginia Avenue is now a city street, but if it is designated as a state road, the state would be responsible for five-laning it. Lester said the city recently recommended to the Treasure Coast Regional Planning Council that the SR 70 designation go to Virginia Avenue. He said the planning council, at the request of the DOT, is conducting a study of the proposed designation change, but said the council has not yet finished the study. If the road becomes a state road, the five-laning project would be placed on the DOT's five year project schedule for the five year span beginning in 1981. By that time, I-95 will be finished to SR 70 and Virginia Avenue will likely pick up traffic from persons getting off the Interstate or the Turnpike.

Lester said the cost of five-laning Virginia Avenue is estimated at $5 million.

John Saxon, resident construction engineer for the state DOT said every effort will be made to keep traffic moving as fast as possible. He noted that resurfacing of the Florida Turnpike from the Martin-St. Lucie County line to the Fort Pierce interchange will begin within a few weeks, but only one lane of traffic will be worked on at a time. He said workers will also try to only block one lane at a time on U.S. 1 during that resurfacing project.

Jim Winn of the Martin County Engineering Department said two intersections along East Ocean Boulevard are due for improvement during the coming season. Winn said contracts have already been awarded for improvements to the intersection of East Ocean Boulevard and St. Lucie Boulevard, at the foot of the Evans Crary Bridge, and for the intersection of East Ocean and Indian River Drive, at Sewall's Point. "They will be installing new traffic signals and turning lanes and creating islands in the road, to improve traffic flow and make the intersections safe," Winn said.

"I don't know when the completion date for the work is, but I imagine the work will last through the season. The DOT always seems to do it that way," Winn quipped.

While mention is given to road projects due this season, other major capital improvements in the area warrant mention. In Fort Pierce, the new hospital, to be known as Lawnwood Medical Center and to replace the Fort Pierce Memorial Hospital, will be opening in December. The medical center is located in the area of Virginia Avenue and 23rd St.

Also, the St. Lucie County Administration Building and Civic Auditorium, which cost several million dollars to build, is expected to open soon. The complex is located at Virginia Avenue and 25th Street in Fort Pierce.

Halloween was quiet and safe

PORT ST. LUCIE–Trick or treaters were, on the whole, well behaved in Port St. Lucie Monday night, and city Public Safety Director Doug Stout says he is happy to report there were no accidents or injuries to children during the evening.

Stout said he and two extra St. Lucie County Sheriff's deputies joined two regular deputies making patrols of the city. "That gave us give cars, so we patrolled the city thoroughly," Stout said.

Only two juveniles had to be taken home to their parents for misbehaviour. Stout said two dozen eggs and two cans of shaving cream were confiscated from those two juveniles.

"We didn't hassel anyone, but we would stop kids and ask how they were doing and asked them to let us know if they saw anyone tossing eggs. I think by doing so and by heavily patrolling the area, we kept the mischief to a minimum," Stout said.

A HALLOWEEN CUTIE–Mary Catherine Gaffney, two and a half years old, won second prize at the Port St. Lucie Halloween Carnival for the cutest costume in the age one to three category. Though she missed first place, it's hard to imagine anyone cuter than Mary.

SPOOKY CREATURES lined up for costume judging at the Halloween Carnival in Port St. Lucie Saturday. The carnival was sponsored by the Port St. Lucie Junior Women's Club and it featured booths and food as well as the costume contest. As you can see, the judges had a tough time picking winners because competition was so keen.

Cox pledges fight for full-fledged Post Office

PORT ST. LUCIE–Armed with the argument that Port St Lucie may be the only city in the state, or maybe even in the nation, that subsidizes its Post Office, City Manager Elmer Cox said he plans to renew a fight to get a regulation Post Office here.

Cox said he intends to send out letters soon to the Postmaster General, to U.S. Senators Lawton Chiles and Richard Stone, and to U.S. Representative L.A. "Skip" Bafalis.

"In spite of the recent approval of a contract between the City of Port St Lucie and the federal Postal Service for the sub-station Post Office next to City Hall, the city is still subsidizing the Postal Service to the extent of about $6,000 a year," Cox said. He pointed out that that year, the new contract provides for the city to receive $1,000 from the Postal Service, whereas in years past, the city only received $200 for having the Post Office in the City Hall complex.

Cox said the city is "subsidizing" the Postal Service because the city pays the salary of Joanne Shannon, who serves as Postmistress and receptionist.

Ms. Shannon agreed with Cox that a regular Post Office in Port St. Lucie, with a staff paid by the Postal Service, is needed.

"Ninety-nine per cent of my time is taken up with the Post Office and the other one per cent is dedicated to City Hall, but I'm actually paid by the city," she said.

"I'm very busy each day with Post Office work, and the semi-n hasn't even started yet. It will be twice as bad then. We definitely need a regular Post Office," Ms Shannon added.

Cox says the growth of the area alone, even if the salary of the Postmistress was not considered, is reason enough for a regular Post Office.

"The city has been trying to get a full-fledged Post Office here for as long as I've been here, about two and a half years, and I believe for quite a while before that," Cox said.

"We don't think we should continue too much longer as a city expense. I know of no other city in Florida, or the nation, for that matter, which subsidizes a sub-station Post Office," Cox said.

Scottish Tartan ball in 9th year

JENSEN BEACH–Scots and admirers of Scotland will follow the skirl of bagpipes for the ninth consecutive year in honor of that country's patron saint when the St. Andrew Society of Florida unfurls its tartans at Sandpiper Bay on Saturday, Nov. 19.

Entertainment will be by the St. Andrew Pipe Band of Miami, Pipe Major Jock Sutherland and Dram Major Robert M. Ritchie. The concert by the band is traditional with the society's annual St. Andrew's Day observance, as are the highland dances by the band's younger members.

Three innovations at last year's ball will be repeated on Nov. 19: the March of the Tartans, Recognition of the Flag of Scotland, and the drawing for the Ceilidh (Kaylee) Kit to benefit the society's scholarship fund. There will be Scottish dancing to the piping of two members of the society, and the evening will end with ballroom dancing (to an orchestra) after the toast fo the band and the singing of Auld Lang Syne.

"You needn't be Scottish to attend and enjoy our annual Tartan Ball," Patrick G. Kenny, dinner chairman, explained. Kenny, of Fort Pierce and Waterford, Prince Edward Island, is himself a piper and proud wearer of a kilt and all that goes with it.

"We welcome all who love and admire our traditions and the beauty of 'our hame land.' Seating is limited and, naturally, our members come first. Many travel from far parts of Florida to be with us, bringing along friends or kinfolk. But what with one thing and another, there are sometimes late cancellations, so if you want to hear the St. Andrew Pipe Band, see the highland dancing, and, incidentally, have a fine roast beef dinner, we'll be delighted to have you join with us as we pay our respects to the patron saint of Scotland."

For tickets, call the society's treasurer, Mrs. William O. Maclaren at 283-2335.

PSL residents become U.S. citizens

PORT ST. LUCIE–Four Port St. Lucie residents became United States citizens Thursday, Oct. 27, during a naturalization ceremony at the St. Lucie County Courthouse, presided over by Circuit Judge Royce Lewis.

The Port St. Lucie residents were among 28 persons who became new U.S. citizens.

John Vidak, 71, of Port St. Lucie, was the oldest person in the group to become a citizen. He is a native of Hungary.

Others from Port St. Lucie who took the oath of allegiance were Gudrun Agnes Nason, a native of Germany; Nicola Siegwalt, 37, a native of France; and Geraldina Gonzalez, 58, a native of Cuba.

Each new citizen was presented with a small American flag from the Daughters of the American Revolution, and attorney Richard Schopp, representing the county bar association, made a welcoming speech.

House should vote on canal treaty

Congressman Skip Bafalis

WASHINGTON—In this century in America, there has probably not been a more controversial or emotional issue to come before the citizenry than the pending Panama Canal Treaty. More words have been written and spoken by more journal writers and more politicians than on any other subject that I can recall. And more letters, wires and phone calls have been received from citizens all across the land.

While the public debate has raged on and at length over the pros and cons of the issue, there has been another equally heated argument going on behind the scenes in Washington on whether the House of Representatives has a limited "people's body" — will have any say in the ratification or rejection of the treaty.

The Constitution clearly states that all treaties entered into by the United States must be ratified by the U.S. Senate. On that point there is no dispute. But the Constitution also states — perhaps not so clearly — that the House of Representatives must vote on the disposition of all properties belonging to the United States. On this point there is considerable disagreement.

Because I have very strong feelings on the issue and because I am of the opinion that the House of Representatives more accurately reflects current American public opinion on major issues, than very much for the House to have equal voice with the Senate in the approval or disapproval of this treaty, I and over 60 of my colleagues in the House filed suit a few weeks ago requesting that the Supreme Court rule on the Constitutional role the House should play regarding the Panama Canal treaty.

The courts have not yet ruled on our suit, or at a meeting of several conservative members of congress this week, we were informed by constitutional experts that, in their opinion, the House did NOT have a constitutional "right" to vote on this question and that the Supreme Court would so rule. This news was most distressing.

These legal experts say that the Supreme Court probably will not rule on our case until after the Senate casts its votes because our suit would not be "ripe" or pertinent until then. Should the Senate defeat the treaty, the question becomes moot and no vote by the House is necessary. So, until the Senate approves the treaty, our suit is academic and may not be considered by the courts.

There is a serious problem with this logic. Should the Senate approve the treaty and then the Supreme Court rule that the House has a legitimate constitutional role to play, it's too late — the treaty is ratified and the Canal lost forever.

The House does have one other role it will play in this critical matter. The treaty negotiated by the Carter Administration contains provisions for massive payments to the country of Panama. The House, as the body given the power to appropriate monies, will ultimately have to voice its indirect approval or disapproval by voting the funds to be paid to Panama. But this approach also presents problems. Should the House not vote the funds to pay Panama, the United States will have violated the terms of a treaty ratified by the Senate, and the left-leaning Panamanian dictator, General Torrijos, could then attempt to take over the canal and other U.S. properties without waiting until the year 2000. Only a military intervention by this country could prevent such a likely course of action.

All of this lengthy explanation is by way of advising everyone that apparently the only sure way to defeating this treaty and saving the canal for our nation is in the Senate. Therefore, I encourage - I urge - each concerned citizen to write their own senators - and as many other senators as you can - expressing your adamant and fervent opposition to the giveaway of the Panama Canal. Your help is needed now!

Vikings impressive in 41-0 rout

BY DONNIE WILKIE

PORT ST. LUCIE–The Port St. Lucie Vikings knew they had an audience as they took the field against the Hobe Sound Trojans last Saturday night, and they did much to impress the Jensen Beach coach and others who were watching.

The "Mean Purple Machine" rolled up 41 points en route to a regular season-ending 41-0 rout of the winless Trojans, who never stood a chance against the determined St. Lucians.

Quarterback Jim Hardison directed the fullhouse offense of the Vikings to four first half scores, then led the second string to two more tallies in the final 24 minutes.

Bob Morgan scored the first touchdown on a 1-yard run, and Craig Wilson added to the PSL count with a 36-yard run on a reverse late in the first half.

In the second quarter, it was Morgan again, scoring his second TD from one yard out, and putting PSL ahead 20-0.

Thus, it was Wilson's turn, and he obliged with a bruising 13-yard gallop up the middle to add to the score before the half. The Vikings got as far as the Hobe Sound 13 in the waning moments of the half, but for the first time in the game the Trojan defense held them without a score.

Later, it was Mike Chambers scoring on seven yards to make it 33-0, and Hardison on a bootleg around left end which fooled everybody and produced a 41-yard touchdown run and a 41-0 edge.

The Viking offense produced 241 yards of total offense, which great pleased Viking Head Coach Bob Morgan.

"We're getting our act together," remarked the PSL mentor after the fine effort. "We could have run up the score, if we used out bench a lot."

Meanwhile, the Jensen Beach Barracudas are tuning up for their playoff game against the Vikes. JB Head Coach Herb Seal was unable to attend the St. Lucie-Hobe Sound game due to an end-of-town excursion, but did send an assistant.

Morgan feels that if his troops play the way they did Saturday night, they will be able to defeat the Barracudas and earn a spot opposite Indiantown in the league championship game.

"We're in good shape as far as injuries are concerned," continued Morgan, "but we did lose a few of our backs with a broken collarbone. We haven't had any injuries on the field, but we've taken a beating with injuries off the field."

The Vikings didn't throw much while racking up the most points by a PSL Lower Division team in six years. In fact, they threw only twice, both times going for long passes on a halfback option. Hardison is considered too small to throw for any distance, but if the ground game continues at its present level, there should not be any problem.

"We didn't have to throw," said Morgan.

Morgan added that he "has not seen Jensen Beach" since the two teams tied 6-6 in the season opener at Langford Park. While the Barracudas have improved, it is now obvious that the Vikes have done so, too.

PSL is now 6-1-1, while the Barracudas are 5-3-1.

PORT SALERNO 7, STUART 6

Cleve Brooks led the Port Salerno Panthers to their third win of the season, as they kept alive their hopes for a third place finish. It wasn't easy, though, as the Panthers (3-3) had to go into an overtime tiebreaker to overcome the tough Hornets (3-4). Included among Port Salerno's 1977 victims is Jensen Beach, whom they downed 25-6 at Langford Park.

INDIANTOWN 28, PALM CITY 8

Jeff Foreman led the undefeated Thunderbirds to their sixth consecutive victory and fifth shutout of the season. Palm City, playing at home to conclude its season, dropped to 2-6, while the Thunderbirds prepare to meet the winner of the Jensen Beach-Port St. Lucie playoff.

Stuart outmuscles

BY DONNIE WILKIE

PORT SALERNO–In a bruising Upper Division Football League game Saturday night, the Stuart Jaguars closed the regular season with a crushing 33-6 win over the outmanned Port Salerno Panthers.

L.D. Atkins, who has led the Jaguars into the championship game for the first time in years, once again was the key factor scoring two touchdowns for Stuart, which closed its season at 5-4.

A 26-point second quarter explosion turned the game in Stuart's favor, as the Jaguars totally dominated the Panthers. Atkins got the first score of the game, on a seven-yard burst, then watched teammate Raleigh Johnson score as he picked up a fumble at the Port Salerno five and scooted into the end zone.

Atkins continued the outburst, as he added to the lead with a nine-yard run minutes later. The extra point made it 20-0. Finally, moments before the half ended, Harold Rogers caught a 30-yard toss from always-dangerous Rudolph Jamison to make it 26-0.

Port Salerno played much better in the second half, as Stuart substituted freely, using players who have gained much experience this year due to the frequent Stuart routs.

Panther quarterback Richard Powell tried valiantly to put his team on the board, as they threatened several times in the second half. Running backs Paul Friend, Richard Schoeneck and Lewis Garrick helped the Panthers avoid total embarrassment with fine running efforts.

Stuart's only scoring effort of the second half came early in the fourth stanza. Johnson set up the score with a fine 27-yard run which gave Stuart a first down on the Port Salerno 17. Five plays later, Clint Carbonneau squirmed free from two yards out and tallied the 32nd point for Stuart. The extra point run by Lincoln Jolly was good, and thus the 33-0 score.

The Jaguars will have to wait two weeks to play Indiantown in the league championship game, because of the Lower Division struggle for second place. The Upper title tilt, originally scheduled for this Saturday night, was pushed back a week so Port St. Lucie and Jensen Beach can settle the dispute over second place in the Lower Division. League officials did not want to force either the Vikings or the Barracudas to play two games in four days, and they also want both championship games played on the same night.

However, from Stuart's standpoint, the long wait may be a blessing in disguise. Atkins, who enjoyed a brilliant first half, was injured on a fourth down play early in the second half and missed the rest of the game. His neck injury might have hampered his play had the Jaguars been forced to play this week, but it will be healed in time for the new date.

PORT ST. LUCIE 28, HOBE SOUND 6

Danny Green scored two touchdowns as the Vikings rolled to the fourth victory against two losses. PSL, broke up a 6-0 defensive battle by scoring three times in the third period, but missed out on a shutout when Hobe Sound scored moments before the end of the game on a 65-yard run by Fred Wiley. The Vikings' only two losses of the 1977 campaign came to Indiantown and Stuart, the two teams meeting for the title in two weeks. Hobe Sound finished at 3-3.

FINAL UPPER DIVISION STANDINGS

Indiantown	6 0 0
Stuart	5 1 0
Port St. Lucie	4 2 0

8-4???...but Rams win

FORT PIERCE–In baseball, if you score four runs you should be able to win the game. In hockey, if you score four goals, you should win. And in basketball, if four players score in double figures, you should be able to win.

But who ever heard of a football team scoring four points?

That's exactly what Sarasota Mooney did last Saturday night at Longwood Stadium, but it was not enough as the John Carroll Rams, powered by a fourth quarter touchdown drive, downed the visitors 8-4 in high school football action.

David Albritton and Danny Goodwin both suffered safeties as Mooney jumped to a 4-0 third quarter lead. Fortunately for the Rams, neither Albritton nor Goodwin was as stunned by the two safeties as the crowd. Both recovered and led John Carroll to the winning touchdown.

The Rams marched 73 yards in eight plays for the game-winner. Albritton, a senior running back, galloped 38 yards to the Mooney 35, and seven plays later, quarterback Goodwin scored on a keeper around left end from one yard out.

Albritton ran up 127 yards in 25 rushing attempts for John Carroll, as the Rams moved to 3-3 on the season. Mooney dropped to 2-4.

In other football around the area, Bruce Peters rushed for 158 yards including a 69-yard touchdown run as Cardinal Newman routed Miami Curley 41-0. Also on Saturday, Glades Day stomped Westminister 34-0.

Friday's action saw Fort Pierce Central nip Martin County 14-13, Atlantic continues unbeaten with a 29-8 win over North Shore (the Mustangs' points were the first scored against Atlantic this year), Boca Raton smashed Forest Hill 40-0, Suncoast shut out Glades Central 20-0 to stay undefeated, Okeechobee downed Jupiter 24-13, Satellite Beach ripped Vero Beach 40-7, Pahokee ran past LaBelle 26-6, Lake Worth upset Palm Beach Gardens 9-7, Twin Lakes evened its record with a 14-6 victory over Leonard, Clewiston demolished Immokalee 33-0, Benjamin humbled Berean Christian 45-6, and Moore Haven edged King's Academy 14-6.

Of some special note to local coaches was Orlando Oak Ridge's 42-6 win over Orlando Jones. Fort Pierce Central plays Oak Ridge this week, and should have its hands full since the Cobras lost a 14-7 overtime decision to Jones three weeks ago.

Green Thumbs study insects

BY MARY BROOKS, Reporter

PORT ST. LUCIE--The Green Thumbs 4-H Club of PSL went on a field trip to the Agricultural Research Center on Oct. 24. Dr. Robert Bullock, entomologist for the University of Florida, showed and explained good and bad insects for gardens. The field trip was planned by Percy Murray, chairman, Doug Townson and Kelly French.

During the business meeting, the president appointed Pam Townson as telephone chairman. The following reports were given: Michael Grande said eight members attended 4-H Sunday on Oct. 9 at PSL United Methodist Church; Mary Brooks, display chairman, said the club display was in the PSL Bank and Community Center; Billy Martin, council delegate, said 12 members attended the County Officer's Training School on Oct. 8 and the next county council meeting will be Nov. 12.

David Goins, chairman of the tour committee, announced a tour of members' gardens on Nov. 19 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Members are to meet at the Methodist Church and bring a sack lunch. Beverages will be provided by the committee: David, Donna Tarkelly and Scott Goodrich.

Eighteen members and five guests were at the meeting. They welcomed back their leader, Stuart Prindle, who recently returned from an extended trip. They also welcomed new members - Pam Townson and Loretta Grayhush.

The next meeting will be at 4 p.m. on Nov. 28 at the PSL United Methodist Church.

'Self-help' begins Monday for PSL Yachters

PORT ST. LUCIE--A five-lesson, once-a-week course in medical self-help will begin Monday, Nov. 7, for all interested members of the Port St. Lucie Yacht Club. The two hour sessions will be at the PSL Community Center.

Vice Commodore E.K. Shinn, sponsor of the program, said he erred in announcing at the Oct. 25 general meeting that the courses would be given on Tuesday evenings.

"It will be five successive Monday evenings," Shinn said. "We probably will have two groups each Monday night, one meeting at 6 p.m. and the second at 8:15. Group size is limited to 22 people."

Agenda for the course is as follows:

First session--Cardian pulmonary resuscitation. Second session-- Bleeding, bandaging and shock. Third session--Fractures, splinting and burns. Fourth session--Transportation of injured, poisonous bites and stings. Fifth and final session--Emergency child birth, review of all sessions, and an examination.

There is no charge for instruction or materials, Shinn said. The Yacht Club is paying for rental of the Community Center space.

The vice commodore said that, because of the mixup on meeting nights, some people who would like to take the course may not have registered. He suggests that such persons call him at 878-2966 prior to the first class meeting.

A full house of Yacht Clubbers was entertained at the October meeting

MAGIC BOX that videotapes a party crowd and plays it back on the television set is explained to two guests at Frank DeStefano's champagne party by RCA representative William Keller. The party was at Frank's TV in Stuart.

Deluge daunt dancers? No way!

Believe it or not, the deluge of last Monday evening was no deterrent to the caller Dale McClary nor to the Skyline Swingers. Dale "floated" most of the way in from Fort Pierce, and four squares of hearty souls made it to the dance. Dale comes all the way from Melbourne.

PINE LAKE VILLAGE
Pine Cones

The first session of the ballroom class met at the clubhouse Thursday at 5:30 and got off to a good start with four squares. They are being sponsored by the Pinelake Village Merry Mixers.

Come join this enthusiastic group as the class will be open to new beginners for the next two weeks, Thursdays: 5:30 to 8 p.m.

The Merry Mixers Square Dance Club had a hang up Halloween costume party with seven squares of everything from baboon to vampires. Many village residents came, and the beginners class stayed to watch the fun.

Prizes for costumes were given to the best couple, Jim and Ellen Nixon; funniest went to Tom Blaine; and the most original went to Sue Andrews.

The club raffled off a beautiful fleur tree, which was won by Bertie Hammill.

The clubhouse was decorated with pumpkin lights, witches, black cats and eerie lights, and the dancers were greeted with weird sounds and howls from the record players. Refreshments of cider and doughnuts were enjoyed by all at 9:30.

A busy week at Pinelake Village was climaxed by a Halloween BYOB, with live music by the Four Yachtsmen. Costumes were optional, as some did and the rest didn't, but a grand time was had by about 180 people.

AMBULANCE & HOSPITAL

A donation was made to the ambulance fund in memory of Adele Jaynes by the Pokeno Club of Ocean Breeze Park.

Ocean Breeze

BY BERNIE CURWEN
PHONE 231-0756

This Jensen Beach Area Samaritan Ambulance service is extremely competent, as your correspondent was able to observe the other day. Ruth Miles had an unfortunate tumble coming down her mobile home steps and was in considerable pain lying on her patio, so the ambulance was called.

The crew arrived in three or four minutes, pulled up, and while the stretcher was being set up, two technicians were examining Ruth, checking the shoulder, source of most pain, and all other limbs for other possible damage, while another recorded vital signs. It was quickly determined the shoulder was the most severly injured as it was protected carefully with bound splints before any attempt was made to move Ruth onto the stretcher. It all went like clockwork, each technician knowing his task and performing it smoothly. OBP is very fortunate to have this service.

Ruth Miles came home from the hospital Saturday, and will stay with May Cassidy for a few days.

Jack Hearin is home and was happily driving around the park in the jeep on Saturday, getting a cheery greeting from all.

Margaret Johnson came home last week, and Therese Wittnebert was able to come home on Saturday after major surgery.

Floy Ziegelhoffer will have to stay awhile longer, at least until he can walk, according to Nina, his wife.

Ray Taylor also will have to remain a while longer and the doctor says must be sure of getting meals-on-wheels when he does come home.

George Reeves is in St. Mary's (West Palm) and, according to his son or Carol, improving so that the necessary surgery can be performed soon. Carol called George the other day and a familiar voice answered the phone in the room....but not George's. It turned out to be Joe Wisser, in for some hand surgery. Nice they'll be roommates for a few days. Carol wonders how the word gets around, as she got a call from Lone Merrill up there in Laconia, N.H., asking how George was coming along. (Well, Carol, Lone has The Mirror sent to her, that's how she knows.)

RAMBLING AROUND

Doc and Dorothy Whitney, 3 Circle Dr., are back after, quote "Five months of lousy weather, hottest July ever, then cold rain and more rain," up there in Needham, Mass. It probably wasn't really that awful, as they went on to say they enjoyed staying with their son and had a delightful pastor's wife to fill in their resting. They are both delighted to be back and wants folks to drop by and say "Hello."

Luther Weeks of N. Sixth celebrated his fifth birthday last week and got cards from everywhere. Luther says ye a visit by Ed and Flora Schaubach, bringing them up to date on all the Crew, Va. gossip, was one part of the celebration he enjoyed and probably the other was catching a big mess of bluefish with Ralph and Irvin.

Lee and Mary Ann Blanchard, 3 Banyan, came in last week, after six months in Mgnton, Mich. They didn't complain too much about the weather, just saying it was hotter than Hell in July, then they darned near froze to death However, they took in a square dance convention in Traverse City, where amoagst 800-900, they danced with the Donnells and the Mertzes. Later took some travel trailer trips across the straits and down to Indiana and Ohio. "Darn glad to be back."

Frances Reese, Mary Ann's mother, is also back at 2 Oak St. after six months in Michigan. Same complaint about the weather, if it wasn't too hot and dry, it was too cold and wet. Frances also went to the square dance convention and took a trip to Missouri to visit her daughter Jeannette.

Clyde and Lila Crossley, 5 Areca, are just back from a late summer jaunt up through Tennessee and North Carolina to visit places like "Cromseyed Cricket," visiting some Florida friends in a breeze-cooled and solar-heated cliff-hanging home in the Smokies. Their son Tom took them in his "rabbit" over 800 miles of mule trails to see the autumn foliage, which turned absolutely gorgeous in the last week.

Clyde got "in" on an aging seminar and demonstration at a V.A. hospital, with an $100,000 electron microscope. The ground hogs were fat, wooly worms dark, with squirrels' fur thicker on the north side all signs of a rough winter...so they got out of there fast and headed for good ol' OBP.

Carl and Dorothy Huggins, 13 Banyan, came back last week after six months in Cadillac, Michigan. Their garden was great: tomatoes, cabbage, beans, peppers and more, over 70 quarts canned.

Dorothy is coming along fine, after three hospital trips; may not be able to square dance right away, but reunion and ballroom dancing are okay. Carl remarked that Al and Jo Fovenzi are both fine and will be down here a little later.

Dan and Marion Knopp, 13 S. Indian River Drive, had quite a three month trip for themselves First, they took their time going up to Toronto, visiting friends and relatives along the way. Then, they put their car and trailer in storage and flew over to England. In London, they were met by representatives of the International Caravan Club and became acquainted with English driving, before they were turned loose with a car and trailer for a tour of Britain, Scotland and Wales with 30 other Airstream couples. They found their trailer easy to haul, left hand driving not too bad, and had a great trip following the coasts for six weeks.

Marion says it was nice in England, but cold in Wales and wet and cold in Scotland, but the purple heather and golden gorse were all they were cracked up to be, and the brambles (blackberries) were thick all along Irish for supper every night.

It was an experienced not to be missed but, according to Marion, it doesn't have to be repeated!

Ann Bartle, 11 Cypress, is back, entertaining her sister Dot Erickson from Modesto, California, for a few days. Ann was five months up around Ocean City, N.V., with two sisters and four brothers having a great time.

Ronald and Catherine Cumpsty went to Tampa last weekend at the invitation of the president of South Florida University for an Honor Convocation of 1000 students who had obtained higher than 3.5 for two terms. Their daughter Rhonda was one of those honored.

Harry and Bernice Covell, 24 Tenth, are back from Lansing, Michigan, and Long Lake nearby. Say they have kept informed about OBP doings through the Mirror. Plenty doing at the lake: daughter, son-in-law, grandson and all his friends for fishing, skiing and swimming. Had to have the heater going before they left.

Charlie Pierce, 14 Banyan, spent the last six months in Madison, Wisconsin, where he painted his house, saving $1200. Good garden with 45 or more quarts canned. He and Fran took a trip or two in their Avion to northern Wisconsin and Michigan's Upper Peninsula, where the walleyes were good! Even had one fine supper last night.

IR Plantation gives $817 to United Way

STUART–The Martin County United Way grew richer by $817 on Friday, when the proceeds from the Indian River Plantation Resort's newspaper promotion were turned over to UW Chairman Jim Bowdish by the resort's general manager, Jack Snyder.

The $817 represented the one dollar offered by the firm for each entry submitted in the contest, grand prize for which was a free weekend for two at the new resort.

Winner in the drawing, held Friday morning at the resort's four-story condo-hotel on the tip of Hutchinson Island, was Ed Menninger of Stuart.

Bowdish said the donation brings the United Way fund to, approximately $40,000, more than a quarter of the way toward the goal of $115,000.

The UW money will serve 11 agencies, including the American Red Cross, Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts, Martin County Association for Crippled Children and Adults, Children's Home Society, Jensen Rec Good Samaritans, Martin County Brand of the Mental Health Center, Martin County Association for Mental Health, Tri-County Rehabilitation Center, United Services Organization, Regional Visiting Nurses Association, Inc., and Gertrude Walden Child Care Center, Inc.

Portrait to benefit St. Michael's

STUART–Migs Elliott, renowned portrait artist from Washington, D.C., now living in Stuart, has made her annual philanthropic contribution this year to St. Michael's School, in the form of a "to-be-painted" portrait in oils or pastels - a $1,000 value.

The recipient will be the holder of the winning ticket being sold by St. Michael's students.

The drawing will be held on Saturday, Dec. 10, at 1 p.m. at the school, in conjunction with the "Shopping with Santa" bazaar.

All of the $1 donations for the tickets will go into the St. Michael's Mothers' Club Fund, which is used at the end of each school year to make improvements that are not included in the school's budget.

Should the winner not wish to sit for the portrait, Ms. Elliott will paint the subject of the winner's choice.

There are openings in clothing course

STUART–A few openings still exist for students interested in the Adult Education Department's' Clothing Alterations course offered Wednesday evenings at 7 p.m. at Martin County High School.

Students will learn proper measuring, fitting and altering of a variety of garments. Tips for the thrifty consumer and the economic aspects of job availability for those interested in employment opportunities as alteration specialists or fitters will also be discussed.

Registration fee is $5, payable evenings at the Guidance Office at the high school, or weekdays at the Adult Ed office, 500 East Ocean Blvd. For further information, call 287-6400, ext. 130.

Organ Club meets Tuesday

STUART–The Treasure Coast Organ Club will meet in regular monthly session Tuesday, Nov. 8, 7:30 p.m. at the new Russell Music Store, Cedar Pointe Plaza, E. Ocean Blvd., Stuart.

After a short business meeting, surprise entertainment will be the order of the evening. All prospective new members are welcome.

However, on Tuesday, Nov. 1, Thibideau said the list is still not finalized, but added that the list will be made available to The Mirror when it is ready.

Jensen Art League opens season Nov. 10

Sunshine Girls beaming million dollar smiles

BY SALLY LATHAM

PORT ST. LUCIE—The Sunshine Girls are beaming with million-dollar smiles these days. And well they might.

Shirley Hunter and Claudia McKeever, who started their own Sun Realty Agency just a little over a year ago, are anticipating topping a million in sales by the end of the year.

Which isn't bad for two gals who never sold any real estate in their lives, up to less than ten years ago.

Actually, Shirley and Claudia will tell you, there are "Sunshine Guys," too, in their bustling three-office agency which concentrates mainly on the Port St. Lucie area.

"We now have 20 sales persons," Shirley told The Mirror. "And most of them are women."

Shirley's and Claudia'd as probably the success story of the year. They both had entered the real estate gate through the General Development sales office route.

Shirley was brought up in the Florida Panhandle. She began coming to the Fort Pierce area in 1961, to visit her parents Dan and Ethel Walters, who had moved here.

"Then I decided to come down to live," she said. "For a while, I did a little bit of everything – worked as a waitress at the Outrigger – as a leader for Girl Scouts – with girl teenagers to groom them for beauty pageants."

She was tending bar at a place frequented by GD's vice president and general manager Jack Sheridan when the turning point in her life came.

"Jack saw a potential in me for something better," the attractive brunette said. "He encouraged me into getting my real estate license."

After a year of apprenticeship with GD's Home finders, she went back to school all over again to earn her broker's license, and settled down to selling in earnest.

It was at this point that she met Claudia.

Claudie McKeever, a northerner from Spring Lake, N.J., had come down to inspect a lot she had bought in Port Charlotte, during one of the early national sales campaigns. While she was down, she decided to come over to the east coast to look over Port Charlotte's sister community here.

"When I saw Port St. Lucie," she said, "my eyes popped."

She went back to New Jersey and told her husband Jim to pack up – they were moving down where the action was.

Claudia began as a secretary for Homefinders, but soon decided to get her real estate license.

Claudia and Shirley not only hit it off immediately, they "led the pack" in sales.

"We each did $1 million a year business," Shirley said. "The next runner-up did only a half a million."

The two first teamed up to buy an existing real estate business in Fort Pierce.

"As a result, we got fired by GDC," Shirley said. "Conflict of interest."

It was a friendly parting of the ways however. Claudia was quick to interject.

"They since invited us to come back," she emphasized.

They opened the headquarters on U.S. 1 at the end of Port St. Lucie Boulevard a year ago, and made the first sale while the carpenters were still at work on the building.

They began with 28 exclusive listings, and in practically no time sales were so brisk that a second office was opened in August, at the end of Prima Vista. And everyone is making money.

Both Claudia and Shirley are proud of their Sunshine Girls – particularly one.

"Even Kilgore is our top salesman," Shirley said. "She started with GD the same as we did, but with only limited success. She came over with us, and she should hit a million this year."

Part of the team's secret is in Shirley's dedication. Once a week, she teaches classes in selling to her sales people. And she keeps aspiring to greater heights.

"I'm a graduate of the Realtors' Institute, and I just applied for Certified Residential Specialist," she said. "There aren't too many of those around."

The key to the Hunter-McKeever success story is their unbounding enthusiasm for their product.

"There's nothing like Port St. Lucie in the country," claims Shirley. "There's no limit to how far it can go."

And as it does, these winners will be right with it.

"We've decided we're going to be the biggest in the county," they'll tell you.

After looking at their track record in just a year, you better believe it.

Blues are running like crazy

JENSEN BEACH–The blues have been running like crazy in these waters during the past week, according to Tom Stewart of the Smoak Nook.

The biggest party-haul of blues was made out of the surf by Joseph and Valarie Gowran and the William Minelle. They hauled in 60, on cut bait.

Ed Wagner and Pat Paterson came in with a near-record one-day catch on Thursday. They boarded an eight-pound snook, 31 trout, two grouper and a five-pound channel bass out of the river, using Trout-Tonix.

A prize catch was made Sunday by Fred H. Peterson, who landed a nine-pound eight-ounce black bass out of the Savanna, on a rubber worm.

Another good surf-fishing catch was made by Earl Wilson, who hauled in 38 whiting and one pompano, on cut shrimp.

Harry Beamer, also a surf fisherman, did all right for himself with a five-and-a-half pound snook and two blues, using plugs.

Charlie Arent, as usual, has been a consistent winner. On Oct. 26, he came in with two channel bass, seven and seven-and-a-half pounds respectively, and two trout with Trout-Tonix, out of the river. On the 27th, he landed a five-and-a-half pound snook and four trout, also on Trout-Tonix in the river. On Saturday, he brought in three trout out of the surf with cut bait, and Sunday he caught four more trout in the river.

Irv Fisher used plastic worms to take 13 trout out of the river, and Jim McGregior caught 14 blues off shore with a Clark spoon.

Sandy Adair got 11 trout from the river with Trout-Tonix. A nice varied catch was made by a party made up of Aaron Johnson, Howard Byers, Marvin and Dan Marriner. They boarded five kings ranging up to 12 pounds, three bonita and a barracuda, on chummed mullet.

Steve and Tony Rahesmar brought a combined total of 88 blues out of the surf, on mullet and mackerel.

Stewart noted that most of the good fishing has been in shallow waters.

"It's getting better off-shore," he said, "but mostly it's been too rough to go out."

ARCHITECT'S CONCEPT of new Southern Bell office on Hutchinson Island. It will be of brown and gray river rocks set in panels framed with heavy concrete.

Island phone office underway

JENSEN BEACH–The promise of more extensive telephone service on the Hutchinson Island side of Jensen Beach came another step closer to fulfillment this week, with the beginning of construction on a $4.5 million central office at 10990 S. A1A, near Windmill Village.

The completion of the building will round out the expansion program initiated this past summer to give better service to the island, according to Glenn Sutton, Martin County District Manager.

The new office, a one-story structure of 7,800 square feet, will house a new Electronic Switching System (ESS), the most modern computerized equipment available, Sutton said.

Baker and Associates are the architects for the building. Gerrard and LaRoche, Inc., of Fort Lauderdale is the general contracting firm.

The ESS, Sutton said, will make available four new custom-calling features – call-waiting, call-forwarding, three-way calling and speed-calling.

The building itself is due for completion June 30 of next year. The system will go into service in May of 1979.

Work began on setting the stage for the new exchange in July, when construction crews started digging their way east from U.S. 1 down Commercial Street and up Sunrise Road to lay 26,700 feet of PVC conduit.

The million-dollar project is extending the "paired" cable system under the Florida East Coast Railway, under the Indian River across the Jensen Beach Causeway and out to A1A.

It will given Southern Bell 1,100 extra pairs of wires, or a total of 2,800 on the island.

Crackdown asked on beach nightowls

BY SALLY LATHAM

JENSEN BEACH–"I wish they'd get a campaign to close that beach at night, no alcohol," a Sheriff's deputy said today after a weekend filled with disruption and violence on Jensen Beach.

The arrest resulted from three separate incidents occuring Saturday night and in Sunday's pre-dawn hours, two of the victims were taken to Martin Memorial Hospital emergency room for treatment of injuries.

Deputy Jay Isaacs, of the Martin County Sheriff's Department, said they are stepping up the nightly patrols along that section of ocean front, but indicated larger regulations are needed to get increasingly unmanageable area under control. He said he hopes the county commission will take action to tighten the regulations.

The one arrest resulting from the weekend fracases was 21-year-old Johnny Elarde of Coral Gardens. He was charged with kicking Kenny Allen, 20, of Jensen Beach, in the face. Allen told deputies Elarde and two other men attacked him "for no apparent reason."

Elarde was freed Monday on a $2,627 bond.

Deputies are investigating another Saturday night incident in which a man was beaten and robbed of $20, at the point of a gun. He was taken to the hospital for treatmetn, and released.

Yet another beating victim was 18-year-old Scott Tift, of Jensen Beach, who told deputies he had been struck from behind by an unknown assailant while he was in the beach parking lot. He also was taken to the hospital for treatment of a cut over his right ear. He was released after treatment.

County Commissioner Frank Wacha has asked his fellow commissioners to ban all drinking from Jensen's beach, and to establish a curfew. An ordinance is in the mill.

MINISTRY–"Conwheresus," a mime program at the Jensen Beach Kiwahis Club meeting Monday, was somewhat controversial ministry to the organization. At left is George Wilson, program chairman.

Controversial ministry stirs Kiwanis program

BY DICK CAMPBELL

JENSEN BEACH–He said he was a lay minister, after the program, but some Kiwanians would rather it hadn't happened.

Jeff Alter, a Jensen Beach youth who said he was an appliance salesman, appeared as "Conwheresus," a name that means "completed" in Latin, wearing a clown costume and makeup, was the program.

He did not speak, and presented his program in "mime", moving from table to table in a quiet, almost defiant manner.

He first handed out paper matches that had been peeled to form a stick-man to each person. That completed, he lit the first match with a candle, asking (by pointing) each to light the match of another. Matches that went out were hastily relighted from other matches.

Once the matches were lighted, and extinguished, he went from table to table, collecting them in a bowl. He mashed them all together, forming ashes in the bottom of the bowl, and went back to each person in the Kiwanis audience, making a cross in the palm of each and folding the hand into a first.

It was the dot of lipstick that caused some to wonder if "Conwheresus" went from man to man, pointing to the cheek of each as if to ask for permission to place the dot of lipstick on the cheek. Some refused.

Earlier, a visiting minister left the meeting before the clown arrived at his table.

Once all who would had received their lipstick dot on the cheek, "Conwheresus" removed his clown hat and wiped some of the makeup off his face.

"I can talk now," he told program chairman George Wilson.

He introduced himself as Jeff Alter, who, as "Conwheresus" had taken a vow that he wouldn't speak as he unfolded his ministry to Christ. He is sponsored by Redeemer Luthern Church.

"I saw the rejection in your eyes as I went around. I am happy with it," he said.

"You are men of power, businessmen. To you, a clown is a demeaning thing. I want you to know that you must be childlike to understand Christ."

After then explained that his ministry was to spread the word of Christ as a clown. The matchsticks "are you, and you are marked by the cross." He added that the red dot meant "love and benediction," and said, "now you are one with Christ."

The meeting closed with scattered applause for the program.

Mauldin is named first Federal veep

STUART–At the annual meeting of First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Martin County on Oct. 19, the following time Stuart residents were elected, according to William T. Hallicy, president.

Joseph T. "Buck" Mauldin was named vice president. Mary B. Hallicy and Del Nicholas were promoted assistant vice presidents, and Debra Sigafoose was elected assistant secretary.

Buck Mauldin joined First of Martin County in 1969 as manager of the Jensen Beach office. He was elected assistant secretary in 1972, assistant vice president in 1974, and was named branch administrator for the association in 1975.

Mauldin is a native of Stuart, attended local schools and is a graduate of Martin County High School. He attended the Citadel Military College and has participated in many courses at the University of Financial Education.

Mauldin lives with his wife and three children in Sylvan Shores.

Mary Hallicy was born in Stuart and was first employed by First of Martin County in 1961. After other interim employment, she was reemployed in 1969. Mrs. Hallicy was named assistant secretary in January 1973. She is a mortgage loan officer with the association and lives with her husband Edward in Golden Gate.

Del Rita Nicholas moved to Stuart in 1956. She graduated from St. Anastasia High School in Fort Pierce and joined First of Martin County in 1968 as a teller. She has been head teller, loan officer, and is presently director of personnel for the association. In 1973 she was elected assistant secretary. Mrs. Nicholas lives with her husband Fred and three daughters in North River Shores.

Debbie Sigafoose, named assistant secretary in the loan department, is a native of Stuart. She attended Stuart schools and graduated from Martin County High School. Originally employed by First of Martin County in 1969, she was reemployed in October 1972. She lives in Tropical Farms with her daughter.

First Federal of Martin County is now in its twenty-second year of operation and is the only savings and loan association chartered in Martin County. At the close of its fiscal year on September 30, its assets were over $121 million. First of Martin County serves local and nearby residents from its home office in Stuart and branches in Jensen Beach, Hobe Sound, Indiantown and Okeechobee.

FLAMES GUTTED this Volkswagen last week as it was headed north on Indian River Drive, about two miles north of A1A. Firemen from the District Two Fire Department put out the blaze and said the couple in the car were able to get out unharmed. The fire did back up traffic on the road for about half an hour, though.

Armistice Day rites Nov. 11

JENSEN BEACH–Armistice Day services will be conducted by the Martin County Barracks 854 of World War I on Nov. 11, beginning at 10:30 a.m. at the Jensen Beach Women's Clubhouse on Sugar Hill Road.

Other veterans' organizations in Martin County have been invited to participate.

The memorial address for the 59th anniversary of the signing of the Armistice which ended World War I will be given by Terrence Horrigan, of the Division of Research and Planning of the Martin County School System.

Giving the invocation will be the Rev. Kevin MacGabhann, pastor of St. Martin Catholic Church, and Rev. Norman Kehrli of the Jensen Beach Community Church will give the benediction.

The musical program, by the Jensen Beach Community Choir, will be under the direction of Esther Plyler.

Refreshments will be served by the Ladies' Auxiliary after the service.

ANNIVERSARY is celebrated by Mr. and Mrs. Walter Dailey of Ocean Breeze. The couple said vows in Johnston, Pa. They came here 22 years ago and have two, Rickey Dailey, who lives in Port St. Lucie. Here to help them celebrate the occasion was their grandson, David Carter of Palm Vista.

Realtors planning beach improvement

STUART–Plans for ten picnic sites were announced last week for construction at Stuart public beach. Leading the effort will be the Stuart Board of Realtors, with county cooperation.

Doug Cook, chairman, with Ralph Clemons, Drew Poston and Dick Geisinger, Jr., unveiled the first phase of the project at a press conference.

The first phase involves having ten clubs or organizations donate $250 each to pay for the construction of a concrete pad and install a picnic table in the pine area of the beach park. There will be five grills, one for each two pads.

Construction is expected to be completed by November 20, Cook said. A work party of county officials and Realtors plans to install the tables on November 19.

He added that $750 had been raised at the time from three groups, with the remainder of the $2,500 hoped for by November 4. If there are extra funds, they will be added to a fund for the playground phase of the development.

A site plan has been developed by County Commissioner Tom Higgins and Planner Tom Mumford for the 10' x 10' pads. Each pad will have a wood plaque embedded in the concrete naming the donor.

Cook urged donations from the public. For information, call 283-1748.

Encephalitis is confirmed for Jensen woman

BY BOB FRYER

STUART–A woman in the Jensen-Rio area was confirmed to have become infected with St. Louis encephalitis, a form of "sleeping sickness", from a mosquito bite, but the head of the county health department says the woman is now recovering.

Dr. Archie McAllister announced last week that the woman, whom he did not identify, had two different tests to determine if she was suffering from encephalitis. Results of the second test recently arrived and confirmed that the woman had become infected with the disease.

Dr. McAllister was quick to point out that the disease is not infectious, and that it is transmitted by a species of mosquito that does not travel far from its birthplace in its life span.

"The county Mosquito Control Department made extra samplings in the area near her house and sprayed heavily. They sprayed in a two mile radius," he said.

Several weeks ago, a Palm Beach County woman died of encephalitis, although McAllister said that woman was suffering other illnesses too. About 15 to 20 cases of encephalitis have been recorded throughout the state since the outbreak of the disease began early this month, but McAllister said all victims, other than the Palm Beach County woman who died, are recovering. He said the Jensen area woman is taking "convalescence serums".

JENSEN BEACH–The heavy load of news that comes into the offices of The Mirror each Tuesday has necessitated the establishment of a news deadline for "time copy."

"Time copy" includes golf and bowling scores and sports news, local social items and news of correspondents in the area. The new deadline is Monday morning at 10 a.m.

This new deadline will assist The Mirror in setting type during the day.

Scottish Tartan ball in 9th year

JENSEN BEACH–Scots and admirers of Scotland will follow the skirl of bagpipes for the ninth consecutive year in honor of that country's patron saint when the St. Andrew Society of Florida unfurls its tartans at Sandpiper Bay on Saturday, Nov. 19.

Entertainment will be by the St. Andrew Pipe Band of Miami, Pipe Major Jock Sutherland and Dram Major Robert M. Ritchie. The concert by the band is traditional with the society's annual St. Andrew's Day observance, as are the highland dances by the band's younger members.

Three innovations at last year's ball will be repeated on Nov. 19: the March of the Tartans, Recognition of the Flag of Scotland, and the drawing for the Ceilidh (Kaylee) Kit to benefit the society's scholarship fund. There will be Scottish dancing to the piping of two members of the society, and the evening will end with ballroom dancing (to an orchestra) after the toast to the band and the singing of Auld Lang Syne.

"You needn't be Scottish to attend and enjoy our annual Tartan Ball," Patrick G. Kenny, dinner chairman, explained. Kenny, of Fort Pierce and Waterford, Prince Edward Island, is himself a piper and proud wearer of a kilt and all that goes with it.

"We welcome all who love and admire our traditions and the beauty of 'our home land.' Seating is limited and, naturally, our members come first. Many travel from far parts of Florida to be with us, bringing along friends or kinfolk. But what with one thing and another, there are sometimes late cancellations, so if you want to hear the St. Andrew Pipe Band, see the highland dancing, and, incidentally, have a fine roast beef dinner, we'll be delighted to have you join with us as we pay our respects to the patron saint of Scotland."

For tickets, call the society's treasurer, Mrs. William O. Maclaren at 283-2335.

PSL residents become U.S. citizens

PORT ST. LUCIE–Four Port St. Lucie residents became United States citizens Thursday, Oct. 27, during a naturalization ceremony at the St. Lucie County Courthouse, presided over by Circuit Judge Royce Lewis.

The Port St. Lucie residents were among 28 persons who became new U.S. citizens.

John Vidak, 71, of Port St. Lucie, was the oldest person in the group to become a citizen. He is a native of Hungary.

Others from Port St. Lucie who took the oath of allegiance were Gudrun Agnes Nason, a native of Germany; Nicola Slegwall, 37, a native of France; and Geraldina Gonzalez, 58, a native of Cuba.

Each new citizen was presented with a small American flag from the Daughters of the American Revolution, and attorney Richard Schopp, representing the county bar association, made a welcoming speech.

ouse should vote on canal treaty

Congressman Skip Bafalis

...SHINGTON—In this century in ...erica, there has probably not been a ...re controversial or emotional issue to ...t the citizenry than the pending ...ma Canal Treaty. More words have ...en written and spoken by more ...ional writers and more politicians ...n any other subject that I can ...k. And more letters, wires and ...ecalls have been received from ...ple all across the land.

...h the public debate has raged ...ny said at length over the pros and ...s of the issue, there has been another ...ly heated argument going on ...ng the scenes in Washington on ...e floor of Representatives - ...scribed "people's body" - will have ...e on the ratification or rejection of ...e treaty.

...e Constitution clearly states that all ...eaties entered into by the United States ...e ratified by the U.S. Senate. On ...at point there is no dispute. But the ...nstitution also states - perhaps not so ...arly - that the House of Representa...es must vote on the disposition of ...erritories belonging to the United ...tates. On this point there is ...considerable disagreement.

...ongressional have very strong feelings on ...is matter and because I am of the ...ief that the House of Representa...es more accurately reflects current ...ends in public opinion on major issues, ...feel very much for the House to have ...s equal voice with the Senate in the ...proval or disapproval of this treaty. ...ve heard over 90 of my colleagues in ...is House, filed suit a few weeks ago ...ding that the Supreme Court rule ...at the Constitutional role the House ...ould play regarding the Panama ...anal giveaway.

...e courts have not yet ruled on our ...uit, as a meeting of several conservative members of congress this week, we were informed by constitutional experts that, in their opinion, the House did NOT have a constitutional "right" to vote on this question and that the Supreme Court would so rule. This news was most distressing.

These legal experts say that the Supreme Court probably will not rule on our case until after the Senate casts its votes because our suit would not be "ripe" or pertinent until then. Should the Senate defeat the treaty, the question becomes moot and no vote by the House is necessary. So, until the Senate approves the treaty, our suit is academic and may not be considered by the courts.

There is a serious problem with this logic. Should the Senate approve the treaty and then the Supreme Court rule that the House has a legitimate constitutional role to play, it's too late – the treaty is ratified and the Canal lost forever.

The House does have one other role it will play in this critical matter. The treaty negotiated by the Carter Administration contains provisions for massive payments to the country of Panama. The House, as the body given the power to appropriate monies will ultimately have to voice its indirect approval or disapproval by voting the funds to be paid to Panama. But this approach also presents problems. Should the House not vote the funds to pay Panama, the United States will have violated the terms of a treaty ratified by the Senate, and the left-leaning Panamanian dictator, General Torrijos, could then attempt to take over the canal and other U.S. properties without warning until the year 2000. Only a military intervention by this country could prevent such a likely course of action.

All of this lengthy explanation is by way of advising everyone that apparently the only sure way of defeating this treaty and saving the canal for our native is in the Senate. Therefore, I encourage - I urge - each concerned citizen to write their own senators - and as many other senators as you can - expressing your adament and fervent opposition to the giveaway of the Panama Canal. Your help is needed now!

Vikings impressive in 41-0 rout

BY DONNIE WILKIE

PORT ST. LUCIE--The Port St. Lucie Vikings knew they had an audience as they took the field against the Hobe Sound Trojans last Saturday night, and they did much to impress the Jensen Beach coach and others who were watching.

The "Mean Purple Machine" rolled up 41 points en route to a regular season-ending 41-0 rout of the winless Trojans, who never stood a chance against the determined St. Lucians.

Quarterback Jim Hardison directed the fullhouse offense of the Vikings to the first half scores, then led the second squad to two more tallies in the final 24 minutes.

Bob Morgan scored the first touchdown on a 1-yard run, and Craig Allen added to the PSL count with a 7-yard run on a reverse late in the first quarter.

In the second quarter, it was Morgan scoring his second TD from one yard out, and putting PSL ahead 20-0.

Then, it was Wilson's turn, and he capped with a bruising 13-yard gallop up the middle to add to the score before the half. The Vikings got as far as the Hobe Sound 13 in the waning moments of the half, but for the first time in the game the Trojan defense held them without a score.

Later, it was Mike Chambers scoring on seven yards to make it 28-0, and Morgan on a hootleg around left end to add his tallied everybody and produced a second touchdown run and a 41-0 edge.

The Viking offense produced 341 yards in total offense, which great pleased Viking Head Coach Bob Morgan.

"We're getting our act together," boasted the PSL mentor after the fine win. "We could have run up the score, if we used out bench a lot.9

Meanwhile, the Jensen Beach Barracudas are tuning up for their playoff game against the Vikes. JB Head Coach Bob Seal was unable to attend the Hobe Sound game due to an out-town excursion, but did send an assistant.

Morgan feels that if his troops play the way they did Saturday night, they will be able to defeat the Barracudas and earn a rematch opposite Indiantown in the league championship game.

"We're in very good shape as far as injuries are concerned Morgan, "but we did lose one of our backs with a broken collarbone We haven't had any injuries on the field, but we've taken a beating with injuries off the field."

The Vikings didn't throw much while racking up the most points by a PSL Lower Division team in six years. In fact, they threw only twice, both times going for long passes on a halfback option Hardison is considered too small to throw for any distance, but if the ground game continues at its present level, there should not be any problem. "We didn't have to throw," said Morgan.

Morgan added that he "has not seen Jensen Beach" since the two teams tied 0-0 in the season opener at Langford Park. While the Barracudas have improved, it is now obvious that the Vikes have done so, too.

PSL is now 4-1-1, while the Barracudas are 3-3-1.

PORT SALERNO7, STUARTS

Cleve Brooks led the Port Salerno Panthers to their third win of the season, as they kept alive their hopes for a third place finish. The victory wasn't easy, though, as the Panthers (3-3) had to go into an overtime tiebreaker to overcome the tough Hornets (3-4), included among Port Salerno's 1977 victims is Jensen Beach, whom they downed 38-8 at Langford Park.

INDIANTOWN 28, PALM CITY 0

Jeff Foreman led the undefeated Thunderbirds to their sixth consecutive victory and fifth shutout of the season. Palm City, playing at home to conclude its season, dropped to 3-4, while the Thunderbirds prepare to meet the winner of the Jensen Beach-Port St. Lucie playoff.

Stuart outmuscles

BY DONNIE WILKIE

PORT SALERNO--In a bruising Upper Division Football League game Saturday night, the Stuart Jaguars closed the regular season with a crushing 35-0 win over the outmanned Port Salerno Panthers.

L.D. Atkins, who has led the Jaguars into the championship game for the first time in years, once again was the key factor, scoring two touchdowns for Stuart, which closed its season at 5-1.

A 26-point second quarter explosion turned the game in Stuart's favor, as the Jaguars totally dominated the Panthers. Atkins got the first score of the game, on a seven-yard burst, then watched teammate Raleigh Johnson score as he picked up a fumble at the Port Salerno five and scooted into the end zone.

Atkins continued the outburst, as he added to the lead with a nine-yard run minutes later. The extra point made it 20-0. Finally, moments before the half ended, Harold Rogers caught a 30-yard toss from always-dangerous Rudolph Jamison to make it 26-0

Port Salerno played much better in the second half, as Stuart substituted freely, using players who have gained much experience this year due to the frequent Stuart routs.

Panther quarterback Richard Powell tried valiantly to put his team on the board, as they threatened several times in the second half. Running backs Paul Friend, Richard Schoenack and Lewis Garrick helped the Panthers avoid total embarrassment with fine running efforts.

Stuart's only scoring effort of the second half came early in the fourth stanza Johnson set up the score with a fine 27-yard run which gave Stuart a first down on the Port Salerno 17. Five plays later, Clint Carbonneau squirmed free from two yards out and tallied the 32nd point for Stuart. The extra point run by Lincoln Jolly was good, and thus the 33-0 score.

The Jaguars will have to wait two weeks to play Indiantown in the league championship game, because of the Lower Division struggle for second place. The Upper title tilt, originally scheduled for this Saturday night, was pushed back a week so Port St. Lucie and Jensen Beach can settle the dispute over second place in the Lower Division. League officials did not want to force either the Vikings or the Barracudas to play two games in four days, and they also want both championship games played on the same night.

However, from Stuart's standpoint, the long wait may be a blessing in disguise. Atkins, who enjoyed a brilliant first half, was injured on a fourth down play early in the second half and missed the rest of the game His neck injury might have hampered his play had the Jaguars been forced to play this week, but it will be healed in time for the new date.

PORT ST. LUCIE 20, HOBE SOUND 6

Danny Green scored two touchdowns as the Vikings rolled to the fourth victory against two losses. PSL broke up a 6-0 defensive battle by scoring three times in the third period, but missed out on a shutout when Hobe Sound scored moments before the end of the game on a 65-yard run by Fred Wiley. The Vikings' only two losses of the 1977 campaign came to Indiantown and Stuart, the two teams meeting for the title in two weeks. Hobe Sound finished at 3-3.

FINAL UPPER DIVISION STANDINGS

Indiantown	6 0 0
Stuart	5 1 0
Port St. Lucie	4 2 0
Hobe Sound	3 3 0
Jensen Beach	1 5 0
Port Salerno	1 5 0
Palm City	1 5 0

8-4???...but Rams win

FORT PIERCE--In baseball, if you score four runs you should be able to win the game. In hockey, if you score four goals, you should win. And in basketball, if four players score in double figures, you should be able to win.

But who ever heard of a football team scoring four points?

That's exactly what Sarasota mooney did last Saturday night at Lawwood Stadium, but it was not enough as the John Carroll Rams, powered by a fourth quarter touchdown drive, downed the visitors 8-4 in high school football action.

David Albritton and Danny Goodwin both suffered safeties as Mooney jumped to a 4-0 third quarter lead. Fortunately for the Rams, neither Albritton nor Goodwin was as stunned by the two safeties as the crowd. Both recovered and led John Carroll to the winning touchdown.

The Rams marched 75 yards in eight plays for the game-winner. Albritton, a senior running back, galloped 38 yards to the Mooney 35, and seven plays later, quarterback Goodwin scored on a keeper around left end from one yard out.

Albritton ran up 132 yards in 25 rushing attempts for John Carroll, as the Rams moved to 3-3 on the season Mooney dropped to 2-4

In other football around the area, Bruce Peters rushed for 158 yards including a 68-yard touchdown run as Cardinal Newman routed Miami Curley 41-0. Also on Saturday, Glades Day stomped Westminister 34-0.

Friday's action saw Fort Pierce Central nip Martin County 14-13. Atlantic continues unbeaten with a 29-8 win over North Shore (the Mustangs' points were the first scored against Atlantic this year), Boca Raton smashed Forest Hill 48-6, Suncoast shut out Glades Central 30-0 to stay undefeated, Okeechobee downed Jupiter 34-13, Satellite Beach ripped Vero Beach 40-7, Pahokee ran past LaBelle 26-6, Lake Worth upset Palm Beach Gardens 9-7, Twin Lakes evened its record with a 14-8 victory over Leonard, Clewiston demolished Immokalee 33-0, Benjamin humbled Berean Christian 45-6, and Moore Haven edged King's Academy 14-6

Of some special note to local coaches was Orlando Oak Ridge's 42-6 win over Orlando Jones. Fort Pierce Central plays Oak Ridge this week, and should have its hands full since the Cobras lost a 16-1 overtime decision to Jones three weeks ago.

MAGIC BOX that videotapes a party crowd and plays it back on the television set is explained to two guests at Frank DeStefano's champagne party by RCA representative William Keller. The party was at Frank's TV in Stuart.

Deluge daunt dancers? No way!

Believe it or not, the deluge of last Monday evening was no deterrent to the caller Dale McClary nor to the Skyline Swingers. Dale "floated" most of the way in from Fort Pierce, and four squares of hearty souls made it to the dance. Dale comes all the way from Melbourne.

The Merry Mixers Square Dance Club had a bang up Halloween costume party, with seven squares of everything from hoboes to vampires. Many village residents came, and the beginners class stayed to watch the fun.

Prizes for costumes were given to the best couple, Jim and Ellen Nixon; funniest went to Tom Blaine; and the most original went to Bus Andrews.

The club raffled off a beautiful ficus tree, which was won by Bertie Hammil.

The clubhouse was decorated with pumpkin lights, witches, black cats and eerie lights, and the dancers were greeted with weird sounds and howls from the record player. Refreshments of cider and doughnuts were enjoyed by all at 9:30.

A busy week at Pinelake Village was climaxed by a Halloween BYOB, with live music by the Four Yachtsmen. Costumes were optional, as some did and the rest didn't, but a grand time was had by about 160 people.

The first session of the beginners class met at the clubhouse Thursday at 5:30 and got off to a grand start with four squares. They are being sponsored by the Pinelake Village Merry Mixers.

Come join this enthusiastic group as the class will be open to new beginners for the next two weeks, Thursdays: 5:30 to 8 p.m.

PARK EVENTS

Bingo has renewed vigor with the returnees swelling the kitty for the fortnights winners and, contrary to popular belief, they are not the same ones each week.

Camera Club may be starting up before you know it. Dot Beck, program chairman for November, is back; Ann Bartle, with a novel slide program, is back; and Fred Kalb is due this week to operate the equipment.

Class... well now, no actual dates set as yet, but some November, they can't be far away.

The same can be said for Saturday night dances. It should be starting soon' with mixed square, round and ballroom at first. Watch the bulletin boards.

Shuffleboard courts are the busiest place in the park these nights as many courts active and many spectators catching up on the latest rumors. After the club meeting Monday, Nov. 7, at 8 p.m. in Clement Hall, the regular tournament action will get under way. President Irma Fair urges all shufflers new and old, to attend the meeting.

AMBULANCE & HOSPITAL

This Jensen Beach Area Samaritan Ambulance service is enormously competent, as your correspondent was able to observe the other day. Ruth Miles had an unfortunate tumble coming down her mobile home steps and was in considerable pain lying on her patio, so the ambulance was called.

The crew arrived in three or four minutes; pulled up, and while the stretcher was being set up, two technicians were examining Ruth, checking the shoulder, source of most pain, and all other limbs for other possible damage, while another recorded vital signs. It was quickly determined the shoulder was the most severly injured as it was protected carefully with bound splints before any attempt was made to move Ruth onto the stretcher. It all went like clockwork, each technician knowing his task and performing it smoothly. OBP is very fortunate to have this service.

Ruth Miles came home from the hospital Saturday, and will stay with May Cassidy for a few days.

Jack Hester is home and was happily driving around the park in the jeep on Saturday, getting a cheery greeting from all.

Margaret Johnson came home last week, and Therese Wittnebert was able to come home on Saturday after major surgery.

Roy Ziegelhoffer will have to stay awhile longer, at least until he can walk, according to Nina, his wife.

Ray Taylor also will have to remain a while longer and the doctor says round he sure of getting manta-on-wheels when he does come home.

George Reeves is in St. Mary's (West Palm) and, accordiog to his sister Carol, improving so that the necessary surgery can be performed soon. Carol called George the other day and a familiar voice answered the phone in the room.... but not George's. It turned out to be Joe Wisner, in for some hand surgery. Nice that he's roommates for a few days. Carol wonders how the word gets around, as she got a call from Lena Merrill up here in Laconia, N.H., asking how George was coming along. (Well, Carol, Lena has The Mirror sent to her, that's how she knows.)

GAMBLING LOUND

Doc and Dorothy Whitney, 3 Circle Dr., are back after, quote "Five months of lousy weather, hottest July ever, then cold rain and more rain," up there in Needham, Mass. It probably wasn't really that awful, as they went on to say they enjoyed staying with their son and had a delightful plazza on which to do their resting. They are both delighted to be back and wants folks to drop by and say "Hello."

Lullhe Weeks of N. Sixth celebrated his 86th birthday last week and got cards from everywhere. Luther says a visit by Ed and Flora Schaubach, bringing them up to date on all the Crew, Va. gossip, was one part of the celebration he enjoyed and probably the other was catching a big mess of bluefish with Ralph and Irvin.

Len and Mary Ann Blanchard, 3 Banyan, came in last week after six months in Manitou, Mich. They didn't complain too much about the weather, just saying it was hotter than heck in July, then they darned near froze to death. However, they took in a square dance convention in Traverse City, where amongst 600-800, they danced with the Donnells and the Mertzes. Later took some travel trailer trips across the straits and down to Indiana and Ohio. "Darn glad to be back."

Frances Reese, Mary Ann's mother, is also back at 3 Oak St. after six months in Michigan. Same complaint about the weather, if it wasn't too hot and dry, it was too cold and wet. Frances also went to the square dance convention and took a trip to Missouri to visit her daughter Jeannette.

Clyde and Lila Redinger, 5 Areca, are just back from a late summer jaunt up through Tennessee and North Carolina to visit places like "Cronseyed Cricket," visiting some Florida friends in a breeze-cooled and solar-heated cliff-hanging home in the Smokies. Their son Tom took them in his "rabbit" over 800 miles of mule trail to see the autumn foliage, which turned absolutely gorgeous in the last week.

Clyde got "lit" on an aging seminar and demonstration at a A. hospital with an $100,000 electron microscope. The ground hogs were fat, wooly worms dark, with squirrels' fur thicker on the north side...all signs of a rough winter...so they got out of there fast and headed for good ol' OBP.

Carl and Dorothy Huggins, 12 Banyan, came back last week after six months in Cadillac, Michigan. Their garden was great: tomatoes, cabbage, beans, peppers and more, over 78 quarts canned.

Dorothy is coming along fine, after three hospital trips; may not be able to square dance right away, but round and ballroom dancing are okay. Carl remarked that Al and Jo Fowenel are both fine and will be down here a little later.

Dan and Marion Knopp, 12 S. Indian River Drive, had quite a three month trip for themselves. First, they took their time going up to Toronto, visiting friends and relatives along the way. Then, they put their car and trailer in storage and flew over to England. In London, they were met by representatives of the International Caravan Club and became acquainted with English driving, before they were turned loose with a car and trailer for a tour of Britain, Scotland and Wales with 20 other Airstream couples. They found their trailer easy to haul, left hand driving not too bad, and had a great trip following the coasts for six weeks.

Marion says it was nice in England, but cold in Wales and wet and cold in Scotland, but the purple heather and golden gorse were all they were cracked up to be, and the brambles (blackberries) were thick all along (dish for supper every night).

It was an experienced not to be missed but, according to Marion, it doesn't have to be repeated.

Ann Bartle, 11 Cypress, is back, entertaining her sister Dot Erickson from Modesto, California, for a few days. Ann was five months up around Ocean City, N.Y., with two sisters and four brothers having a great time.

Ronald and Catherine Cumpsty went to Tampa last weekend at the invitation of the president of South Florida University for an Honor Convocation of 1000 students who had obtained higher than 3.5 for two terms. Their daughter Rhonda was one of those honored.

Harry and Bernice Covell, 24 Tenth, are back from Lansing, Michigan, and Long Lake nearby. Say they have kept informed about OBP doings through the Mirror. Plenty doing at the lake-daughter, son-in-law, grandson and all his friends for fishing, skung and swimming. Had to have the heater going before they left.

Charlie Pierce, 14 Banyan, spent the last six months in Madison, Wisconsin, where he painted his house, saving $1200. Good garden with 45 or more quarts canned. He and Fran took a trip or two in their Avalon to northern Wisconsin and the Land-of-Lakes, where the walleyes were good. Even had one for supper last night.

INDIAN RIVER PLANTATION

IR Plantation gives $817 to United Way

STUART–The Martin County United Way grew richer by $817 on Friday, when the proceeds from the Indian River Plantation Resort's newspaper promotion were turned over to UW Chairman Jim Bowdish by the resort's general manager, Jack Snyder.

The $817 represented the one dollar offered by the firm for each entry submitted in the contest, grand prize for which was a free weekend for two at the new resort.

Winner in the drawing, held Friday morning at the resort's four-story condo-hotel on the tip of Hutchinson Island, was Ed Menninger of Stuart.

Bowdish said the donation brings the United Way fund to approximately $40,000, more than a quarter of the way toward the goal of $155,000.

The UW money will serve 11 agencies, including the American Red Cross, Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts, Martin County Association for Crippled Children and Adults, Children's Home Society, Jensen-Rio Good Samaritans, Martin County Brand of the Mental Health Center, Martin County Association for Mental Health, Tri-County Rehabilitation Center, United Services Organization, Regional Visiting Nurses Association, Inc., and Gertrude Walden Child Care Center, Inc.

Portrait to benefit St. Michael's

STUART–Migs Elliott, renowned portrait artist from Washington, D.C., now living in Stuart, has made her annual philanthropic contribution this year to St. Michael's School, in the form of a "to-be-painted" portrait in oils or pastels - a $1,000 value.

The recipient will be the holder of the winning ticket being sold by St Michael's students.

The drawing will be held on Saturday, Dec. 10, at 1 p.m. at the school, in conjunction with the "Shopping with Santa" bazaar.

All of the $1 donations for the tickets will go into the St. Michael's Mothers' Club Fund, which is used at the end of each school year to make improvements that are not included in the school's budget.

Should the winner not wish to sit for the portrait, Ms Elliott will paint the subject of the winner's choice.

There are openings in clothing course

STUART–A few openings still exist for students interested in the Adult Education Department's Clothing Alterations course offered Wednesday evenings at 7 p.m. at Martin County High School.

Students will learn proper measuring, fitting and altering of a variety of garments. Tips for the thrifty consumer and the economic aspects of job availability for those interested in employment opportunities as alteration specialists or fitters will also be discussed.

Registration fee is $5, payable evenings at the Guidance Office at the high school, or weekdays at the Adult Ed office, 500 East Ocean Blvd. For further information, call 287-6400, ext. 130.

Organ Club meets Tuesday

STUART–The Treasure Coast Organ Club will meet in regular monthly session Tuesday, Nov. 8, 7:30 p.m. at the new Russell Music Store, Cedar Pointe Plaza, E. Ocean Blvd., Stuart.

After a short business meeting, surprise entertainment will be the order of the evening. All prospective new members are welcome.

Blues are running like crazy

JENSEN BEACH–The blues have been running like crazy in these waters during the past week, according to Tom Stewart of the Snook Nook.

The biggest party-haul of blues was made [illegible] The Surf by Joseph and Valarie Gowran and the William Mizells. They hauled in 68, on cut bait.

Ed Wagner and Pat Paterson came in [illegible] such Thursday. They boarded six eight pound snook, 31 trout, two grouper and a five-pound channel bass out of the river, using Trout-Tonic.

A prize catch was made Sunday by Fred R. Peterson, who landed a nine-pound eight-ounce black bass out of the Savanna, on a rapala wiggler.

Another good surf-fishing catch was made by Earl Wilson, who hauled in 36 whiting and one pompano, on cut bait.

Harry Beamer, also a surf fisherman, did all right for himself with a five-and-a-half pound snook and two blues, using plugs.

Charlie Arani, as usual, has been a consistent winner. On Oct. 26, he came in with two channel bass, seven and seven-and-a-half pounds respectively, and two trout with Trout-Tonic, out of the river. On the 27th, he landed a five-and-a-half pound snook and four trout, also on Trout-Tonic in the river. On Saturday, he brought in three trout out of the surf with cut bait, and Sunday he caught four more trout in the river.

Irv Fisher used plastic worms to take 18 trout out of the river, and Jim McGregian caught 12 blues off-shore with a Clark spoon.

Sandy Adair got 11 trout from the river with Trout-Tonic. A nice varied catch was made by a party made up of Aaron Johnson, Howard Byars, Marvin and Dan Marriner. They boarded five kings ranging up to 25 pounds, three bonita and a barracuda, on chummed mullet.

Steve and Rebadow brought a combined total of 60 blues out of the surf, on mullet and mackerel.

Stewart notes that most of the good fishing has been in shallow waters.

"It's getting better off-shore," he said, "but mostly it's been too rough to go out."

...FFIC is already heavy in Fort Pierce and it looks like it ...ll only get worse this season because of the influx of northern ...urists and because several major roads in Fort Pierce will be ...ne construction. One of the worst intersections in Fort Pierce, U.S 1 and Virginia Avenue, shown above, should be extra crowded. That's because of work planned for U.S 1 and because most traffic exiting from the turnpike and, eventually, from I-95, will use Virginia Avenue to get to U.S.1.

Says septic tank problem is minimal

BY BOB FRYER

PORT ST. LUCIE–Although county Health Officer Bill Richards recently put the City of Port St. Lucie on notice that he will strictly enforce a state law requiring the floor level of a home to be three feet above the water table before a septeic tank permit will be issued, City Manager Elmer Cox says the situation is not as critical as some reports have said it is.

Cox said a meeting between himself, Richards, several General Development Corporation officials and about a dozen local contractors was held last week to seek solutions to the problem.

"There are a number of lots, relatively small compared to the overall number of lots in the city, that will require filling to bring them up to three feet above the water level or that will require improvements to drainage systems to lower the water table. But this will slow building in relatively few areas, and by no means will stop it. There is no way to visualize the situation as critical," Cox said.

Cox said the city administration has pledged to do all it can to help improve drainage problems and said GDC officials have pledged to cooperate in areas that are still GDC responsibilities.

"Some lots will have to have a foot to a foot and a half of fill to be at the proper level, but in areas where the elevation of the land isn't critical, but where drainage will interfere with the function of septic tanks, we will ask GDC to correct the drainage problems," Cox said.

Cox pointed out that the city has received very few complaints about septic tank problems, even though rainfall since Labor Day has been heavier than normal. "The complaints we received during the rainy season were absolutely minimal and Richards said he had received only a few, too," Cox noted.

C.C. Crump, senior vice president of GDC; Harold Schmidt, president of General Development Utilities, and Dr. Timothy Weinberger, a nationally known GDC expert on septic tank and drainage problems, attended the meeting last week.

Cox said he and GDC officials will meet next week with Richards and Richards' assistant to review the problem again. City Building Department head Ralph LaChance and city consulting engineer Cal Montgomery will also attend that meeting.

Road work to snarl Ft. Pierce, Stuart traffic this season

BY BOB FRYER

FORT PIERCE–If you think traffic is very bad these days, as the first swell of seasonal visitors is being felt, wait until the season really gets underway.

In addition to the hefty swelling of the population that normally accompanies the season, it looks like many of the main streets in Fort Pierce will be torn up this winter. And in Stuart, East Ocean Boulevard will receive work on two intersections during the time of year when traffic on the road is heaviest.

Even when area roads are not under construction, the influx of seasonal workers and of tourists passing through on resorts south of here makes for clogged roads. Part of the problem is that the fact that I-95 is not complete through Martin and St. Lucie counties. This means many persons headed to the Miami-Fort Lauderdale area must pass through Fort Pierce and Stuart on the way.

Several months ago I-95 was opened from SR 60 west of Vero Beach to Indrio Road, north of Fort Pierce. The next section of I-95 will be completed, to SR 70, but the date for completion has not been firmed up.

When that happens, it will be easy for those headed south to get off —95, travel a few blocks and get on the Florida Turnpike.

But until that happens, the distance between the present end of I-95 to the Florida Turnpike interchange in Fort Pierce may prompt motorists to take U.S 1 through Fort Pierce and Stuart.

According to Leary Lasseter, Fort Pierce Traffic Maintenance Supervisor, U.S. 1 from Taylor Creek at the northern end of Fort Pierce, to Midway Road, several miles south of Fort Pierce, will be under construction this season. Lester said a short stretch of U.S. 1 will be resurfaced, but work expected to begin this month, is expected the work would not be completed until the season ends.

In addition to the resurfacing of U.S. 1, the road will also be widened to five lanes in the Fields Plaza area, from Edwards Road to Ixora Street.

If that's not enough to snarl traffic, resurfacing projects on both Orange Avenue and Delaware Avenue, from 13th Street to U.S. 1, will be done this season. Lester said the resurfacing of Delaware Avenue will begin this month and he said it may take six to seven months to complete.

The resurfacing of Orange Avenue is not expected to begin until February or March next year. But, before that happens, the Fort Pierce Utilities Authority will be installing new sewer lines under the road. The resewering project will be from Seventh Street to 13th Street, according to Ewell Menge, head of the Utilities Authority. He said bids on the project will come in on Nov. 7, and he expected it would not take too much time after that to award a contract.

As for Virginia Avenue, the second most heavily travelled road in Fort Pierce (U.S. 1 gets the most traffic), the status of work on the road is indefinite. Lester said the City of Fort Pierce is working on designs for improving several intersections along Virginia Avenue, but no major work on the road will likely be done this season.

The City of Fort Pierce and county commissioners are trying to get the state Department of Transportation (DOT) to remove the designation of Delaware Avenue as SR 70 and apply that designation to Virginia Avenue, from its intersection with SR 70 to U.S. 1. Virginia Avenue is now a city street, but if it is designated as a state road, the state would be responsible for five-laning it. Lester said the city recently recommended to the Treasure Coast Regional Planning Council that the SR 70 designation go to Virginia Avenue. He said the planning council, at the request of the DOT, is conducting a study of the proposed designation change, but said the council has not yet finished the study. If the road becomes a state road, the five-laning project would be placed on the DOT's five year project schedule for the five year span beginning in 1981. By that time, I-95 will be finished to SR 70 and Virginia Avenue will likely pick up traffic from persons getting off the Interstate or the Turnpike.

Lester said the cost of five-laning Virginia Avenue is estimated at $5 million.

John Saxon, resident construction engineer for the state DOT said every effort will be made to keep traffic moving as fast as possible. He noted that resurfacing of the Florida Turnpike from the Martin-St. Lucie County line to the Fort Pierce interchange will begin within a few weeks, but only one lane of traffic will be worked on at a time. He said workers will also try to only block one lane at a time on U.S. 1 during that resurfacing project.

Jim Winn of the Martin County Engineering Department said two intersections along East Ocean Boulevard are due for improvement during the coming season. Winn said contracts have already been awarded for improvements to the intersection of East Ocean Boulevard and St. Lucie Boulevard, at the foot of the Evans Crary Bridge, and for the intersection of East Ocean and Indian River Drive, at Sewall's Point. "They will be installing new traffic signals and turning lanes and creating islands in the road, to improve traffic flow and make the intersections safe," Winn said.

"I don't know when the completion date for the work is, but I imagine the work will last through the season. The DOT always seems to do it that way," Winn quipped.

While mention is given to road projects due this season, other major capital improvements in the area warrant mention. In Fort Pierce, the new hospital, to be known as Lawnwood Medical Center and to replace the Fort Pierce Memorial Hospital, will be opening in December. The medical center is located in the area of Virginia Avenue and 23rd St.

Also, the St. Lucie County Administration Building and Civic Auditorium, which cost several million dollars to build, is expected to open soon. The complex is located at Virginia Avenue and 25th Street in Fort Pierce.

Halloween was quiet and safe

PORT ST. LUCIE–Trick or treaters were, on the whole, well behaved in Port St. Lucie Monday night, and city Public Safety Director Doug Stout says he is happy to report there were no accidents or injuries to children during the evening.

Stout said he and two extra St. Lucie County Sheriff's deputies joined two regular deputies making patrols of the city. "That gave us five cars, so we patrolled the city thoroughly," Stout said.

Only two juveniles had to be taken home to their parents for misbehaviour. Stout said two dozen eggs and two cans of shaving cream were confiscated from those two juveniles.

"We didn't hassel anyone, but we would stop kids and ask how they were doing and asked them to let us know if they saw anyone tossing eggs. I think by doing so and by heavily patrolling the area, we kept the mischief to a minimum," Stout said.

A HALOWEEN CUTIE–Mary Catherine Gaffney, two and a half years old, won first place in the Port St. Lucie Halloween Carnival for the costume in the age one to three category. Though she missed first place, it's hard to imagine anyone cuter than Mary.

SPOOKY CREATURES lined up for costume judging at the Halloween Carnival in Port St. Lucie Saturday. The carnival was sponsored by the Port St. Lucie Junior Women's Club and it featured booths and food as well as the costume contest. As you can see, the judges had a tough time picking winners because competition was so keen.

Cox pledges fight for full-fledged Post Office

PORT ST. LUCIE–Armed with the argument that Port St. Lucie may be the only city in the state, or maybe even in the nation, that subsidizes its Post Office, City Manager Elmer Cox said he plans to renew a fight to get a regulation Post Office here.

Cox said he intends to send out letters soon to the Postmaster General, to U.S. Senators Lawton Chiles and Richard Stone, and to U.S. Representative L.A. "Skip" Bafalis.

"In spite of the recent approval of a contract between the City of Port St. Lucie and the federal Postal Service for the sub-station Post Office next to City Hall, the city is still subsidizing the Postal Service to the extent of about $6,000 a year," Cox said. He pointed out that this year, the new contract provides for the city to receive $1,000 from the Postal Service, whereas in years past, the city only received $200 for having the Post Office in the City Hall complex.

Cox said the city is "subsidizing" the Postal Service because the city pays the salary of Joanne Shannon, who serves as Postmistress and receptionist.

Ms. Shannon agreed with Cox that a regular Post Office in Port St. Lucie, with a staff paid by the Postal Service, is needed.

"Ninety-nine per cent of my time is taken up with the Post Office and the other one per cent is dedicated to City Hall, but I'm actually paid by the city," she said.

"I'm very busy each day with Post Office work, and the season hasn't even started yet. It will be twice as bad then. We definitely need a regular Post Office," Ms. Shannon added.

Cox says the growth of the area alone, even if the salary of the Postmistress was not considered, is reason enough for a regular Post Office.

"The city has been trying to get a full-fledged Post Office here for as long as I've been here, about two and a half years, and I believe for quite a while before that," Cox said.

"We don't think we should continue too much longer as a city expense. I know of no other city in Florida, or the nation, for that matter, which subsidizes a sub-station Post Office," Cox said.

Blues are running like crazy

JENSEN BEACH—The bloos have been running like crazy in these water during the past week, according to Tom Stewart of the Sands Nook.

The biggest party-haul of bloos was made out of the surf by Joseph and Velarie Gowran and the William Minells. They hooked in 68, on cut bait.

Ed Wagner and Pat Peterson came in with a near-record one-day catch on Thursday. They boarded an eight-pound snook, 21 trout, two grouper and a five-pound channel bass out of the river, using Trout-Tonic.

A prize catch was made Sunday by Fred D. Peterson, who landed a nine-pound eight-ounce black bass out of the Savanna, on a rubber worm.

Another good surf-fishing catch was made by Earl Wilson, who hauled in 38 whiting and one pompano, on cut shrimp.

Harry Beamer, also a surf fisherman, did all right for himself with a five-and-a-half pound snook and two blues, using plugs.

Charlie Arent, as usual, has been a consistent winner. On Oct. 25, he came in with two channel bass, seven and seven-and-a-half pounds respectively, and two trout with Trout-Tonic, out of the river. On the 27th, he landed a five-and-a-half pound snook and four trout, also on Trout-Tonic in the river. On Saturday, he brought in three trout out of the surf with cut bait, and Sunday he caught four more trout in the river.

Ivy Fisher used plastic worms to take 12 trout out of the river, and Jim McGuigian caught 18 bluns off-shore with a Clark spoon.

Sandy Adair got 11 trout from the river with Trout-Tonic. A nice variety catch was made by a party made up of Aaron Johnson, Howard Byers, Marvin and Dan Marvitner. They boarded five kings ranging up to 25 pounds, three bonita and a barracuda, on chummed mullet.

Steve and Tony Rebeiser brought a combined total of 48 blue out of the surf, on mullet and mackerel.

Stewart notes that most of the good fishing has been in shallow waters

"It's getting better off-shore," he said, "but mostly it's been too rough to go out."

St. Martin breaks ground for new church

JENSEN BEACH–St. Martin de Porres Catholic Community, which was founded in Jensen Beach in 1973, broke ground for a new church building on Sunday, three days after the Saint's day honoring its patron saint.

The new church will be erected on Savanna Road, just north of Jensen Beach Elementary School. When complete, it will provide facilities for Sunday and daily Mass, with a capacity of 600.

It has been designed by architect Murray Blair Wright of Miami to permit adjustment in seating for diverse uses of the congregation, Ray Lein Construction Company of Fort Pierce is the contractor.

The groundbreaking brought out nearly 100 members of the young parish. Officiating were the parish priest, Fr. Kevin MacGabhann, his assistant, Fr. Gerald Morris, and three of the church "founding fathers," Al Palmer, David Deci and Ralph Hartman.

The architecture for the future building is in keeping with the origin of St. Martin dePorres, the first holy man in the western hemisphere to be canonized.

Martin dePorres, the son of a Spanish nobleman and a black freewoman, was born in Lima, Peru, on Dec. 9, 1579. He died in 1638, but was not canonized until May of 1962.

He was famour for his acts of kindness and charity to the poor, helpless children and animals. In his later years, as he grew in holiness, he was said to have the powers of bi-location, reported being seen helping people in two places at once.

The new church building is due for completion in the early spring.

Other items on the agenda of interest to the Jensen area included the bid opening for new restroom facilities at Jensen Beach; a request for letter of "no-objection" for a private dock and mooring facility in Rio, from John Fulhermus, and approval sought for a revised site plan for a single-family subdivision on 707-A, by the Newport-Jensen Company.

October, Wagner, Pete Baker and Ray Ruleson brought in 11 trout and a nine pound grouper. The next day he and Pat Paterson caught three sea bass at five pounds each and three trout.

On Nov. 2, Wagner, Charles Areni (another of our champ Isaac Walton) and Elison Burnett hooked eight trout and a pompano. Nov. 3 netted them three trout and a snook, and the day after that they took 11 trout. Wagner and Baker topped their own record Nov. 7, with 17 trout. Their prize packages all came out of the river.

The blues are still running strong both in the river and the surf. The top catch was made Nov. 1 by Fred Muller and Fred Moller, who combined forces to bring in 28 blues out of the river. On Nov. 2, Ben Hubenet and Red Sutherland caught 18 blues from the deck of the Frogie II, and on the 6th, John Minay took four big ones – totaling 20 pounds – on a plug.

Areni's most notable catch for the period was on Nov. 1, when he came home with two trout, two and three pounds, two snook, four and five pounds, and a sheepshead. He got them from the river on Trout Touts.

Cañal 23 was the bonanza for Carl Herzog and Arden Baker on Nov. 2. They brought in 14 black bass, one of them weighing five pounds and another four and a half pounds. They used plastic worms.

Joe Apfelbeck lucked in on the bridge on Nov. 3, catching two drum weighint 10 and 15 pounds respectively, and two sheepshead. He used shrimp as bait.

W.K. Thompson had the day's record on Nov. 5, with an 11½ pound snook out of the river, on a plug. Joseph Senatore caught a 5½ pound red fish from the river the same day.

TO CUL DE SAC OR NO? That is the question Fred Taylor, left, and Russ Gilbert of Dutcher, Higginbotham, Mayer and Bass will put to the Sewall's Point City Commission tonight. They felt the commissioners out last Wednesday on the feasibility of serving a difficult mini-development planned for the Dr. R. Pare property with a single private road and turn-around circle. As the ordinance under revision now stands, it isn't permissible.

Seymour's sold?

JENSEN BEACH–Seymour's Inn, an entertainment spa and landmark of long standing in the Jensen Beach area, has been sold to Jack McAndrews, owner of Jake's Restaurant in Stuart it was learned this week.

Mrs. Seymour Gideon, from whom the most recent owner, Loren Delehant, had been buying the establishment, could not confirm the actual closing on the sale, but acknowledged that McAndrews has been negotiating for the Inn. "I'll call my lawyer to find out in the morning," she told The Mirror.

Commission frowns on over-long docks

BY SALLY LATHAM

SEWALL'S POINT–It's not so much "What's up, Doc?" as it is "How long dock" for the Sewall's Point City Commission these days. The commissioners want everyone to enjoy their boats, but they have a great deal of initial resistance to overdoing it.

The question came up at Wednesday night's workshop meeting, when four people petitioned the town fathers for docks ranging from 187 to 250 feet out into the St. Lucie River.

All four of the petitioners are asking for long piers out into the St. Lucie River, in order to give their large craft sufficient draft.

The commissioners took a dim view of the lengths sought by the four, all in the exclusive Rio Vista area.

Ken Cleveland and William Pate are both asking for 187-foot private docks. Joseph A. Schepis wants a 250 foot private dock, and John Fenniman, acting as attorney for developer Gus Schickendanz, is petitioning for permission to provide a communal dock for land-bound owners in his plush development.

Cleveland said he wants his dock for his fixed-keel sailboat, which he can't get in close enough to shore because of the shallowness of the water to a considerable distance out in the river.

The dock sought by Fenniman for his client would be "a way of exposing boating" to purchasers of more than 100 residential tracts close to but not abutting the waterway.

He assured the commission that there would be no live-aboards or commercial gas pumping facilities on the pier, and that it would be exclusively for the use of homeowners within walking distance of their craft.

Both Mayor Ed Gluckler and vice mayor Robert Russell expressed sympathy with the desires of the would-be dock-builders, but expressed concern for the increasing tendency to protrude long docks out into waters where river traffic is heavy.

Commissioner Earl Crawford, a retired admiral, said he was for it, but "I don't think 250 feet ought to be sticking out there."

Mayor Gluckler indicated he felt a length-limit ought to be established.

"By the time this board goes out," he said, they're going to want to be going out 500 feet."

The issue is expected to be a point of legal debate at the official meeting on Nov. 9, because thus far, Gluckler observed, no standards have been established either by the town or the county on dock limitations.

Commissioner John Rossiter indicated he feels both bodies should go easy on setting stringent regulations.

Already, it was noted, other docks in the county had been built exceeding the asked-for lengths.

"I don't want to see standards go where a person can't put up his bloody dock if he wants to," the commissioner commented.

Also coming up for official action at the Nov 9 meeting is the second reading of the amendments to the ordinance dealing with standards for private roads, in subdivisions, set backs, and requirements for sanitary sewers.

Armistice Day Friday

Friday, which is the traditional Armistice Day on the calendar, will be a holidy for some but business as usual for others.

Two ritual observances will be held to mark the 58th anniversary of the signing of the Armistice ending World War I. One will be at the Jensen Beach Women's Association clubhouse, and the second at the Port St. Lucie Community Center.

The memorial service at the Jensen site will be sponsored by the Martin County Barracks 854 of World War I Veterans, who have invited service organizations from throughout the area to participate. The service will begin at 10:30 a.m.

The second, at Port St. Lucie, will begin at 11 a.m. The Andy (Andre) Matton Post 10310 of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and Ladies Auxiliary will sponsor the flag ceremony. They will be assisted by the World War I Veterans Barracks No. 2936.

Leo Malone, commander of the WWI group, will be the principal speaker. The public is invited.

The banks will be closed, as will the county courthouse and some state offices. The post office, however, will remain open. The legal holiday was observed by federal offices on Oct. 24.

This year will be the last one of general confusion about the date. In 1978, the official holiday will revert to the time-honored timetable, and everyone will mark it on the same day.

INOR REUBIN ASKEW addressed a seminar of ationists, developers and state and federal permitting officials at Sandpiper Bay Resort Tuesday and told We know now that our natural environment is not an obstacle to life. It is a promise of life." The governor called for more dialogue between conservationists, developers, and the officials of agencies that regulate developments. (For more details, see story below.)

Drivers find it hard to get around

BY BOB FRYER

PORT ST. LUCIE–City council members heard a plea from a school bus driver for legible street signs in the city, and though they listened to her with a sympathetic ear, they learned the cost of installing new street signs may be very high.

Mrs. Blanche Deremer said school bus drivers intentionally have their routes set up along side roads and back streets, to make for safe pickup of school children.

"Personally, I know the city well and, though I would never do it, could probably drive the route blindfolded. But when the regular drivers are sick and substitute drivers run the routes, they have a real problem finding the streets," she said, pointing out that it took one substitute driver an extra two hours to drive the route because the driver kept getting lost looking for street signs.

In addition to the request for legible street signs from Mrs. Deremer, the council also received a request from the school system Transportation Director, James Hester.

Councilman Schuyler Sharpe asked Mrs. Deremer to list the streets along her route that need new signs. But city Public Safety Director Douglas Stout quipped, "It would be easier to list the ones that don't need new signs."

Stout said he made a study once of what it would cost to replace the white concrete post signs with green, reflective signs on metal posts.

"To replace the white ones with green ones, just for the intersections east of the Turnpike, would cost $97,000 just for materials, not including about $3 a sign for installation costs."

Stout said General Development Corporation is now installing the green signs along all new streets, but said in the case of the hundreds of old roads, the white signs were often illegible.

Mayor Bill McChesney said he felt GDC had an obligation to make the old signs legible and directed City Manager Elmer Cox to meet with GDC officials soon to see what can be done about the problem.

GDC official Bob Seeley said in the case of streets the city has accepted, the city is responsible for the signs.

During the discussion of the signs, Stout noted that last year a total of more than 300 signs had to be replaced or repaired in the city because persons damaged them.

City Council meets next Tuesday night

PORT ST. LUCIE–The city council will hold a meeting at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 15, and will consider adoption of an official zoning map at that meeting.

Also to be considered is a porposed ordinance to allocate $5,420 to former Mayor Lawrence D. Kimmel as his share of money from the city's old pension plan.

The meeting will take the place of the regularly scheduled meeting for 9 a.m. Tuesday.

skew calls for balance in nvironment and development

BY BOB FRYER

RT ST. LUCIE–Florida Governor o takes spoke to conservationists, opers and state and federal ting agency representatives at ar at the Sandpiper Bay Resort in t. Lucie Tuesday afternoon and ed the importance of increased nization among the groups.

peech is sponsored by the U.S. Corps of Engineers district from nville, but conservationists and opers were also credited with roles in bringing about the series things.

w told the group that there "can reparation of environmental and nomic considerations in planning for ure" and praised a new trend "for dingness of environmentalists, opers and permitting agencies to nunicate."

ill do all I can in my remaining to insure the growth of this state, it must be balanced with nomical considerations. And the task of balancing the erations becomes keen, we must to reconcile the doubt in favor of ronment, because, if it is ved, we can't get it back," Askew governor told the audience. "We ost four growth. The state is going w. But we must make sure it is growth that will not destroy our nment."

outlining the responsibility of the government, Askew noted that rnment in how we live with one r, and it is an adjustment of one 's rights with another person's ests.

governor traced the history of nmental legislation, and that at one time "we were literally ying our environment and tearing something hard to replace. mes it takes extreme action to the pendulum back to the middle. see people here who have been to task harshly for their stand in of the environment. But in ing the pendulum back to the we have found a ground from we can find solutions to our ems.

ere was a time when the people of our peninsula gave little thought to protecting their natural environment. In fact, for many years the principal obstacle to the settlement of our state was thought to be the environment. The marshes of Florida made travel difficult. The bugs and the swamps hindered civilization. The prairies and flood plains frustrated the flow of commerce. The marshes were drained. The bogs and swamps were dredged and filled, and the prairies and the flood plains yielded to suburbs and superhighways...and with that transformation came an important realization–a realization that what had once seemed only obstacles to settling Florida might really be the best assurances of sustaining what Florida had become.

"We know now that our natural environment is not an obstacle to life. It is a promise of life. For there can be no life in a world made only of steel and concrete."

Askew was highly critical of a recent district court of appeals decision which holds that certain portions of the Environmental Land and Water Management Act of 1972 are unconstitutional. He said the case is now going to the state Supreme Court and said he has filed a brief in the case as a friend of the court, urging that the act be upheld. He said the act is "a cornerstone of environmental preservation in Florida. It is the legal authority for our efforts to preserve the Green Swamp and the Florida Keys." He also noted that the Big Cypress Swamp preservation will not be affected by that law.

The governor also pointed out that through reorganization of permitting agencies in the state, and through cooperation with federal permitting agencies, many conflictions in regulations over developers have been solved "the first time it taken th get a permit for development reviewed is much shorter than it used to be.

In addition to the speech by Askew, others who addressed the seminar group include former Assistant Secretary of the Interior Nathaniel Reed of Jupiter Island and Lee Fisher, president of General Development Corporation and president of the state Chamber of Commerce.

Reed congratulated the Corps on its new attitude toward the environment, saying the Corps is "no longer enemy number one" but it is now "deeply involved in the state's evolving environmental future."

Fisher said in his speech, "We all have a stake in a healthy economy, a clean and reasonable environment, and fair and efficient environmental regulation," and he spoke of the need to attract more clean industry to the state to diversify our economy.

Askew to serve term, then consider his future

PORT ST. LUCIE–Although Governor Reubin Askew was in Port St. Lucie Tuesday to address a seminar on state environmental concerns, the governor took time out from his speech to briefly comment on what his future in politics may be – or at least to say he is not now sure what his future will be.

Askew was asked for his reaction to recent comments by President Jimmy Carter that the president feels Askew would be highly qualified for most any national level post. In fact, Askew recently disclosed that at one time Carter had asked him if he wanted a Cabinet post.

Other rumors circulating about what Askew might do after he leaves office in January, 1979, have been that he may become Ambassador to Sweden, that he may become President of Yale University, or that he may run for a senate post.

But when asked what his future plans are, Askew replied, "I have no specific plans now, other than to remain governor until January, 1979. The President was very kind in his statements, but any consideration I have ab-out future positions will have to be made after I complete my term."

Council slates hearings on new city zoning map

PORT ST. LUCIE–City council members agreed Monday night that they ought to officially adopt a city zoning map, and made plans for two public hearings on the map for later this month.

The map in question is one that General Development Corporation presented to the city approximately seven years ago. With the exception of a few unclassified parcels of land, the map contains designations for various uses of land within the city.

City Manager Elmer Cox said around 1970 the city council passed a resolution to accept the map, and he said, for practical purposes, the map has been used "as a defacto map" for zoning purposes. However, several weeks ago council members expressed concern that the city ought to adopt the map officially, but ordinance instead of resolution.

State law requires that all cities must have an official zoning map. During recent discussions over a shopping center proposed by developer Peter Smith for the present City Hall complex site, Smith indicated he would get his lawyers to seek an official city zoning map. Apparently, Smith's remarks have prompted city officials to make sure the city does have an official zoning map.

City Planner Mike Szyunyog said he has been reviewing the GDC map and said he studied all zoning actions since 1970 to make sure the map has been updated to indicate zoning changes. He noted that there are three unclassified tracts on the map. One of those areas is the land which contains Sportsman's Park, the library, the Community Center and several churches.

"The intent for use of that land is clear, but it ought to be zoned to insure its designation for civic uses," Szyunyog said.

Another tract, along the St. Lucie River west of Prutti Road, was never zoned when annexed, but the city planner said its intent was always residential. He recommended it be zoned as such, and said the land would probably be suitable for one residential estate.

A third unclassified tract is a 15 to 20 acre parcel northeast of the intersection of Wallen Road and U.S. 1. It was bought before land use classifications were made, and Szunyog said he would track down the owner of the land to see what use the owner hopes to put it to.

Mayor Bill McChesney, Vice Mayor Mike Reeb and councilman Schuyler Sharpe all agreed that the official adoption of the map is needed.

The first public hearing on the proposed adoption of the map is slated for 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 15, and the second and final public hearing will be at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 29.

ND OPENING of the new St. Lucie County Administration Building and Civic orum is set for this weekend, with dedication ceremonies scheduled for 2 Friday, Nov. 11. Scores of exhibits and cultural performances are on tap for the three day celebration of the opening of the $3.5 million complex. The auditorium is the large building on the left and a portion of the Administration Building is shown on the right. (For more details see story inside.)

Samaritans mark one year

BY SALLY LATHAM

JENSEN BEACH–The Jensen Area Samaritans, a volunteer group born 20 years ago to meet a desperate shortage of emergency service in this part of the county, this week are celebrating the first anniversary of their year-old headquarters on Samaritan Street.

They are also proudly announcing the fact that their 76 members, dedicated men and women who give their valuable time on an around-the-clock basis, have in the year appreciably increased their services over past years, with three fully-equipped ambulances.

"In 1975," Volunteer Nellie Cook told The Mirror, "they made 440 runs in the whole year. This year, from January through October, we've already answered 678 calls."

The Samaritans, made up of people of all walks of life and all callings, are an independent and unique organization worthy of national attention. They get no public financing, they are not dependent on the county to operate, yet they are counted on by the Red Cross, Civil Defense, the police and a trusting public to be ready to serve the community on a moment's notice.

The current president, Walter Redit, cited as an example the unit's participation with Civil Defense in last week's Operation Cry Wolf, which simulated a nuclear accident at the plant on Hutchinson Island. They were first on the scene, when the alert came.

The members also contribute greatly to the education of the young, and the provision of equipment for the unwell and infirm.

Redit took The Mirror on a tour of the gleaming headquarters and ambulance station, where drivers and Emergency Medical Technicians gather to await calls on their particular assigned shifts.

When not at the station, Mrs. Cook interjected, they are "plugged in" on emergency calls wherever they are, with their squawk-boxes. And the driver and ambulance are together, ready to respond to every call.

The station, which houses the three professionally-equipped ambulances, is also a storeroom for the Samaritans' loan closet. In the large fenced-in area are hospital beds, walkers, wheel chairs, crutches, and every other sort of sick-room equipment, on tap for anyone in need of them. It is a chamber of mercy for accident victims and patients just out of the hospital.

None of this, of course, came for free. The manpower and equipment have been paid for by thousands on thousands of hours of hard work, not only on the part of the volunteers but of the whole community.

The initial efforts, Mrs. Cook said, were made in 1957 by Dr. R.Q. Penick, Ransom Tilton, Sr., Gene Hoke and later, Herbert Gardner.

In that year, the scrapbooks of the Samaritans tell you, there was only one ambulance in Martin County. The Jensen leaders located a useable van for $3,000. School children, adult groups and individuals pitched in to raise the money.

The first people wishing to serve the unit as EMTs got their training at Martin County Hospital. Others, later, were qualified through courses at Florida Institute of Technology and at Indian River Community College.

Many people in the area deserve much credit for the development and continued growth of the Samaritans – the organizer, Laura Atmar – the first secretary, Frances Hubbell – the first EMTs, Ann and Bill Hardesty, Tony Rebeiser, Jack Rowe, Anne Gardener, Lloyd Proctor, to name a few. Of course, others deserve much credit for contributions and for continued interest.

One whom driver Bob Nydam will tell you about is Miss Martha Moore.

"I went to talk to her about giving us a stretcher," he told The Mirror. "She called me back and said she wanted to discuss it further. I was afraid she'd change her mind about the stretcher. Instead, I found out, she wanted to give us a whole ambulance, equipped."

That single gift was a $14,000 blessing to every potential heart patient and accident victim in the Jensen-Rio area.

Now going into their second year in the new headquarters, the Samaritans are moving ahead full steam with plans for new efforts and new educational programs. And in doing so, they are hoping for new community support, with manpower and money to expand their services to keep up with the area's ever-increasing needs.

Kimmel may get $1,664 more from pension

BY BOB FRYER

PORT ST. LUCIE—It appears that former Mayor Lawrence D. Kimmel may receive $1,664 more in city pension and cash as a result of action by the city council Monday evening.

About three months ago, council members voted to settle the account of Kimmel by approving a $3,756 check to him. The council members expressed the opinion then that they felt this would be a final settlement of the dispute over how much money the former mayor should get from the city's old pension plan.

City Manager Elmer Cox explained after the meeting Monday night that the city's original pension plan was set up for council members and the part-time City Attorney, Rupert Smith. However, several years ago, a citizen's group challenged the plan in Circuit Court and the judge ruled that provisions of the plan were illegal.

As a result of the suit, council members voted to exclude themselves from further participation in the plan and the judge issued a final ruling as to how the funds in the plan were to be dispersed. In that ruling, the judge said Kimmel was entitled to 40 per cent of the money deposited in his behalf.

The ruling was made in June of 1975, and since then Kimmel left office. Other members of the council who had funds deposited in the plan received varying amounts, according to their length of service with the city. Part-time City Attorney Rupert Smith received $21,000 and council members Dr. Harold Notley and Franklin Beardsley each got $22,000.

But the payment to Kimmel was not made until three months ago. City Manager Cox said the delay was a result of waiting for an audit that had to be performed to determine the total amount of cash deposited by the city on Kimmel's behalf. That total, he said three months ago, was $9,380.

On Aug. 25, 1977, the council members to pay Kimmel $3,756, 40 per cent of the $9,380 figure. At that meeting Kimmel asked the council members to delay approval of the $3,756 until he had a chance to discuss the pension plan with them individually. But the council members indicated they would not meet with Kimmel privately, and voted approval of the payment to Kimmel.

But on Monday night, a resolution was presented to the council to take the place of the one passed in August. The new resolution calls for payment of $5,420 to Kimmel.

When it came up for discussion, councilman Merle Anderson moved to approve it, but it almost died for lack of a second. Then councilwoman Lolita Kernohan seconded the motion, saying she was doing so because she wanted to discuss the matter at a council meeting slated for 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 15.

There was very little discussion after Mrs. Kernohan seconded the motion. When it came to a vote, Mayor Bill McChesney and Anderson voted to approve the resolution, while Vice Mayor Mike Raeb, Schuyler Sharpe and Kernohan voted against it. As a result of the defeat of the motion, the resolution will be scheduled for discussion at the meeting next Tuesday night.

After the meeting Cox explained that the amount proposed to be paid to Kimmel now is more than was voted on three months ago because of two reasons. He said the funds deposited on behalf of Kimmel earned six per cent interest from the time he was removed from the plan to now, and that this money had not been included in the first calculation. He also said Kimmel is entitled to 40 per cent of the cash surrender value of the plan's annuity policy. That figure was also included in the calculations made three months ago.

Efforts were made to confirm a report that Kimmel is still not satisfied with the amount of money proposed to be paid him in the new resolution. However, in two calls to the L.D. Kimmel residence at 2855 Wiltshire Terrace, persons answering the phone said Lawrence Kimmel did not live there. This contradicts with information from another source that Kimmel does live at that address.

EXAMINING A MAP proposed as the official zoning map for the City of Port St Lucie are councilwoman Lolita Kernohan and councilman Schuyler Sharpe. The council members decided to hold two public hearings later this month on the proposed adoption of the map as the official zoning map of the city ost—agonizing – hardly a month

ping a businessman or diplomat –

e in the United States, we have some real progress against ne skyjacking. Metal detectors x-ray scanners used to screen all passengers have virtually ated the once so frequent crime skyjackings by the scare in the s to a lengthy period of calm, been the result of the U.S. security fortunately, however, most other s have done nothing similar. In many international airports, it's to bring a gun aboard a plane than mean extra package of cigarettes contraband.

ough time the U.S. took the lead in other nations to tighten up their y at airports large and small.

ough time the U.S. called together isters of the world to combat all ms, whether they be Japanese
Army fanatics, members of the Liberation Organization or from Germany's Baader-Meinhof

ve got to make it difficult, if not ible for known terrorists to board, rliner with anything more
erous than a cup of coffee.
ve got to convince the third world
ns it is in their best interest to stop ing sanctuary to the killers who on innocent men, women and children.

As a first step, I have co-sponsored legislation to create a Select House Committee on International Terrorism to conduct a full and complete investigation of the effectiveness of measures now being taken by the U.S and other nations to combat terrorists.

In addition, it is hoped the committee could develop programs for stepping up not only our efforts but those of the developing nations.

If the problem goes unattended much longer, we run the risk of cutting international commerce. Where diplomats, businessmen and tourists cannot travel freely from one country to another, aboard the airlines of any land, then commerce between nations is threatened with extinction.

The bravery and skill of the Israeli commandos at Entebbe and the bravery and skill of the West German border guards at Somalia's Mogadishu airport solved two major skyjackings.

But this is not the real solution. The true solution lies in preventing armed men and women from getting aboard airplanes in the first place.

Remember, from 1967 to 1972, there were 146 attempts to take over American aircraft - 82 of them successful.

Since January, 1973, when electronic screening was inaugurated, there have been only two successful attempts – one which used a fake bomb and one which involved the actual armed boarding of a plane.

So the task isn't impossible. Difficult, but not impossible.

Let us hope we can provide some positive leadership in this area soon – so others can be spared the ordeal of the passengers aboard the Lufthansa flight taken last month

America's Fighting Words

by

It began with the "Spirit of Seventy-Six"
With the "Shot heard round the world";
From Concord Bridge to the Brandywine
Where the flag we love was unfurled

"Don't shoot til you see the whites of their eyes."
Was the slogan at Bunker Hill,
Then John Paul Jones' "I haven't begun to fight" gave the World a thrill

In 1813 "Don't give up the ship"
Gasped Lawrence before he died;
And when Jackson triumphed at New Orleans
A Nation was certified .

The Alamo gave us the first
"remember,"
As the covered wagon trains
Rolled westward to California,
In their trek across the plains.

Then the Rebel Yell and the Battle
Hymn of the Republic
Swept far and away.
But out of it all came a blend of faith
A blend of the Blue and Gray

"Damn the torpedoes" was Farragut's

To the records of history,
As a Navy of fighting men once more

"Remember the Maine" closed the

On passed the years till in Seventeen,
"Lafayette we are here" inspired
"The Yanks are Coming" and "over

Once again we were tried under fire.

We thought we were through, but "Everything short of war" only lent the Wolf failed to cry for Jensen

BY SALLY LATHAM

JENSEN BEACH—"Operation Cry Wolf" which evacuated some 750 persons from the two Florida Power and Light nuclear plants on Hutchinson Island Thursday, may have been the big success they claimed it was, from the St. Lucie County Civil Defense point of view.

But—

The CD officials and workers of Martin County wound up with a rather unselfless view of the whole thing.

The stage was properly set at this end of the line, Martin CD Director Brian Tredray noted this week. As he had predicted earlier, the Jensen Beach Samaritan team with its emergency vehicle and the fire department got the word of the nuclear "emergency" at 4:15 p.m. as scheduled.

The sirens wailed, and the Samaritans' emergency vehicle rushed to the causeway, tightly followed by two sheriff's cars, and the fire chief.

According to the advance plan, the emergency equipment was to be on hand for a new direction from the CD officials at the nuclear plant at 4:46 p.m.

Jensen's two fire trucks arrived shortly afterward on the scene, and went into action setting up to pump water from the river to hose down the "radioactive" cars as they came from the island across the causeway.

The men on duty at their stands stations waited.

And waited.

And waited.

The expected directive failed to come through. The entire complement of Jensen Beach emergency equipment was kept standing at bay for nearly an hour, with no advice or orders from headquarters.

Finally, a full 30 minutes later, a belated message filtered through, telling the men that Jensen Causeway had been bypassed, and the "hot" cars were being sent to the Stuart bridges.

"Unfortunately," Tredray told The Mirror, "the Nuclear Power team did not give us the correct situation report. It is important, in these tests, that they let us know about the radiation. The holdup snowballed down the line. It is so important that they give us the right information. If they don't, our hands are tied."

The Mirror attempted to reach St. Lucie County Civil Defense Director Phil Rodi for an explanation on Monday, but was informed he was out of the area and couldn't be reached for comment.

SHERIFF'S VIGILANTE' waiting for Cry Wolf signals at east end of Jensen Causeway has unexpected drop-in company — two officers from South Carolina who came here to extradite a wanted prisoner. The guests were welcome, because the wait was a long one.

'A VIABLE EXTENSION of your Kingdom' is the blessing prayerfully asked of St. Martin de Porres' parishioners during the Sunday groundbreaking services. Playing key roles in the rite were, from left, Fr. Gerald Morris, Fr. Kevin MacGabhann, David Deci (partially hidden by Fr. MacGabhann) and Ralph Hartman, all leaders in the young church.

ivic Auditorium dedication will feature variety of entertainment

BY BOB FRYER

PIERCE–Whatever you like, antique car shows, art exhibits, barbeque ribs or a professional skateboard demonstration, you'll find it the new St. Lucie County ministration Building and Civic itorium this coming weekend. hat's because the $3.5 complex in ly Annexes three separate construction delays, and county fathers have planned a grand celebration to commemorate the event.

Appropriately, many long time residents of the county, who played a part in making it what it today, will be honored during dedication ceremonies which begin at 3 p.m. Friday, Nov. 11.

The county recreation department has been working for months on the celebration, and there are literally hundreds of attractions on tap this weekend. The complex is located at the corner of Virginia Ave. and 25th Street in Fort Pierce.

On Friday, Saturday and Sunday, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., there will be exhibits, including an art show, a photo show, boat, camper and motorcycle displays, Seminole Indian craft shows, and special exhibits by area clubs and churches. On Saturday and Sunday, an antique car and hotrod show will also be featured.

As for entertainment, here is the schedule of what's planned:

On Friday, Nov. 11, there will be a program by the recreation department at 10 a.m.; the Fort Pierce Central High School Band will play at 10:30 a.m.; the IRCC Ice and Dance Company will perform at 11:30 a.m.; Westwood High and Dan McCarty Middle School chorus will perform at 12:30 p.m.; and the IRCC Band will play at 1:30 p.m.

Then, at 3 p.m. there will be dedication ceremonies, the Sound Investment band will play at 3:45 p.m.; entertainer Betty Haler will do a show at 3:45 p.m., followed at 4:15 p.m. by New York City actress Nancy Rich. At the same time, The Smoothies will play. A 6-14 entertainment show and an Indian Pow Wow Dance are both planned for 5:45 p.m.

Food on Friday will include refreshments all day and a fish fry by the Elks Club will begin at 11:30 a.m. and end at 6 p.m.

On Saturday, the Fort Pierce Central band will play at 10 a.m.; Mary Durham's "Mariyah" band will play at 11 a.m.; and "Willie Reas and the Nest of Kin" will perform at noon.

Magician Michael Halstrom will give a show at 1 p.m.; "Dan Scott and the Groovers" will perform at 1:30 p.m.; Sing Out Fort Pierce will sing at 2:30 p.m.; Kay and Wes Frank, a comic song team, will perform at 3:30 p.m.; Ray Lindsley's Group will play at 4 p.m.; and the Aberdeen Rockfish Railroad band will play at 5 p.m. Also at 5 p.m. will be a skateboard demonstration by a professional skateboard team.

A chicken and ribs barbeque will be served from 11:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday.

An inter-faith, non-denominational sunrise choral service is planned for 7 a.m. Sunday, followed by performances by individual church choirs and by soloists until 11 a.m. Then the Fort St. Lucie Orchestra will perform.

Singer-entertainer Bee Carson will take the stage at noon, followed by Joe Turner and his $13,000 theatre organ at 12:30 p.m.

The Jenkins Boys will sing gospel music at 1:30 p.m.; the Gould Dance Studio will perform at 3 p.m.; and singer Mike Krain will sing at 3 p.m.

Nashville recording star and Stuart resident Bobby Lord will play with his group, "The Vanishing Breed" at 3 p.m.

Old Timers Sports Recognition will be held at the softball field at 3:15 p.m. and the Treasure Coast Sweet Adelines and Barbershop Quartet will perform at 4:15 p.m.

The Sandy Shoes Steppers will demonstrate square dancing at 5 p.m. and the professional skateboard team will give a demonstration at 5:45 p.m. Also at 5:45, will be a performance by Fela's Moss and the Easy People band.

A pancake breakfast, sponsored by area Boy Scouts, will begin at 8 a.m. and last until 1:30 p.m. Hot dogs and hamburgers will be served all day. Also, on each day of the celebration, there will be a bake sale.

In case you're wondering about how the Administration Building and Civic Auditorium were financed, county commissioners appropriated the county's share of revenue sharing funds to the building for the last few years. Those funds have paid for practically the entire cost of the complex.

City hears drainage ditch complaints

BY BOB FRYER

PORT ST. LUCIE–After hearing a report from City Manager Elmer Cox that a drainage ditch behind homes along Lakehurst Drive in north Port St. Lucie is "an unholy mess", city council members instructed Cox to meet with General Development Corporation officials to see if the problem can be corrected.

One of the persons speaking out on the problem was Lakehurst Drive resident George Ersham, who said the problem has existed a long time.

"I had hoped to see something done on this long before now," Mayor Bill McChesney said when the council members authorized Cox to meet with GDC officials.

In other council action, a grant of $5,846 from the state to the city to help the city draft a comprehensive development plan was accepted, with comments that the grant should have been larger.

City Manager Cox reported that final figures are not available on how to disburse funds from the city's old pension plan. Action on the dispersal of those funds is expected to be considered at the next meeting, at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 15.

Cox also reported that he will soon send out letters to federal officials to seek a full-fledged Post Office in the city.

Additionally, Cox said a new contour map will be made by GDC soon to indicate areas of the city that are within the flood plain. He said the map will be made available to financial institutions so they can be sure what homesites will require federal flood insurance before mortgages are approved.

Cox reported on the recent convention of the Florida League of Cities, saying he was shocked at laws pertaining to the responsibilities of cities for unemployment compensation payments. He said the city is now fighting two unemployment claims made by former city employees. One of the employees took another job after leaving the city, but the city, said not the second employer, is required to contribute to that person's unemployment claim. Cox said he will continue to fight both claims.

Mayor Bill McChesney said the convention was well worthwhile and said one of the hot topics of debate was the issue between cities and counties over dual taxation for the same services. He said a new law requiring uniform accounting systems to be used by cities and counties will help in untangling city and county financial responsibilities. The city is currently at odds with the county over how much service the city should receive for the county taxes the city residents pay.

Finally, city council members expressed favor of a proposed ordinance to outlaw plastic rubber wiring for new homes.

New faces at Ocean Breeze...

Every year about this time, the old timers remark that there are more new faces than ever, and it may be so. According to the records, 1976-77 was the year of the big expansion all the way back to the tracks, and many years are taken their toll in attrition, with new faces ever taking the place of those who have departed.

There's always a new and younger group coming in, pepping up the activities, and this should be another great season here at OBP. Welcome to our gay town on wheels.

The largest group so far this season came breezing in on that northwest wind, more than 75, to make the total more than 410. Here's the list:

George and Gertrude Cahill, Stella Ounger, Joe and Jane Stahler, George and Betty Ryder, Ken and Emily Herron, Winnie Krebs, E.D. and Sylvia Raad, Joe and Jessie Robertson, Maude Van Marter, Charlie and Helen Mansfield, Donald and Ivy Cress, Jesse and Anna White, Emmet and Aleta Maher, Virginia Bolton, Alma Shotwell, Dorothy Pitman.

Also, Carrie Teal, Paul and Ethel Snow, John and Evelyn Faust, Charles Nickles, Clarence and Eva Pappa, James and Pat Steele, Ruth Metzel, Bernard and Alma O'Neil, Flora Derr, Bob Hines, Shirley Gray, Walter Gebert, Ann Bartle, Ruth Miller, Malcomb and Irene Wildey, Fred Hein, Jess and Vivian Ralston, Fred and Ann Erdman, Raymond and Betty Armstrong, Lora Mayer, Hugh and Kathleen Garside, Arnold and Margaret Sherman, Ann Buck, Karl and Helen Hohs, Myron and Mabel Schumann, Harley and Betty Gale Bentz, Fred Kal and George Ryder, Jim Nixon and Irene Williams. There's room for more as the program is being expanded from 60 to 100 per day. Those with a camp – or free hours some meantime, get in touch with Jim Nixon, 334-5309 or George Linn 334-4016.

SPECIAL EVENTS: Dec.-Kids Christmas Party; Jan.-Tag and Bake Sale; Feb.-80th Wedding Anniversary Party and Costume Ball; March-Hobby and Art Show.

Those usual reliable sources now say the first meeting of the season of the CAMERA CLUE will be 7 p.m. this Thursday, Nov. 10, with Jeannie Jewsbury's daughter showing European slides and Fred Kalb handling the equipment setup.

The Indian River and Central League teams are being formed, same list on the SHUFFLEBOARD bulletin board. The meeting Monday will have set up the OBP tournament schedules.

Betty MacNab submitted this interesting item: newspaper clipping of around 1954, "OBP shuffleboard team is Champion of the World, as it seems the Indian River League is the only organized league in the country." Who was on that World Champion Team?

RAMBLING AROUND

Carl and Bessie Thellig, 18 years at 38 NE 7th St. and 35 years in ORF, are back from six months in Indianapolis where they have been growing flowers for outdoor decorations for the past 42 years.

Joe and Vivian Ralston, 7 Bay Dr., spent seven months on Blue Ridge Lake, in Blue Ridge, Ga., fishing, hunting, and doing some truck hunting. Their family is scattered between Boulder, Colo., and Birmingham, Ala., with five grandchildren and a great grandchild.

Gene and Jo Bloemhardt, 1C West End, are back from three months in Marietta, Ohio, where living in her old home was a delightful change, but still, it's great to be back here to light housework and balmy weather.

However, on their return here, they were greeted with the results of a burglary.

Bill and Addie Danner, 2 NE Ninth, who have been in the park from well "all out back was brush and snakes," celebrated their 46th wedding anniversary Sunday by going out to dine with Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hahn and Mr. and Mrs. Russell Cook.

Dorothy Gesbert, 3 Ocean Breeze Drive, and Emma Saum of Fifth Street are back from a 3-week tour of Portugal, Spain and Morocco. They flew New York to Lisbon with a group of 42.

Fred and Louise Kalb, 34 SW Fifth, are just back from six months in Callicoon, N.Y., where they had a "darned good garden of tomatoes and beans", enough so Louise canned 50 quarts or more. Fred made jelly from currants, blackberries and raspberries.

Dick and Julia Aumiller, 1 S. Indian River Dr., came back the other day with a new member of the family, Teddy, a 7-month old Huskie-Spitz, a friendly pup and well behaved, too, who will make their winter more interesting. They, like all the OBP returnees, are very glad to be back with their friends.

Nes and Edith Ebright, 3 Lil Bit Lane, are back from spending seven months in Mifflintown, Pa., with some of their family, that's now scattered from here to Alaska.

Betty MacNab, 1 NE 5th, is back after five months all around the country.

Betty then came back east to visit son Tom in Claymont, Delaware, after which it was back to Westchester for a homecoming of all the family to help Betty celebrate her birthday.

City disputes population estimate

PORT ST. LUCIE--While everyone seems to agree that the population of Port St. Lucie has been on the increase in the last two years, a new estimate of just how much the city has grown was challenged by city council members Tuesday and city officials vowed to fight with state officials over establishing a new population figure.

City Manager Elmer Cox reported that a recent study by University of Florida officials shows the population as of July 1, 1977 was 8,136. An earlier study by the University showed a population in July 1975 of 4,292.

Cox said the city should challenge the new population estimate because he feels it is far too low. Since state and federal revenue sharing funds are allocated to cities on the basis of population, the city has an interest in making sure the population figures are accurate.

Cox said the new population figure is almost exactly 100 low because since October 1, 1975 there have been 1,976 permits issued for new homes in the city.

"Yes, some of the homes were built for speculation, but most were built for immediate occupancy. Even if we only figure that 200 of the homes built in that time frame have become occupied and if we figure conservatively that there is a ratio of 2.5 persons per household, those calculations would give us a much higher increase in the city population than the report from the University states."

Cox was instructed to talk with persons who made the study to see if the population estimate can be revised upward.

Vikings prep for championship

PORT ST. LUCIE--The Port St. Lucie Vikings, winners of a Lower Division berth with the Jensen Beach Barracudas, hope to become the 1977 champions tonight (Wednesday) when they meet the Indiantown Thunderbirds in a battle game at Indiantown.

Head Coach Bob Morgan's forces defeated Jensen Beach 1-0 in the season opener. The game originally ended in a 0-0 tie, but with the teams ended the season within yards of each other, the tie was ordered broken by league officials.

Ironically, the Vikings won the game on a personal, something that has plagued the Barracudas in all three of their games. After the Barracudas moved the ball some yards in their four plays from scrimmage, the Vikes got five back, then drew the penalty to outgain Jensen Beach and win the game.

Indiantown defeated both teams during the regular season, but they struggled for much of the game against the Vikings. An interception return by Jeff Foreman broke open the game just when it appeared that the Vikings would tie the game 13-13. Instead, the T-Birds took a commanding edge and never looked back.

Coach Morgan feels that his boys can play with the undefeated and untied Lower season champions. "We're putting our act together," he said after Vikings best showing of the year, a season ending victory over the Hobe Sound Trojans.

Now the Vikings (5-1) meet the Thunderbirds (6-0), the Stuart Jaguars (5-1) will take on the Indiantown Warriors (6-0) in the Upper Division championship game. All the action begins at 6:30 p.m. with the Lower game.

At stake is a spot in the fourth annual Sailfish Bowl, to be played on the following weekend at Long Field in Stuart. NEW LAW UNFAIR? That's what developer Dr. Robert Pare, left, contends about the newly-adopted comprehensive ordinance. City Engineer Dick Hellstrom, center, names four points on which Pare's proposed development is out of compliance. Commissioner John Williams, right, listens to arguments.

Senior citizen help is sought

A new dimension in community involvement has been added to the Martin County School system, with the arrival of Virginia (Jeannie) Lea Shackleton as District Coordinator of Volunteer Services.

Miss Shackleton, a native of Pittsburgh, Pa., with a background of administration in social services, plans to extend the role of volunteers far beyond the present Parent Teacher participation in the classroom.

"Basically," she said at a press conference last week, "we need one-to-one involvement in the classroom, with people helping the teacher instruct younger students in the basic skills. But we need far more than that. I want to bring the talent and acquired experience of the retired senior citizens into the picture."

People move here from other places, from positions and careers offering an enormous amount of talent, knowledge and skills, she noted. They are used to being busy people, and have spare time they don't know what to do with. She hopes to benefit both the schools and the retirees by getting them committed to the educational program.

"We want retired teachers, yes," she said, "but we want to utilize the gamut of other skills."

Extra hands are needed in the classroom for both instructional and monitorial, performing such tasks as taking the roll and giving individual attention to children needing it. Extra help is also always needed in the school libraries.

"But we want to tap all the community resources," she said. "Many people settling here have traveled abroad extensively, and have slides or material they could share. We want to establish a speakers' bureau, with source material on all sorts of subjects which would be valuable to the learning process."

"The proposed program will have a dual benefit to the community," Miss Shackleton observed.

"People move here, retired, and have to pay taxes," she told The Mirror. "If they get involved and see what is needed, what their taxes pay for, they'll be more willing to support it."

Volunteers wanting to offer their services may call her at 287-4113.

Miss Shackleton received her bachelor of science degree in Education from Edinboro State College in Pennsylvania. Her experience has included summers at the Lend-a-Hand Center in the Appalachian Mountains of Walker, Ky., during which she worked at such tasks as serving on the juvenile advisory board, helping to obtain medical services and eye glasses for the needy, organizing day camps, and helping run a Sunday School mission-based program.

During her work among the mountain people, she learned to play banjo, the dulcimer, ancient baroque recorders, and other fast-vanishing folk crafts. She is also an equestrienne, and has shown horses in the circuit shows in South Florida. She is co-leader of a local 4-H Club.

How much weight does 'grandfather' carry?

BY SALLY LATHAM

SEWALL'S POINT–Does Grandfather carry more weight than progress, when it comes to long range planning in Sewall's Point?

That is the question that Dr. Robert H. Pare is fighting with city hall, at Sewall's Point. He and his developers, some months ago, presented the town fathers with a plan for developing a tract on the river, which complied with all the requirements of the then-official comprehensive ordinance 64.

Unfortunately, the commissioners, last Wednesday, passed on second reading and made official another ordinance superseding the old one, which made Dr. Pare's development out of compliance on three counts.

The doctor contends his prior petition "grandfathers" the new law, because he was acting in good faith in making his plot plans in accordance with the law in effect at the time.

The main points of divergence, which fit the bill for the old law but do not under the newly-passed ordinance, are the width of the pavement of the privately developed streets, the poundage of the subgrading, the installation of sewage collection areas, and drainage.

The new ordinance would require 50-foot rather than 20-foot streets; wider rights of way and easements; installation of sewer facilities with the streets, and drainage outfalls.

Dr. Pare claims his original plans, made to comply with the ordinance in effect at the time he initiated the project, were reasonable and should be accepted under the terms in which he undertook the development.

The town fathers, however, accepted the preliminary plans "with due consideration" of the recommendations of city engineer Richard Hellstrom that the compliances to the new ordinance be given leverage in the final acceptance.

The commission was advised by its attorney, Terrence McCarthy, that if the issue went to court, the judiciary would take into consideration the "vested rights," and "what is fair," for the petitioner.

"The plans were submitted in a period when the ordinance was not in effect," he advised the commissioners. "The court will consider what was law at the time when you actually come in and bring suit."

The issue of long docks, which was of such prime consideration at the last workshop meeting, simmered down to acceptance of the building of three long piers out into the river. However, the issue became the crux of another ordinance yet to be written. McCarthy was directed by the commission to write a set of standards into law, so that maximum limits would be established.

"Otherwise," Commissioner Crawford said, "we'll be having to consider edch case, and will be accused of being biased."

LENGTHY ORDINANCE covering nearly every contingency in control of future building in Sewall's Point's town limits is shared in second reading by all members of the commission. Above, Mayor Ed Gluckler, right, passes the book to Commissioner Robert Russell.

Fifth graders get the full treatment

BY SALLY LATHAM

JENSEN BEACH–As the Civil Defense officials who planned the Thursday nuclear plant disaster exercise will be the first to tell you, half the battle in an emergency is won by being prepared. You have to know the literal function and application of first aid, be it major or minor.

This being so, some 20 kids in the fifth grade class of Mrs. Cathy King at Jensen Beach Elementary School are farther ahead of the game than most.

During the past few weeks, the children have been learning by book and practice the fine arts of what to do until the doctor comes. They've been studying the skills of splints and bandages, how to handle everything from splinters to snake bite, using each other as "victims" to polish up their abilities.

The high point of their studies came Wednesday, when the Samaritans entered the act with their professionally-equipped ambulance, an emergency vehicle worthy of any big-city public safety department.

Driving up in the ambulance were Bob and Vivian Heaslip, both Emergency Medical Technicians (EMTs) trained in the field of on-the-spot medical treatment, and Marion Nydam, wife of another EMT ambulance driver, Bob Nydam.

It was through the "pull" of the Nydams' son Kevin, a fifth grader at Jensen Elementary, that the ambulance was brought to the school. And the young first aid students got their full money's worth of educational entertainment.

Bob Heaslip took the kids through the vehicle, naming and defining the use of each piece of equipment, and letting his delighted audience try out the respirator, sphygmomanometer (blood pressure instrument), and all the other gadgets in the EMT's bag of tricks.

Fear of the unknown, in child or adult, is the cause of most panic and trauma in emergency situations. These children, thanks to the Samaritans and to the Red Cross which helped in the program, and, to a forward-thinking science teacher, are now over that stumbling block. They know their first aid, and the tools of its application.

The Samaritans, a volunteer group, had distinguished themselves not only in the field of such educational programs in the schools and adult Red Cross classes at the Samaritan Center at 1250 Samaritan St., but in service.

Organized in 1957 by three community leaders, Dr. R.Q. Pensick, Ransom Tilton and Gene Hoke, the volunteer service began with a $3,000 Volks van and a great deal of community enthusiasm. Schools and organizations have raised money to support it, and individual donations have added immeasurably to the effectivity to the entire Jensen area.

The most impressive single donation came from Miss Martha Moore, who gave the Samaritans their present $14,000 emergency vehicle, completely equipped.

The volunteer program has the support and admiration of public safety and civil defense officials throughout Indian Riverland, Nellie Cook, spokesman for the group noted this week.

"It's worth $500,000 to the county," she said.

EMT BOB HEASLIP shows student how scissors cut under clothing and bandages without hurting patient, during noontime demonstration by Samaritans at Jensen Beach Elementary.

Trinity plans new church

JENSEN BEACH–A new $250,000 church arose for Trinity United Methodist Church was announced this week as fund raising efforts began with the appointment of Ernie Baker as general chairman and Rev. Charles Hamilton, pastor of the First United Methodist Church in Pompano Beach, as campaign director.

$50,000 price tag forms the base of the fund drive for $250,000.

In celebration of its seventeenth anniversary, Trinity plans a banquet on Wednesday, November 30, at 6 p.m. Following the dinner, at 7:30 p.m., Christian dramatist Peggy Miller will give a presentation of "

NEW CHURCH–Above is the architect's rendering of the new Trinity United Methodist Church facility, to be constructed on South Savanna Road, between Pinelake Village and Leilani Heights.

The church facility will be located on South Savanna Road between Pinelake Village and Leilani Heights on a five acre tract. Groundbreaking is scheduled for January, with construction taking one year.

"I'd sure like to celebrate Christmas in that building," said Rev. Clark Thompson, pastor.

The sanctuary would seat 300, with room for several hundred in an overflow arrangement. There would be church school rooms, a fellowship hall, kitchen, nurseries, choir room, and offices.

The property is presently owned by the Melbourne District Board of Church Extension of the Florida Conference of United Methodist Churches.

Trinity was founded in Jensen Beach 12 years ago, and has grown over the years in its Arch Street location. The church plant there has been sold to the Seventh Day Adventist Church, and the Wesley," the story of the mother of John and Charles Wesley.

One of her associates playing a large part in the series is Marianne Ryan, Miss Shore's fashion coordinator. An attractive blonde, Miss Ryan sat by this reporter at the luncheon. She has been with Dinah since the star first began her series, she said, and has traveled with her for several years. Miss Ryan is obviously a seasoned expert in the fashion world, and advises Dinah on all her wardrobes.

Also with her are two well-known Hollywood figures, her producer, Fred Tatashore, who has been with her since the onset of "Dinah's Place," and her manager, Charlie Pomerance.

Dinah, Charlie told the news people, is going heavily into fashion in the coming months. An artist whose paintings are much in demand in art circles of both east and west coasts, she has recently taken up a new project, the design of bed and table linens being marketed under the trade name of "Dinah-Mates." She's not losing any time during her Florida sojourn in promoting the line.

This enterprising singer-entertainer, born in Winchester, Tenn., in the shadow of the mountain on which sits the University of the South at Sewanee, comes by her singing naturally. It was probably through the musical dogs of Nashville that she got her biggest break, the one which put her in top-starring position at the box office.

But she loves to do so many other things, and the people who can do them, she finds the talk-show her favorite milieu.

She's a gourmet cook, much of her on-screen fun is in getting her guests to share their recipes.

Yet she doesn't pre-arrange her popular hour on any firmly-written guidelines. "It's all impromptu," she told The Mirror.

And she's not exclusive about the surroundings of her filmings.

"You're all welcome to watch," she said of her Sunday Sandpiper filming.

IT FITS! Star Dinah tells her hosts after she receives the General Development overall as part of her foray from Monday luncheon. Miss Shore and her retinue made the one-day stop at Port St. Lucie to further plans for filming of a sequence for her taped talk show later this season.

The play's the thing this week

BY SALLY LATHAM

The whole area is running over with theatre fare this week. The Barn Theatre, on East Ocean Boulevard in Stuart, a kicking off (the delightful comedy "My Three Angels" this weekend, and St. Lucie Community Players on Port Pierce is reviving another wildly wonderful classic, Moss Hart's and Richard Kaufman's wacka-doodle from the thirties, "You Can't Take It With You."

The Barn production, which will run for three weekends, is one you won't forget if you've ever seen it, either in the movie with Borgie) or on live boards. The "Angels," you'll recall, are three convicts who take over the dismal affairs of a failing inland shop-owner and bring matters to a happy-ever-after end. All absent (innocent) merriment.

The play goes on Friday and Saturday, again Nov. 25, 26 and 27, and the final run Dec. 2 and 3. Curtain time is 8:30 p.m.

Since the Barn play will be around for awhile, this inveterate reviewer will look forward to sharing my reactions with the first performance. But with the Barn I can't contain myself in the body of the next few days, it became a must to do what is normally a no-no—preview "You Can't Take It" by attending a dress rehearsal.

And with this particular madcap opus, the experience enhanced rather than detracted from the finished effort. The characters in the Hart-Kaufman buffoonery on Bohemia are all strictly from Bedlam, and the Monday night test-run on Pendennumtand the play wrights.

Somehow, in the lively setting of the Sycamore living room (just around the corner from Columbia University) it seemed perfectly logical that people should be on ladders painting the walls and hanging curtains, or nailing sets together.

And what with the frequent explosions made by Grampa Sycamore (Max Seidelman) and Mr. Sycamore (Perry Sherer) with their fireworks, the buzzing and roaring of vacuum cleaners going on around the room seemed like part of the script. Perhaps they should be written into the action scene opening tonight.

In case you're not familiar with the play, it concerns a family of nuts predating the hippie era by some 40 years, but with all the same individualistic tendencies. They all do their own thing. Mama currently is authoring a book about a woman entering a monastery, daughter Essie is hooked on ballet even unto the kitchen; Grampa refuses to pay income taxes and drives an IRS man (George Parker) clean out of his bird, and another daughter is smitten with a made Russian (John Zanetti).

That's only a taste of the wild wonder of it all, every bit of which will keep you hysterical and send you home for a tranquilizer, right down to the raid by the FBI. Bob Mayer, Jensen Beach gift to SLCT, may destroy the name of that august body forever, before the play's run is through Saturday night.

Bill Shook is directing this one.

Curtain time for the SLCT comedy is 8 p.m. tonight through Saturday at the Indian River Community College Kohlegard Student Union. Tickets are on sale at the door, but for the best seats, try to get there tonight and Thursday. Fridays and Saturdays are filling up fast this season.

YOU CAN'T TAKE IT WITH YOU is Gramp's philosophy, in the Moss Hart-George S. Kaufman comedy being revived this week by the St. Lucie Community Theatre, beginning tonight. In a scene from the play, from left seated are Grampa Max Seidelman, Perry Shore as Mr. Sycamore, and Darcy Conant of Stuart as daughter Alice's "straight" swain. In background are others in the zany Sycamore family.

Inflation in perspective

BY CONGRESSMAN SKIP BAFALIS

WASHINGTON—Inflation – America's number one problem and the people's number one concern.

In the latest 10th Congressional District questionnaire, voters were asked to pick the single most crucial problem facing the country today.

And two out of every five picked inflation as the major problem.

There is no doubt in the minds of the American people as to the cause of inflation. They know the blame rests entirely on the shoulders of the U.S. Congress – a body clearly dominated by big spenders.

We began this current fiscal year with additional debt just under the $700 billion mark – $698 billion.

And it's going to get worse this year. In fact, the best estimate so far is that we will end fiscal 1978 with a deficit approaching $85 billion. And that's just the best estimate. There are others who predict even more red ink in the federal ledger.

So, no matter what, we are going to end this fiscal year next September with a national debt of more than three-quarters of a trillion dollars.

Three fourths of a trillion dollars. The figure staggers the imagination.

But, what really boggles the mind is the realization that it was just three years ago that we wrung our hands in anguish over a national debt of a half trillion dollars.

That's an increase of $250 billion in just four short years, enough to bring tears to the eyes of all but the staunchest of deficit spenders.

It is almost impossible to comprehend the figure of $250 billion. But consider this example: A million seconds is a mere 12 days. A billion second is 32 years.

And 250 billion seconds would be 8,000 years – longer than man had had any kind of real civilization.

The end result of all this wild and ridiculous spending is that the value of the dollar has been severely curtailed, bringing about a rapid rise in the cost of living.

Last fiscal year, the cost of living climbed about 7 per cent, making it next to impossible for the average American to live as well at the end of the year as he did at the beginning.

One of the most rapidly growing items in your cost of living and mine is taxes. They have been climbing much faster than most sectors.

In 1974, for example, the personal income tax bite for a lower income family jumped 25 per cent, while for the higher income family it went up 28.6 per cent. And, it's still climbing.

Right now, you and I must work the first two hours and 46 minutes of every day just to pay for our federal, state and local taxes.

And when you consider we only have to work an average of one hour and 32 minutes to pay for our housing and household expenses and one hour and five minutes for our food and drink, you can quickly see how big a bite our taxes take.

The only solution is a Congress dedicated to cutting federal spending as much as possible, to getting the federal government out of your everyday life, to restoring sanity to federal budgeting.

Once Congress becomes responsible, state legislatures, county governments and city councils will soon follow suit.

And you and I will be able to spend our hard-earned dollars on ourselves and our families – not on bureaucrats and unproductive programs.

Gordon Long, who has charge of the arrangements for Chapter 2888, recommends that potential participants be thinking about signing up for one of these courses next year. It will be remembered that a bonus of the course is a 10 per cent reduction in your automobile insurance premium (provided the student passes, of course) if your insurance is with Colonial Penn. Some other companies also give discounts. But the important benefit of the course is that it may save your life, through instilling safe driving precepts in your mind.

Mrs. Kildes reported another program that may be of interest to Port St. Lucie AARP members. It is a series of "senior seminars" held each Wednesday in the conference room at the Martin County Public Library on East Ocean Boulevard, Stuart.

The sessions have just gotten under way, and have proved to be popular because they deal with questions of interest to older members of the community. The one this week will be on for its topic consumer protection, covering such matters as mail order purchases, credit ratings, tenant-landlord relationships and the like. The Martin County AARP chapter and the Adult Education office are joint sponsors of the seminars, which are open to our members as well. Meetings are held at 1 p.m. on Wednesdays.

RAMBLING AROUND

Bernice and Alma O'Neil, 13 Bay Drive, are back from six months in [illegible], N.H. They had a garden of tomatoes and cukes, but Bernie had a lot of time for his golfing. When asked about cucumbers, Bernie remarked, "Had to take care of the good neighbors first."

William and Kathryn Chenoweth, at 18 Bay Dr., friends of the O'Neils are new comers from Wells Beach, Me. Just returned last week from the busy Portsmouth Navy Yard.

Some more New Englanders, Jack and Edith Dodge of 4 Arbervitae, are back from six months on Sebago Lake, Me., where they have a summer home right on the lake shore. They've been going to the same spot for 38 years and say this wasn't one of the best...too cold, then too hot.

Jack and Olga Comer are back from seven months in Elyria, Ohio, with a seven week trip back in OBP. They came back by way of Missouri, Arkansas and Oklahoma, where for 21 days they toured with the Airstream Guard Foliage Caravan, 800 miles of superb, autumn scenery, keeping Jack's camera clicking away.

George and Betty Ryder, 42 5th Ave., are back from six months of trailering around. First, visited two daughters and seven grandchildren in Marcellus, N.Y. Then, on to Massachusetts, doing the campgrounds for Woodall's Campground Guide.

Alden and Alma Burnham, 17 Kumquat, more New Englanders, are back from six months in Naples, where they had a garden of tomatoes and cukes, but there was plenty of time for fishing at nearby Sebago Lake. Weather was fair, but too darn hot at times...hotter than Florida. They came down by new ship Caribe. It may not be the cheapest way to go, but it sure is the easiest and most entertaining.

They say it was a delightful 24-day cruise on the Atlantic, with perfect weather except for some rough seas off Cape Hatteras. Beautiful trip, almost constant entertainment and almost constant, abundant gourmet food made the time fly. Glad to be back with OBP friends.

Ted and Ellie Landgraf, 2 Lil Bit Lane, after seven months in Allendale, N.J., are glad to be back with all their Lil Bit Lane friends. Ted had a surge of hospitalization but is pretty good, now. Ted says Elsie is strong as an ox and, of course, busy too. Weather not too bad, until they started down here, then it was rain, rain, rain, with them being held up in Georgia by floods. Their son Jay drove them down here.

What's new??

Ahoy! As the story goes, John Paul Jones was standing on the quarterdeck, having a cup of coffee during the famous battle between The Bon Homme Richard and The Serapis, when they asked him to surrender, but John Boy just said thru his megaphone, in a loud and clear voice, "I have not yet begun to fight!" There was a Marine sharpshooter in the rigging who had been there since 5:30 a.m. who looked down in disgust, and muttered, "There's always some ---- who never gets the word!"

Saturday, Nov 12 The results are Grant Money as president; Horton Peace, vice president, and George Staas, secretary-treasurer. Congratulations to all of you and the best of luck in coming months.

Kate Ramsey, who is chairperson of the upcoming rummage sale (as if I didn't know...there went a pair of my good slacks!) to be held on Saturday, Nov 19, as an all-day thing, says she hopes you heard the cow bells ring Tuesday and rushed out to the curb with all your donations.

Remember that nutmeg grater out in the shed? Do you really need it? Or that feather boa going back to 1928 Throwit in.

Let's see what else is going on

Phase II of Pinelake Village is really phasing! Virginia Oberg says new residents are moving in faster than she can line up a Welcome Wagon. If your writer were betting man, she would say 9-5 that it will be completely sold out by February or, perhaps, sooner. Jimmy the Greek, where are you when we need you?

A note from Sharyon, if you please. Friday, Nov 18, at 11 a.m., they need 8 six hand working party to move tables for the BYOB that night. Too that barge, lift that table...report to the office with a good strong back.

It is now in the history books, but the Arts and Crafts Show was a success and brought out a good crowd. Hope you made it. See you next week.

So, if someone comes up to and says, "What's new?...don't blow a gasket, just grit your teeth, take him by the hand, and walk him up to the clubhouse. Let him feel the bulletin board at which time he will probably say, "Golly, I didn't think place was here."

Then you must explain that things really are living here! Whist, Euchre, Rook, smashing games of croquet, and even an occasional May Pole dance.

Seriously, with the social season in high gear, communications has gotten to be such a big field in getting the word around that we now have a Bicycle Brigade, for hand delivery. How about that!

After worrying ourselves sick that Ray and Mary Bates may have gotten caught in a radar trap in Georgia, they show up in the middle of the night. For all their friends, Ray says he visited Russ and Skip Stevens, with Russ sitting up in Cleavland, N.Y., like a patroon, trying to settle a deal on his house before heading for Pinelake Village for the winter. He says the place was beautiful, nestled in the foothills of the Catskills.

The Bates then went on to Hudson, N.Y., where Mary had to spend some time in the hospital. Of course, no time was lost in our hearing about their first grandchild, Amanda Joy, born to Mary's daughter-in-law, Anita, and son Douglas. They both flew out to Chicago to see the baby before heading down here. Now that you are settled, again!

Mahlon Cline is season's first exhibitor at Elliott Museum

JENSEN BEACH—What does a man who has taught art for three decades do when he leaves the halls of learning and settles near a Florida golf course? Sometimes he plays golf, but mostly he paints...which he didn't have time to do before.

The pattern is all too familiar, and one of its more accomplished illustrators is Mahlon A. Cline, art director, designer, painter and educator...who for thirty years was director of both day and evening art schools at Brooklyn's internationally known Pratt Institute.

Now, more than thirty of Cline's recent paintings are on view at the Martin County Historical Society's Elliott Museum, to remain through December.

Cline's work has been shown widely and is in many collections. The Elliott Museum art gallery is open to the public at no charge during regular museum hours, 1 to 5 p.m. daily.

Nothing finah—Dinah

BY SALLY LATHAM

The ever-beautiful, bouncy and ageless Dinah whirled through Port St. Lucie Monday, leaving behind her a newly-delighted platoon of fans among the area press corps.

Dinah, they discovered in the course of a luncheon befitting a Roman emperor, is as much the informally-chatty girl-from-back-home off-screen as she is on.

The luncheon was engineered and staged by General Development with scarcely any advance notice. It was only late last week that GD's general manager Bob Seeley learned of the star's plans to scout the luxury Sandpiper Bay resort as a filming site.

The star's dimension as a news-maker was well-attested to in the attendance at the affair by members of the media. Every east coast newspaper, radio and television resource, from Miami to Cocoa, was represented, as was Time-Life Publications.

Dinah's popularity among the media people was enhanced by the flying visit despite what appears to be a universal star-syndrome: Like others who have preceded her, she keeps people waiting.

The luncheon hour had been set for 1 p.m., in the private St. Lucie Room of the Sandpiper. As reporters and cameramen had plenty of time to recall during their hour-and-a-half wait, it was reminiscent of the press party some months back for Burt Reynolds, at the Castle Hill home of Mrs. Leonard Chiles. Reynolds, who was in the area to promote a play, also stalled his appearance for an agonizing hour-and-a-half later than he had been expected to arrive.

As one reporter who had been at the Reynolds party was overheard to quip: "They might not be on the same beam any longer, but they still runon the same timetable."

Dinah, who is traveling with her personal team of public relations people, manager, director and producer, is currently filming a fashion series for her daily talk show: "DINAH!"

As she told her Monday audience, she has been filming several of the sequences in the Miami area. This Sunday, she will return to Sandpiper Bay and will spend the day doing scenes on the golf course, the tennis courts, and around the yacht basin. Emphasis will be on style and design.

One of her associates playing a large part in the series is Marianne Ryan, Miss Shore's fashion coordinator. An attractive blonde, Miss Ryan sat by this reporter at the luncheon. She has been with Dinah since the star first began her series, she said, and has traveled with her for several years. Miss Ryan is obviously a seasoned expert in the fashion world, and advises Dinah on all her wardrobes.

Also with her are two well-known Hollywood figures, her producer, Fred Tatashore, who has been with her since the onset of "Dinah's Place," and her manager, Charlie Pomerance.

Dinah, Charlie told the news people, is going heavily into fashion in the coming months. An artist whose paintings are much in demand in art circles of both east and west coasts, she has recently taken up a new project, the design of bed and table linens being marketed under the trade name of "Dinah-Mates." She's not losing any time during her Florida sojourn in promoting the line.

This enterprising singer-entertainer, born in Winchester, Tenn., in the shadow of the mountain on which sits the University of the South at Sewanee, comes by her singing naturally. It was probably through the musical door of Nashville that she got her biggest break, the one which put her in top-starring position at the box office.

But she loves to do so many other things, and the people who can do them, she finds the talk-show her favorite milieu.

She's a gourmet cook, much of her on-screen fun is in getting her guests to share their recipes.

Yet she doesn't pre-arrange her popular hour on any firmly-written guidelines. "It's all impromptu," she told The Mirror.

And she's not exclusive about the surroundings of her filmings.

"You're all welcome to watch," she said of her Sunday Sandpiper filming.

IT FITS! Star Dinah tells her hosts after she receives the General Development coverall as part of her booty from Monday luncheon. Miss Shore and her retinue made the one-day stop at Port St. Lucie to further plans for filming of a sequence for her taped talk show later this season.

At one time the city l approved a payment of $3,756 to el, but last week the figures were d to $5,420. It is not known whether el will accept that amount without g to have the payment increased. resolution up for consideration ay night showed 11 persons are to e pension fund payments. The second reading and second public hearing on adoption of the map as the official zoning map is set for 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 29.

Final approval was expected Tuesday night of an ordinance to prohibit the parking of commercial vehicles in residential areas.

The recently completed political district map was to be studied by council members, and two architects were slated to be interviewed by the council for the job of designing the proposed City Hall.

Fort Pierce Architect Hank Reigler, who designed the newly dedicated St. Lucie County Administration Building and Civic Auditorium, and Tampa Architect James Stewart will be interviewed.

City Manager Cox says he hopes the selection of an architect can be made soon. He said construction of the new City Hall will likely begin around the first of next year and will take seven to 10 months to complete. The city already owns a 14.5-acre tract at the northwest corner of Airoso and Port St. Lucie Boulevards and will locate the City Hall there.

FORMER MAYOR LAWRENCE KIMMEL is expected to receive approval of final payment of $5,420 from the city's old pension plan Tuesday night.

Housing project approved

PORT ST. LUCIE--A proposed single family housing development along the St Lucie River west of the new Spanish Lakes Riverfront Mobile Home Park received conceptual approval from St Lucie County commissioners Monday.

The development, to be known as Hidden River Estates, is near an aquatic preserve, and Area Development Coordinator Gary Ament said access to the development would be from Degan Drive and Forgal Street. The tract is along the North Fork of the St Lucie River, outside Port St Lucie city limits.

Engineer Richard Hellstrom of Fort Pierce presented the plans to the commissioners on behalf of the developers. Plans call for about 80 homes on lots about half an acre large. Prices are expected to range from $75,000 to $125,000.

Although "conceptual" approval was granted for the project, the county commissioners must still review final site plans before choosing to approve or reject the project. Also, the state Department of Environmental Regulations will review the project.

Construction is expected to begin around Christmas, if final county and state approvals are made.

CHURCH IS...Construction is underway on a sanctuary for the Port St. Lucie Church of Christ congregation. The church is one of two to have a building permit this month, helping push the total value of construction in the city for the month of October over the $2 million mark. The Church of Christ sanctuary is located on Floresta Drive. another sanctuary, for the Morningside Friends Church, is going up along Morningside Drive, north of Port St. Lucie Boulevard.

Local health services stressed

PORT ST. LUCIE--Increased accessibility to health care services for persons living in sparsely population areas has been selected as one of the major goals of area health planners.

Fred Wiggin of Port St. Lucie is a member of the five-county Health Planning Council which has been developing health care goals which the council hopes to achieve by 1980. The area covered in the plan includes St Lucie, Martin, Palm Beach, Indian River and Okeechobee Counties.

Wiggin recently explained that a public hearing on a proposed health care plan for this district is set for next month. But, he outlined a few of the goals that will be included in the plan, and urged citizens to learn what the plan is all about and to express their health care concerns at the hearing.

The goal to make health care more accessible for rural areas is one Wiggin has stressed at Health Planning Council meetings. And, while that goal is included in the proposed plan, Wiggin expressed concern that it might be taken lightly.

Wiggin has been a member of the council for four years and has not missed a meeting. Unlike many other members of the council, Wiggin is not a doctor and he comes from Port St. Lucie instead of a heavily populated area. But that has not stopped him from urging approval for a hospital in Port St. Lucie and from urging that more doctors take up practice in Port St. Lucie.

"The main responsibilities of the council are to improve the health of the populace, to improve accessibility of health care, and to reduce health care costs," Wiggin said recently. It is the second goal that Wiggin feels is most crucial.

The proposed plan emphasizes that high cost, acute care hospital services should be regionalized. Wiggin agrees with that, commenting, "In Palm Beach County there are several hospitals that tend to specialize in certain, highly technical and highly needed types of care. But for other care, for something to meet the needs of the majority of people, health care should be local," Wiggin notes.

Wiggin says he has often been opposed by other members of the council, usually by the doctors, for suggesting that physician assistants and paramedics should be allowed to offer more service to the rural communities. And, he says a basic education of laymen is also needed, so they will know what to do when they are first on the scene of an emergency.

"When a person has a heart attack, cardio-pulmonary aid can often save a person, as long as the person gets that aid within four minutes. No matter how close a hospital is, that's almost too short a time for professional help to arrive. But 50 to 60 per cent of the people could be saved if they got aid right away. We should have an educational program so that all persons from age 15 to 64 would know how to render cardio-pulmonary aid."

Wiggin said that in addition to setting health care goals, the plan also takes steps to reduce the cost of health care. One of the recommendations of the plan is to establish uniform cost accounting. "We hope to have a regionalized hospital financial and management system established by 1982," he said.

The plan includes some interesting population figures for the district, and Wiggin cites the figures to show that this region is growing fast and to support his arguments in favor of more health care facilities here. Since 1970, the population has increased by 41 per cent in the district, with Palm Beach and St. Lucie Counties showing 40 per cent increases and Martin County showing a whopping 78 per cent increase.

A breakdown in population growth figures in St. Lucie County over the last five years shows a strong increase in the number of elderly persons. This is yet another reason for more localized health care, Wiggin points out. The figures show an increase of persons under one year old from 803 in 1970 to 1108 in 1975. In the one to 14 year old bracket, the population went from 1,305 to 1,508. The 15 to 34 year old age bracket showed an increase from 7,500 to 9,400 persons.

There were 10,500 persons between 25 and 44 years of age in the county in 1970 and in 1975 there were 13,700 persons in that age group. The 44 to 64 age group saw a population jump from 10,800 to 15,500, and in the 65 and older bracket, the population swelled from 7,400 to 13,643.

The public hearing on the proposed health care plan is set for 10 a.m. Saturday, Dec. 17, at the Holiday Inn at I-95 and PGA Boulevard in Palm Beach Gardens.

ARTIST MAHLON CLINE with his wife, in front of one of Cline's paintings which comprise the featured exhibit through December at Elliott Museum. Cline, a Port St. Lucie resident, has been a leader in area art circles.

Mahlon Cline is season's first exhibitor at Elliott Museum

JENSEN BEACH–What does a man who has taught art for three decades do when he leaves the halls of learning and settles near a Florida golf course? Sometimes he plays golf, but mostly he paints...which he didn't have time to do before.

The pattern is all too familiar, and one of its more accomplished illustrators is Mahlon A. Cline...art director, designer, painter and educator...who for thirty years was director of both day and evening art schools at Brooklyn's internationally known Pratt Institute.

Now, more than thirty of Cline's recent paintings are on view at the Martin County Historical Society's Elliott Museum, to remain through December.

Cline's work has been shown widely and is in many collections. The Elliott Museum art gallery is open to the public at no charge during regular museum hours, 1 to 5 p.m. daily.

Phone offices extend

JENSEN BEACH–Effective Monday, Nov. 14, Southern Bell Business Offices will be open for customers to transact business from 8:30 a.m. until 6 p.m. This change extends the work day by an hour and a half to better accommodate the large volume of business that takes place during the season.

Glenn Sutton, manager for Southern Bell, said that, "This change in hours includes all phases of our customer operation -- tellers and phonecenters as well as business offices.

"We will operate on the extended day five days a week during the winter season. We hope that this change will minimize any possible inconvenience. For quicker service, we suggest that you may want to call Tuesday through Friday to avoid peak calling on Mondays," Sutton concluded.

Birthday Greetings!!

JENSEN BEACH–Wish a happy birthday this week to Pat Sawusch and Lucille Nelson, celebrating Nov. 17; George Tuttle, Bill Weiss and Ida Dobson, Nov. 18, Jim Foster and Frank Wacha, Nov. 19.

Also in Sali: Campbell, Genevieve Glascock, Clarite Holder and Sharyon Tilton, Nov. 20. Frances Kuase, Linda Anna Lopilato, Vito Giannini, Marion Weingart, Helen Bears, Jack Heaton, Dick Hoke, and Ruth Spaulding, Nov. 22. Marion Very, Anna Tuttle and Ethel Koman, Nov. 23.

Have a happy day and a great year!!

Community Church goes to two services

JENSEN BEACH–Beginning this Sunday, Nov. 20, the Jensen Beach Community Church will return to its normal winter schedule, with worship services at 9 and 11 a.m. Church School at 9 a.m., coffee at 10 a.m., and Rev. Norm Kehrli's adult class will meet at 10:10 a.m.

November 20 will be FISH day at Community, with members and visitors and Church School students invited to bring food to the channel to share with others less fortunate.

First Church plans Thanksgiving service

STUART–"Make a joyful noise unto the Lord, all ye lands." First Church of Christ, Scientist, will have a Thanks giving Day service at 10 a.m.

The season to come, according to Museum Director Janet Hutchinson, will be providing several outstanding drawing cards for patrons. They will again have Christmas Eve open house, which last year drew 850 people, with carols sung in three concerts during the evening.

This year, Miss Hutchinson says, the Yule program will take visitors back to 1898, and the attendants will all be in period costumes. And Richard Lake, New York actor who last season presented an Evening with Carl Sandburg, will give Christmas readings accompanying the chorales.

During January, the prominent New York artist Frank Wright will be featured; in February the Japanese artist Diana Kan is on the schedule, with her interpreter Maxine; and in March, the works of Raymond Green of the New York Salmagundi Gallery will be exhibited.

Vikings bow in title game, 13-6

BY DONNIE WILBIE

the board early with the only touchdown of the first half, a 28-yard gallop that made it 6-0. Cleveland added the extra point on a sweep to make it a seven point T-Bird edge.

The touchdown was all that Indiantown could muster until the defense forced a PSL turnover. Bob Morgan, who had scored twice in the Vikings' 41-0 rout in the season finale against Hobe Sound, fumbled to end a drive at the Indiantown 31.

The opportunistic Indiantown offense quickly took advantage of the break as they drove 48 yards in 7 plays for the second touchdown. Gary ran 13 yards in the PSL 23 to stire the second T-Bird first down of the march, and Forman galloped 18 yards on a reverse for the score. But the Viking defense stopped the Indiantown extra point attempt to keep the count at 13-0.

On the ensuing kickoff, Forman slipped while approaching the ball and just nicked it. The ball took a short bounce, then rolled back to end up near the kicking tee, where Port St. Lucie took over at the Indiantown 38.

It didn't take long for the Vikings to capitalize on the kickoff dud. On third and three from the 28, Craig Wilson powered for 8 yards to pick up a key first down, then three plays later Morgan bulled his way through the Thunderbird defense for a 16-yard touchdown. However, the extra point run by Morgan came up short by about a foot and the score remained 13-6.

Indiantown wrapped up the game on the next series by controlling the ball for nearly nine minutes, moving from their own 30 to the Port St. Lucie 11 before being stopped on downs. Forman ran for 28 yards in the drive, which saw Port St. Lucie regain possession of the ball with only 45 second remaining.

Even then, the Vikings made a good try at the tying touchdown. But three completions through the air netted only 31 yards, and a penalty further hampered the last-second attempt at a score.

Port St. Lucie's season, which included a 1-0 overtime victory over Jensen Beach and the 41-6 rout over Hobe Sound (the most points scored by a Viking Lower Division team in its years), was the most successful campaign in recent years. Led by Head Coach Bob Morgan and quarterback Jim Hardison, the Vikings defeated every team in the Lower Division except Indiantown, whom they lost to twice. Meanwhile, Indiantown recaptured the title the team won two years ago in Jensen Beach and lost last year to Port Salerno in Stuart.

Cobras stopped

FORT PIERCE—The Fort Pierce Central Cobras were stopped short of victory last week by the Palm Beach Garden Gators in what could have been the Suncoast Eastern Division championship game for the second straight season.

PBG's 14-12 victory would have given them the conference title and a trip to the playoffs against Merritt Island had Martin County downed Boca Raton, but the Tigers were swamped by a fired-up Bobcat bunch.

Fort Pierce got on the board first with a 25-yard field goal off the toe of Eddie Hearn, who was kept out of sustained action at quarterback due to injury.

But Gardens came back, with Daryll Leonard scoring from one yard out in the first quarter and Bobby Gibbs returning an interception thrown by backup quarterback Peter Barriner 40 yards in the second stanza.

Barriner later scored on a 6-yard dash, but the Cobras' chances for a victory ended when he was sacked at the Gardens 5-yard line with two seconds left.

The win lifted Gardens to 5-3 in the conference and 7-3 overall, while Fort Pierce fell to 5-3 in the conference and 5-4 overall. Central will close its season this week at home against Vero Beach.

ATLANTIC 14 SUNCOAST 12

Atlantic overcame a 12-0s halftime deficit to down Suncoast and clinch the Suncoast West title. Anthony Carter, the brilliant all-purpose back for Suncoast, led the Chargers to the lead but sprained his ankle just before the half. After his departure, Suncoast could not get anything going, and fell to their first loss of the season against eight wins. Atlantic is 7-1.

LAKE WORTH 18 LEONARD 7

Tony Benson kicked an 18-yard field goal in overtime to lift Lake Worth to their fourth win against six defeats. The teams, playing for the Lake Worth city championship, tied at 7-7 after regulation, and after Benson's field goal, Sedrick King intercepted a Leonard pass at the four-yard line to clinch the victory. Leonard finished at 3-7.

TWIN LAKES 22 FOREST HILL 6

The Falcons scored first, but then Twin Lakes (4-4) roared back to down the visitors. The highlight of the game was a 47-yard field goal late in the second half by Tony Sinclair of the Rams. Forest Hill is now 1-6.

Seniors tourney largest

PORT ST. LUCIE—The largest golf tournament in the history of Sandpiper Bay Resort got underway Tuesday, and the tournament will keep the resort's golf courses full through Thursday.

A total of 240 golfers are competing in the fall tournament of the Western Seniors Golf Association.

Sandpiper Bay golf pro Chuck Johnson says the association has its headquarters in Indianapolis, Ind., and said most of the golfers are from Indiana, Illinois and Ohio. Persons must be 55 years old or older to compete in the tournament.

Johnson said the tournament features two-person teams and that handicaps are allowed. It is an amateur tourney.

The men golfers are playing 54 holes on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, and the women are playing a 27-hole tournament on Tuesday and Wednesday. The women are using the Saints Course and the men are competing on the Sinners and Wilderness courses. An awards banquet is scheduled for Thursday night.

Lakers win

SPANISH LAKES—Cliff Worstenholm and Walter Davis of Spanish Lakes finished first in a 36-team shuffleboard tournament held recently in Boynton Beach.

The Spanish Lakes duo were followed in second place by Lem Willemssen and Dora Holt of Stuart.

The entrants in the tournament came from the Central East Coast District.

Oscar Kohlman of Spanish Lakes and Wes Marousch of Riverside Park took the second place consolation title. In lieu of cash, gift certificates and medallions were given as prizes.

Savanna-Commercial wins county approval; Hurchalla is opposed

STUART–In a 4-1 vote, the Martin County Commission approved of advertising bids for the improvement of the Savanna Road-Commercial Street intersection yesterday.

The action was not without a fight as the improvement was opposed by Commissioner Maggie Hurchalla, who opposed both the allocation of funds for the project and voted against the advertising for bids on the project. The final vote was four to one.

The county is seeking bids on two areas of the improvement. The first is for the intersection itself, estimated to cost about $187,000. This would provide for right and left turn lanes and storage lanes that would take the project back several hundred feet from the intersection.

The second would take in the complete project, estimated to cost $280,000, and improve Savanna Road all the way to the south end of Legion Heights, where new pavement begins.

The money would come from the recently discovered cash-carryover of $466,000 that has been assigned to cover improvement of roads and bridges in the county.

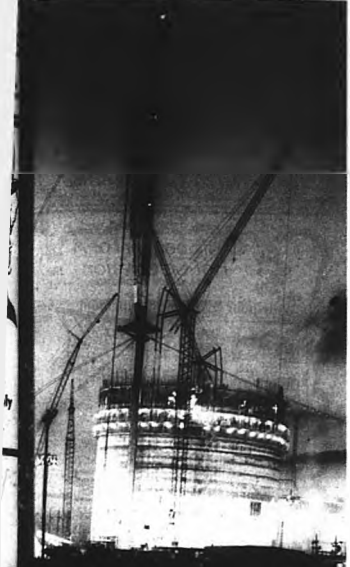
County Commissioner Frank Wacha told The Mirror Tuesday that he was "elated, very much so. Now the county can do whatever pre-work that needs to be done to have it ready to go if the bids are within reason."

Wacha said that the project would not commence until after the seasonal rush of traffic, when the intersection is in its highest use.

He praised the leadership of Commission Chairman Tom Higgins in getting the project approved.

"He really helped, and I feel extremely grateful for his appreciation of the importance and need of this project," Wacha said.

A SHOP AT HOME campaign is getting underway for area merchants, to convince residents of the virtues of doing their Christmas shopping in local stores. Art Hansen of the Chamber of Commerce board, and Executive Director Helen Richardson hold up contents of packets which are being distributed to area stores this week.



GOING UP – AND UP –The continuous night-time pouring operation on the casing of Florida Power and Light Nuclear Plant No. 2 is dramatized by the "footlight" illumination on the duck-around process. Picture was taken less than a week after The Mirror's first visit. (For more details, see story inside.)

Rare rabbit fish hooked from river

JENSEN BEACH–A showcase rarity at the Snook Nook during the past week was the catch of Red Sutherland, who went out on Nov. 15 and came in with a rabbit fish, a breed not usually found north of Miami waters.

The five-pounder, which gets its name from its big brown eyes and hare-like teeth (which can get you if you don't watch out), was caught by Sutherland in the river, on cut bait. His buddies, Fred Muller and Fred Muller, also brought in 14 blues from the day's outing.

One couple, Ralph and Jessie Spencer, apparently tried to corner the market on blues on Nov. 18. They hooked 77 blue fish from the surf, on Krocks.

On the 19th, Jessie Cash and Sam Curran brought in 17 blues each from the surf, on cut bait, and Ed Wagner and Pat Paterson landed 18 trout from the river on Trout-Touts.

Prospects were improved for Spanish mackerel in the last few days. Robbie Redell caught 15 of them, and his companion, Billy Cunningham, landed nine Spanish mackerel and six blues from the surf. Redell used a white feather and lead jig, and Cunningham fished with a Krock and spoon.

On the 16th, Jess Cash landed 22 blues out of the surf on cut bait; Tony Battaglia caught nine big blues out of the surf; F. Hein and Tom Hargrave both took 18 blues, and Len Litster brought in 20.

The trout were also running on Nov. 18. Sandy Adair caught ten and Skip Lenker landed six, one a 7½-pounder.

What ever happened to Tommy Wyatt

JENSEN BEACH–Tommy Wyatt, who was captain of the Martin County football team ten years ago, and was president of his graduating class, is still active in sports.

Wyatt joined the Navy, and now plays for the Beaufort, S.C. Naval Hospital team. This year the team won one game and lost five, but Wyatt was good enough to play offensive running back and wide receiver, plus working on defense as free safety, to win top honors in defensive rushing; led the league in interceptions, and was named to the league all-star team.

He also is active with a rugby team, scoring six tries from his outside center spot last year, and was selected to the all-south select team last spring.

Arch work to begin

JENSEN BEACH–Work on restoring the Jensen Beach Arch will begin "any day now," according to County Commissioner Frank Wacha.

Wacha said that the contractor has the plans and was due to start as soon as possible on the rebuilding of the arch.

Power failure at substation

JENSEN BEACH–People in the Jensen-Rio area, and in parts of Port St. Lucie, were without electricity briefly Tuesday afternoon, shortly before quitting time, doing little more than to throw electric clocks out of kilter.

The outages occurred first at 4:08 p.m., at which time the power went off for four minutes, and a second one-minute failure at 4:16 p.m.

The interruptions in service were caused by work being done at the substations, according to Jan Payne, spokesman for Florida Power and Light.

First Baptist School plans Dec. 2 auction

STUART–The First Baptist Church Christian School will present its Third Annual Auction at the Stuart Youth Center on Friday, Dec. 2, and Saturday, Dec. 3, from 6:30 to 11 p.m. New and nearly new merchandise will be auctioned off to the highest bidder.

The auction is open to the public. Roger Chancey will be auctioneer.

Try Jensen first campaign is planned

BY SALLY LATHAM

JENSEN BEACH–Love Christmas, but hate fighting the traffic?

Then why bother, says the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce, which is again this year joining the Jensen Beach Bank-sponsored program suggesting you "Try Jensen First."

Stickers and buttons reminding everyone in the Jensen-Rio area are being distributed to merchants this week, in advance of the traditional Yuletide rush which inevitably begins the day after Thanksgiving.

The drive was initiated last year by Ron Mitchell, president of the Jensen Beach Bank, and officials of the chamber. With the growing number of stores in the expanding shopping centers throughout the area, it is anticipated that more people will pay attention to the advice this year.

Art Hansen, member of the Chamber board, is again co-chairman of the shop-at-home promotion. Assisting him will be George Duso of Duso's Five and Ten. They have been delivering the kits which contain buttons, placards and shopping bags to the principal businesses during the past few days.

Because of a shortage of kits, they will not be distributed to the smaller service shops this year, according to Chamber Executive Director Helen Richardson, but there are plenty to go around for the stores where Christmas merchandise is most likely to be found.

In spreading the message of the intent of the program, the sponsors are asking store owners and sales clerks to knock themselves out to make customers want to trade in their places of business.

One of the most important factors in keeping Christmas shopping a pleasant task for everyone, Mitchell has noted, is a personal, one-to-one relationship between clerk and customer.

"We want to let customers know we want their business," the bank president commented. A pleasant and prompt approach to the shopper can convey that message more convincingly than anything.

Hansen pointed out that people in the Jensen-Rio area can save not only tempers but money by shopping at home. For the most part, nearly everything one might look for is available at prices favorably comparable with those in the larger metropolitan areas, where parking is difficult and walking is wearying.

The sponsors also point out that Christmas money spent in local stores is a boon to the local economy. The Chamber notes that Jensen and Rio boast a large percentage of home-owned stores, and money spent here stays here.

The advent of the Christmas season will be marked by the Chamber this year with the arrival of Santa Claus on a fire truck, on Saturday, Dec. 3. The Kiwanis Club is providing the candy to be distributed, and youngsters can confide in St. Nick all their Christmas wishes between 1 and 4 p.m.

The kids may also have their pictures taken with the seasonal "Man of the Year" during that time.

THE AMERICAN LEGION AUXILIARY honored its district officers at a well-attended luncheon last week at Holiday Inn Oceanside. Joining for the occasion were the Jensen Beach Unit 126, the Harold Johns Unit 82 of Stuart and the Sylvester Robinson Unit 176. Seen at the affair, from left, are Mrs. Walter Schaefering, treasurer of the Harold Johns unit of Stuart; Mrs. James Malone, Department president; Mrs. William F. Middleton, past Department president; Mrs. Ray Walden, 12th District president; Mrs. Atlee Cooper, president of Unit 176; and Mrs. P. J. Snyder, chaplain.

Wacha has shown the entire film in several cities but as yet has not received a good, final copy of the entire film, he says. He hopes it won't be too long before it is finished though.

BOATS SKIMMED ALONG THE St. Lucie River at amazing speeds during competition in the Sandpiper Bay Cup race, thanks to good, stiff breezes. Since weather was so nice and the wind so strong, the race was extended beyond its usual limits. Jimmy Lippincott of Annapolis, Md., won the two races Saturday, and finished third on Sunday after thinking the race was over and slowing down. In spite of the error he won the Sandpiper Bay Cup. Frank Zagarino finished second twice to place second in overall competition, while Richard Lippincott, winner of Sunday's race, tied for third overall with Frank Eggert of Miami.

Spanish Lakes art show winners are named

SPANISH LAKES–The recent Spanish Lakes Art Show has been hailed as a great success, and the following list of winners is a sign of just how stiff the competition was:

Best of show for oil paintings went to Jack Tighe, who also collected the first prize in oils for artists with three years or less experience. Best of show for acrylics went to Mable Mayland, who also took first in acrylics for artists with more than three years experience.

Other winners, in the oils division, for artists with more than three years experience, were: Lillian Moore, second; Isabelle McElroy, third; and John Moore, honorable mention. In the oils division for artists with three years or less experience, winners were Mary Grant, second; John Ead, third; and Betty Eaton and Harriet Lynn, honorable mention.

In the acrylics and water division, for artists with more than three years experience, Marguerite Cullinane was second and Rose Kent was third. In the same categories, for artists with less than three years experience, Walter Olpe finished first; Rosemary Lobreski was second; Billy Faunce was third and Mary Grant won an honorable mention.

In the charcoal and pastels and "other media" competition for artists with more than three years experience, Al Henry won first place and Terry Lauber won second place. For those with less than three years experience, Walter Olpe was first, Jean Lulay was second and Betty Eaton was third.

Pension fund payments win approval

BY BOB FRYER

ORT ST. LUCIE–In spite of a ...ment heated discussion, city ...ncil members voted Tuesday ...ng three to two in favor of a ...n for dispersing the remaining ... in the city's old pension plan.

...ncilwoman Lolita Kernohan, who ...e debate against the adoption of the ..., was joined by Councilman ... Anderson in voting against it. ...liam McChesney, Vice Mayor ... Reeb and Councilman Schuyler ...e voted yes, carrying the motion.

...l Mrs. Kernohan most sharply ...ed was a section in the ... ...n to provide for disbursing ... pension funds. "We haven't ...ed section two, and I think we ... discuss it at a workshop meeting ... we talk on it," she said.

Treasurer Gerald Van Patten ...ed that there is $31,681 remaining ... pension fund and that because ...ployees do not have a 100 per ...ent right to the funds deposited ... behalf, a surplus of about $5,000 ...

He said the formula for ...ning the surplus was arrived at by ...ning the percentage of money ... employees are getting of the ...unt of non-surplus funds and ...ng that percentage to the surplus ...

... Kernohan still protested, saying ... she want to vote for the resolution ... not specifically state what the ... of surplus funds is. Van Patten ...d that this would not be known ... pension fund trustee, the First ... Bank of Fort Pierce, sold off notes representing investments made on behalf of the pension plan.

City Manager Elmer Cox said that even though the city council had not formally discussed the dispersement of surplus funds, a large number of city staff members, members of the city's Finance Committee, officials from the bank, officials from the insurance company holding the pension plan policy and Internal Revenue Service officials had discussed it and all agreed the formula was "just and fair." He said to delay the matter to a workshop meeting would prohibit dispersal of the funds, as they must be dispersed by the end of the month.

"I think we're inviting a serious challenge if we approve something so loosely drawn. If we assumed the plan was properly administered, which it wasn't, we'd have no excess funds," Mrs. Kernohan said.

Mrs. Kernohan and Cox apparently started to get into finger pointing, with Mrs. Kernohan implying that Cox should have properly administered the plan and Cox noting that Mrs. Kernohan was city treasurer during part of the plan's existence. However, neither person got into specifics.

Another point of discussion revolved around whether the city should keep the surplus funds for itself rather than disperse the money to employees. Mrs. Kernohan noted a provision in the plan which called for the city to retain money from forfeitures. She noted that the city contributed all the money to the old pension plan.

But Assistant City Attorney Fred Horowitz said a later ordinance would supercede the provision. Mrs. Kernohan referred to and requires that any conflicts be liberally construed in favor of the participating employees.

"The Internal Revenue Service in Jacksonville and Washington take the position that the city is on safe grounds and would be legally proper to construe it (the dispersal of funds) for the benefit of the employees. The city would be treading on thin ice to divert these funds for anything other than the benefit of the employees," Horowitz said.

Not included in the resolution for dispersement of the funds was former mayor Kimmel. That is because council members voted separately on a payment of $5,420 to him last week. He has reportedly said he is entitled to more than that and may take the matter to court.

Though the exact amount of funds to be dispersed to each employee will not be known until the end of the month, here is a breakdown of what the known dispersements will be:

Building Department head Ralph LaChance will receive $3,631; City Treasurer Van Patten will collect $865; secretary Esther Kulp will get $812; housing inspector Mac Ball will receive $1,298; and Billy Hicks, a surveyor who recently left the city, will receive $794. As for the unknown amount of surplus funds, which should total around $5,000, the following is the formula for the percentage of the total amount of those funds each person will get: LaChance 58.2 percent; Van Patten, 10.8 per cent; Ball, 13.8 per cent; Hicks, 10.3 per cent; and Mrs. Kulp, 9.6 per cent.

The dispersal of funds for former employees includes $116 to building inspector James Strickland, $307 to Leslie Thomas, $475 to deputy clerk Anne Power, $281 to city clerk Donna Ferzadi, and $58 to electrical inspector Roger Chavez.

The old pension plan was challenged in court by a group of citizens several years ago and in July, 1975, portions of the plan were ruled improper.

SMILING FACES, like this one worn by Tricia Harris, were abundant as Port St. Lucie children watched and listened to a puppet show at the Port St. Lucie Branch Library last week.

240-unit park gets zoning recommendation

PORT ST. LUCIE–After lengthy ... city Planning and Zoning Board ... votes unanimously Monday to ...mend city council approval of a ... mobile home park on a 200-acre ... zoned for industrial use.

... park, to be known as Golf Village ... Home Park, is planned by the ...pers of Spanish Lakes and ... Lakes Riverfront parks. The ... located east of U.S. 1, along ...ercial Boulevard in the Port St. Lucie Industrial Park. It is east of an existing building in the park that is used by a manufacturer of pre-fabricated clubhouse units to ones in the two Spanish Lakes parks. A main road will loop through the park, with a series of cul-de-sacs extending off the main road.

In outlining the plans, developers Joel Wynne and Harvey Newman and Orlando land planner Dick Davis noted that the overall density of the project will be 3.7 units per acre and will include a nine-hole golf course, five lakes, a trail system and a recreation complex with a

In answer to concerns voiced earlier about the possible loss of income to the city by changing the zoning of the land from industrial to mobile home park use, Newman said just in revenues from the license tags for the mobile homes alone, the city would receive $23,300 a year and the county school board would receive an equal amount, "even though the park would produce no burden on the school system because it would produce no school children."

Newman said the revenues from the park would be almost immediate as compared to a possible long wait for revenue from industrial development. He said the pre-fabricated home plant only yielded $72 in tax revenue to the city based on 1977 assessments and a Florida Power and Light sub-station only generates $62 an acre, but said the mobile home park would produce $201 per acre in tax revenue for the city.

The park is to be maintained by the developers, not the city, Newman said and he said there should be no appreciable demand for police protection, as the protection for the Spanish Lakes development averages only four hours a week, an amount Newman termed "adequate".

Another concern voiced at an earlier meeting was that zoning the tract for mobile home park use would deplete the amount of land zoned for industrial use considerably, possibly giving the city a problem in future years.

However, Newman pointed out that the land has been set aside for years for industrial use, but there has been little demand for it. And, a letter from General Development Corporation planner William Keridt stated that the area is ill suited for an industrial park and said GDC is planning on making other land, between the Florida Turnpike and the proposed I-95 route, into an industrial tract.

Wynne said the developers will have agreement from General Development Utilities for GDU to provide water and sewer service for the park. He said the developers will pay for the water and sewer lines to be extended to the park and will pay an additional $313,000 for GDU to expand its water and sewer plant capacities.

Ray Prior, president of the Spanish Lakes Homeowners Association, and Spanish Lakes resident L. Hill spoke in favor of the project.

Spanish Lakes resident Harold Abbott said he likes living in the park, but voiced concern that the new park would add to congestion on U.S. 1 and said the amount of police protection from the Sheriff is not adequate. He also expressed concern that not enough services, such as shopping facilities were available to meet the needs of the future population. He told The Mirror that Kreidt's letter was "self serving because GDC sold the land to the developers and would not say it's not going to work."

Planning and Zoning Board members expressed concern over where persons would go if a hurricane struck and over whether the mobile homes could withstand a hurricane. But when it came to a vote, all 10 board members at the meeting voted in favor of recommending the proposed zoning change to the city council.

Wynne said if city council approval of the project comes soon, work on the park could begin by next summer.

In other action, board members voted to approve the use of a $5,677 state grant to establish a drainage management plan for the city.

City Planner Mike Szunyog, who said the city must match the grant with $2,823, noted that the management plan will be part of the city's comprehensive development plan that the state is requiring all local and regional governments to complete by July 1979.

Rather than be an engineering study, which Szunyog and City Manager Elmer Cox said could cost up to $150,000, the plan will be designed to set guidelines and policies for the management of drainage in the city.

"It will be a general survey to identify overall problems and to state what we think should be done to correct the problems," Cox noted.

SHE HELPS THE CAUSE–Pam Lake, a victim of Friedreich's Ataxia, has "graduated" from patient to assistant, at the Tri-County Rehabilitation Center. COL. JOHN RUNCHAREK of the Planning and Zoning Board makes a point during discussion of the Golf Village Mobile Home Park zoning request Monday. He spoke in favor of recommending a zoning change for the 240-unit park. Shown next to him is Ed Jenkins, who was selected as secretary of the board during the meeting.

DAVIS, an Orlando land planner who designed a plan for the proposed Golf Village Mobile Home Park, shows how the streets are to be laid out in the park. Developers of Spanish Lakes and Spanish Lakes Riverfront won a recommendation from the Port St. Lucie Planning and Zoning Board for the city council to zone the tract for the park.

acienda Girls' Ranch a haven for homeless

BY SALLY LATHAM

T ST. LUCIE—The Woman's Club
St. Lucie and its sister clubs the state have a $260,000
ment in the Hacienda Girls' Ranch
Source, nearly 200 women were st Wednesday at Sandpiper Bay.
aker was Col. Frank Z. Kamer, tive director of the haven for girls, who has been heading ation-supported center for the our years.
was Col. Kamer's second visit to ree-year-old PSL club, which has made the Hacienda one of its major projects. And its contributions have been substantial, the retired Army colonel noted.

The Hacienda, he told his listeners, was founded in 1972 as a place where girls in the age range from 12 to 18 from broken homes, orphans or from home environments in which the youngsters cannot adapt emotionally, find emotional and spiritual refuge.

"Every girl that comes there suffers from the same problem – rejection," Col. Kamer said. "They all act out their hostilities – some in such a way that we are forced to remove them, but others can and do accept the love and care offered them."

For some, he said, it is a home; for others a "way station" in adjusting to life.

The Florida Federation of Woman's Clubs made possible the building of the first cottage in 1972, and a second completed in 1976.

Every type of home situation is represented among the 16 girls now occupying the two cottages, he explained. They range in extremes from the girl with neurotic problems from the home of a well-to-do doctor to the child from the "sub-culture" of society, whose language and vernacular were strictly from the gutter when she was accepted. Both, he said, have received the same love, mentoring, and concern from dedicated "house parents," and both have responded well.

The girls, who may be referred from anywhere in the state, receive full academic and religious education, and are granted a $3 allowance "when we can affordit." They are also frequently "adopted" or sponsored by individual clubs, and are remembered with gifts on their birthdays or other holidays. Gifts from outside are always welcome, Kamer assured his listeners.

They also get proper medical, dental and optical care from physicians, dentists and opticians in the Melbourne area. If they are in need of special educational help, they get it.

"We are now under Title I, providing tutoring of up to 16 hours a week, if needed," the executive director said.

Although many of the girls are referred to the ranch by the Division of Youth Services or the Division of Family Services, none need enter unless she chooses to.

"No girl can come unless she wants to come," Col. Kamer said. "We wouldn't have her, otherwise."

The prospective "adoptees" are brought to Hacienda and allowed to inspect the premises, and to discover for themselves the atmosphere in which they will be living.

Other than the Title I money available, Hacienda is supported entirely by donations, the speaker emphasized.

"Almost every dollar comes from the FFWC or other organizations," he said. "We are the only one in the state supported entirely by donations."

Of which there are never enough, he said.

"They (the girls) have greater needs than we are capable of providing," he said. "They need more than what we have to give."

C-section birth to be discussed

STUART–Childbirth Education Association of Martin-St. Lucie County (CEA) will hold an informal group discussion on the C-section birth at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 29, at the home of Mrs. Gayle Harrell. The address is 1885 N.W. Eagle Point, Stuart.

The discussion will cover a woman's needs in accepting and experiencing a Caesarean birth. C-section candidates and those who have experienced a C-section are urged to come to the meeting.

Historic River home to be Holiday House

JENSEN BEACH–Holiday shoppers and art lovers in the Jensen-Rio area are being invited to attend the annual Holiday House sponsored by the Royal Poinciana Garden Circle of the St. Lucie County Garden Federation, set this year for Dec. 8.

This year's benefit event will be of particular interest to the Jensen area, because the host residence will be the historic colonial style home of Dr. and Mrs. Robert Cambron, at 5707 S. Indian River Drive, Fort Pierce.

Mrs. Edward G. Enns, wife of St. Lucie County Commissioner Enns, is this year's Holiday House chairman. The theme will be in keeping with the religious connotations of the Christmas season.

The Cambron home, which will be decorated by members of the Federation, will be opened to the public. A bazaar will be held in conjunction with the open house, and proceeds will again be used for community beautification.

The Circle this year is attempting to negotiate with the City of Fort Pierce and the county to recreate the band pavilion which once sat near the former Peter P. Cobb store, the trade bomb of which at one time piled the entire Indian River from Jensen to Vero Beach.

First Wednesday card party set

STUART–The Woman's Club of Stuart will hold the "First Wednesday of the month" card party at 1 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 7, at the clubhouse on East Ocean Boulevard.

The public is invited.

Lucie chapter, are promoting a program to reunite runaways with their parents

The organization has established a toll free number which runaways can use to contact their parents, without having their parents know where they are, if they don't want it known.

The number to use for all states but Texas is 1-800-231-6946. To call someone in Texas, dial 1-800-392-3352.

"Let someone know you're alive...you call us, we'll listen. Completely confidential," reads a notice published by the Knights of Pythias. The program is titled "Operation Peace of Mind."

JB Garden Club plans rummage sale

JENSEN BEACH—Plans for the annual "Trash and Treasure" sale of the Jensen Beach Garden Club are being finalized.

The event is set for Saturday, Dec. 3, at the Jensen Beach Community Center on Commercial Street. Doors will open at 9 a.m. for the all day event ending at 4 p.m.

Woman's Club sponsors home decoration

PORT ST. LUCIE—Every resident of Port St. Lucie and River Park is eligible to enter the 1977 Christmas Home Decoration Contest, sponsored by the Port St. Lucie Woman's Club. There will be judging, with cash prizes awarded December 23.

Contest categories have been planned for both lighted and unlighted displays, and in a range from a whole house and yard extravaganza to a simpler door, mailbox or lamppost decoration.

"The whole idea is to make a good thing better," said a spokesman for the sponsoring organization.

"We have a beautiful community. Christmas decoration will add sparkle and glow. We think a contest may make the effort more fun and increase the feeling of good well among ourselves, extending to our seasonal visitors."

General Development Corporation has agreed to provide funds for the cash prizes to go to winners in each category.

A yard greeting card has been added to the standard categories this year which will need nothing more than a standing sheet of plywood or an old door, some paint or cutouts which would say "Merry Christmas" to every passerby. The postage-free greeting may be either lighted or unlighted according to contest rules.

Other categories in the contest will be best decorated home (first, second and third); best religious display, best roof, best door, and best mailbox or lamppost.

The contest is to be carried out on an entry system this year.

Holiday Ball Saturday at PSL Community Center

PORT ST. LUCIE—Community Center officials issued a last minute reminder this week for the Holiday Ball to be given at the Center on Saturday, Nov. 26, to open festivities scheduled for the holiday season.

The gala event will begin with a turkey dinner at 8 p.m., and music will continue until midnight furnished by The Jazz Scene. It is a BYOB event with set-ups to be provided.

Proceeds from the dinner-dance go to the Center's operating fund.

Tickets may be obtained from the Center office or from members of the committee: Ethel Krall, Ann Broom, Alice Bowen, Agnes LaFrance, Sally Coulon, June Johnston and Nickie Porter.

'Aesthetic legislation' is defeated by P&Z Board

BY BOB FRYER

PORT ST. LUCIE—After receiving advice from Assistant City Attorney Fred Horowitz that "you can't legislate aesthetics", city Planning and Zoning Board members voted six to four Monday to defeat a proposal that would require accessory buildings to be "of the same building materials and architectural style" as the houses they are attached to.

Already the city has a regulation that requires all utility buildings to be located at the rear of homes and to be attached to the homes. Horowitz said this rule can be defended on grounds of safety, but he said requiring accessory buildings to be of the same materials and architectural style of the main house "is a grey area and there may be certain resistance to it from the courts."

City Manager Elmer Cox said the requirement was originally proposed by former Planning and Zoning Board Chairman H.R. Neighbours. Cox also said, "Normally, I'm not too strong for unreasonable restrictions, but something should be done...the city should, within the law, maintain the architectural style of the city."

Board member Vaughn Lewis made a motion to adopt the proposed regulation. However, Hughes Brininger cautioned that if the city made it too costly to build an accessory building, residents would not do so, and as a result there would be "open carports and people would have lawnmowers and other stuff scattered around the house instead of keeping them in a utility shed. It could defeat the purpose."

Mrs. Short, another board member, said he felt the regulation would create "a burden on some people that just don't have the money some of the rest of you board members have got."

Brininger predicted it would cost about $2,500 for utility sheds under the regulation.

When it came to a vote, Short, Brininger, Vernon Ferrar, Col. John Huncharek, Harry Riedel and Henry Sewell voted "no", and Ed Jenkins, Ben Miller, Vaughn Lewis and George Monteith voted yes.

Arlene is Builder's president

JENSEN BEACH–The new president of the Treasure Coast Builders' Association, in her inaugural speech Saturday night, lashed out against the "unlicensed builder," the man or woman who makes a career of building and selling one house at a time.

"By unlicensed builder," she qualified her remarks, "we do not mean the man who may build one house for himself. This is the right of the free enterprise system. We mean the man or woman who continually starts one house after another in the same area, who puts up an owner-builder sign right away with no intention of living in the house for the required year that statute no. 468 is most explicit about. There is a law on the book and the owner builder violates this law. We now have hope of seeing this law enforced."

Mrs. Signore, outgoing president of the builders' auxiliary, was installed as president of the association by Jack A. Demetree, of Orlando, past state president. Mrs. Signore received a standing ovation.

Committee recommends final pension plan payoffs

BY BOB FRYER

PORT ST. LUCIE--The city Finance Committee voted unanimously Friday, Nov. 18, to recommend a schedule of final payments to current and past city employees from the city's old pension plan.

The schedule recommended is the same one the city council considered last week, but decided to set aside until they got an opinion from the Finance Committee.

Committee members Don Estes, Frank Alexander and Ed Mertz heard a detailed report on the proposed schedule of cash dispersement before voting to recommend it to the city council. City Manager Elmer Cox, Treasurer Gerald Van Pasten and Assistant City Attorney Fred Horowitz presented the report.

At the head of the considerations was the proposed payment of $5,620 to former mayor Lawrence Kimmel, who told council members last week that he felt he should receive more cash.

Several years ago the city's pension plan was challenged in court by a group of citizens. In July, 1975, a circuit court judge ruled that some portions of the pension plan were improper.

As a result of the ruling, city council members passed a resolution to remove themselves and the part-time city attorney from the pension plan Kimmel was mayor at the time.

The court ruling in 1975 stated that two council members with about eight years of service with the city had a 100 per cent vested right to funds the city contributed to the pension plan, but ruled that Kimmel, who served a little under four years with the city, was entitled to only a 40 per cent vested right to funds contributed to the plan in his behalf.

Though the city council members and the part time attorney were eliminated from the plan in 1975, the plan continued in effect for other city employees until Sept 30, 1977, when a new pension plan was adopted.

Some of the former city employees and council members, who had been declared to have a 100 per cent vested right to funds deposited on their behalf, have already been paid a final settlement from the old pension plan. Those payments include more than $21,000 for former council members Dr. Harold Nottley and Franklin Beardsley, $20,500 to the widow of former mayor Eugene Kavanaugh, and nearly $22,000 to former part time city attorney Rupert Smith. City Manager Cox explained Friday.

Cox said that since the court ruling in 1975 and since the old plan expired on Sept 30, 1977, audits have been conducted to arrive at the proposed schedule of final payments. Cox said the proposed final payment schedule was agreed upon after he and Horowitz and Van Pasten consulted with the trustee of the pension plan, the insurance company under which the plan was written and with Internal Revenue Service officials.

Under the proposed schedule, Kimmel is to get 40 per cent of the money contributed to the plan on his behalf, plus interest and payment of the cash surrender value of an annuity policy. This amounts to $5,620.

But Cox said that Kimmel is contending that he should collect more money, asserting that even though the court ruled he had a 40 per cent vested right in 1975, he was never officially cancelled from the plan and now deserves a 100 per cent vested right to the funds. Cox said Kimmel has threatened a lawsuit to get the extra money he feels he deserves.

Cox said that since the resolution was passed in 1975, eliminating council members from the plan, Kimmel should only have a 40 per cent right to the funds But, he did disclose that two payments were made to the pension plan policy for Kimmel "inadvertently" in 1975 and 1976 and that one inadvertant payment was made on behalf of former public safety director Leslie Thomas Cox said, however, that these payments were taken into consideration in arriving at a final payment figure for Kimmel and Thomas.

A total, over the years, of $112,000 was paid by the city into the old pension plan Now, since final settlements have been made to many of the former employees, there remains $21,682 in the pension fund.

According to the payment schedule recommended, $16,171 of the remaining funds is to be distributed to past and present city employees and the balance of the funds is to be paid to present city employees based on the formula used to figure their share of the $16,171

Committee member Alexander asked Assistant City Attorney Horowitz what would happen if a court ruled Kimmel is entitled to 100 per cent of the money deposited on his behalf. Horowitz said the city would be obligated to pay whatever the difference was between the funds set aside for Kimmel and the amount of the final judgment. Later, Horowitz said, "We're not trying to deny Mr. Kimmel a penny less than what we feel is fair, and if there is an objection and he is found to be right, the city will pay whatever is decided by the court , but we feel the formula we have arrived at is a fair and just one."

HUBERT, the caterpillar who thought he was a mustache, actually turned out to be a fuzzy piece of cloth on the finger of Port St. Lucie Branch librarian Susan Erhardt. Mrs. Erhardt entertained Port St. Lucie youngsters with her finger portrayal of Hubert during a celebration last week of Children's Book Week.

State Law CS-223 requires that tenants be notified in November of any rent increase for the coming year. Where's everybody on Saturday mornings? Well, it's the time for yard and rummage sales and who can keep the OBPers away? That's where friends meet, familiar faces all around. In fact, at times it's difficult to get the news items, all regular contacts are missing. Anyway, it's beneficial for Thrift Shop and TV Sale, as shelves and back closets have to be cleaned out to make room for a new batch of stuff from the Saturday jaunts

PARK EVENTS

Two schedule changes: Square dancing now at 1:30 Monday, with mixer and pattern dance instruction at 1; and Hobby Class now 10:30 on Friday. All classes have started, and more students needed for Spanish

Tuesday night square dancing got off to a good start last week with three sets there. In fact more later as square dancers arrive and get settled and the beginners get their courage up.

Saturday night dances are off and running in great style. Almost a floor full for ballroom, round, mixers and square dancing. It's a gay ol' time.

SUNDAY CONCERTS are to start at 7 p.m., Nov. 27, at the shuffle courts, when John Leybeck sets up his Hi-Fi to give program of Ol' Favorites

CAMERA CLUB attendance is picking up, 78 at the Nov. 17 meeting, when Jim and Jean McClain showed part of their European tour. There won't be any meeting Thanksgiving, but shows will be resumed Dec. 1 at 7 p.m. when Jack Comer, program chairman for December, takes over. Secretary Freda Peterkin reports that government movie on Hoover Dam will be available for the Dec. 15 meeting.

SHUFFLEBOARD is also going great guns, with all league games under way. Standing of Indian League: OBP and Stuart, 8; Spanish Lakes, 6; Vero and Whispering Creek, 5; Fort Pierce, 4; Port St. Lucie, 2.

Central League: Orchard Acres, 4; Stuart, 3; OBP and Causeway, Port St. Lucie and Spanish Lakes, 2; Holiday Out, 1; and Whispering Creek, 0.

The park tournaments are off to a good start, with seven courts of Slags on Monday; seven courts of Petticoaters on Tuesday; four courts of beginners for instruction on Wednesday; nine courts for Pot Luck on Friday; and George Levangie, Round Robin manager, says, "All ready to go Saturday, Nov. 26."

Hilda Gibbs, club secretary, had the good news. OBPers were winners at Stuart last week. Evelyn Grove and Ted Wizner took first, and Ela Lee and Guy Fusco came in second.

Lucretia (Lu) Logerquist of 8 Banyan just got back from a seven month stay at her big beach house in Jacksonport, Wisc. She had a busy summer with her hospital, library and craft center obligations and says it was beautifully cool on the lake side

Lu made a stop off on her way down here to visit with her son, Ben Logerquist, community leader of the Madison Proving Grounds in Indiana. Then, Ben's wife drove Lu the rest of the way. The four day visit was great! Lu and they talked about Lu's four grandchildren and six great grandchildren

Frank and Dorothy Glazier, 4 NE Tenth, came back last week after spending the summer in Keene, N.H. They had a good garden of vegetables and flowers and plenty of wild raspberries for jam. That was Dorothy's job, while Frank watched over the cutting of fire wood from their 35 acres of woodland

They celebrated three anniversaries this summer: 46th wedding anniversary; 35th high school class reunion; and 45th college reunion. But Frank was mostly concerned with a quarter million dollar addition to the Senior Center he started many years ago.

They got out of the northland just in time, for the next day there was a small snow storm causing 47 cars to get ditched.

Red and Hazel Garrity, 8 NE Tenth, are back from seven months in South Lancaster, Ma., where they have a great garden and brought back sacks and sacks of onions to prove it. Also, Red proudly displays a yard long squash. They also escaped a snow storm by one day.

Ed and Ethel Heinold, 6 NE Tenth, after six months in West Boylston, Mass., have returned. They attended a 50th wedding anniversary where Ed was best man and it was quite remarkable, all eight of the wedding party were able to attend. Ethel says a 10-month old granddaughter can be a handful after a month and they were two tired people. The summer weather was good. They live in the cool shady woods on Wachusetts Reservoir where they can fish, but not boat or swim.

Martin and Frances Anderson, 33 SW 5th, back from seven months at Spring Lake, Mich., where they have a cottage right on the lake and Martin may use his 36 foot boat for charter fishing. Fishing was good, in fact so good that smoking had to be established. George Ryder dropped in to see them and they met Jack Comer at St. Augustine on the way. With the help of The Mirror they kept up with the park doings all summer.

Scots dress up for gathering o' the clan

JENSEN BEACH—The skirl of the bagpipe and the flashing of kilts took over the area Saturday night, when the Sons of Florida again held their "gathering o the Clan" for the ninth consecutive year.

It was the annual ball of the St. Andrew Society, the highlight of the Highlands descendents who now make their homes in Florida. Founded by the late W.O. McLaren, the ball traditionally brings out the tokens of Scottish royalty in full regalia, each boasting the tartan and costume of his or her particular clan.

Col. James Waldie of Port St. Lucie, president of the society, greeted the guests and introduced the special personalities to be honored during the evening. Among them was Col. McLaren's widow, who has continued her active role in Florida's Scottish affairs.

Some 350 attended the event, including a few from as far away as Melbourne and Orlando. The musicians were again members of the Miami St. Andrew's Piping Band, who were accompanied by dancers treating the crowd to authentic highland flings.

Proceeds from the party will go to the annual scholarship fund.

ROBERT W. ORMISTON of High was among the Scots reveling at nual party. She wears the Wilson

HONORARY PIPER George Nicoll and his wife enjoy the prime rib dinner at the annual Scottish Ball, held for the ninth year. Nicoll is not only the top local piper, but teacher of many in the Miami-based Andrew Pipers' Band

FROM MELBOURNE they came, and from other parts of the state...Among the welcome repeaters were Mr. and Mrs. E.J. (Gus) Cranston of the Cape area, who have become regulars for the state-wide Society event.

East-west winners were Earl Wagner and Tom Cassidy, 182½; Bill and Bee Snelling, 180½; Ellis and Martin Quirk, 175½; Myrtle Fleming and Connie Morse, 168; Hazel Whicker and Ruth Kendall, 165; Bob Libson and Ed Sarkesian, 163.

Stuart Duplicate Club

STUART—The Stuart Duplicate Club met in regular session at the Youth Center on Wednesday, Nov. 10. With 10 tables in play, average north-south was 96; east-west, 84.

North-south winners were Ann Mooney and Harriet Cooley, 111½; Grant Shaffer and Joe Cox, 108½; Gerry and Mary Boyd, 108; Zell Stanley and Lee Magliore, 97½.

East-west winners were Martin and Ellie Quirk, 108; Martin and Jean Stapleton, 98½; Tommy Lenihan and Emil McHale, 97½; Al and Betty Dinger, 94½.

Game time is 7:30 p.m. every Wednesday. All area duplicate players are invited. Roger White is director and a partner is guaranteed.

AR THE BOYS A'CALLIN' and everyone else did, too, as the St. Andrew Band of Miami made their way into the hall amid bagpipes and drums, to Highland blood of the Scots attending the party. The dramatic and precise vers of the musicians were followed by an expert display of Highland ing.

BY DONNIE WILKIE

PIERCE—The John Carroll will not be a part of the massive Florida state high school due to a vote of district school held last week.

Rams (4-4) had by far the best their district, which includes Central Catholic (4-6) and St. ad going into last week's action.

However, an 8-7 district loss to Melbourne Central Catholic was the Key game in a three-way split, John Carroll came back to defeat St. Cloud 36-7, then St. Cloud upset Central Catholic 29-28 to even the race at 1-1 for all three teams.

In last week's vote, each principal voted for his own school on the first ballot, and then after a lengthy presentation by the principals on why their schools should be picked, another vote was taken.

St. Cloud knew that if the second ballot ended tied, they would get the nod because, under district rules, the team that had never won the district would go to the playoffs after a second deadlock in voting.

Apparently, MCC thought they really deserved to go to the playoffs, because they refused to changed their vote. St. Cloud, knowing what would happen after a second deadlock, again voted for themselves, and Carroll voted for their own cause. Thus, after the second 1-1-1 vote, St. Cloud was awarded the spot in the playoffs.

On the field, the Rams were hardly impressive, losing a 44-8 decision to fifth ranked Lake and Alachua Santa Fe. The loss meant that for the second straight season, the Rams finished the schedule by being soundly thrashed. Last year, they were pounded by Pahokee 55-8 in the first round of playoff action.

Area playoff matchups this week will be of prime concern for high school football buffs. Delray Atlantic highlights the schedule, with the Eagles meeting fourth Suncoast. The difference between the Eagles' 8-1 record and the Chargers' 6-3 mark is a 14-13 victory by Atlantic over Suncoast two weeks ago. That game decided the Suncoast West championship race, but the key was an injury to Anthony Carter, Suncoast's phenomenal wingback, just before halftime. The Chargers were leading 12-0 at that point, but could not mount an attack without their standout runningb

If Carter plays, the Chargers are given an excellent chance to upend the third ranked Eagles in this AAA first round game.

In AA action, Pahokee (5-5) will take on Fort Lauderdale Pine Crest. The Blue Devils, who went all the way to the state final last year, are not that good this year, but should get by Pine Crest.

In AAAA playoff action, Boca Raton (9-1), winners of the Suncoast East Division, will meet seventh-ranked Deerfield Beach. If Mark Richt can pass effectively and Greg Fashaw can run well on the deadly draw play that the [illegible] use, the local district champs can beat the favored opponents. And if Boca wins here, it's on to higher plateaus, namely the Miami region. This is where the Bobcats will probably get nailed.

The state playoffs will continue through the next four weeks, with four lucky teams emerging as champions in classes A, AA, AAA and AAAA.

Cobras win on bomb

BY DONNIE WILKIE

FORT PIERCE—The Fort Pierce Central Cobras won their ninth game of the season Friday night at Lawnwood Stadium, edging archrival Vero Beach 22-19.

Quarterback Peter Barriner, subbing for the injured Eddie Hearn, threw a 37-yard scoring pass to Lee Bell with 3:18 to play in the game to give Fort Pierce the win.

The Cobras, who will be forced to miss the playoffs for the second straight season, played sluggishly for most of the evening, while the Indians played inspired football.

Vero Beach had taken a 19-15 lead midway through the final period when Gary Sears scored from 16 yards out. Bill Marven's extra point kick was good, and with 8:28 to play, Fort Pierce chances looked slim. But the Cobras responded on the next series.

Kevin Dickerson had started the evening's scoring when he ran 22 yards for the only touchdown of the first quarter. The 7-6 lead held up until the Indians got their first score midway through the second period. Owen Gregory caught a 35-yard toss from quarterback Greg Lindsey to bring the Indians to within one point at 7-6. But Marven's PAT kick was blocked, so the Cobras retained their slim lead at halftime.

Cedric Sweeting gave Central a "Sweet" moment early in the second half when he intercepted Lindsey's first pass of the half and scooted 34 yards to paydirt. That, and the two-point run moments later by Vernon Phillips made it a nine-point Cobra bulge at 15-6.

Then the Indians (3-8) got hot. Lindsey kept on a 1-yard TD plunge and Sears scored his touchdown to make it 19-15, before Bell caught the game-winning pass from Barriner.

Fort Pierce ended its season at 6-4.

Tri-County unbeaten

BY DONNIE WILKIE

JENSEN BEACH—Tri County Gas remained unbeaten Sunday afternoon in the Jensen Beach Optimist Youth Soccer League, while trimming the fourmanesmen of Rick Carroll 3-0.

Mack Lowry, the Lower Division's leading scorer with 18 goals, scored twice as the league leaders (5-0-0) shut out their opponents. Mark Dieffenbach cashed in for one score to complete the scoring.

LIONS 6 KIWANIS 6

Neither team could score in this Lower Division contest, which featured excellent defense. The tie dropped Kiwanis four points behind Tri-County Gas in the standings after five games.

ANGELO'S 3 GIOVANNI'S 3

Six different players scored as the teams battled to a 3-3 tie. Angelo's Plumbing had a chance to take over sole possession of first place in the Middle Division standings, but the tie merely locked them in a three-way tie with Lord's and Gold Coast Tires.

Eddie Justice, Jacques Mendell and Carrie Lazard scored for Giovanni's, while Jeff Stoddard, Steve Huffaker and Paul Richardson tallied for Angelo's.

Giovanni's now has three points in the division race, with all of them coming on ties. They possess a record of 0-3-3, while Angelo's pushed their mark to 2-3-1.

Leading scorers in the Lower Division are Lowry (Tri-County) 10; Dieffenbach (Tri-County) 5; Parent (Kiwanis) 5.

Leading scorers in the Middle Division are Lord (Lord's) 8; Justice (Giovanni's) 7; Jochem (Gold Coast) 7.

Sign up for sewing at Center

PORT ST. LUCIE—The Beautiful Waters Homemakers Club of Port St. Lucie is proud of one of its new members who is now teaching sewing classes at the Port St. Lucie Community Center.

Frances Gudmondsen, who owned and managed a theatrical costume company for 14 years, and was a sewing instructor for the Singer Company in Minneapolis, Minn., for eight years, is the club member who is teaching area women of all ages beginning, intermediate and advanced sewing every Wednesday morning from nine to 12 noon.

Students are given one-on-one instruction in the proper techniques of caring for and using a sewing machine. Pattern fitting is another facet of instruction which is kept current in order to fit in with existing women's fashions.

Mrs. Gudmondsen emphasizes that anyone who sews or wants to sew is welcome to join her class.

"We will be glad to give you whatever help you feel you need to make you a better seamstress or sewing machine operator," she said.

In order to enroll in the current course or a subsequent course, call 878-1388 or 878-0888 to make a reservation.

SCOUTS welcomed into Girl Scout Troop 84 by their leader, Mrs. Thomas (Sandra) Thurlow, center, are, from left, Joy Lake, Heide Demers, Lisa Johnson and Katherine Bryant. The new troop, formed in September, is sponsored by American Legion Post 138. Mrs. Thurlow, as leader, is assisted by Mrs. Barbara Stevens and Mrs. Peggy Lyon. A TALENTED VISITOR in the area during the past week has been James Michael, who was visiting his grandmother, Mrs. J.G. Bergman and his Aunt Peggy (Mrs. Fred) Meissner. Novice duplicate clinic planned

JENSEN BEACH—All local rubber bridge players are invited to take part in a "Learn to play duplicate bridge" clinic, which will be held Friday, Dec. 3, in the Community Room of First Federal Savings and Loan Association, Jensen Beach.

The clinic will be held on Friday mornings from 11 a.m. to 12 noon, under the direction of Kay Monroe, director of the Community Bridge Club.

The lessons will prepare bridge players for a new world of competition and skill with an explanation of all aspects necessary for playing in a novice duplicate game. In duplicate bridge play, all players play the same set of twenty hands. Scores are compared and scored at the end of the session.

The lectures will be followed at 1 p.m. by a novice game for those who wish to practice their new knowledge with other beginning players.

Santa will arrive by firetruck

CHAMBER LEADER Jack Klett with Santa

JENSEN BEACH–Santa Claus, to coin a musical cliche, is coming to town.

He arrives Saturday via fire truck, according to Helen Richardson, executive director of the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce. His chauffeur will be Don Wilkie, a long-time active member of the Chamber, and his bag of candy will be provided by the Jensen Beach Kiwanis Club.

The jolly old man with the big tummy will make the rounds of all the neighborhoods in town on his big red wagon borrowed from the fire department between 11 a.m. and 1 p.m. He will then go to the Chamber office on Commercial Street, to take Christmas gift orders from all good little girls and boys. All the kids in the area are invited to consult with him between 1 and 3 p.m.

Signs of Christmas are emerging all over the area, as the Chamber's "Try Jensen Beach First" Yuletide Shopping Campaign goes into its second week. The big Santa is on high in front of the C of C building, and stores throughout the area are experiencing an upsurge in pre-Christmas selling. According to several merchants in Jensen and Rio, apparently shoppers are taking their "Try Jensen First" seriously.

The promotion, headed by Art Hansen of the Chamber and George Duso, of Duso's Five and Ten, was initiated last year by Ron Mitchell, president of the Jensen Beach Bank. Its purpose, Mitchell has explained, is to encourage people to get acquainted with their local stores during the holiday shopping season, and to find out for themselves how easy it is to enjoy the friendly spirit.

By shopping at home, the Chamber spokesmen remind residents of the Jensen-Rio area, residents also help the local economy while saving time, energy and tempers.

The Saturday Santa-arrival also marks the beginning of the Salvation Army Christmas Kettle drive. Shoppers in the Commercial Street downtown area and the Winn Dixie shopping center will find members of local organizations manning the kettles, which will bring a happier and brighter Christmas to the area's needy families.

Salvation Bells will start ringing

BY SALLY LATHAM

JENSEN BEACH–The bells will be ringing in the Christmas season, beginning Saturday, when members of local civic organizations pick up the clangers for the Salvation Army.

The goal for the Christmas Kettle drive in Martin County this year is $5,000, according to Salvation Army Major Byrd Hudson.

To stimulate the action, organizations in major communities will be vying in friendly competition, to fatten each pot to the greatest degree between now and the annual distribution of Yule largesse to the area's needy families.

Some 100 families in Martin County will receive food and gifts through the money contributed, Major Hudson said Tuesday. In order to make the gifts for children more individualized and appropriate, dolls and other gift items will be set up again this year in the Stuart police station, and parents will be invited to come in and "shop" Dec. 14 and 15. The distribution will be the 16th.

The competition at the kettles will be waged between the Jensen Beach Lions, Kiwanis and Optimists and the Stuart Rotary, Interact and Key Clubs. Dick Campbell is recruiting the Jensen contingent, while Dr. William Bartlam is the Stuart "general".

A. Peter Haire is chairman of the Salvation Army Advisory Board for Martin County. Also working on the board's many projects are Campbell, Dr. Bartlam, William Bedell, Howard Shields, Felix Williams, Glenn Sutton, Fred Sundheim and Paul Hennings.

The kettles in Jensen Beach are to be at the Post Office and Winn Dixie.

R Plantation water coming rom 1,000-foot-deep river

BY SALLY LATHAM

EN BEACH–Indian River Plan- the luxury 195-acre resort is fast developing at the tip of nt Island south of the Elliott , a opening with a water system n concept, Martin County civic and members of the news media formed during a press luncheon luncheon, held at Plantation was staged by Indian River ion Company president Frank I. is to inform the public on the devised water system which will supply from a 1,000-foot-under- river of fresh but brackish water, rce of which is the artesian pouring from the subterranean able in the Orlando area.

ining the system, Engineer C. Pitchford of Hutchison ers of West Palm Beach ained that Indian River Planta- will not be using the groundwater of Martin County."

e the IR Plantation was first in the ng stage, Pitchford said, the ers had approached the city of for its water supply.

first our water was not a real ," Pitchford said. "We had a lems from the City of Stuart. But years, Stuart was faced with the n of salt water encroachmenta. uldn't get enough water over here ntinuously with three and four couldn't get enough water up to ir toilets."

county commission, as a result, ed a moratorium on supplying to Hutchinson Island. It was then neers for the development began ng alternatives, and they came g the idea of tapping the Floridan subterranean river, he explained, atural flow from the center of the to an outlet well out into the Atlantic Ocean.

"If we didn't tap it," he said, "it would all flow out into the ocean."

To purify this natural source, and to reduce the chlorides and sulfides to a degree making it fit for human consumption, the Permutit Company, Inc., of Paramus, N.J., was employed to install a "reverse osmosis plant."

Bill Schumacker, southeastern regional manager for Permutit, was present at the luncheon to explain the comparatively new process, which has been used to produce usable drinking water in the Keys and in the Caribbean Islands.

The water from the underground river, the experts explained, rises naturally in the artesian well and is sent directly to tanks, or permeators, in the reverse osmosis plant where the normal process of osmosis is reversed.

"Three tanks containing cellulose triacetate hollow fibre reverse osmosis membranes, each about three feet long, accept the water from the well," Pitchford said. "Pressure is applied to the section containing the brackish water so that it is forced through the highly sensitive membranes, leaving behind the dissolved and particulate material which causes it to be unfit for human consumption."

The resort complex has three wells, the engineer said: one is capped; one is for watering the golf course, and the third, a 400,000 gallon storage tank. A smaller 20,000 gallon pressure tank, he said, has been installed to insure adequate pressure in the lines which will serve Plantation's residential villas, resort buildings, restaurants, golf and tennis clubhouses and other facilities.

The "proof of the pudding," for the media people at the luncheon, came in the announcement that the water on their luncheon tables had come from the new reverse osmosis plant Indian River Plantation, Nebhut told his guests, will in the long run be a $100 million investment, and the resort contractors will spend $10 million just for expanding recreation facilities.

"The payroll will be $800,000 to $900,000 for jobs that were not here a year ago," he said.

Audubon Wildlife series

JENSEN BEACH–Area nature lovers have rich fare in store for the coming season, beginning in January. The Audubon Wildlife Film Series, cosponsored by the Martin County Audubon Society and the National Audubon Society, will take viewers on nature trips from the heart of Florida to the wilds of North Dakota and from the Bahamas to Quebec.

The documentaries, prepared by some of the country's top naturalist-photographers, will be presented at the Stuart Woman's Club at 729 East Ocean Boulevard. Each will begin at 8 p.m., and tickets are on sale both by season membership and single admission. Special rates are offered to students.

The schedule includes:

Jan 13 – "Vanishing American Wildlife," prepared and narrated by Burdette White.

Jan 27 – "East Side Story: Bahamas to Quebec," prepared and narrated by Walter Berle.

Feb 10 – "Pacific Shores," prepared and narrated by Norm Wakeman.

Feb. 24 – "Song of the Northern Prairie," prepared and narrated by Allen King.

March 10 – "Florida's Endangered Wildlife," prepared and narrated by L.J. Haney.

Tickets may be ordered in advance from Prof and Mrs. A.V. DesForges, telephone 283-3450, or Mr and Mrs James Covert, telephone 287-2979.

Annual Christmas Parade December 10

STUART–The 17th Annual Christmas Parade, sponsored by the Junior Women's Club of Stuart, will officially kick off the holiday season in Martin County at 4 p.m. Saturday, December 10.

The theme of this year's parade is "A Christmas Carol" with Tiny Tim and Mr. Scrooge as the Grand Marshals.

The parade route will not cross the railroad tracks this year. It will form at the Stuart Middle School, as before, proceed up East Ocean Boulevard to Confusion Corner, then down Flagler Avenue and disband in front of City Hall.

Parade participants are asked to not throw anything to avoid the possibility of someone getting hurt. This will be strictly enforced by the Stuart Police.

The judges' stand and public address system will be at Confusion Corner. Once again there will be many storybook characters, including Big Bird, Cookie Monster and Donald Duck.

Highlighting the parade will be none other than Santa, himself, direct from the North Pole. Santa will be waiting to greet all the boys and girls with candy canes and oranges in the City Hall parking lot at the close of the parade.

Entry forms are available at the Chamber of Commerce and anyone seeking line-up information may call Alice Bailey at 283-5335. Deadline for entering is November 30.

Entries are to be in line-up position at 2 p.m. the day of the parade. There will be pre-parade viewing by the judges, who this year are state and district officers of the Florida Federation of Junior Women's Clubs. Ten trophies are to be awarded, including grand prize, grand theme (second and third), two marching or drill units, religious, outstanding horse, outstandin business, and outstanding civic organization. Winners will be announced over WSTU immediately following the parade.

The annual Christmas Parade is the Juniors' way of saying "Thank You" and "Merry Christmas" to the community for its support of the Juniors' service to community and youth.

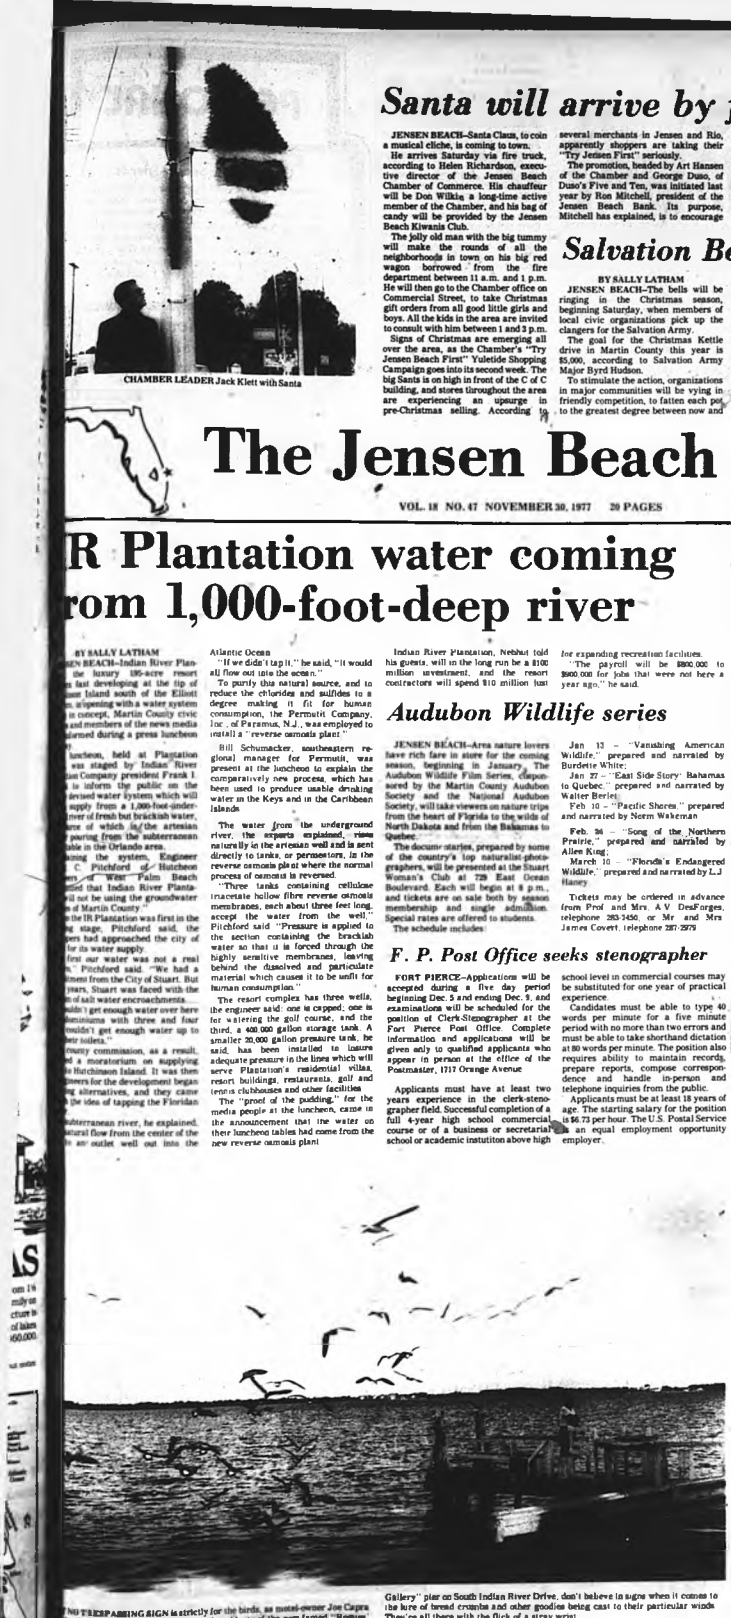
'First Wednesday' series opens

JENSEN BEACH–"Turtle Watch Beach and the Savannas" is the title of a color slide program to be offered at 8 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 7, at the Environmental Studies Center. The presentation is the second in this year's "First Wednesday" series.

The program will be presented by Bob Wagner, local resident who has produced a number of shows illustrating the beauties of Florida's natural areas.

The Wednesday show centers around Hutchinson Island the the nesting activities of the sea turtles that annually return to area beaches. Also included are photos depicting the unique Savannas marsh that extends from Fort Pierce southward to Jensen Beach just west of the Indian River.

As is customary, the Center's Wet Lab and Museum will be open for visitation before and after the program. There is no charge for the "First Wednesday" events.



NO TRESPASSING SIGN is strictly for the birds, as motel-owner Joe Capra gently willing to admit. The gulls, all residents of the now-famed "Rogues Gallery" pier on South Indian River Drive, don't believe in signs when it comes to the lure of bread crumbs and other goodies being cast to their particular winds. They're all there with the flick of a stray wrist.

D BEAUTY–For the most part, the North Fork of the St. Lucie River is e of unspoiled beauty. However, local conservationists are becoming about new housing developments that threaten to encroach upon the river's beauty. The conservationists took federal, state and local government officials, as well as the press, on a river trip Monday to point out the beauty of the river, and to show them places where it is being threatened.

mittee officials say at least five developments are underway or along the river within city limits y several projects in the perated area of the county are fer construction or are on the boards.

Spanish Lakes Riverfront Home Park was in the planning earlier this year, the four ations that formed the commit- passed resolutions opposing any into the river bank or any waterfront construction. As a result, a 50 foot setback was required for the project.

Two other projects planned in the unincorporated area, Hidden River Estates, on the west side of the river near Spanish Lakes Riverfront, and Rivers Edge, north of the North Port Marina, are also of concern to the committee. Though they haven't been built yet, Brunton says if they aren't regulated, they could pose a threat to the river. Also, a project inside the city limits which is now underway, Vikings Landing, has drawn the attention of the committee.

During the tour Brunton noted that Vikings Landing has been cited for several violations of regulations controlling development along the river, and he said there was one minor violation at Spanish Lakes Riverfront which was blamed on a bull dozer operator's mistake. And, as an unexpected emphasis of the threat of development, tour members spotted a bull dozer operating right next to the river between the North Port Marina and White City Park. The name of the property owner where the dozing occurred was not known, but the dozer operator said he was working for Jeffrey Construction of Fort Pierce.

Two guests on the tour, Haynes Johnson of the U.S. Corps of Engineers and Roger Gallup of the state Department of Environmental Regulations, got out of their boat and questioned the dozer operator. They said they plan to find out the name and address of the land owner. Then they will notify him of what they saw and give him time to come to their offices and discuss the problem.

When the boats got to Vikings Landing, where the North Fork meets Canal 24, dead stumps of cut mangroves and evidence of filling in dirt next to the river were pointed out. It is against state law to cut mangroves or to fill closely to the river.

Gallup of the DER said Victor Georgeff of Victory Construction, which is building Vikings Landing, has already been cited by his agency twice, for the mangrove cutting and for illegal filling. Also, Johnson of the Corps of Engineers said the Corps has cited Georgeff for another violation and that the Corps legal department is in the process of deciding what to do with the case. The DER legal staff in Tallahassee is looking into the citings by the DER.

Gallup said under civil penalties, if a maximum fine is imposed, Georgeff could have to pay $10,000 a day for each day each violation exists and said if criminal penalties were imposed the fine could be $25,000 a day. But, he said, compared to many other projects the Vikings Landing's violations are relatively minor and he said he does not know what action the DER legal staff will take. He said one ground for imposing a criminal penalty would be if a willful violation is proven, and he said if the alleged violations continue, this is evidence of willfulness. He said Georgeff has been told to remove the fill and to replant mangroves where they were cut.

Among those on the tour were U.S. Representative L.A. "Skip" Bafalis' assistant, Mac McLendon, State Representative Dale Cassens, County Commissioners E.E. Green and George Price, Port St. Lucie Mayor Bill McChesney, and City Councilmember Schuyler Sharpe.

When asked about the possibility of passing a county ordinance to require a 75-foot setback from the river for housing, Price and Green said they would consider it and would bring the matter up next Friday at a county commission workshop meeting for discussion with other commissioners.

Mayor McChesney displayed a map showing that most of the lands along the river are owned by General Development Corporation, and he said GDC has planned for years not to allow housing right on the river. Councilman Sharpe added that he had asked the city attorney for an opinion as to what sort of restrictions the city could impose on riverfront developments and he said the city attorney should make a report on it soon.

A GREAT BLUE HERON sits on a palm stump along the St. Lucie River. The heron is one of hundreds of birds, fish and animals which find a home along the river. Area conservationists made a pitch to governmental officials Monday to help preserve the river in its natural state.

City Hall architect may be picked Dec. 5

PORT ST. LUCIE–City council members are expected to hear a recommendation from City Manager Elmer Cox at their next council meeting, Monday, Dec. 5, as to who should be picked as architect for the new City Hall.

On Tuesday night, Nov. 29, the council members were to interview James Gibson and Arthur McCosh, architects of Johns Island in Indian River County, for the job. It is the sixth firm to apply for the job.

On Thursday at 3:30 p.m., Cox will meet with the City Hall Committee, which is comprised of Vernon Forrar, Bea Miller and Ed Jenkins, to discuss applicants. Cox said as a result of that meeting, he hopes to make a recommendation to the council next Monday night as to who should be picked. There will be a special council meeting at 7 p.m. Monday and a workshop meeting at 7:30 p.m.

The city has already purchased a 14.5 acre tract at the northwest corner of Port St. Lucie Boulevard and Airoso Boulevard for the new City Hall. Cox expects it will cost about $750,000 to built it and he says he hopes construction can begin around the first of next year. Completion would be seven to 10 months later, he estimates.

Christmas mail rush is without deadlines

PORT ST. LUCIE–The Christmas mail rush is already underway in Port St. Lucie, but unlike most years, no official deadline has been set for sending Christmas cards and packages within the United States.

Apparently because an early Christmas mailing deadline may cause declines in Christmas season sales for businessmen, the U.S. Postal Service has refrained from setting a deadline this year.

But that doesn't mean you should wait until the last minute to send out cards and packages, because the Christmas season is by far the busiest time of the year for mailmen.

Joanne Shannon, Postmistress of the Port St. Lucie Post Office at City Hall, says, "As soon as Thanksgiving is over, people seem to start thinking of Christmas. The volume of mail in the office started picking up, and from what I hear, it should continue to get heavy throughout the season. Already, I've had a lot of packages brought in."

When asked what the deadline for mailing cards and packages within the United States is, Ms. Shannon said she had not received word yet.

A check with the Fort Pierce Post Office Supervisor, Herb Blum, revealed that there is no deadline for mailing within the continental states. But there are deadlines for Alaska and Hawaii and for overseas mail.

You should Christmas letters and packages to those states by Dec. 14, if you want them there by Dec. 25.

As for overseas, the situation is complicated by the longshoremen's strike. Blum said that originally, surface parcel post packages for Europe were to have a No. 21 deadline.

"But the dock workers' strike has caused the Postal Service to place an embargo on accepting surface parcel post for overseas. It looks like the strike may end soon, but there is already such a backlog of packages that I doubt if the strike ended this week and you mailed a package by surface parcel post, it would not make it overseas by Christmas," Blum said. He recommends sending overseas letters and packages by airmail. The Christmas mailing deadline for airmail cards and packages headed for Europe, where 90 per cent of overseas mail goes from Fort Pierce, is Dec. 9.

As for Canada, Blum says a Canadian postal workers strike last Christmas season caused delays. But this year, he says mail sent to Canadians by airmail should get there about as quickly as it takes to mail a letter to some of our western states. For surface parcel post to Canada, Blum says packages should be sent by Dec. 7.

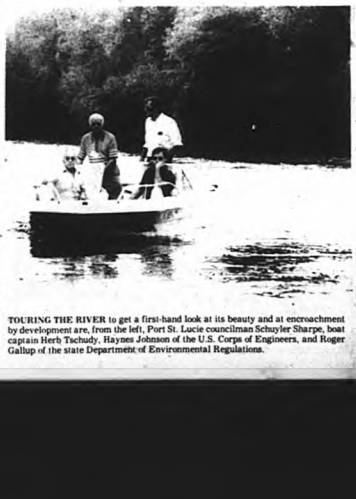
The Port St. Lucie post offices, at City Hall on Morningside Drive and at Warren's Cleaners near Prima Vista and U.S. 1, can handle any type of mail, Blum says, but he suggests that if you have something to mail by International Parcel Post, it would be best to bring it to the Fort Pierce post offices at 5th Street and Orange Ave., or 17th Street and Orange Ave.

"We are familiar with International Parcel Post at the two Fort Pierce offices and the workers in Port St. Lucie aren't. So, it would be easier to bring those items to us," Blum said.

The two post offices in Port St. Lucie are contract offices, one operated by the City of Port St. Lucie and the other operated by Warren's Cleaners. The workers in each office are paid by the contractors, the City and Warrens. Recently city officials have complained that the city is subsidizing the Postal Service by about $6,000 a year to operate the post office at City Hall. City Manager Elmer Cox has written Congressmen and the Postmaster General to request a full-fledged, regular Post Office in the city, to be staffed by Postal Service workers. He says the city is now large enough to deserve one.

Blum said he is aware of the requests Cox has made and he says at the Fort Pierce Post Office, "We've been expending efforts at the local office to get a regulation, branch office for Port St. Lucie. It would still be a branch of the Fort Pierce office, but carriers would originate from the Port St. Lucie office, But the decision is not in our hands, and we probably won't get an answer until the public does," Blum said.

BUSINESS IS PICKING UP at the Port St. Lucie Post Office on Morningside Drive as the Christmas season is cranking up. Postmistress Joanne Shannon says for the last week she has had a steady stream of persons bringing in Christmas packages for mailing. She asks that everyone mail early to make sure the presents are delivered in time for Christmas.



TOURING THE RIVER to get a first-hand look at its beauty and at encroachment by development are, from the left, Port St. Lucie councilman Schuyler Sharpe, boat captain Herb Tschudy, Haynes Johnson of the U.S. Corps of Engineers, and Roger Gallup of the state Department of Environmental Regulations.

CONGRESSMAN SKIP SAFALIS

WASHINGTON–What's the best way to stimulate a sluggish economy?

Some political leaders feel the best way is to spend money the government doesn't have so the government can turn around the finance various sorts of projects throughout the country.

It's called pump-priming and, as an economic theory, it's been around for years. Unfortunately, however, it hasn't been all that successful.

However, there is another way to prime the pump - without relying on the inefficiency to spend the people's money.

And that is to let the people spend it themselves.

It's worked before, and it can work again. That's why I have co-sponsored legislation to give taxpayers a tax cut averaging 33 per cent between now and 1975.

In addition, this bill would reduce corporate taxes from 48 to 55 per cent over the next three years.

What would such a tax cut do? According to experts, the end result would be the creation of four million new jobs and the addition of $157.4 billion to the gross national product.

Equally as important, such a move would show the American people that the Congress cares about them; that the Congress knows taxes have reached the unreasonable level and must be reduced.

Interestingly, the effect on the national debt will be negligible.

The President Kennedy's tax cut in 1964 some economists predicted a $2.6 billion loss to the Treasury in the first year. Instead, there was a $7 billion gain. The period 1960-65 saw the U.S. with its greatest capital investment boom in modern history. Jobs were created by the tens of thousands, standard welfare lines and putting men and women to work creating goods and services for others to buy.

And, because of the tax cut, there was money to buy things.

There are those who contend that five year span was one of the best in our economic history.

Unfortunately, all the good works went down the drain in the late 1960s as a free-spending President and a free-spending Congress enacted all sorts of social programs and tried to run a major war – all without a tax increase.

We need to go back to the tax cut to turn our economy around, to give Americans a renewed faith in their country and a willingness to spend money and the money to spend.

This tax cut program was introduced in July but has been hanging fire in the House Ways and Means Committee since then. For that reason, I have signed a discharge petition to pull the bill from committee and send it to the floor for action.

This legislation is needed - and needed now.

It's needed not only because it would energize our economy, but also because it would be of great assistance to low and middle class families.

Taxpayers earning less than $8,000 a year would get a 90 percent tax cut under this proposal, while cuts in other income levels would range from 48.3 percent down to 33 percent.

And you and I can do more for the economy, spending our own money, than all the bureaucrats in Washington.

All we need is the chance, the chance this bill would provide.

MR. AND MRS. LOUIS SHAPTON marked a very special day Nov. 20, at their Riverside Park mobile home. They were married 60 years ago to the date, in Charlevoix, Mich. She was 18 and he was 20, and now they are looking forward to celebrating their 70th. Some 75 friends from the park came in to honor them on the occasion of their wedding reaffirmation. A retiree from Excello in Travers City, Mich., Mr. Shapton is still actively enjoying his relaxing years. The two have four children, Ralph of Charlevoix; Evelyn (Mrs. Harold) Schroeder of Travers City; Helen (Mrs. William) Bogart of East Lansing, and Sally (Mrs. Gerald) Harris of Fraser, Mich.

Crisis line started Monday

STUART–Crisis Line of Martin County begin daily and Sunday operation on Monday, Nov. 29, from 10 a.m. until 3 a.m.

A volunteer staff trained in non-directive counseling techniques will be taking phone calls for crisis intervention, information and referral service. All incoming calls will be held in the strictest confidence and the identity of the operators themselves will be confidential.

Crisis Line is a non-profit community service organization that may be used by anyone in the county. Callers will be making inquiries, seeking referrals to local agencies, calling to discuss a confidential personal problem, or simply seeking information. The line will also be a listening ear for those who need to talk to someone.

Crisis Line is expected to expand to a 24-hour service in the near future. Expansion depends on the training completion of volunteer operators from classes now being set up.

The first of the training sessions will begin Jan. 18, for seven weeks. Monday and Thursday evenings at Stuart Middle School. To join, volunteers may call 286-0175 before Nov. 29, or, after that date, the Crisis Line business office, the number of which may be obtained from Southern Bell information.

Crisis Line, training explores the psychology of troubled and psychotic people, the elderly, adolescents and children. Also covered are causes of personal problems relating to sex, marriage, drugs, loneliness and alcoholism. Counseling skills learned in the program are now in one state that can be used by volunteers to deal with their own problems and those of their families.

PSL looks for septic tank answers

BY BOB FRYER

PORT ST. LUCIE--A search is underway for answers about the use of septic tanks in Port St. Lucie, and what impact the septic tanks will have on the city in the future, but City Manager Elmer Cox says one of his initial inquiries got him nowhere.

Recently county health department head Bill Richards put the city on notice that he intends to strictly enforce state rules that require homes to be three feet above the water table before a septic tank can be installed. Richards said he expected this included numerous lots in Port St. Lucie. Some feared a slowdown in the record setting housing boom that the city has experienced for most of this year.

But Cox and city Building Department head Ralph LaChance said the action by Richards had only a minimal effect on the housing boom, and LaChance reports November may well be the best month of the year for housing starts in the city. LaChance said in some cases, lots had to be filled in to meet the state requirement, but he said the number of such lots having to be filled in is about the same now as it has been in past years.

In spite of these reports, Vice Mayor Mike Reeb called last week for a full scale study of the possible future impact of septic tanks in the city. He said apparently the city does not have much of a problem now, but expressed fear that once the city becomes densely populated, too many septic tanks could cause health hazards and could affect wells.

Before Reeb spoke out, one meeting had already been conducted by city officials to resolve potential septic tank problems. The county health department, local contractors, and General Development Utilities (GDU) representatives attended the meeting. Now, another meeting is planned soon, but Cox said Monday he had not yet set an exact date for it. He said that in addition to the persons attending the first meeting, a spokesman for septic tank installers will be invited.

In addition to planning the meeting, Cox also wrote a letter to the state Department of Environmental Regulations. He said he asked the DER to inform him if there were any limitations as to the number of septic tanks that could be installed in the city and "if there is a breaking point in the number of septic tanks allowed before it would be better to go with sewer systems. I asked how many and how far septic tanks could go," Cox said.

But Cox said he received an answer from the DER that wasn't really an answer. "It's a nice letter, but it doesn't answer my questions," he quipped.

The letter from the DER official, Robert Lolufs in Tallahassee, said he was referring Cox's questions to the DER district office in Palm Beach County, to consultants Hensley-Schmidt, and to the St. Lucie County Commission. Lolufs said "the 201 Plan for St. Lucie County is still ongoing and should address this matter."

Cox says the 201 Plan, which is a plan for a future countywide sewer system, is no help in answering his questions.

"Hensley-Schmidt is the consulting firm for the county commission which worked with the Fort Pierce Utilities Authority consultants Black, Crow and Eidness, to draft the 201 Plan. But the 201 Plan is to do with sewer systems and has nothing to say about septic tanks," Cox said, adding that it may take decades before a countywide sewer system is ever a reality.

In the first place, Cox says the 201 Plan does not even cover all of the City of Port St. Lucie, and in the second place, the cost of a countywide sewer system is so high that it may never be built. Also, since the City of Port St. Lucie owns no sewer systems and can not afford to get into the sewer business, the city "is in no way involved in the 201 Plan."

Cox said the 201 Plan shows there should eventually be a five million gallon per day sewer plant in the northeast section of the county, one the same size near White City, and an expansion of the Fort Pierce plant. But Cox estimated if that was done today, it would cost between $200 million and $225 million, a cost he says taxpayers obviously would not accept.

Cox also pointed out that attitudes are changing about septic tanks. He said there was a trend to encourage sewer systems, and that the 201 Plan was a result of such thinking. But he says the federal Environmental Protection Agency is changing its tune and is saying if properly installed, septic tanks are very efficient systems for disposing of waste.

Cox said he would report on the DER letter at the city council meeting which was to be held Tuesday night and said he would set the date for the meeting on septic tanks soon.

City asks again for revision in population

PORT ST. LUCIE--A squabble over the estimated population in Port St. Lucie between city officials and the University of Florida Division of Population Studies is entering its second round.

Recently the university bureau released a report which estimated the city's population at 5,116, as of July 1, 1977. As soon as the report was received, city officials began complaining that the estimate is too low. Since many state grants and revenue sharing funds are awarded to cities on the basis of populations, the city is anxious to have the official estimate revised upward.

After a city council discussion of the report, City Manager Elmer Cox sent a letter to the population counters at the university to state reasons why he felt the city's population was higher than 5,116.

Cox noted that the university had estimated the city's population at 4,292 as of September, 1975. But in the two years since then, a total of 1,076 building permits were issued in the city for new homes.

Cox figured that at least 800 of those new homes are owner occupied, rather than having been built for speculation. And he used an estimate of 2.5 persons per household to argue that the population should be around 6,300 now, not 5,116.

As a follow up to the first letter Cox sent, he recently drafted another. In the letter he has been informed that the university used a 1.7 average of persons per household. However, he still contends that the city population should at least be revised to 5,792, and notes that the county development coordinator, Gary Ament, estimates as many as 7,000 persons may live in Port St. Lucie. His letter noted 757 telephone connections and states he can produce figures on electrical hookups to support his argument.

EARLY AMERICA IS PERSONIFIED in the artistic creations of Port St. Lucie artist-sculptor Joe Pavin, whose slate sculptures are on display this week at the Port St. Lucie Bank on Prima Vista. Pavin began sculpting replicas of colonial memorabilia on slate tiles from 200-year-old New England homes some three years ago, and has since won a number of top honors, including the Sandy Shoes Festival Award in Fort Pierce. He has since taken awards in Fernandina Beach, Pompano Beach, Sanford, Lakeland and Cocoa. The Pavin show will be at the bank through Friday, and the artist will be on hand to demonstrate his technique.

Stuart National Bank will soon be opening its second branch office this year. Scheduled to begin business in December, the new full service office will be located on Hutchinson Island on A1A at the entrance to Indian River Plantation.

With drive-in teller windows, a beautiful and spacious lobby, safe deposit boxes and a night depository, residents of Hutchinson Island will be able to enjoy the full range of services and friendly attention customers of other Stuart National offices enjoy. The Holiday House will be on Saturday ...12:30 to 5 p.m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Herman, 437 N.E. Prima Vista Blvd., where the visiting public will find an inspiring array of Yule decorations utilizing fresh and dried floral arrangements. SANTA IS COMING to Port St. Lucie for the official tree lighting ceremony at City Hall at 6 p.m. Monday, Dec. 12, but as you can see, he and Mrs. Santa dropped in earlier to check things out. The Port St. Lucie Civic League is sponsoring the third annual community-wide Christmas celebration, and League President Seymour Fleming will be master of ceremonies. The Port St. Lucie Band, under the direction of Joseph Moniz, will play seasonal music, the "Sweet Adelines" directed by Mrs. Bea Jahn, will sing. Residents will also be asked to sing along with the band, and City Manager Elmer Cox says bleachers will be provided for the ceremony. Mayor Bill McChesney has proclaimed Dec. 12 as the start of the community's observation of the Christmas holidays. His wife, Marge, shown in the front of the car, will escort Santa and Mrs. Santa to the ceremony. Of course, Santa and wife will hand out Christmas goodies to children at the tree lighting service.

IT IS A VIOLATION to dump fill into the river, but this is what is happening along the North Fork of the St. Lucie River between the North Port Marina and White City Park. The bulldozer operator, who said he was working for Jeffrey Construction of Fort Pierce, was told by state officials Monday to cease dozing so close to the riverbank.

Two from PSL receive honors

PORT ST. LUCIE--Two women from Port St. Lucie were given special honors for their volunteer work at Abbiejean Russell Care Center, at an appreciation tea held Nov. 16 at the center for the elderly.

They were Mildred McChesney, 8 Kasaba Lane, and Elsie Perino, 790 Airoso Blvd. Alphonse DeLisa of 212 DeAnna Lane, Fort Pierce, was also among those getting special recognition.

Forty-nine other volunteer workers were presented with certificates.

The center is a function of the St. Lucie County Welfare Association, Inc.

Sgt. Jack Harden of the Florida Highway Patrol gave an interesting talk on the new laws as well as some existing laws that the public is not familiar with, when he spoke at the Palm Lake Park Civic Association meeting. Passing at an intersection is lawful if not marked by a double yellow line. Vehicles turning either way must give way to all traffic. It will not be necessary to show proof of auto insurance when purchasing your auto tags. Formerly this was the responsibility of the inspection stations. The new Florida tags that will soon be available have a nice appearance. New tags will only be issued once every eight years, seven years of decals.

Sgt. Harden impressed all at the meeting with the many laws and proposed laws that the neighbors were unaware of.

Thanksgiving at H.O.

What a beautiful day Thanksgiving was! Seems everyone enjoyed it.

Thirty-two friends gathered at the Harry Steffes and Basil Bennetz' to share the blessings. The Bennetz' daughter and son-in-law, Kay and Gerald Carson and their two sons, here from Belcher, N.C., on a visit, really enjoyed the Thanksgiving festivities, Holiday Out style.

It happened that the twenty-fourth of November was Martan Adline's and Joe Trupano's birthday as well, so besides all the traditional turkey and fixings, a beautiful cake was presented in the birthday celebrants.

Ann and Al Cresconi also had a reason for Thanksgiving being a very special day for them. It was their twenty-eighth wedding anniversary.

Flora and Dave McCarthy spent Thanksgiving with friends, Dr. and Mrs. John Bianco, in Bradenton.

A group of 36 H.Outers gathered in a private dining room at the Ramada Inn in Fort Pierce for Thanksgiving dinner. Harold Landis and Jane were the hosting. Guests were Wes and Ruth Artis, Joe and Jean Arena, Catty and Les Ullmann, Charles and Carrie Ullmann, Jack and Lillia McConnell, Frank and Millie Pixa, Aaron and Ada Odenheimer.

Also Steve and Lil Shrappa, Harold and Agnes Landis, Alice Perault, Hester Dahlstrom, Esther Sanders, George and Marion Madus, Gordon and Edna Emaus, Ray and Kay Johnson, Bob and Marion Young, Roy and Bertha Lamon, Bob and Lena Black, Jerry and Peg Smith, Niles and Margie Frank, Chris and Maria Panagbi, J.C. and Ellen Freeman, Art and Lisbee Smith, Bill and Mable Henrichsen, Pete and Eunice Kovitz, Mr. and Mrs. John Schneider and son, Renee and Jean Beauchamp.

All enjoyed a perfect day.

The Bowers enjoyed a wonderful Thanksgiving a surprise, really. The second and third generation niece and nephew, Lila Marie and husband Joel and son Joel Earl spent two days with us.

Good news! It is final at last...screen rooms are permitted by the court's ruling after our last vote in November was taken. There are so many who have been waitlow to have screen rooms put up, it is a veritable beehive of activity around here.

Pat O'Leary, Jr., found a wallet while taking a shower Saturday night, containing a driver's license, credit cards and money. Pat returned it to the rightful owner and was rewarded!

The O'Learys had a wonderful Caribbean trip, visiting Nassau, Puerto Rico and St. Thomas, bringing back some jewelry and liquor. They lost money gambling on the ship, but it was well worth it.

Attendance is growing at the Pavilion Church. It was Ladies' Day Sunday, and Martha Lewis and Mary Sumner did the lay services. Tina Van Raay was guest soloist and Dee Brink, our organist. Rev Clark Thompson officiated.

There weren't many people at the first "Sing Along" of the season Sunday night at the rec hall, but those who did attend enjoyed a lively evening.

Bill Henrichsen was there with his trumpet, George Bares with his accordian, and Kent Robinson played the organ. Charles Ullmann was host.

This year, hymn sings will be on alternate Sunday nights with Sing Alongs. The first hymn sing will be December 4 and the next Sing Along on December 18.

It is a pleasant way to end a day, so join your neighbors Sunday nights, 7:30 at the Holiday Out rec hall.

The H.O. Central East Shuffleboard League members were guests Tuesday afternoon at Riverlands. No tournament play, just fun games.

E. Hutchinson won the special coverall at Bingo last week. D. Finch won the cover all, and B. Lash winner-take-all. Come and join the fun.

A farewell dinner by and for employees leaving the H.O. office was held on Nov. 11. Cocktails were served from 5 to 7 at Mr. and Mrs. Vince Stratford's screen room prior to dinner at the Crow's Nest in Jensen Those who attended were Mr. and Mrs. Hal Holmes, Mr. and Mrs. Willard Auch, Mr. and Mrs. Stratford, Mr. and Mrs. Ken Ritter, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Naimo and Fred Rubeck.

...impact on older people. In general, inflation appeared to be the question that preoccupies most oldsters.

On the state level, the No. 1 issue was the proposed reorganization of the Public Service Commission, which is not held in very high esteem because of its rate grants to public utilities. The aim of Gov. Askew and the constitutional revision committee is to make the members of the PSC appointive, rather than elective, a goal that was heatedly criticized by the delegates present.

Rising hospital costs and automobile insurance premiums were two things that drew rocks attention. A look at the rates proposed by the new Fort Pierce Hospital is enough to make anyone think three times before agreeing that he's sick enough to be hospitalized. Most people would have to mortgage their homes to meet that kind of a bill.

If you haven't bought your ticket yet for the annual luncheon, you'd better be about it. At this writing, more than 90 have been sold. The session will be held at the Treasure Island Inn, State Road A-1-A on Hutchinson Island, at 1 p.m. on Dec. 13. The tickets are $4.50 each, including taxes and tips, and each ticket holder will have a chance at a series of door prizes.

The luncheon will honor Fred Wiggin, who is stepping down after 18 months as president and prime mover in the organization of our chapter. Fred will be given the first annual award for services on behalf of older members of the community, a handsome plaque. It is hoped to make the award an annual event.

Amid the euphoria among most institutions representing the aged over legislation aimed at banning compulsory retirement at 65, comes a thought-ful letter in the latest AARP News Bulletin from Raymond E. Parrish of Oklahoma City.

He says he does not consider that "all wisdom is on the side of giving every employed person the choice to work to any specified age—65, 70 or whatever." Recognizing the claims that forcing people to retire at 65 may be unfair to persons in that group, he asks: "What groups, then, might be unfairly treated?" Teenagers, young adults raising families, minority groups seeking equal job opportunity and others, he says. Mr. Parrish concludes that removal of the wage-earning restriction on Social Security recipients is, in his opinion, more important than changing the "normal" retirement age.

Bond, Tilton share sweet victory Sunday

BY BOB FRYER

TONA BEACH--It would be hard for a sweeter victory than the one Bond and Ren Tilton enjoyed evening in Victory Lane at International Speedway.

was a long time coming for Jensen Beach racing team and was worthit they rounded to boost Bond place in the season's final drivers' points rankings.

race was the season's finale for National Motor Sports Associa- (NSA) Camel Challenge series. It featured a total of 74 cars competing in two separate classes; the GT for cars with large engines and the GTU class for small engine cars. Bond and Tilton race in the GTU class.

The top 18 finishers in each class are awarded points for their finish, and the national drivers' championship is decided by how many points a driver earns in the series of 34 races throughout the nation.

Prior to the race Bond was in fourth place in the national GTU standings, but the Bond-Tilton first in GTU victory Sunday moved Bond firmly into third place. Tilton gained 30 points for the victory, but the still left him in eighth place in the standings, just two points behind the seventh place driver.

Throughout the season, Bond and Tilton have competed with a financial handicap against other teams who would sometimes spend about as much on one race as the Jensen Beach team could afford for the entire year.

In spite of that, both drivers have earned a solid reputation for always being strong competitors. They are consistently among the top finishers, and all season long have had to rely on that, rather than one-shot victories to keep them in the thick of the points competition.

To race with a comparatively small budget has meant they have done nearly all the car preparations themselves, slaving away on the Porsche night after night between races. And so often, after all that toil, some bit of bad luck, like a flat tires or a mechanical failure, has robbed them of victory after running strongly most of the race.

But Sunday was to be their day. The Jensen team qualified in 43rd place overall and in third place among GTU cars for the start of the 250-mile race. Bond said he and Tilton may have qualified in a higher position if they had been able to run with their first, and strongest engine. But after only 10 minutes of practicing on Friday, they burned a piston in that engine and had to use their second one. All day Saturday was spent tracing the problem of the burnt piston.

"It turned out to be the fuel filler or the fuel pump, which caused a lean gas mixture and burned the piston. When we put the second engine in we spent the day working slowly to get the fuel mixture right. We had to be careful to get it right without burning up that engine, or we would have been stuck with no engine at all," Tilton said.

"The second engine just doesn't have the power of the first one, so we knew if we hoped to win we would just have to drive a consistent race, without driving too hard, and wait for other people to make mistakes and break down. We knew some of the drivers had a reputation for driving their cars too hard and breaking down and had a good idea they would take themselves out of the race before it was over. They did," Bond said.

REN TILTON wipes his brow and gives a sigh of relief that the race is over and victory belongs to him and Rusty Bond. The man smiling in the background is Ren's father, Ransom Tilton.

Bond was at the wheel at the start of the race, and he said after the first few laps, one of the more erratic drivers blew an engine, allowing Bond to move into second place. Then around the 10th lap, the GTU leader "scattered his gearbox all over the track," Bond explained. "I didn't see it and when I pitted for gas and to change drivers (a planned pit stop), I wasn't sure we were in first until someone told me."

The pit stop dropped the Bond-Tilton car back to second, but within five laps Tilton caught up and moved back into first. Then the car that had been in first pitted and Tilton held a comfortable lead.

"The power was way down on the engine, but the car handled as well after all the work we did rebuilding it, it handled like a dream. We just kep running smoothly and they couldn't catch up to us," Tilton said.

Only one car really threatened the number 88 Porsche for the lead, the car that won the GTU 24 Hours of Daytona race in February. But it never got closer than half a lap from Tilton and he breezed to victory, finishing 11th overall.

A fifth place or better finish was all Bond needed to move up to third place in the final standings, so the victory was just added sweetness. But, with the finals regarded as a shakedown race for the 1978 season opener next February at the 24 Hours of Daytona, it showed the Jensen team will once again be considered strong contenders for next year.

The victory was the first GTU win for Tilton and the second for Bond, who won the 24 Hours of Daytona GTU title in 1975. In 1975 Bond finished fifth in the drivers' standings, last year he finished fourth, and now, he has finished third. As for next year, Bond would like to skip second and move up to first.

BOND takes a swig of beer to toast the GTU class victory he and co-driver Tilton posted at the IMSA finale 250-mile race at Daytona International day Sunday. The win moved Bond into third in the season's final national standings.

Chargers, playing without star Anthony Carter and three other who are still participating in the playoffs, roared back after by three points with 1:01 to play ir on. They scored seven points the Tigers could manager was a Gene Smith, one of the new . This gave Suncoast a 16-14 lead seconds left.

a County, coming off a 27-6 a year ago, appeared to have his golden gift seconds later with ierce foaling Ernest McIntyre e McIntyre missed his foul shot, the Chargers the ball with only ree seconds to kill.

the Chargers threw the game Howard Bethel intercepted a ith one second to play and tossed in a quick jumper to tie it up amidst the wildest celebration seen at the den in quite some time.

In the overtime, the Chargers took an early three point lead as Chuck Paulek hit a pair of free throws and Pierce added another. Then after Smith and Pierce swapped baskets to make it 21-18, the Tigers made their second comeback.

Charlie Jones converted a one-and-one situation after being fouled with 23 seconds remaining, and moments later, the Tigers regained possession of the rebound ball in front of Suncoast was found guilty of being in the jump circle when the ball was thrown up. Martin County had tied up the Chargers to force the jump with 16 seconds left.

Then, as the Tigers tried to set up for a final shot, Roosevelt Wright fouled Smith, who missed with five second remaining. But Bethel got the rebound and was fouled by Mike Wilson with three seconds to play. Bethel made one to tie it, and then, after Suncoast Coach Lloyd McCleese called a time out to make Bethel think about his next attempt, the 6' 1" Senior calmly stepped to the line and made his second attempt. This created another explosion of sound in the Tiger Den.

In the Tigers second jamboree quarter, they got off to a better start, as North Shore committed five turnovers in the first three minutes. However, the Mustangs got it going, as they reared back from a four-point deficit with only 1:13 left to tie the score and force another overtime.

This time, no comeback was necessary, because Moses Johnson took command of the game. The 6' 1" Junior scored the first six points for the Tigers in the overtime to give them another four point lead with 1:08 remaining. The teams then traded free throws until the quarter ended, with the Tigers winning 21-17.

The regular season opens this week around the area with two big games On Friday night, the John Carroll Rams open their season with a game against Okeechobee. The Brahmans are a future opponent of the Tigers, and John Carroll would like nothing more than to knock them off at the start.

John Carroll's starting team includes Malcolm Delancy from Jensen Beach, who participated in virtually all of the youth programs at Langford Park.

Saturday night markes the beginning of the new season for both FP Central and Martin County. However, one of the locales will get beat, because they are playing each other in a non-conference extra at the MCHS gym, beginning at 8:15 p.m. There will, as always, be a Junior Varsity game before the big boys take to the court. It will begin at 6:30 p.m.

Martin County teams sweep Sailfish action

STUART–For the first time in Sailfish Bowl history, Martin County junior football representatives won more games than they lost. And to make things even better, they swept all four games last weekend in the fourth annual classic at Long Field.

The Lower Division All-Stars downed the Cabana Colony Lower Division Raiders in the first game, then watched as the Upper Division Stars and both league champions from Indiantown clobbered up on opposing squads. In all, it was a very satisfying day for the promoters of the event, as the Martin County reps took an 8-7 land in all time play against the out of towners.

Cleve Brooks rushed for 104 yards and a tenacious defense held its opponents in check as the Lower Division All-Stars defeated the Cabana Colony Raiders, 22-6.

Brooks, who dominated the Sailfish Bowl last year, did practically the same thing this time around as the All-Star offense mowed over the Raiders on nearly every possession.

The All-Stars, who had only two weeks of practice, dominated on offense and defense, allowing only a late score by the Raiders.

The All-Stars got things going on their first possession of the game, as they drove 49 yards on four plays for the first score of the game. An 18-yard run by Brooks set up another 18-yard burst by the young halfback for the touchdown. The extra point was no good, so the Stars had to settle for a 6-0 lead.

Then, with 3:32 left in the first half, Edward Lewis, who doubled as a linebacker and a quarterback, intercepted a pass from Mike Barnum and returned it 51 yards for a 12-6 lead. The extra point run by Bob Morgan of Port St. Lucie was good, so the score stood at 13-0.

Martin County quickly pushed Cabana Colony back near its own goal line, and after a Raider punt gave them the ball at the CC 25 yard line, they went back to work.

The result was a neat 25-yard march which climaxed with the third touchdown of the game. A nine-yard run by Reggie Rolle put the ball at the 16, and after two more plays, Stanley Johnson, who alternated at quarterback with Lewis, heaved a 16-yarder to Brian Zubek at the Cabana Colony one. On the next play, it was Morgan doing the honors, giving them a commanding 19-0 halftime lead.

In the second half, it was the same story, with the Raiders unable to mount an offensive attack. They finally dig score, but by the time they did, there was no time left to do anything else.

Martin County's two scores came on a 25-yard run by Jerry Patterson and an 18-yard pass from halfback Curtis Wilson to Zubek. Cabana Colony tallied on a 25-yard pass from Barnum to Mike Mauldin.

In other Sailfish Bowl action, the Lower Division champion Indiantown Thunderbirds shut out the Fort Pierce Browns 20-0, scoring all 20 of their points in the final period.

The explosive and undefeated Thunderbirds (8-0) broke up a scoreless battle with an 11-yard run by Jeff Forman. Cleveland Gary's extra point run was good, so with 11:07 left in the game, Indiantown took a 7-0 lead.

Moments later, the T-Birds recovered a fumble at the Browns' 17-yard line, and from there, it was easy sailing into the end zone. The payoff play was a 12-yard third down pass from quarterback Bobo McIntyre to Forman, which made the score 13-0. Later, after an unsuccessful attempt by the Brown to move the ball, the Lower Division champs moved in for another touchdown.

Things got even sweeter for the Martin County teams, as the Martin County Upper Division All-Stars came from two touchdowns behind to nip the Cabana Indiantown Raiders, 20-14.

Finally, in the featured Upper Division game, the Indiantown Firebirds, also undefeated, downed the Niles (Ohio) Dragons 18-8 to complete a Martin County sweep.

Garland, Lanier named 'All Area'

STUART–Defensive Back Willie Garland of the Martin County Tigers and Center Willie Lanier of the Fort Pierce Central Cobras were named to the All-Area team by the Palm Beach Post last week.

The annual awards are the goal of every high school player in the area. Eleven players were named on offense, and eleven more on defense. However, Garland and Lanier were the only local players to receive first team berths.

Garland was a member of the Tiger team, which went 5-5 on the season. He often broke up pass plays which could have turned into touchdowns and was also known as one of the hardest hitting defensive backs in the Suncoast Conference.

Named along with Garland in the defensive backfield were Sedrick King of Lake Worth and Alan Armour of Atlantic.

Lanier, a senior, was the heart of the Fort Pierce Central offensive line. He and the other linemen came under some pressure at the end of the season when Eddie Hearn, the starting quarterback, was injured against Martin County. After that, it was Peter Barriner who had to take over as Cobra quarterback, and it was up to the offensive line to keep hard rushing opponents away from him.

In the three games without Hearn, the Cobras won one and lost two, but Lanier and Co. did their job, keeping Barriner free of quarterback sacks.

The offensive team follows: Anthony Carter, Suncoast (end); Spencer Jackson, Boca Raton (end); Larry Kinsner, Newman (tackle); Vince DeLucia, Boca Raton (tackle); James Ransom, North Shore (guard); Ken Fleming, Twin Lakes (guard); Lanier, FPC (center); Mark Bixler, Boca Raton (quarterback); Bruce Peters, Newman (running back); Greg Pashaw, Boca Raton (running back); Joe Jackson, North Shore (running back); Danny Miller, Clewiston (placekicker); Nelson McWHITTER, AUBURN (punter).

Women's softball team recruiting

JENSEN BEACH–A new women's softball team is being planned, sponsored by the Jensen Beach Bank. The team plans to enter six to eight ASA sanctioned tournaments a year and, additionally, to enter the Fort Pierce Women's Summer Softball League.

All experienced and interested women are asked to call 286-2275 or 287-6002. Try outs will be held Dec. 10 at 10 a.m. and Dec. 11 at 6 p.m. at Langford Park.

Pinelake Bazaar is Sat.

This will be the last reminder before it happens. The Pinelake Village Bazaar is on Saturday, Dec. 3, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. You are also again asked to take a two hour shift at one of the tables.

Next District meeting will be held on Friday, Jan. 27, at 2 p.m. in the rec hall at Lakeside Manor on South US 1 in Ocho Rios. Again, all parks are invited. Please try to make it.

PINE LAKE VILLAGE

Pine Cones

BY BOB RAMSEY
334-6547

A lot of goodies will be on display and a good crowd is expected. So, in our out of the park, come see us.

Individuals may rent tables within a price range of demand for space. Call the PLV offices for reservations if you haven't done so already.

Betty Wilson, chairperson for the plant sale can be reached on 334-6803 if you wish to donate some last minute plants for re-sale. Same goes for Rachel La Choyse who shall be handling the cake sale and would like some baked goods offered. Call her on 334-2716. How long has it been since you baked a real good cake? Keep your hand in.

There will also be a white elephant sale which may be small since the rummage sale held recently cleared out a lot. And, try to get yourself a chance on the beautiful afghan handmade by the ladies of the park. It will be on display all day.

Dot MacNeill will be holding down the kitchen and will need volunteers, also.

And, a happy left over turkey sandwich to you, too. From all reports, the Pinelake Village Thanksgiving Dinner was a big success with some 50 or 60 attending and enough food and odds and ends left over to feed the ducks for a week. A lot of work must have gone into the project as everyone came away delighted.

Mobile Home Federation Meeting: Pinelake Village played host to the District meeting on Friday, Nov. 25, with an exceptionally large crowd coming from twelve different parks in the Martin County area. A detailed report of the State board meeting was read and portions explained by George Hackman, president of District 9.

Mary Bruner was the guest speaker describing services and advantages provided by the Federation and also various state laws and how they affect the mobile home owner. This was followed by a hot and heavy question and answer session.

Officers for both Pinelake Village Chapter and District 9 were elected as follows: For Pinelake Village, reelection of Don Mock as president, and Jerri Atkins as secretary-treasurer, also for a second term. Howard Atkins was elected as vice president.

For District 9, George Hackman of Sunshine Mobile Home Park as president; John Lynch, Pinelake Village, vice president; and Ethel MacComb of Lakeside Manor as secretary-treasurer.

A committee was selected to nominate our own Pinelake Village for The Distinguished Federation Merit Award. Only mobile home parks which meet the rigid requirements which go to make up the Federation Standards may be considered for the award. How about that?

George Hackman then presented the Federation charter for Pinelake to Don Mock, who accepted for everyone concerned and promised to take good care of it. Rest assured it will occupy a place of distinction if we know Don.

Here and there around the square department:

Sid and Rhea Howes spent Thanksgiving with their son in Jax.

We are glad to have Michael Zipko back with us recuperating at home after major surgery.

To all of Al Secola's friends in the park, we have it that he is now in Martin Memorial, also for surgery, and I know Al loves cards.

The Berbergs are entertaining their daughter and her family.

Also understand the Penneys have been entertaining.

Why must we get all this information via the grapevine? Are you nervous in the service? Grapplin' with the chaplain? Shy? If so, pass it to a third party, phone it in, or tie a yellow ribbon round the ole oak tree. The simplest way is to use the phone.

Please let the column have all your visiting firemen over the holidays ..... aunts, uncles, grandchildren, and even that cousin from Kansas you haven't seen in forty years, and who just happends to be passing through Jensen Beach.

Want to start a fight? Just tell your old man to start dragging out the Christmas decorations from the shed right now 'cause you want to get an early start! See you next week.

Pension payments delayed again

PORT ST. LUCIE–The proposed final distribution of funds in the city's old pension plan was snagged once more when city council members met Monday night.

For several weeks now the final payment of all funds in the plan, which expired Nov. 30, 1977, has been scheduled for council action. But each time, Councilwoman Lolita Kernohan has demanded a fuller explanation of how excess funds were created and has disputed the proposed formula for dispersing those excess funds to five city employees who were 100 per cent vested members of the plan when it expired. She maintains that any excess funds in the plan should be paid to the city's general account, since the city was the sole contributor to the pension plan.

City Manager Elmer Cox, Assistant City Attorney Fred Horowitz and the city treasurer have discussed the matter with IRS officials and they say the IRS has approved the formula the city officials came up with for disbursement of the excess funds. The excess funds were created by forfeitures and, in part, by inadvertant payment of premiums that were not supposed to be paid.

Mrs. Kernohan says one section of the plan states that any excess funds should go to the city, but Cox says another section of the plan would indicate the employees should get the money. He said IRS officials told him the matter should be resolved in favor of the employees.

After discussion of the proposed final payments, Mrs. Kernohan said she and City Attorney Spencer Gilbert will talk to an IRS official this week. A vote on the payments is expected to take place at the next council meeting at 9 a.m. Tuesday, Dec. 13.

In other council action Monday night, an ordinance was approved which codifieis all existing ordinances, council members decided to keep the $20 charge for competency cards for contractors, but to allow new contractors coming into the city to pay $10 for a card for half a year if they seek a card after the first six months of the city's fiscal year. A $5 fee for contractors who are more than a month late in renewing their cards was also approved.

Cox noted that he is still fighting with state population study experts to get the city's official population figure revised upward. He maintains the experts estimated a population lower than the real population. Since revenue sharing fugds are based on population figures, the city is interested in seeing the population figure set as high as possible.

It was expected that Cox would recommend an architect to design the proposed new City Hall, but that will be delayed. Cox said he will make a recommendation to the Planning and Zoning Board at its meeting at 2 p.m. Monday, Dec. 12, and, if the board approves the recommendation, the city council will consider it at 9 a.m. Tuesday, Dec. 13. He said he hopes construction of the City Hall can begin early next year.

. CARLISLE, who owns a lot original part of the North Fork t. Lucie River, told county bers Monday she feels a 75 r zone along the riverbanks oo restrictive.

Black told Mrs. Carlisle that they did not want to harm individual lot owners like her and said their main thrust was to stop developers of large tracts, establishing a buffer zone before the lots are sold.

Developers of Hidden River Estates, on the west side of the river, opposite the Spanish Lakes Riverfront park, said, "We plan on building a fine development. We brought in the Department of Environmental Regulations (DER) first to see what we could and could not do and we're trying to do a good job. We'll have 200 foot deep lots, so we could live with 75 feet, but what about the others?"

One Hidden River Estates developer noted that Black lives on a canal off the river, has a lot cleared down to the water, and has a dock. He asked if Black would let his lot grow up and would remove his dock.

"But that's what the canals are for, to allow access to the river. We're here asking to preserve the river and this has nothing to do with canals," Black said.

"I own my land and I'll do with it what I want. You mow your lawn and I'll mow mine," the developer replied.

White called the request for the buffer strip, in which no cutting of vegetation would be allowed, an example of "the principle of the rights of the many versus the rights of the few."

Commissioner George Price said, "Something needs to be done. There are definite violations along the river," but he and other commissioners agreed there is a need to define more precisely what the NFCC wants before any action should be taken. Commission Chairman John Park said there needs to be legal descriptions of the land in question, that the point where setbacks begin needs definition, and who is to enforce restrictions needs to be spelled out.

In fact, when Mrs. Carlisle pointed out that the main body of water from the North Port Marina to the White City Bridge is actually not a part of the original river, Black agreed that a definition of the river is also needed.

Mrs. Carlisle said years ago GDC dredged and straightened the river and that what is now commonly considered the river is not, and that the narrower, meandering sections of waterway are actually the river. She said her lot is on the meandering portion.

After the meeting Black said regardless of what was originally the river, the section the NFCC is interested in protecting is "the main, relatively straight, navigable section as far north as the White City Bridge." The southern boundary for protection would be in the vicinity of the Sandpiper Bay marina, Black said. Mrs. Carlisle is "on a meandering section that would not be included in the regulations we are proposing."

At the conclusion of the meeting, it was decided NFCC members would get together with the county attorney to define exactly what they want, then the commissioners would again consider the proposals. County Attorney Ralph Wilson had a heart attack last weekend and there is some question as to when or if he will be able to resume his duties, so there may be a delay before the issue is again considered by the commission.

It should be noted that most of the river is within Port St. Lucie city limits and the county has no jurisdiction within city limits.

EVIDENCE OF CUT MANGROVES was apparent during a recent tour of the North Fork by conservationists and governmental officials. These mangrove stumps, apparently cut, are located along the shore at the Vikings Landing housing project in Port St. Lucie. The developer, who has been cited for three violations of environmental regulations by state and federal officials, has reportedly said the mangroves were not killed, but pruned.

Two Christmas tree lightings on Monday

PORT ST. LUCIE–Two Christmas tree lighting ceremonies, one at City Hall and one at the Community Center on Prima Vista Drive, are planned for Monday evening, Dec. 12, and reliable sources report Santa Claus and his wife will attend both ceremonies and pass out goodies to children.

The lighting program at City Hall, on Morningside Drive, is sponsored by the Port St. Lucie Civic League, and this is the third year the program will be held there. The program starts at 6 p.m.

Civic League President Seymour Fleming will be the master of ceremonies at City Hall, where performances by the Sweet Adelines and the Port St. Lucie Band will be featured. City Councilman Merle Anderson will give the invocation and Mayor Bill McCheseney will be introduced.

The program calls for Christmas carols to be sun by the Sweet Adelines, then Santa and wife will distribute goodies to children. This will be followed by the band and those in attendance will be invited to sing along with the band. Everyone is invited, and bleachers will be provided for seating.

At the Community Center, the program gets underway at 7 p.m. and will be sponsored by the Port St. Lucie-River Park Homeowners Association. The Sweet Adelines will sing and Santa and his wife will pass out candy to the children.

Channel 34 license hearing is ordered

FORT PIERCE–The Federal Communications Commission has scheduled a hearing to determine whether the broadcasting license of WTVX, Channel 34, should be revoked.

No date or place for the hearing has been set yet, but when it occurs, owners of the station will be asked to defend allegations that the station substituted local ads for commercials that were to have been shown with some network programs.

The FCC conducted an investigation of the station in June after receiving a complaint of fraudulent billing practices. If the station's license is not revoked, it could still face a fine of up to $10,000, according to an FCC official.

"Completely inadequate"

Council considers narrow river buffer

BY BOB FRYER

PORT ST. LUCIE–City council members debated the merits of a proposed ordinance to require a buffer zone along the North Fork of the St. Lucie River Monday night, where no cutting of vegetation would be allowed, but are apparently considering making the buffer much narrower than conservationists are asking for.

The ordinance was drafted as a result of a drive by the North Fork Conservation Committee (NFCC) to get a 75 foot "inviolable" buffer zone along the North Fork. But the ordinance had a space left blank for the number of feet wide the buffer zone should be and discussion indicated the council is leaning toward a strip about 15 feet wide, instead of the requested 75 foot zone.

During the meeting it was pointed out that about 80 per cent of the river is owned by General Development Corporation and that GDC has for years maintained a 75 foot buffer strip. GDC spokesman Bob Seeley said GDC intends to continue maintaining that buffer strip.

When discussion turned to how wide the buffer zone should be for the rest of the river within city limits, City Attorney Spencer Gilbert said, "If you are attempting to maintain a natural preserve, then say so in plain language and take the people's property. But if you're just maintaining the shoreline to prevent siltation and erosion and to preserve some of the natural appearance, then 15 feet would be reasonable. If you go 25 feet or more, you're taking away the use of the property. you'd be confiscating their property and I think they should be compensated. I can understand a homeowner being upset if you take much more than that (15 feet)."

Mayor Bill McChesney said, "The conservation group has asked 75 feet. To me that's a lot of footage and I can't see denying people that much footage."

Vice Mayor Mike Reeb said preserving the river "is something we must do," but did not say how wide he thinks the buffer should be.

It was pointed out the ordinance would apply only to new development.

Other sections of the proposed ordinance call for a $500 fine or 30 days in jail for each offense committed against the buffer zone, with each day a violation exists considered a separate offense. The ordinance would place the city Building Department in charge of enforcing the buffer zone law.

Council members decided to ask City Planner Mike Szunyog to check with state Department of Regulations for a recommendation on how wide the buffer zone should be. The council is expected to discuss the matter again at the next workshop, at 9 a.m. Tuesday, Dec. 20.

NFCC president Roy Black was told the results of the council meeting and reacted by saying, "Fifteen feet is not adequate at all." He said a 50 foot buffer was required at the Spanish Lakes Riverfront park and that a dozer operator made a mistake and removed vegetation within the 50 foot setback zone.

"Fifty feet has a way of becoming 25. If we only had 15 feet to begin with, it would be completely inadequate. We hope they (the city council) could justify a minimum of 50 feet at the very least. Experience shows 50 feet is what we need to have, at the minimum," he added.

Black said that the NFCC is hoping for quick action on its request for the 75 foot buffer zone because most of the riverfront lands in the city, not already preserved by GDC are not developed.

"You can't completely invade the rights of the individual and we know that, but the waterways belong to all of us and we must keep it the way it is for the benefit of everybody. Now, there are only eight or 10 developers determining what is good for everybody. The people should determine it, as long as it doesn't severely hurt the owners. Nobody has bought homes in the developments yet and paid extra for waterfront lots, so, before that happens, we want the restriction to preserve the shoreline. The developer may get a few less bucks, but we're not putting anybody out of business or picking on anybody."

Black did not attend the council meeting Monday night, but said he will attend future meetings and will continue to seek a wider buffer zone than council members are apparently considering.

SANTA'S HERE–It just took a moment for Kimmy Naimo, 6, to hop into Santa's lap on Saturday as the Jensen Chamber teamed with the Jensen Volunteer Fire Department to kick off Christmas in the community. Hundreds watched and cheered as Santa (Chamber President Jack Klett) rode into town and toured downtown and the shopping centers aboard the big fire truck. Kimmy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Naimo of Holiday Out.

Jensen merchants say Christmas sales on upswing

JENSEN BEACH–If you see a gleam in the eyes of the store owners around Jensen Beach, it's because the Christmas shopping season is upon us and sales are on the upswing.

In a recent survey of local merchants, virtually all of them contacted said sales have started picking up and that they expect the trend to continue through the last shopping day before Christmas.

At Western Augo the manager noted that sales have picked up since the end of October. "We have a diversified selection of items here, so it's hard to say what shoppers are looking for most. Appliances are selling well and toys, too. We've also sold cigars and pipes and jewelry. People come in thinking we're an automotive store, but this store carries a lot of items most Western Auto stores don't," she said.

When asked if the "Try Jensen First" campaign to get residents to do their Christmas shopping locally has helped, the store manager said, "A few people have mentioned it, saying they are trying Jensen first because they feel they owe it to the community. That's nice and it would be marvelous if everyone here did that," she said.

At the Craft Corner, the manager said "business has been terrific; considerably more than last Christmas season. It just seems there are a lot more people here than last year."

Paul Sivits at Best Buy Drugs noted "a definite pick up in sales." He said sales are up over last year's figures and he predicts the pace at the cash register will remain brisk through the season. Unlike Western Auto, however, he said appliance sales are not noticeably up yet.

Mary Killer at The Shell Shop said, "I'm going bananas trying to keep up; trying to make gifts and to figure out what gifts the people want most." She said jewelry, crafts and home decorations have been selling well and said sales for the last week are about the same for the same time period last year.

Carol Pitman, like Mary Killer, said she hasn't heard much mention of the Try Jensen First campaign from customers. She said sales at The Capricorn Candle and Gift Shop are picking up, just as they did at this time last year. "The big item now is Christmas cards because people are buying them now so they can mail them in time," she said.

Sailfish tourney sees fair (but cold) weather for start

STUART–The 24th Annual Stuart Sailfish Club Light Tackle Fishing Tournament gets underway Wednesday and has already drawn 54 entrants.

The tournament, one of the old and most prestigious in the state, will feature fishing competition from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Thursday through Sunday, with tourney headquarters at the Sailfish Marina.

Only sailfish will be fished for, and boats must be at least 26 feet long to enter the competition. Anglers will compete in individual pro and amateur divisions and in team amateur and pro divisions.

Contestants will hold a preliminary meeting at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday at the Yacht and County Club and an awards dinner will be held there Sunday night.

Mike Matlack is tournament chairman and Alice Whitcar is the official scorekeeper. She will be at the Sailfish Marina from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. each day of the tournament.

Contestants are urged to tag and release the sailfish they catch, though keeping fish for mounting purposes is allowed. John Jolley of the state Department of Natural Resources will be keeping records of the number of fish tagged and released. Each boat will be required to take observers along.

LOST–A child is lost beneath the umbrella of baloons held by a circus clown, and doesn't mind it at all. He even shared his portable radio with the clown at the opening of Indian River Plantation Resort.

EVERYWHERE, THESE DAYS, the pullers are getting smaller and the pulees getting bigger. On the highways, compact cars are seen struggling down the road hauling huge mobile homes, so why not on the river? This Little Toot of a tug seems to be having no trouble at all maneuvering a housebat big enough for Toot to live in down the Indian River behind it, on a leash. Could be setting a new trend in the Modern Way to Go.

"As most of you know by now, it was a big, big success and I want to thank each and every one of you.

"I thank the suffering husbands of the ladies who worked all summer. I know I would not have eaten half the time if Al hadn't cooked it. Hats off to them.

"My thanks to the sign maker, Dick Painter, who did a lovely job. Thanks to our Jolly Chef, Bud Prew, who kept us all going with hot dogs and good humor.
All tables made a lot of money for their hard work. But girls, your "Jeque" was the real money maker. We thank all those who baked all the goodies for one of the top money makers for the day, the bake sale table. Everyone worked hard to turn in so much at the end. Love y'all!!!"

The Fair Committee has allotted MCCA booth. That part being settled, there is now the problem of getting the booth constructed, as the suggested builder is not in that work now. Also, a truck for transportation and storage area must be obtained. Any suggestions? Call Wendy Morris, 334-3339.

The chapter has been notified by AARP regional representative of area IV, through the office of Wayne Howard, that Territory 11 (that's us) has a new assistant State Director, Flavian C. Schoenbachler, 756-B High Point Blvd. East, Delray Beach, FL 33458, tel: 305-272-7780. So, with new by laws proposed last week and a new assistant state director this week, it looks as though preparations are being made for an active season.

The excom meeting Dec. 8 at a new location, Royal Palm Bldg., corner of Akron and Third Sts., at 1:30 p.m., will take up some very important items such as: format for the Christmas bazaar meeting so that selling, installation of officers, carol singing, committee reports, refreshments and raffles all blend into a smooth program.

Then there will be discussion on public relations and how to get good coverage for our publicity throughout the county; explanation of new by-laws and how they'll affect our excom and board of directors set-up. Then the AARP-MCCA MacDonald food ticket deal will be discussed and a committee appointed to work out details. Finally, a board of directors meeting will be called, as specified by the old by-laws.

ONCE OVER LIGHTLY

Thursday, Dec. 8: AARP excom meeting, 1:30 p.m., as above.

Friday, Dec. 9: AARP SIC at Publix and Ocean East Mall, 9 a.m., and every Friday.

Saturday, Dec. 10: AD-ED swimming class, 11 to 12 at high school. Every Saturday. Call "CMac" for info, 283-7838.

Wednesday, Dec. 14: Senior Activities Club monthly business meeting at 1 p.m., Stuart Youth Center, also cards and crafts every Wednesday.

Thursday, Dec. 15: Regular AARP meeting and Christmas Bazaar, 1 p.m. First Presbyterian Church, North River Shores. Deadline for Jan. bulletin items.

Monday, Dec. 12: Congregate Meals at Langford Park and recreation program before the meal time to be announced. These are every day.

Port St. Lucie Chapter 2696

The December meeting, at which officers and directors will be elected and installed, is to be held Tuesday, Dec. 20, at the Northport Marina. This will be the third Tuesday in December, which is the day established by the by-laws for the annual meeting. Our normal meeting day is the third Thursday of each month. The slate of candidates presented by the nominating committee will be voted upon, probably as a whose, since no nominations were made from the floor at the November meeting and nominations were then closed.

Heading the slate will be Maurie Arluck, who moves up from the position of first vice president to that of president. Other nominees are Hugh Jencks, first vice president; Muriel Sysak, second vice president; Esther Huffman, treasurer; Marion Earnshaw, recording sec'y; Ruth Kirk, corresponding sec'y; Tom Carlile, Eva Homans, Fran Lee, Gordon Long and Don White, directors.

Following the election, installation ceremonies will be held. President Fred Muggio said he is arranging for a local official to do the honors.

The cost of medical care is a matter of burning interest to most people these days, and the subject will come under review at the meeting, with Pearl Wyse, chairman of the Martin County chapter's health committee, discussing the senior health care center in Stuart. Mrs. Wyse was instrumental in setting up the center, located in Monterey Plaza in Stuart. Medical care is provided for people 55 and older who need attention but don't want to, or are plain not able to, pay an arm and a leg for it. A physician drives up to the center from Palm Beach two or three times a week. His fee? He takes what Medicare allows for the treatment he gives, and nothing more. This is a refreshing change from the style of medical fees elsewhere.

In connection with medical costs, Wiggin reports that a novel organization is being shaped up by a gentleman named William Gibson of Jensen Beach. The organization is called the Consumers Medical Bureau, and its objective is to try to establish some kind of control over the fees charged by physicians for their services. Gibson told Fred he personally has paid out more than $100,000 in hospital and doctor bills in the past six years and feels that the time has come to do something about such charges.

According to Fred, there are already 165 prospective members of the CMB, and the United Auto Workers, one of the most powerful unions in the country, has expressed sharp interest in the group. One thing the bureau will do is to collect affidavits from patients who feel they have been overcharged and submit them to the Martin County Medical Association. It would also be active in other ways in the effort to hold down doctor bills.

There is a bill, H.R. 8128, now pending in the House Education and Labor Committee that, if passed, would amend the National Labor Relations Act to provide that collective bargaining would include the right to bargain with respect to retirement benefits for retired employees.

+ + +

Several of our members were active in the St. Lucie river cruise carried out by the North Fork Conservation committee last month. The cruise was an imaginative action by the committee to impress on county and city officials the need for urgent action to preserve the natural condition of the North Fork of the river, one of the few rivers in Florida remaining relatively untouched by the bulldozer. The people who carry on housing developments are hard at work, and the committee cited five developments along the North Fork which threaten the river environment.

AARP members who served on the committee include Don White, Herb Tschudy, Bob Brunton and Hugh Jencks.

Again, last Saturday morning, many of the park regulars weren't in their favorite spots. A quick check around made it evident that there must be a rummage sale somewhere nearby. This time, the Garden Club was having a sale at the Community Center and OBPers felt duty bound to open the doors.

PARK EVENTS

Dancing in the club house is in full swing with regular "height of the season" crowds at the Saturday night affairs, but the Tuesday night square dance bunch isn't turning out the way they used to.

Therefore, to get more folks interested, a beginners' class has been started on Friday afternoons (See the bulletin board for time.) Square dancing isn't difficult and it is great fun. Now is a good time for all those newcomers to get into the act.

Camera Club, with its new type of organization (committee instead of president) is functioning very well with crowds increasing at each meeting. Thursdays at 7 p.m. Last week, Jack and Olga Cramer took the members by "V.W." all around Europe. Excellent slides and commentary.

This week, Dec. 8, the same team will take members from Brandon, Manitoba, to Calgary Stampede, Edmonston Klondike Days, Jasper, Banff, Lake 6, Causeway 3, etc.

Stag winners are Clyde Redinger 9; Hugh Garside 8; George Levangie 7; Bun Miller, Ralph Bailets, Bill Jones, Claude Burks, Sarge Broughton and Pete Muller, 6.

Petticoaters are getting started the first week in December....up to now, they've just been warming up.

There will be Men's and Ladies' singles, Dec. 8,9 and 10, and a Turkey Shoot Wednesday, Dec. 21, at 1 p.m. Ted Witmer, as usual, will be in charge. Winners get turkeys and chickens for prizes, three shots for 25 cents. Also, there will be a Country Store and the more donations of cash and prizes, the better it'll be. Irma Fair says they need the donation of a flag, as the club flag is worn out.

Ocean Breezers are still winning at out of the park tournaments. Ella Lea and Guy Franco just won at Port St. Lucie in a field of 88 teams.

AMBULANCE, HOSPITAL, OBIT

Nellie Cook says she is an ex-OBPer, but not a Siamertian daughter. Her title should have been "Emergency Medical Technician-Driver". Sorry about that, Nellie.

+ + +

Mrs. Mable Schumann, 18 SW Cocoa, and Roy Tabb, 2 Banyan, are in the local hospital. Arthur Langlo is still in the Syracuse, N.Y., hospital.

Grace Buell, 2 Mango, is home recuperating and Dorothy Beck is recovering from pneumonia at home.

Mrs. Frank (Lodine) Clancy, 14 Pepper, died Nov. 24 in Clarion, Michigan, where she was spending Thanksgiving with her daughter.

RAMBLING ARDUND

James and Frances Gun, 3 11th St., are back after four months in Belfast, Maine. That's where they have that famous chicken festival and next door, at Camden, there is an equally famous lobster festival. They have sons there, in Lancaster, Pa., and in Alaska, so they spend a lot of time visiting around, and they are planning another trip to Alaska.

James is a wood carver with a house full of beautiful carved objects. Frances is a professional cake decorator (no samples). Both shuffle when they get a chance.

Sam and Catherine Hathaway, newcomers to the park, have located at 4 Mango. They come from Mattapoisett, Mass., and, of course, are good friends of the Figurideas and Moores who are from the same small town. Same is Dave Moore golf partner and Catherine pals with Ruth Moore at bridge and on the beach.

That is their first experience with mobile home living and they say it's great, also say that OBPers are great, too. Pinochle and dancing are keeping them busy right now.

Dave and Ruth Moore are back, this time at 5 Mango. They spent the last seven months in Mattapoisett where Dave plays golf every chance he gets, keeping his score around 80, while Ruth swims at a nearby beach and plays cards. Both bicycle a lot, opening the eyes of the local folks who hadn't seen a three-wheeler before. This little old town has weekly band concerts by a 30 piece band which the Moores enjoy, especially Ruth who for eight years beat the big bass drum (with, according to Dave, a Wham and Bang) and a Body Twist. They are both anxious to start the season of duplicate bridge.

Mary Mulligan, 13 Oak, is back from seven months at Islip, N.Y., from where she made weekly jaunts to Fire Island and Jones Beach to see her 88 year old mother. During August, Mary toured Africa, starting from Mairobi, Kenya, on safari through the animal jungles. She took plenty of snapshots, so she will have many ideas for her paintings, which are superb to say the least.

Mary is also a hospital volunteer, once a week, during the summer and would like to continue here, but her art work takes up every spare minute.

Jesse and Ann White, 16 Melaleuca, are back after spending six months in Sterling Heights, Michigan, where they also have a mobile home.

+ + +

Guy and Marion Hanley, 6 Key Lime, spend their summers in the foothills of the Berkshires at South Deerfield, Mass. They have a home on the edge of town, in sight of the green commons that is surrounded by stately white homes and, of course, the sharply steepled church with delightful chimes. Bloody Brook

Ethel Rafuse is back at 8 Fifth St. after about eight months in Meredith, N.H., where she has her home right on the shores of a lake. This summer many OBPers stopped by for a visit, including Vi Watts, Dot Beck and Lona Merrill, to name a few. Ethel flew down by way of Houston, Texas, where her son Ronald lives. She visited with him a few weeks and learned a bit about our space program as he is connected with the space center there. Now that she's back, she can get started on card playing and take up ceramics.

op angler shoots TV show

BY BOB FRYER

T. LUCIE—Fishing, for most something to do when we get work. But for Virgil Ward, his work.

spends half of his year, every with a rod in hand, fishing ther trout or bass or tarpon, or depending on where he happens the time. The other half of the alternating weeks he's not Ward edits film of his fishing his "Championship Fishing" show is not shown in this area, a familiar face in many other of the nation. According to his Ward's weekly show million viewers last year; more combined audiences of all five ative fishing shows throughout ited States.

week Ward came to the Bay Resort to do some fishing area. As always, his film crew and shots of his fishing trips will be included in a future show.

spent one day offshore, another ing a line on Lake Okeechobee, he planned to spend his third carrying his luck on the St. Lucie Rivers.

is not really new to the area, having television show two years ago on Lake Okeechobee and the St. River. But, for his limited time in these waters, he did exceeding week. He caught and released ranging up to eight pounds, on And, when he went offshore, he three kings, a couple of dolphin, added and lost a sailfish which he weighed in the 80 pound class persons would call that a day, but when Ward was comment about it, he said, "We got the job done."

smiled when asked how he got in his profession, and says it just naturally.

started fishing with my mother could hardly walk. The first fish

VIRGIL WARD

I caught was a chub, and it was one of the biggest thrills of my life. I lived in Missouri, and after fishing a lot, became a semi-pro guide," Ward said.

One of Ward's assistants interrupted him, and said, "Virgil is modest, but I think you should know he invented several lures, and when they became successful, he started manufacturing them. As he became known, he kept getting invited on fishing excursions, and eventually he got someone else to run the business and started doing fishing shows."

He's been doing the shows for about 14 years now, and his show is carried on 80 television stations, mostly in the midwest and the north-central and middle Atlantic states. Additionally, he is syndicated in 450 newspapers and on 255 radio shows. Other feathers in his cap include a World Fishing Champion title and two national championship titles. He also won the Dolphin Award and is a member of the Ozark Fisherman's Hall of Fame.

His television show fishing excursions have carried him to Lake Hemingus, the Sea of Cortez and the El Fuerte River in Mexico, Great Slave Lake and the Copper Mine River in Canada's Northwest Territory, and to numerous rivers and streams across the nation.

When asked what sort of fish he enjoys catching most, he quickly responded, "Rainbow trout." As for salt water, he says catching a tarpon is his biggest thrill.

Ward keeps up a hectic pace. "We fish one week, then go back to the studio and the next week I edit the film for the shows. I spend 26 weeks fishing and 26 weeks editing," he said, adding that when he does get time off from his schedule, he does what a lot of persons like to do with their free time: he goes fishing. "Usually, if I get a vacation, I go to Canada to fish for rainbow trout," he said.

Ward says he's strongly conservationist, and that he nearly always releases the fish he catches. He also likes to give his fish a sporting chance, by using very light tackle.

"I prefer a graphite rod to others, because you can feel the strike better, but for anyone who uses them, they should be warned to put them down if a storm approaches because they really attract lightning."

When asked for advice for fishermen who are new to the area, he recommended they use a guide for the first time out. "Then, after you know the area, go out on your own. But a guide can be very worthwhile if you're new to an area. A lot of the fun of fishing for me is taking the temperature of the water and finding the fish myself, but when we are on a tight schedule, we use a guide."

Ward said he does not yet know when the film footage shot here will be shown on his television program. Presently, the closest stations carrying his show are in Orlando and Tampa. However, during his stay at Port St. Lucie, persons from two local television stations made inquiries about carrying his show. So, perhaps in the future, area viewers will get a chance to watch Ward in action on local waters.

WITH HOLIDAY FINERY in the limelight, luncheon-goers are following the fashion trail these days. The lovelier styles, above, were seen Thursday at Thelma's fashion luncheon at Ocean Village Inn. Mildred Seaman, the "baby" of the Galloping Grannies of Nostalgia Follies fame, features an elegant cocktail pantsuit with colorful embroidery on white. Gladys Doe models a bright-hued sarape dress and a wing-sleeved floral ball gown. Thelma has weekly showings at Ocean Village Inn.

Ocean Village art show to be February 18

HUTCHINSON ISLAND—A date has been set for the Ocean Village art and photography competition and exhibition. The event will be held on Saturday, Feb. 18, and Sunday, Feb. 19, in an open area just north of the information center at Ocean Village. In the event of inclement weather, the show will be held indoors at the Ocean Village Restaurant and Beach Club.

Interested artists and photographers are invited to enter. In addition to $650 in cash prizes to be awarded, the public showing will give artists an opportunity to sell their work to new residents of Ocean Village who are furnishing their apartments, as well as others attending the exhibition. A requirement for the art work and photography submitted for competition is that it must depict a scene on the grounds or beach in the vicinity of Ocean Village, although other works may be exhibited and offered for sale.

For further information, or to obtain entry forms, contact Karen Dye at The Impact Group, which is handling arrangements for the show. Write to 851 Colorado Avenue, Stuart, Fl. 33494, or call 287 1990.

AT THE PODIUM is shared by GOP program chairman [illegible], right, while his well-loved wife June gives "Mr. Republican" Whitey Hallstrom a big fat buss, right in front of all those people, yet!

Bafalis blasts overlegislation

BY SALLY LATHAM

PORT ST. LUCIE–The Congressional welfare reform bill, which was touted as a means of reducing welfare rolls and costs to the taxpayer, instead is threatening to become an immense additional burden, U.S. Rep. L.A. (Skip) Bafalis told 214 enthusiastic Republican listeners Friday night.

The dinner meeting, held in the Port St. Lucie Community Center, drew the largest crowd yet for the county GOP organization, including many city and county leaders.

Among them were County Commissioner Edward G. Enns and his wife Diana, Fort Pierce Mayor Buell Brown, PSL Mayor William (Bill) McChesney, and General Development Corporation's business manager, Mel Broom.

During his visit FAday, Bafalis touched on many of the same congressional sore points he had hammered at during his keynote speech of two years ago, at the Ramada Inn, including overlegislation.

"If Congress would stay out of session, we'd all be a lot better off," he said with apparent sincerity. "I'll tell you tonight it's not what Congress is doing for you – it's what it's doing to you."

The classic remark brought a burst of applause from his listeners, mostly retirees.

"In interest alone on the budget we are paying $42 million – an increase of 140 percent. Somewhere along the way, maybe there will be a taxpayers' revolt.

The welfare reform bills, as currently written, are drawing dangerously near outright socialism, the congressman contended.

"They said it would mean less people on welfare than before," Bafalis said. "They found out it will cost $16 billion more. You're going to have a guaranteed national income of $4,300 for a family of four from the government."

All of which, he said, is predicated on the thesis that you're willing to take a job if one opens to you.

"However, a welfare mother an earn as much as $15,000 before she leaves the welfare rolls," he added.

The Panama Canal Treaty is the other of Bafalis' two current crusades.

His body of the Congress is hamstrung on the issue, he told his listeners, because the House of Representatives does not have the option to vote on it. Passage takes only a two-thirds vote of the Senate.

He urged his constituents to get to every senator anywhere within their scope of influence to protest the ratification before March, when the issue comes to a head.

The Panamanians have no legitimate claims to the canal, Bafalis said, because that country did not exist at the time the canal was built – the United States created it.

The land occuped by the country of Panama, he explained, was owned in 1903 by its next door neighbor, Colombia. Panama, he admitted, was born of tamale-country politics and intrigue, undoubtedly fomented by the United States.

"We created the country of Panama," he said. "We paid the owners $144 million to buy the land and $367 million to construct the canal."

Under the treaty being demanded by Panama's political leaders, Bafalis said, "we are really paying Panama to take the canal from us."

"What disturbs me," he said, "is that if we agree to build another canal, with Panama's permission, it would be open to all countries whether or not we were at war with them. In addition, in the canal zone are $6 to $7 billion in military installations which we would be giving them."

Bafalis said he is among a group of Representatives bringing suit on their right to have a voice in give-aways of United States possessions.

"If you agree with me, I urge you to write to your Senators and tell them so before March of next year," he said.

Questions from the floor included one concerning OPEC oil.

"The president is trying to make us use less oil by paying higher prices."

Bafalis said: "It is not, in reality, a shortage of gas – we have 1,000 years worth available. I feel we should use what we have while we develop other sources."

Leading the meeting was county Republican Club President Jack LaFrance, and emcee was Fred Johnston, past president and program chairman for the club.

THE GOP would never have "enjoyed such growth without people like Whitey Hallstrom" (left), program chairman Fred Johnston tells fellow Republicans at Friday night dinner meeting. U.S. Rep. Skip Bafalis was the speaker.

Sidewalk and bike path discussions

PORT ST. LUCIE—A meeting between City Manager Elmer Cox and the St. Lucie County Commissioners to discuss possible joint funding of sidewalks along Prima Vista Drive from Airoso Boulevard to Curtis St., and up Curtis to the elementary school, has been set for 2:30 p.m. Monday, Dec. 12.

City council members are on record in favor of the sidewalks, to make walking to the school or Sportsman's Park, the Community Center and the library more safe. Some of the land in question is county land, and council members feel the county should contribute funds for the sidewalks. The meeting will be in Room 203 at the St. Lucie County Courthouse.

In a related matter, county commissioners considered a request by Port St. Lucie-River Park Homeowners Association officers to have bike path signs installed next to the bike path along Prima Vista Blvd. from U.S. 1 to Airoso Blvd. Commissioners seemed to be in agreement and will likely act soon to approve the signs.

Cook and Al Seidman, all 125; Bill Coane, Ed Foggin, Bill Muller and Tom Francolini, 126; Jim Healy, Joe Monty, Dick Landin and Ray Mager, 127; Evan Phillips, Paul Lewallen, Tony Cosentino and Chuck Schwarz, Tom Wood, Bill Griffin, George Hudock and Al Bowman, all 128; Miles Zimmerman, Marv Waldhillig, Eldon Saesje and Al Jones, and Charles Swan, Virg Somsel, Vince Metzger and Tony Guarino, all 129.

Low gross scores: Tom Chapman, 75; McConnell, 78; Healy and Tom Boone, 77; Sam Deshirst and Wood, 79.

Following the tournament and a luncheon, the association elected Paul Miller, president; Seymour Fleming, vice president; Deshirst, treasurer, and Healy, secretary.

This week, according to new tournament chairman, Chapman, it's partners both balls.

Outgoing tournament chairman Grayden Smith reported chipping in for birdies on the 12th and 18th holes.

&Z Board meets Monday
consider Southport Center

RT ST. LUCIE--The city Planning ning Board will hold its next ar meeting at 2 p.m. Monday, Dec. ard will consider a request from city nistration officials to rezone a on of the tract proposed for a ping center at the City Hall site for ential or townhouse uses.

a city council meeting Monday Dec. 5, City Manager Elmer Cox City Planner Mike Szunyog ested that the city should consider ing a portion of the land that loper Peter Smith of Sandpiper Inc. (not related to Sandpiper Bay ers) hopes to have turned into a ping center. Smith wants to include ss Dixie food store, a branch bank, taurant and a number of retail , but city officials and residents in ersity appear to be against a center ter Smith has asked for.

Attorney Spencer Gilbert ex- that the city can initiate a ning procedure, even if the land affected opposes it. Szunyog is ded to present sketches of possible ential or townhouse uses for the as alternatives to allowing the ned shopping center on lands en the existing City Hall and meland Blvd.

her items on the agenda include swearing in Vaughn Lewis as chairman of the board, to replace H.R. Neighbours, who recently resigned; and swearing in Ed Jenkins as secretary, the post Lewis has held until now. Ken Beckman is also expected to be sworn in as a new board member.

Additionally, Cox and Szunyog are to discuss the Local Government Comprehensive Planning Act and proposed changes in the city's zoning ordinance.

Annual meeting and anniversary dinner for Homeowners

PORT ST. LUCIE--The Port St. Lucie-River Park Homeowners Association will hold its 15th Annual Meeting with an anniversary dinner on Tuesday, Jan. 10, at the Port St. Lucie Community Center. The association will take this opportunity to honor past presidents and the founder, Col. A. J. Martin.

Tickets are available from unit directors and officers, or at the Community Center office. The dinner will be at 6 p.m. Donation will be $5 per person. Only 170 tickets are available.

Election and installation of new officers and directors will follow the dinner and Cliff Goodale of the East Ocean Music of Stuart will entertain on the organ.

VIKINGS LANDING has been cited by state and federal officials for three violations of regulations pertaining to development along the North Fork of the St. Lucie River. One of the violations cited was for cutting down mangroves in back of this house and for filling in next to the water. Should the developer, Victor Georgeff of Victory Construction Company, be taken to court over the matter, he could be fined up to $10,000 or, possibly even $25,000 a day for each violation. Note the difference in the riverfront at left, where mangroves were not cut, and the area in back of the home, where they were cut.

City may rezone portion of Center

PORT ST. LUCIE--"We have no comment, pending legal action," was the only statement developer Peter Smith of Fort Pierce would make when asked Tuesday for a reaction to a proposal by the Port St. Lucie city administration to seek a residential or townhouse rezoning for land Smith wants to turn into a shopping center.

Smith owns a 7.18 acre tract along Morningside Drive from Westmoreland Drive to the point where residential housing starts on Morningside. The tract includes the group of small stores where the present City Hall is located.

Several months ago Smith submitted site plans for a shopping center on that tract which he said would be called Southport Shopping Center. His plans included building a large Winn Dixie store, a bank branch office, a restaurant, a convenience store, and a number of retail stores. The facade of the existing shopping complex would be changed to match the new buildings Smith said.

But Smith's plans met with stiff opposition from surrounding home owners who say they don't want the residential character of the area to be disrupted by a large shopping center. City Planning and Zoning officials and city council members have expressed opposition to the size and scope of the center Smith wants.

Several months ago when discussion of the proposed center was going on, the city council voted to declare a 120 day zoning moratorium until the new city planner, Mike Szunyog, got more acquainted with the city and could recommend zoning categories for lands within the city that had been designated for a specific use, but never officially zones for that use. When the moratorium was first passed, Mayor Bill McChesney said it would affect the Southport plans, but the next day Szunyog said this was not the case because Smith had already asked for zoning of the tract.

Nevertheless, at a meeting held soon after the moratorium took effect, Smith attended and hinted he may file a suit against the city for its action.

Since then, the city's legal staff has instructed city council members to be careful what they say about the proposed center.

The tract in question was never officially zoned. However, according to a General Development Corporation map that the city had been using, a 1.25 acre portion of the land on the corner of Morningside and Westmoreland was designated residential and the rest of the tract was designated for commercial use.

CHRISTMAS STOCKINGS were being made this week by kindergarten students at Port St. Lucie Elementary School in hopes that Santa will fill them on Dec. 25. Pictured above are, from the left, Susan Hamilton, Jessica Hess, teacher Linda Hinkle, Tommy Kulinski and Matthew Teixeira. In other classes, children were making Christmas decorations and preparing for a Christmas pageant to be presented to parents on Thursday night.

Christmas home decoration contest is slated

PORT ST. LUCIE–Whose home decorated for Christmas will be judged the best? Who will have the most appealing religious scene, the best seasonal lamppost or front door?

Winners who have entered the Port St. Lucie Woman's Club Christmas outdoor home decoration contest will be notified and receive cash prizes Dec. 23. General Development Corporation is co-sponsor of the community-wide event and all residents of Port St. Lucie and River Park are eligible to enter.

A phone call to any one of the following Woman's Club members will get the resident's name on the list of homes to be judged; Mrs. Walter McNally, 334-6578; Mrs. Edward Ebeling, 878-1835; Mrs. A.B. Bowman, 878-0257; or Mrs. C.A. Frazer, 878-0119.

Entrants will be asked to give their name, address, phone number and the category in which they want their home to be entered. The calls must be made before Dec. 18. Judging will take place between Dec. 19 and 23. Lights must be on between 7 and 10 p.m.

Categories for entering the contest fall into two classifications: lighted and unlighted.

Under "lighted", the choices are Best Decorated Home, Best Religious Display, Best Roof, and Best Outdoor Greeting Card.

In the "unlighted" group, choices are Best Mailbox or Lamppost display, Best Door, and Best Outdoor Greeting Card.

Prizes to the winners will be awarded at 10 a.m. at the offices of General Development, 8501 So. Federal Highway.

The reason for the contest is promotion of sparkle and cheer in the community at Christmastime, according to a spokesman for the Woman's Club.

"We hope it will be a way to make our beautiful community even more beautiful for residents and visitors," she said.

Spanish Lakes Chorus goes caroling on Wednesday

SPANISH LAKES–The Spanish Lakes Chorus will go Christmas caroling on Wednesday, Dec. 21, and has scheduled six stops in the park.

The chorus will be at Kachina and South Mediterranean Avenue at 7 p.m.; at Mediterranean, between Spanish Way and El Camino at 7:20 p.m.; at Jaurez and Mediterranean North at 7:40 p.m.; at hole four on the golf course at 8 p.m.; at Golf Drive and Alta Loma at 8:40 p.m.; and at the Clubhouse parking lot at 9 p.m.

Park residents are invited to join in the singing and, if they do not plan to do so, are asked to avoid the roads listed above to prevent traffic james. In case of inclement weather, the caroling will be postponed until Dec. 23.

As a token of appreciation of the chorus, the Spanish Lakes management recently held a surprise party for the chorus members.

Smith goes to court for Southport Center permits

BY BOB FRYER

PORT ST. LUCIE–Fort Pierce developer Peter Smith has filed a petition in Circuit Court seeking to force the City of Port St. Lucie to issue building permits for a shopping center and plans in the country club area of the city.

Mr. Smith has been seeking zoning and site plan approval of the proposed Southport Shopping Center since August, but has met opposition from local residents, city planning and Zoning Board members and City Council members. The petition was filed in the wake of action by the city administration to cut the amount of acreage Smith planned to use for the center by more than half.

Mr. Smith has presented plans for a Winn Dixie Supermarket, a two-story office building, numerous retail shops, a restaurant seating more than 200 persons, a branch bank, and a 7-11 convenience store. The tract Smith owns is 7.18 acres and fronts on Morningside Boulevard. It includes the building that presently houses City Hall and several stores and the tract-stretches east to Westmoreland Boulevard and west to the back of lots that front on Treasure Island Road. The city administration has sought to eliminate the use of the land from the City Hall to Westmoreland Blvd., which is about four acres large, from use for the shopping center.

On Monday, Smith sent a letter to City Manager Elmer Cox, informing Cox that he has instructed his lawyers to file a petition for a writ of mandamus that, if approved by the court, would require the city to issue permits for four buildings Smith plans.

After Smith submitted his request for a zoning designation for the tract and submitted site plans, city officials pointed out that on General Development Corporation maps, a 1.25 acre lot on the corner of Westmoreland and Morningside Boulevards had been designated for residential use and that the rest of the tract had been designated for commercial use.

However, in spite of the use designations GDC assigned to the land, the tract was apparently never officially zoned. So, after public hearings, the city council recently adopted an official zoning map that assigns a residential zoning use for the corner lot and a B-1, neighborhood shopping center use, for the balance of the tract.

It should be noted that under B-1 zoning, a shopping center the size of the one Smith plans would not be allowed. For instance, a Winn Dixie supermarket would not fit into that zoning classification, according to City Planner Mike Szunyog, who has recommended that Smith's plans be scaled down.

Last week, as a result of discussions between Cox and Szunyog, the planner presented two proposals that would reduce the amount of land available to Smith for a shopping center by more than half by rezoning all of the land between the City Hall and Westmoreland for residential lots or for townhouses.

Szunyog presented one alternative for dividing that land into seven residential lots. That would mean keeping the residential zoning for the corner lot and changing the zoning category of the balance of the land between the corner lot and City Hall, now zoned B-1, to residential use. His second alternative is to rezone the corner residential lot and the B-1 acreage between it and City Hall to a townhouse use category. He said about 28 townhouses could be constructed on the land.

When city council members heard the two alternatives proposed by Szunyog last week, they decided to send the two proposals to the Planning and Zoning Board for a recommendation. City Attorney Spencer Gilbert explained at last week's city council meeting that the city has a legal right to seek a rezoning of the land, even if the owner, Smith, opposes the rezoning.

When the matter came before the Planning and Zoning Board Monday, a motion by Vernon Forrar was made to keep the zoning as it is; that is, to maintain B-1 zoning for all but the corner lot and to keep residential zoning for that lot. His motion failed on a 6 to 4 vote, with Forrar, Col. John Huncharek, Ed Jenkins and R.C. Blunt favoring the motion and Milton Riedel, Hughes Brininger, Henry Sewell, Ken Beckman, Vaughn Lewis and George Montooth voting against it.

Then board members voted on a motion by Sewell to establish townhouse zoning for the entire tract east of City Hall, but they deadlocked five to five. Sewell, Beckman, Blunt, Montooth and Brininger voted for it and the others opposed.

Montooth followed this with a motion to assign residential zoning to all the land east of City Hall, but again there was a five to five deadlock. Brininger, Montooth, Riedel, Sewell and Beckman voted for it and the other opposed it.

Finally, after a comment from Montooth that, "They (city council members) have been throwing it back to us, let's turn it back to them," the board voted unanimously to do just that.

But that was not the end of it. On Tuesday morning, when city council members heard of the Planning and Zoning Board vote, the council members voted to again send the matter back to the board. This time the board will get instructions to work with Szunyog to come up with a zoning recommendation for the land that the board can approve.

It is not known how long this will take or what the Circuit Court schedule of action on Smith's petition will be. When City Attorney Gilbert was asked to comment on the petition, he said he could not comment because he had not yet seen the petition.

"It (Smith's petition) was not unexpected," Mayor Bill McChesney said Tuesday.

Cox said he also had not yet seen the petition, but he said, "Whenever there is a difference of opinion or viewpoint on zoning or rezoning and the parties can't agree, under our system of jurisprudence the dissatisfied party has an inalienable right to go to the courts."

Port St. Lucie Civic League President Seymour Fleming attended the Planning and Zoning Board meeting Monday and asked that the city allow Smith to use only the existing buildings for a shopping center. He said when the new City Hall is built next year there will be room for "all the stores we need," in the present building.

Smith also attended the Planning and Zoning Board meeting. He handed out copies of his letter to Cox, informing Cox of the petition, to the press, but had no comments to make about the matter.

THE BAND PLAYED ON during Christmas tree lighting ceremonies at the Port St. Lucie City Hall Monday night. Festivities included the tree lighting, Christmas carols by the Sweet Adelines, Christmas music by the Port St. Lucie Band and, of course, distribution of candy to children by Mr. and Mrs. Santa Claus. Band director Charles Edgette is shown leading the local band. Attendance at the ceremony was estimated at 300 to 400 and attendance at another tree lighting ceremony at the PSL Community Center was estimated at 150.

SPEAKING OUT against plans for a shopping center in the country club section of Port St. Lucie is PSL Civic Club President Seymour Fleming. He told Planning and Zoning Board members the existing building on Morningside Drive, which houses several stores and the City Hall, is sufficient for the needs of local residents. Developer Peter Smith, in the background, wants to build a center that would include a Winn Dixie, a 7-11, a branch bank, a two-story office building and a restaurant seating more than 200 persons. He filed a petition in Circuit Court to force the City to issue permits to him for the Southport Shopping Center.

Mobile park zoning approved on first reading by PSL council

PORT ST. LUCIE–City council members voted Tuesday to approve the first reading of an ordinance to rezone a 200-acre tract east of U.S. 1 from industrial use to a category to allow a 740-unit mobile home park to be built.

Developers of Spanish Lakes and Spanish Lakes Riverfront mobile home parks are seeking the rezoning. They plan to call the new development Golf Village Mobile Home Park and they plan to make it similar to the two parks they have already built. The new park, which if approved will be the first mobile home park within city limits, will have a clubhouse, a nine-hole golf course and five lakes.

The rezoning petition was slated for a vote by the council last week, but they postponed action on it until Tuesday so they could hear from General Development Utilities about whether GDU water and sewer service to the new park would affect service for other city residents.

When the ordinance came up for a vote Tuesday, a letter from GDU President Harold Schmidt was presented. Schmidt said GDU service to the new park would not affect its water or sewer service to other residents. Then council members voted to approve the first reading of the rezoning ordinance.

City Manager Elmer Cox said the second and final reading of the rezoning ordinance will be on Jan. 24.

The Golf Village park is to be located in the eastern part of the General Development Utilities Industrial Park, off U.S. 1 a short distance north of Walton Road. Access to the park will be along Commercial Boulevard, the main road leading to the industrial park from U.S. 1. Later, there may be a secondary access if Commercial Boulevard is extended to Walton Road.

In other council action the final reading of an ordinance to establish new boundaries for four voting districts in the city was approved. Also approved, on first reading, was an ordinance to codify the city's ordinances.

Cox reported that a committee working on an informational brochure on the city, designed to familiarize newcomers with city ordinances and to inform them where churches, schools and businesses are located, is expected to be finished soon. Cox had been drafting the brochure himself, but council members rejected one of his drafts for being too detailed and another for leaving out information they wanted in it. So the committee was formed to finish work on the project.

Cox also reported that he is continuing his battle with University of Florida officials who made a population study of the city. Cox maintains the University group underestimated the city's population and has sent records of building permits and electrical and phone hookups to the University in an effort to get the population figure revised upward. Cox said the officials have agreed to a slight upward revision of the population from 5,116 to 5,260, but Cox says this is not enough.

Cox said the County Area Development Coordinator, Gary Ament, has estimated the city's population at 7,000 and said University officials pledged to study data supporting that population claim before making a final decision. Since federal and state revenue sharing funds are allocated to cities on the basis of their populations, it is in the interest of the city to have its population established as high as possible.

Cox also handed out copies of more correspondence with U.S. Congressmen regarding the city's efforts to get a full-fledged branch Post Office here. He said he will continue to work toward that end.

Recreation committee meets Thursday

PORT ST. LUCIE–The city's Recreation Committee will meet at City Hall at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 15, to discuss planning for Sportsman's Park and the possible construction of two new tennis courts at the southwest corner of Port St. Lucie and Airoso Boulevards.

Winds, pending law cool beaches

BY SALLY LATHAM

JENSEN BEACH–A combination of uncomfortably chill winds and the keen eye of the law have cooled down the heat of disturbances which blighted the public beaches some eight weeks ago.

"There's been very little vandalism," a lifeguard at Jensen Beach reported Tuesday. "The wind can chase a lot of people away."

The outbreak of lawlessness came to a head in mid-October, when three people were attacked, two of them requiring hospital treatment. The county commission moved to correct the situation by placing a ban on the use of alcoholic beverages on the public beaches in the county's unincorporated areas at night.

The law making it illegal to "use, consume or have in one's possession" any alcoholic beverages between the hours of 7 p.m. and 6 a.m. was passed by the commission Dec. 6. It will become effective as soon as the county attorney receives official notice that it has been filed with the Secretary of State's office. Word should be received within a week, thus making it enforceable by law authorities, according to a spokesman for the office of Jack Carmody, county attorney.

Violation of the law is a misdemeanor punishable by 60 days imprisonment, $500 fine, or both.

The county sheriff's department, meanwhile, has been keeping an eagle eye on the beach, to nip any potential trouble in the bud.

"We've been patrolling it pretty heavy out there," Lt. James Mills said Tuesday. "There hasn't been any signs of trouble lately."

His only concern is that the new law may impose too-stringent rules on innocent parties.

"I hate to see 'em knock it off for the fishermen," the lieutenant said. "They never give anyone any trouble."

Small and selective is prep school plan

JENSEN BEACH–Standards will be high next year when the new University Prep School, a combined effort of Florida Institute of Technology and St. Michael's School, opens its doors on the FIT campus, said Tom Southard, headmaster of St. Michael's.

The college prep school is expected to take in 100 students, and the first year class is almost full, Southard told the members of the Jensen Beach Kiwanis Club Monday at their luncheon meeting.

He said the new school will fill the gap between the private primary school in Stuart and FIT, a private college, though he admitted that students would be able to attend any school they wanted to, that the prep school was a separate organization from either FIT or St. Michael's.

Standards will be high, he said, with the first year ninth grade to be above the "sixty percentile" level on national testing, with a median of 80 percentile.

"We'll be smaller and more selective in the prep school," he said.

Last year, for example, based on testing, St. Michael's accepted only 30 of 71 students applying. There are waiting lists for all of the grades in the school.

The prep campus at FIT will be set aside from the regular college, with security to keep the two areas separated.

Tuition is expected to be $1,600 a year, with no boarding students. Southard said that FIT has no room for housing students from outside the area, but added that there was interest from Vero Beach south to Tequesta for day students.

He said that public and private schools have two different jobs to do. In recent testing, St. Michael School students ranked 86 percentile on the national level, with the range between sixty and ninety-four percentile, a full 26 points above Martin County Schools.

He credited the smaller classes and personal nature of teaching as the reason. On teaching, he added that the private school does not have "tenure," which he called "a haven for mediocrity." (Tenure assures a teacher his job, and it is very difficult for the school administration in Martin or St. Lucie Counties to not renew a teacher's contract if he or she has tenure.)

Southard said that teachers are accountable, and tailor courses each year on what is needed, based upon the testing of children at the end of each year.

"You'll see more accountability in the future. We devise a numerical grade to gauge ability, success and achievement in students." That grade is then used to decide what the students need in the following year.

"If Johnny can't read, people will say it is the school. The school says it is the principal, who says it is the teacher, who says it is the student, who says that his parents are to blame. Everyone passes the buck."

Southard added; "We are all accountable for education. We must stop passing the buck."

Jensen's 'buster' a Yule bonanza in easing water headaches

JENSEN BEACH–County officials are this week exploring the virtues of an unexpected Christmas present which whooshed out of the ground last week, promising to help fulfill the commitment of a county-wide water system made by the commission some four months ago.

The water gusher, which came in Friday at more than 1,000 gallons a minute, was struck by drillers Doug Arnold and Gordon Be arss, working under contract to Ardoman and Associates of Tallahassee. The super-healthy well, hit at a depth of 150 feet, is the first major one located in the county since the decision was made by the commission to seek sources for a county-wide system, according to Martin County Engineer James Winn.

The gusher was brought in from a drilling made in the area south of Jensen Cutoff (707-A) between South Savanna Road and U.S. 1. Arnold and his team began the operation early in November. They went to 126 feet and found nothing. They halted temporarily, but at Arnold's insistence, they went deeper. When it hit the aquifer, it proved to be a "buster."

Though on first analysis, the water seems to be of superior quality, several tests must be made to determine both the mineral content of the water and the impact its draw-off is having on the surrounding well-fields.

When the tests are complete, Winn said, the results will be turned over by William Bishop Engineers, the consulting firm for the county, to the South Florida Water Management District, the final voice of authority on water usage in this part of the state.

"South Florida Water Management District will have the final say on what we'll be allowed to take out," Winn said Monday.

After the tests are complete, sometime early in 1978, the county engineers will be able to determine whether the Jensen source will be sufficient and economically feasible to establish as a source of supply until a western-county field can be developed, Winn said.

The new sources of water supply are expected to alleviate the shortage which has been plaguing the city of Stuart. Officials have already indicated they will have to stop supplying water to Hutchinson Island and Sewall's Point when Southern Gulf Utilities contract terminates at the end of six years.

Record Sailfish Tournament

STUART–Despite high winds and up to 10-foot seas, anglers had their fill of sailfish last weekend, with 306 sails brought to boats in the four-day Sailfish Club Light Tackle Tournament.

Dick Madsen, fishing aboard the Topaz Gal skippered by Capt. Kidd Crawford, won the amateur honors with 15 sailfish releases. The pro division was won by Charles Rhodes on the Lisa Ann with 12 sails.

There were 40 sails released on the opening day. Friday's fishing set a record with 108, the most handled in a single day in the 24 year history of the tournament. On Saturday, 88 sails were brought to boatside, and calmer winds and seas dropped the Sunday catch to 70 sails.

Area marinas were packed with the 52 boats, many of them coming here for the tournament from other areas.

Anglers were limited to no more than 20 pound test line.

Madson was awarded the special Bill Todt Memorial Trophy, which annually goes to the individual who takes the greatest number of sailfish.

For the first year, the Capt. Von K. Jourdan award for the boat logging the most sails, went to Capt. Ronnie Griggs on the Sundance. The new award is named in honor of Capt. Von, who according to Dee Brown, is one of the Sailfish Club's most valuable members.

"Capt. Von is always on the radio when we need him, he's always there," Miss Brown said.

Other winners were:

Pro individual: second, Gloria Applegate on the Mako, 12 sails; third, Deanna Brown, on the Har Dee, 11 sails.

Amateur: second, Hank Manley on the Escapade, ten sails; third, George Pensell on the Sunrise, six sails.

Teams, professional: first, Eleanor and Don Reid, on the Chapin, 20 sails; second, Bill Powell and Moore Tappan, on Lynda Kay, eight sails; third, Bob Kintz, and Vincent Molle and Lou Stonsifer on the Kelly K, six sails.

Amateur teams: first, Norman Goldman and Dave Rolback on the Sundance, 16 sails; second, Frank Creasy and Al Bonney on the Temptress, 16 sails; third, John Pason and Tom Hennessey on the Sea Bird, six sails.

LOOT FOR THE WINNERS in the Sailfish Club's 24th Annual Light Tackle Tourney which ended Sunday afternoon, went to, from left, Charles Rhodes of Port Salerno, first in the professional classification; Gloria Applegate of Stuart, second in the pro class; and Deanna Brown of Jensen Beach, third in the pro class. Top boat was Topaz Gal of Stuart.

Brokers get a break in 145-unit cluster

JENSEN BEACH–Ocean Village took one giant step forward in announcing its new 145-unit Beachtree Cluster expansion last week as it whet the appetites of area real estate brokers with an unprecedented six percent commission on sales.

The new marketing approach met with approval and excitement from more than 100 brokers gathered last Thursday at the Holiday Inn Oceanside for a reception hosted by officials of Ocean Village.

Joe Krchnak, general manager of the Hutchinson Island development, explained the new cluster section of the 120 acre resort community as one, two and three-bedroom garden apartments in two and four-story buildings in the complex.

The buildings will be compatible with the entire development, with cedar shake roofs, wood-accented balconies and earth tones. Four story buildings will feature elevators. The price range will be from $42,900 to $70,000.

James R. Otteson, director of marketing, told the brokers that "there are no memberships or greens fees, land or recreation leases." He added that broker participation dealt with referral, based upon a broker agreement with Ocean Village.

Over 50 percent of the 340 units in the development were sold this year, he said, in a dollar volume of $17 million.

Ocean Village is a joint venture of Gulf Oil Real Estate and Harrison Land Development.

DEVELOPMENT PLAN–Joe Krchnak, general manager of Ocean Village, and Kip Myers, head of Impact Group, an advertising-marketing agency, led off the broker presentation on the new 145-unit Beachtree Cluster of Ocean Village last Thursday. The development plan offers brokers a six percent commission on referral sales.

Arch repairs begin soon

STUART–The long-delayed rebuilding of the Jensen Beach Arch should be under way this week, it was learned Tuesday.

On Monday, Charles Wilkin, of Diversified Construction Systems, Miami, picked up the building permit for the job at the county courthouse, and notified the county he would begin work this week.

The contract is for $5,226.40 to rebuild the east tower of the arch and secure the "Jensen Beach" sign across the road.

Sand Dunes and Sea Oats

By
ALLEN F. BREWER

It was years ago when the world was new
That sand dunes up from the ocean grew.
As the to bid, at the waves approach,
"N'er more shall ye these shores encroach."
Then the seasons came, and in turn they went,
And the storms broke loose on destruction bent,
But above it all the dunes stood fast,
And the sea oats grew as the years rolled past.

And then came Man, and he built his shack,
'Neath the greatest dune when the tide rolled back,
And he built him a boat and he sailed the sea,
But ever returned to the sand dune's lee.
Till the Storm King swept on his raging path,
O'er the sullen sea in his mighty wrath;
Then the wild waves drifted the boat to shore,
But Man, - he slept for evermore.

And the great dune tenderly spread its sand,
O'er the lonly wreck that had come to land,
Till naught but a spar was left at last
To tell that a tragedy grim had passed.

And the children came in their turn to climb
O'er the grey old dune in the summertime.
T'was life, and the great dune gleamed with pride,
As the kiddies romped on its weathered side.
But ever safe did its treasure rest,
A battered hulk 'neath its ample breast.

Then another man came, with compulsive urge,
To build him a house near the ocean's surge
The sea oats there on the verdant shore,
Gave up their roots to the 'dozers roar.
Let us hope that the house Man built today,
Can resist the power of the Storm King's sway.
That the sands may form, to protect his tribe,
Where the dunes once stood and the sea oats thrived.

THE FOUNDATION FUND DRIVE for Indian River Community College, which serves Martin, St. Lucie, Okeechobee and Indian River Counties, is over half-way toward its goal of $100,000, steering committee members determined during a session last week. In the meeting, clockwise around the table, are Mel Broom, office manager of General Development Corporation; Michael Brown, president of First Federal Savings and Loan of Fort Pierce; Jim Holmes, general manager of WTVX-TV; Dr. Kathy Wachley, director of Development at IRCC; and Pat Hazel, manager of Vero radio station WTTB and a trustee of the college. Contributions to day, since the drive began Nov. 1, total $55,718. Foundation monies are used for scholarships or as designated by the donors.

No daylight net fishing allowed

JUPITER–Florida Marine Patrol officer L.D. Byrd reminds commercial fishermen that daylight fishing laws went into effect on Saturday, Dec. 10, and the law provides for no net fishing in the inside waters of Martin County during daylight hours.

Commercial fishermen are allowed to set their nets by docks, but cannot set them in Coast Guard maintained channels, Byrd added.

Last Night Chef Pierre Created Perfect Quiche Lorraine, Prepared 87 Orders of Escargots, Cooked Superb Coq au Vin And Went to the Bank at 2 A.M.

Man does not live on great cooking alone. Even master chefs have to go to the bank sometime. Chef Pierre uses 'Pat', the Personal Automatic Teller at First National for his banking transactions. He says when you're whipped for time you can't beat 'Pat'. And, you don't have to worry about careful timing because 'Pat' is in there cooking 24 hours a day, seven days a week. Ask the friendly staff at First National about 'Pat'. They'll give you a demonstration in short order.

Ocean Breeze

BY VERNIE CURRAN

Al and Millie Kivans, 16 SW 10th, are back after spending seven months up there at Holbrook, Long Island, where they have seven children, 30 grandchildren and two great grandchildren. Not hard to see why they like to go back home in the summer.

Al had a garden and Millie canned plenty, and she is now busy with an 8-sided OJO, a whirly-gig sort of thing.

Alvin and Gwen Burr, 3 Melaleuca, spent 6½ months on their farm in Alvinston, Ontario, where they lease the main part, but do have a vegetable garden of tomatoes and potatoes as big as your fist, and all kinds of berries and fruit. They have three daughters, all married to farmers, so they have someone to go home to.

Weather was first hot and dry, then wet...great for growing soy beans, corn and wheat, of which there was a good crop this year. Stopped off at Plain, Ga., and found it still a small town, but neither Jimmy nor Billy were around.

Miles and Elsie Smith, 28 Ocean Breeze Dr., are down here for the winter after spending last year building a new home in Valparaiso, Indiana. They sold their farm, home, buildings and all, and now live only seven miles from town. Of course, they had a dandy vegetable garden as the weather was right for good growing.

Marie Gardner, 28 SW 10th, is back here after spending the last six months with her family at Alexandria, Indiana. Her son from West Palm flew up there and drove her back, so she'd have a car handy. Marie says she had a nice summer, except for the time she was in the hospital because of a back problem (however, that was during the hottest weather, so the air conditioning made it comfortable for her). Marie is here for "R & R" with a little walking and driving as required.

C.V. (Don) and Margaret Donnell, 33 SW 10th, are back after an eight month sojourn in Leipsic, Ohio. They, too, have leased their farm, but still live in the country where they have a good garden and orchard, and can and freeze the produce. Hot weather early, then dry, with rains when needed to make the crops very good. Notice how, now that time has gone by, they remember the awful heat of last summer as only "hot" and good growing weather? Mary Ann and Leonard Blanchard paid them a summer visit. They had a rainy trip down and are delighted to be back here with all their OBP friends.

Bea Tourville and Betty MacNab have noted some petty thievery, a chaise longue and a rake. These small items often end up in flea markets. One was found with hidden name way up in Melbourne.

About all that can be done is watch your small items. Don't leave 'em around.

...ram Chairman Maurie Arluck ...d that it had not been planned to have ...peaker at the Dec. 20 annual meeting ...ause of the election and installation ...new officers and directors. However, ...so much interest has been expressed in the question of medical care costs that he decided to ask Pearl Wyse of the Mar-in County chapter to discuss the Senior Care Center which that chapter operates in Stuart. We spelled out some details of the way the Center functions last week. The most important point about it is that it provides skilled medical care at a reasonable cost, something you don't run into very often these days.

Looking ahead to next year, Maurie has lined up speakers for the January and February meetings. In the first month of the new year the speaker will be Dr. Jack Webb from the chiropractic clinic on Prima Vista Boulevard.

JOY TO THE WORLD!--The children of Jensen Beach Community Church, pictured above, listening intently to instructions from their director, will raise their voices in the joyous songs of Christmas as they present a Christmas Pageant Sunday as part of the 9 a.m. worship service. They will be transformed into shepherds and angels, with just a little help from some ladies and the Senior Youth Fellowship. There will be congregation participation and area residents are cordially invited to begin Christmas Week by sharing the wonder and joy with the children.

New branch authorized for Stuart National Bank

STUART--Stuart National Bank has received permission from the Comptroller of the Currency for a new branch facility to be located at 1500 East Ocean Blvd., according to Jack T. Williams, president.

The new 2,000 sq. ft. facility, which should be in operation by mid-1978, will be located on the corner of East Ocean Blvd. and Martin Avenue at the present site of the Lilly Pulitzer clothing store.

The new branch facility, which will replace the present structure on the property, will have three drive-in windows initially and can be expanded to five at a later date.

The East Ocean office will be Stuart National's third branch and will be located approximately one and a half miles east of the bank's main office which is also located on East Ocean Blvd.

"This new facility," said Williams, "will permit us to better serve our existing private and commercial customers as well as newcomers to this fast growing area of Stuart."

Stuart National Bank's other branches are located in the Monterey Plaza and at Indian River Plantation on Hutchinson Island. The Hutchinson Island office is scheduled to open next week.

WEIGHING THE ALTERNATIVES of zoning proposals for the Southport Shopping Center intact are, from left, Planning and Zoning Board members Ed Jenkins, Col. John Hunerkeek and Ken Beckman. The board could not agree on either of two zoning alternatives that would have eliminated about half of the land developer Peter Smith wants to use for the shopping center. Board members deadlocked on two votes on what to do with the land, then voted unanimously to send the matter back to the city council. But on Tuesday the city council voted to send it back to the board for further study.

Big snook, big blues are running in the surf

JENSEN BEACH–Big snook and big blues have been keeping at the bait in the surf during the past few days, for anglers of all ages.

One of the proudest fishermen was six-year-old Shawn Reynolds, who landed a three-pound blue Saturday out of the surf using mackerel for bait.

One of the biggest snook was the eight-pounder brought in off Seminole Shores Sunday by Billy Cunningham, who also landed two smaller snook, a grouper and a snapper. Other large snook were taken off Seminole Shore Sunday and Monday by Bob Fenton and John Robertson.

Tony Sallozzo got the prize catch out of the surf on Sunday – a 4¼ pound sea trout, on shrimp. Ed Wagner brought in six trout from the river on Trout Touts. John Bowman, Fred Hein and Patrick Augustine took eight blues each out of the surf, and Vince Kubilis got a snook out of the river on a jig.

On Saturday, Dec. 10, Jack Merrill landed a 10-pound snook out of the river on shrimp, and Edith Reebl bagged 25 croakers, also from the river on shrimp.

Other recent notable catches included Mike Wills' eight big whiting out of the surf on shrimp; 16 blues for Bud Helm out of the surf; 25 pompano for Charles Raver out of the surf, on sand fleas; Salem Schaek's 23 blues and one jack out of the surf on Krocodile.

On Dec. 5, Ed Wagner, Harold Egeland and Pete Baker brought in 34 trout from the river, on Trout Touts, and Tom Hargraves took 37 whiting and four perch from the surf on cut shrimp.

On Dec. 7, Stogie Carl Meader landed two huge sheepshead, and Fred Muller caught three mangrove snappers, both from the river on shrimp.

Most of the current action is in the surf, with the blues running large, from three to five pounds.

"With the wind the way it is, there should be signs of mackerel in the next few days," Tommy Stewart of the Snook Nook said Monday.

WITH SIGHTS LIKE THIS, it's hard to see why anyone would bother to vandalize the public beach facilities. Girl watching would seem to be more in order. But vandals have struck the beach so hard recently that a ban on alcohol at the beaches at night has been approved. With impending fair weather ahead, our beaches will most surely be crowded like this again soon.

Beachgoers await warmer weather with no wind

BLUSTERY WINDS in recent days have made for excellent sailing, and local enthusiasts have taken full advantage of it. The sailors shown here are maneuvering star class boats, some of the fastest sailing craft in the world.

A NEW DAY BEGINS, and the pelicans are apparently getting a jump on the fishermen, whose boats remain moored at rest near a pier on the Indian River. Fishing has been great in recent days, though, and many an angler, two-legged and two-winged, has taken advantage of the river's bounty.

DIGGING A HOLE in the Jensen Beach sand has this little work crew busier than many a construction worker. The pay may not be the same for these children as for condominium builders, but you can't convince them it's not as much fun. With a whole beach to work on, you can be sure there is plenty of job security for the young hole-digging crew.

ING IT UP--Six year old Shannon Martin of Port St. ects a bow for a Christmas present she is giving to her . She saved her allowance money for making her bed ning her room to buy the present, then took it to the Lucie Bank to take advantage of the bank's free gift g service. Lillian Nine, right, is the bank's gift wrapper, and says she has already wrapped 446 packages. The bank offers the service to customers and PSL residents between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. Monday through Thursday, and from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Fridays. The service will be offered through Dec. 23. Last year a total of 1411 packages were wrapped at the bank.

Public hearing is Saturday for health plan

PALM BEACH GARDENS--The quality, quantity and cost of future medical services for this area may be shaped by decisions made this Saturday, Dec. 17, when a public hearing will be conducted to review a "Health Systems Plan" which has been drafted to cope with needs for the next five years for five counties.

The Health Planning Council, a non-profit agency with responsibility for monitoring and implementing health services for Martin, St. Lucie, Indian River, Okeechobee and Palm Beach Counties, has been working on a health plan for the five counties for several years now. The fruits of their labors is contained in a 445 page document which establishes needs and goals for health services for the next five years. That document and an implementation plan will be the subjects of the public hearing at the Holiday Inn on PGA Boulevard at 10 a.m. Saturday.

According to the plan summary, the total projected cost of implementing the plan during the five years will range from $10.4 million to $12.2 million, with annual average costs ranging between $2.3 million and $2.6 million. If the 1980 medium population estimate of 740,100 persons in the five county area is applied to projected costs, the annual costs per capita will range from $4.10 to $4.60, and the five-year costs per capita range from $20.50 to $23.31, the plan states.

The 30-member board of directors of the council set up a committee to work on the Health Systems Plan. That committee identified 24 problem areas which were grouped into 12 problem categories. Those are maternal and child health, communicable diseases, chronic diseases, traumatic injuries and accidents, emergency medical services, mental health, environmental health, health education, acute bed care, long term bed care, primary care and home health care.

For each problem area, goals were established and long range actions have been recommended. For example, the motor vehicle death rate for the county area is 27.8 persons per 100,000 population. The council plan sets a goal of reducing that figure to 20 persons per 100,000. A comprehensive accident and injury control program which initially emphasizes prevention and control of traffic accidents and drownings is the recommended action.

Goals and recommended actions are also included in the plan to reduce the fatality rate from respiratory diseases and heart diseases.

Reduction of pregnancies by non-white women under 18 years of age is listed as one of the highest goals, as well as cutting the incidence of venereal diseases, providing 85 per cent of the population with safe, high quality water, and reducing drug and alcohol abuse.

Educational programs are also stressed in the plan, and one of the goals which council member Fred Wiggin of Port St. Lucie says he feels is of major importance is teaching at least half of the population between 14 and 50 years of age how to give cardiopulmonary resuscitation.

The public is invited to attend the public hearing and speak out about the health needs of the area or about the problems and goals listed in the plan.

PSL man due for trial on manslaughter charge

PORT ST. LUCIE--A man who is accused of fatally stabbing his roommate at a Port St. Lucie home they shared in October is due to stand trial on a manslaughter charge this week.

Richard Dale Matthews, 20, was arrested near his mother's home in North Carolina the day after his roommate, James Tressler, 23, was found dead at the home the two men and Matthews' brother, Clark, shared at 225 N.W. Curtis St. Tressler was found lying on the floor of the living room with a knife in his chest. He was discovered around 4 a.m. Saturday, Oct. 8, by Clark Matthews.

Richard Matthews waived extradition from North Carolina and was returned to the St. Lucie County Jail. He is charged with manslaughter and is represented by Assistant Public Defender Bruce Wilkerson.

The trial was to start Monday but Assistant St. Lucie County Circuit Court Clerk Doug Dixon said that Matthews was fifth on the docket as of Tuesday morning and may not be tried until later this week or possibly next week.

Tressler and Richard Matthews were apparently involved in a car accident on Prima Vista Boulevard about six hours before Tressler was found dead and it has been speculated that the accident may have been the motive for the stabbing.

PSL splits with Plantation Manor

PORT ST. LUCIE--The Port St. Lucie Shuffleboard Indian River League team played at Plantation Manor on Dec. 17, winning five and losing five.

Winning PSL teams were Ward White and Guyn Hayden, Grace Cousino and Al McDonnell, John Butler and Robert Cousino, Renver Reichart and Lester Troutman, Frank Jones and Jeanne DeKeulenaere.

The Central League contingent played Holiday Out at Port St. Lucie, losing to Holiday Out 4-0.

Christmas party at the library

PORT ST. LUCIE--There will be a Christmas party at the Port St. Lucie Branch Library on Wednesday, Dec. 21, at 3:30 p.m. All area children, ages 5 through 11, are invited to attend.

Featured will be Christmas cartoons, games and stories. The library will be closed during the program.

Due to the limited space in the library, tickets will be given out. Any child who wishes to attend must have a ticket. The tickets are free and may be picked up at the library.

...ague supports courts

...RT ST. LUCIE–In a letter to the ...t Lucie city council, the Civic ...e announced its support, and ...he council to take similar action. ...e Florida League of Cities' ... asking establishment of ...al courts "as a tool to enforce ...ordinances."

President Seymour ... pointed out in his letter, all law ...ement is routed through the State ...ey's office, "which slows down ...ment to a snail's pace – at times ... seems to disappear completely."

The League's resolution was adopted at a recent meeting and forwarded to the Florida Constitution Revision Committee. Copies of the Civic League letter were sent to both those groups.

"A young growing city like Port St. Lucie particularly needs compliance with its ordinances to create growth according to plan, and court cases ... citizens that those who do not agree with orderly growth in a decent environment will be promptly and properly punished," Fleming noted.

Zoning is suggested for three unclassified tracts

PORT ST. LUCIE–In order to have every parcel of land within city limits contain a zoning designation, City Planner Mike Stanyog presented a plan Monday to assign zoning categories for three tracts now unzoned.

Stanyog told the city Planning and Zoning Board Monday that the three parcels are the last ones to remain unzoned in the city and after his presentation board members voted to recommend that the city council approve Stanyog's suggested zoning assignments for those lands.

The city planner noted that for a variety of reasons, the parcels were overlooked when designations for land use in the city were being made. In addition to the three parcels Stanyog discussed Monday, many other tracts were designated for a use but never zoned over the years. Those other tracts were zoned when the council recently adopted an official zoning map.

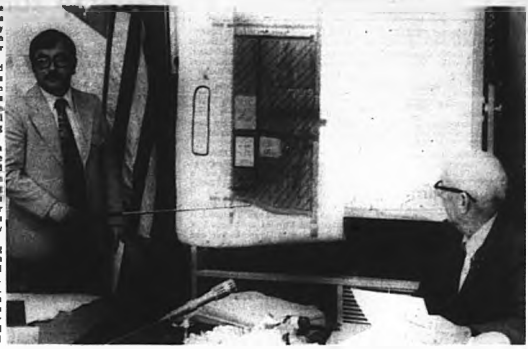
Because Stanyog was still researching the three parcels in question when the official zoning map was adopted, he did not include them in the zoning map. Now, he wants them zoned. One parcel, 9.9 acres large, near U.S. 1 and Walton Road, has been designated for years as commercial business land. But it never officially got zoned. Stanyog suggested that it now be zoned for commercial business use. The board agreed.

The second parcel, a six acre tract at the lower end of Fruit Road, abutting the St. Lucie River, was annexed into the city several years ago without a zoning classification. However, Stanyog said, it was apparently intended for residential estate zoning and that's what he suggested Monday. Again, the board agreed.

The final parcel, comprised of about 50 acres north of Prima Vista Boulevard and 30 acres south of that road, was suggested for several zoning categories by Stanyog. The land includes the Community Center, the fire station, the library, a telephone company tract, two churches, Spectator's Park and the Port St. Lucie Elementary School. The planner recommended that the bulk of the land be zoned C-1, an all-purpose category primarily assigned for civic use. A small portion of the tract, north of a drainage ditch behind Marion Ave., was proposed for multi-family zoning, to match multi-family zoning for land adjacent to it to the north. Land abutting Marion Avenue, which runs in front of the school, was proposed for residential home zoning. As was the case with the other tracts, the board agreed to recommend the zoning for the third parcel that Stanyog is proposing.

Public hearings will be conducted before any of the suggested zoning categories are voted on.

In other action, Vaughn Lewis was officially sworn in as the board's new chairman, Ed Jenkins was named secretary, and Ken Beckman was named as a new board member.



ZONING for three parcels of land that never had a zoning classification officially assigned to them was suggested at a Planning and Zoning Board meeting by City Planner Mike Stanyog, left. The board approved of Stanyog's proposal and recommended that the city council do the same. Shown at right is the new board chairman, Vaughn Lewis.

Tax Shelters Are For The Very Rich

BALONEY !
If you think that numbered bank accounts in Switzerland and tax shelters are only for millionaires, you're mistaken.
You too can have a nice little tax shelter that will also help provide for your retirement years, if you are not covered by a retirement or pension plan where you work.
Find your annual income level on the chart below, and see how much you can deduct from your Federal Income Taxes* and then come in and discuss an Individual Retirement Account (IRA) with one of our savings counselors. They'll be happy to show you how you can keep more of your earnings this year and build a nest egg for the future.

If your Annual Income is:	You may earn an annual Deduction of:
$ 5,000	$ 750
6,000	900
7,000	1,050
8,000	1,200
9,000	1,350
10,000	1,500

At First of Martin County, we want to help you save.
*You will pay income taxes on the deferred income after retirement, but this should be at a lower rate than you would pay now.
This table reflects maximum allowable contributions to an IRA for a single employed person. Your own deduction will depend upon the amount of earnings you wish to contribute to your account.

Then former Mayor Lawrence ...d objected to the formula devised ...final payments, apparently feeling ...e being short-changed.

...n council members decided to ...ow a formula for paying out the ...e of the funds in the account, and ...Kimmel fight it in court if he ...sired. It looked as if the payments ...d be made. But councilwoman ...mah questioned a proposal to ...ribute excess pension funds by the ... formula agreed upon for ...yment of non-excess funds.

...e had maintained that an ordinance ...erning the pension plan calls for the ... which has been the sole contributor ...e plan, should get the excess funds. ...ever, some of the other council members, the city legal staff, the city manager, city treasurer, pension fund trustees, and Internal Revenue Service officials point to another provision in an ordinance concerning the plan. That section states interpretations of the plan "should be liberally construed" in favor of pension plan beneficiaries if any question about fund disbursement arises.

Last week Mrs. Kernahan said she had not been able to determine exactly how much money is involved in excess funds and said she wanted to have an exact figure, plus confirmation from IRS officials on the way to distribute the funds, before she would vote for final payments to be made. She said she and the city legal staff would talk to the IRS about it and it was agreed to postpone the matter until this Tuesday.

On Tuesday, when the matter came up again, Mrs. Kernahan said she did not talk to IRS officials because all she needed to know was contained in the ordinance she has been calling to the attention of other council members in these recent weeks. She also said she still does not have an exact figure on how much in excess funds is involved.

As a result of Mrs. Kernahan's persistence, it looks like the city may indeed receive some of the excess funds before the remainder of the funds is paid to city employees.

City Manager Elmer Cox said as a result of recent talks, it has been agreed that the city has a right to recover funds it spend in administering the pension fund. This includes money the city apparently paid out of its general fund for an audit of the plan in 1975. That money should have been paid from pension plan funds instead of from the general fund. Additionally, the cost of another audit and of phone calls made to IRS officials and others to determine the formula for final payment should be reimbursed by the pension fund, Cox said.

Since all bills for phone calls have not been received yet, a final figure of how much in excess funds to be distributed to city employees is not available. City Treasurer Gerald Van Fetten said Tuesday. He planned to try to get a record of those bills by the next council meeting on Tuesday, Dec. 20. If he does get those figures, it is expected the city council will vote to approve final payment of the pension funds.

The old pension plan expired on Nov. 30, 1977. In 1975 it was challenged in court by a group of citizens and sections of it were ruled improper. As a result, city council members and the city's part-time attorney were required to cease being participants in the plan. A new pension plan was recently adopted and is now in effect.

beachtree cluster.
now you can buy a spacious one, two or three-bedroom apartment residence in our oceanfront community, starting at $43,900, but not for long.

An island home on the edge of a tropic sea, where you can have an apartment overlooking a tropical lagoon or lushly landscaped garden. Some apartments have ocean views.

pre-completion prices

Over 360 couples and individuals have purchased homes at Ocean Village at prices of up to $87,500. Now you can join them for as little as $43,900 for a one-bedroom apartment and comparably low prices on the two and three bedroom models. But these special pre-completion prices apply only to residences in the first phase of the Beachtree Cluster. And judging by our past record, they won't last long!

The architects of the Beachtree Cluster have positioned the residences to overlook a tropical lagoon and a contoured, elevated garden of lush foliage. Inside, each apartment has such luxury features as side-by-side refrigerator-freezer with ice maker, three-cycle dishwasher, trash compactor, self-cleaning oven and range, and stacked washer-dryer. All at no extra cost. Top floor apartments have cathedral ceilings and some have clerestory windows. You'll also like our optional furniture package plan. For as little as $3,500, you can purchase designer-coordinated furnishings for your apartment—a substantial savings compared to retail prices.

Enjoy over a half a mile of secluded, unspoiled island beach.

the active life

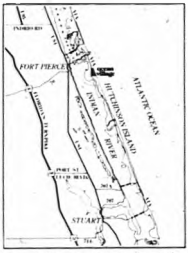
Whether you select your Beachtree apartment for year-round or vacation living, you'll love life at Ocean Village. The community has more than a half a mile of unspoiled beach. Nine holes of par three golf. A complete tennis complex, including courts lighted for night play. And, right on the ocean, a million-dollar Beach and Health Club, with a 200-seat gourmet restaurant and lounge. You'll find everything to make Ocean Village a luxurious private community except high prices. And there are no greens fees or membership dues, no land or recreation leases.

In addition to golf and tennis, there's a million dollar Beach and Health Club, but no land or recreation leases, or membership dues or greens fees.

building on success

What made Ocean Village South Florida's most successful oceanfront condominium community? Its location on Hutchinson Island away from the crowds and congestion. Its complete package of in-place amenities. Its round-the-clock security. Its freedom from "hidden costs" and restrictions. (For example, you can rent your apartment. Deal direct, or use the services of an on-site independent agent.) But, most of all, it's solid value that has brought people to Ocean Village.

Join them.



Ocean Village is just minutes from both Florida's Turnpike and I-95 from the south. On the Turnpike, take Exit 56 at Fort Pierce and follow the signs to A1A (South). On I-95 take Indian River Exit to S.R. 5 South to A1A (South).

Local players heavily recruited

JENSEN BEACH–This is the time of the year when most college football coaches are counting their blessings because they are still college coaches, and also when they begin the annual hunt for new players, otherwise known as "get me an high school talent."

College coaches made their sales pitches to many of the area's top prospects last week, but so far the only one to sign an "SEC letter of intent" is Fort Pierce Central's Robert Weathers, who ironically has played only one game in the last two years.

Weathers, who saw action in the Cobras' homecoming loss to Orlando Jones midway through the 1977 campaign, signed with the University of Florida Saturday, becoming one of six Florida players signed by the Gators so far.

The 6'2", 190-pound senior running back gained 65 yards in the Jones game, also catching three passes, one a 38-yard touchdown reception, before reinjuring a knee which had originally been hurt before the season. Weathers has undergone knee surgery and reportedly is coming along fine.

FPC Head Coach Phil Farinella was quoted Saturday as saying that "this is one of the most unique things" he's seen, adding that "Florida must think he can do the job for them if they are willing to sign him."

The standout Cobra was also a member of the Fort Pierce Central track team, running a 9.58 100-yard dash last season. He also turned in a 6.4 in 60-yard but that spring was wind-aided.

In 1976, Weathers was one of the pre-season picks for all-conference honors, but broke his neck in spring practice and did not play at all the rest of the season.

Other area players seem to be taking their time about signing, preferring to think it out for a while. Some of the local players who could receive scholarships include Martin County's all-area defensive back Willie Garland and teammate Darrell Jackson, also a defensive back, Jimmy Williams and Charles Drayton, the Tigers' quarterback and fullback, were also standouts, but their future is unknown.

Pleasure Cove art exhibit & show

FORT PIERCE–The public is invited to view paintings of the IRCC non-credit art students of Lesha Szakacs from Pleasure Cove, Sunday, Dec. 18, from 1 to 5 p.m.

The exhibit, at the Pleasure Cove Activities Center, 3098 S. U.S. 1, Fort Pierce.

PROGRESS REPORT

MID-RIVERS YACHT AND COUNTRY CLUB

As of November 28th, 1977

Dear Members and Friends:

It seems a long time ago that the last report was sent you. It really hasn't been very long -- it is just that so much has happened – here we go!

At this writing, about four months after closing, we have sold 82 000,000 in homesites. All have been closed or will be, for cash. Thanks to Charlie Grant, Jack Fallrath, Hugh Leighton and Norma Penfield.

Also thanks to you purchasers who have recommended Mid-Rivers to your many close friends.

Lee Brock, our engineer, has been instructed to complete the second and final stage of engineering for the remaining 140 homesites.

Our attorney, Jack Martyn, has been very active and helpful in keeping up with closings and all other legal matters.

Donna Gruenbeck, our "gal in charge of everything" is holding up fine and says hello!

In the field, progress is evident at every glance. The entrance finally has stabilizer and rock base in place as has most of the south road to the clubhouse. Blacktop on this stretch soon. The north First Phase roads are all roughed out and will be finished next.

The golf course is more than half completed– looks terrific. And the Sprinkler system has been ordered– grass soon. The other fairways are cleared and ready for polishing. The lakes at the 10th, 16th, 11th, 12th, 13th, 15th, 18th and 1st are all dug. Wow!

The clubhouse roof trusses have been installed. This means that all rough plumbing and electrical work is in the ground. Roof will be in place within the next several days.

The south property line drainage ditch has been excavated leaving a protective berm. The contract for the first one mile of our security chain link fence has been let.

The first 200 foot small boat dock along the Canal, below the dam, at the yacht club site has been applied for by Lee Brock. As soon as the permit is issued, the construction contract will be let. This will take some time – red tape.

Enough said for this report. Thanks to everyone for so much help – especially for your good faith and good thoughts.

Gratefully yours,
MID-RIVERS, INC.

HOUSE AT ELLIOTT, both literally and figuratively. ...inif doll house, donated to the museum by Mrs. ... Childs, is one of the major attractions for the ...s Eve carol-sing this year. The petite mansion, which ... director Janet Hutchinson estimates to be nearly 100 years old; was found by Mrs. Childs in the attic of file carriage house on her Castle Hill estate. Inspecting the doll house interior is Mrs. James M. Bracken of Port St. Lucie, who is a regular Thursday volunteer at the museum. (Staff photo by Sally Latham)

Elliot to have old-fashioned Christmas Eve open house

JENSEN BEACH–If you're yearning for a truly good Old-Fashioned Christmas Eve, you'll find it pervading every corner of the Elliott Museum Saturday evening.

It is the annual carol-singing night, and everyone in the community is invited to come to the party, take part in the singing, and share the Christmas spirit.

The popularity of the annual Sing was proven last Christmas Eve, when 850 turned out for the event, highlights of which include Christmas readings by New York actor Richard Lake and the Yuletide bagpiping of "Scot" by adoption" Pat Kenny.

Lake will present his readings at 7:30, 8:30 and 9:30 p.m., in between the intervals of carols. A seasoned actor with a background of top Broadway plays and musicals, Lake has been a popular performer on the Elliott Museum's annual cultural series in the past. He will also do one of his one-man shows at Elliott in February.

Accompanist for the carol singing will be Ruby Wren, a retired professional pianist who has become one of the favorite musical performers throughout the area. Ruby, who is in her eighties, is the starred accompanist for the Nostalgia Follies, the senior citizens' entertainers who have won national fame in the RSVP (Retired Senior Volunteers Program) and the Council on Aging.

Visitors to the museum during Christmas Eve will be the carolers, participating in sharing the old, familiar Yuletide songs while strolling around on tour of the museum. The docents (auxiliary volunteers) will all be dressed in period costumes fitting to the occasions.

There will be no charge for admission.

Candlelight Service slated Christmas Eve at JBCC

JENSEN BEACH–Christmas season services at the Jensen Beach Community Church reach their peak Christmas Eve with the special "Service of Lights."

It will be given twice, at 7 and 11 p.m. The pastor, Dr. John DiGangi, will light his candle, ushers will light their from his, then move to the aisles where, one by one, members of the congregation will light their neighbor's.

As the candles are lighted, the congregation will join in singing "Silent Night, Holy Night" in a sanctuary illuminated only by candles. The ceremony will end with the Lord's Prayer.

Singing of other traditional Christmas carols, Christmas readings by Dr. DiGangi and a Christmas prayer by Rev. Norman G. Kehrli, associate minister, are part of the hour-long program.

Winter visitors and all residents are invited to join church members in the two services Christmas Eve.

ewall's Point is ahead n flood insurance

BY SALLY LATHAM

LL'S POINT–Sewall's Point is ...d of the game in the county on ...y subsidized flood insurance, ...Don Graham told the Town ...sion last week, and is one step ...om making the inexpensive but ...st coverage available to all ...s of this incorporated comma...

...eneral, who was instrumental in ...t Point's application for parti... in the program four years ago, ...plained the recent action by ...s broadening the coverage, in ...ten "so new it isn't even in the ...inal Record yet."

The ...recommended by the consulting ...m – eight feet at A1A at Sewall's ...oad, on Indian River, seven feet ...Point Road and Island Road on ...River, and six feet at the west end ...on St. Lucie River – have been ...cceptable by the government ...ties, Graham said.

...insurance coverage, which ...nt of Sewall's Point may buy ...h their individual insurance ...m, was originally established at ...for the property with an ...al $10,000 for the contents of the ...Recently, however, Congress has ...ed it to allow a total of $70,000 for ...and $20,000 for the contents.

...s are now being set, he said. The ...um cost to the insured is 35 cents ...00, but those whose homes are ...bove the minimum levels may be ...d considerably lower rates, ...ing on the total insurability of the ...y.

Older buildings which already existed when the flood insurance bill was written, Gen. Graham said, may also be insured under the subsidy program at the 35 cent rate, because they will be "grandfathered in." Any new buildings, however, must be constructed to comply with the requirements for construction set down by the FIA.

The subsidized flood insurance, Gen. Graham explained, is open to all incorporated communities or counties where any sort of flood potential exists. In order to obtain it for other than an emergency situation, the community must have a survey made by a qualified consulting firm to determine the area of greatest flood vulnerability, establish the building requirements and flood lines.

One of the main requirements, for private builders, is that separate building permits must be obtained for every building, and that the structure must meet the minimum building standards established by government guidelines.

All buildings involving federal funds must be covered with the flood insurance. Only permanently-based buildings may be covered with federal flood insurance. Docks and boat houses are not eligible.

When the FIA gets the rates established, Sewall's Point will be the only community in the county fully cooperating in the program. Martin County has applied, but because the county commissioners chose to go the route of a separate ordinance rather than incorporating it into an already established law, a public hearing must be held before it is granted full participation. If the ordinance fails to pass, a county spokesman said last week, the county will lose its eligibility for the subsidy.

Homeowners in the Jensen-Rio area will be eligible to buy the federal insurance only if Martin County establishes it by ordinance. In order to act independently, the community would first have to incorporate.

MCHS top in state

STUART–Martin County High School basketball Tigers rose to No. 1 in Class AAAA ratings in the state this week, when top-running Orlando Boone lost and dropped to sixth place.

Orlando Jones, with a 7-0 record, came in as runner-up to Martin County.

Martin County High's team is a perennial contender for the top ranking. The Tigers wound up in first position last season.

The detached facility features three drive-in teller windows, a spacious lobby, safe deposit boxes and a night depository.

Savannas are dumping grounds for litter pigs

BY DICK CAMPBELL

JENSEN BEACH–The small trails lead off Commercial Street all along the three mile stretch between Savanna Road and U.S. 1, winding through the scrub palmetto and pine...an idyllic trail of tropical beauty.

The trails are through private property, property owned by either speculator or developer. They bypass the small savanna lakes that shoot needle-like reeds out of their marshy bottomlands, sometimes covered with inches of water, sometimes dry from the drought.

It is mostly hunters and motorcyclists who use the trails, wending easily through the brush, watching for the wild hog, rabbit, armadillo, possum, snakes and occasional alligator or turtle.

There is also the pig, the litter-person, who drives into the area with a truck loaded with broken appliances, mattresses, paint cans, and garbage bags filled with refuse.

That person would have to drive to Palm City to reach the county dump, but doesn't. It seems easier to dump on private property, littering an idyllic wonderland of soft breezes, whispering pines and sounds of small animals scurrying through the brush at the approach of man.

"It's people who don't give a damn about other people," said County Commissioner Frank Wacha Tuesday.

"We need the help of the people. Until the citizens get involved, we won't be able to protect the beauty of the savannas. It's unfortunate we can't post a guard at every little path so that we could catch the pigs.

Wacha urged all citizens to be on the lookout for cars or trucks carrying loads of refuse and appliances into the savannas. He said the citizen need only to take down the license number and report the violation to the county commission.

"We'll follow it up," Wacha promised.

A very merry Christmas to all...

Palm Lake Park

BY ELENOR E. FALK, 287-2999

The holidays are here, must faster than one had suspected, but that is the complaint each year.

During the holidays, the children and many adults will be on their vacation....do drive carefully, especially here in the park.

There are many beautiful decorations in the county...plan on spending at least one evening driving about and enjoying the many scenes and decorations.

The stores in the Jensen area report brisk sales. It is great that after residing here for eleven years, practically all the holiday shopping can be completed in our own community.

Palm Lake Park and all areas west of U.S. 1 will be in another Commission District after January 1. We will be in District 2 and Tom Higgins will be our commissioner.

However, do not be confused in the event of an emergency. The emergency telephone number for ambulance or sheriff remains the same...287-5575.

Do not let this change of district confuse you. It happens often.

About ten years ago we were in District 2 and had Herb Bruner as our commissioner, a wonderful man who cared for his people. Then as populations increased, we were changed to District 1, of which Frank Wacha is commissioner. Frank did much for Palm Lake Park.

It may interest some of our new residents that at one time our mail was addressed through the Jensen Beach Post Office. Now we are the north borderline of the Stuart Post Office. NW 16th Terrace on the north side is the dividing line.

There always have been changes and there always will be.

Wishing all residents and their guests a VERY MERRY CHRISTMAS!

'Christmas Joy' is gala event

JENSEN BEACH–The Jensen Beach Garden Club's "Christmas Joy" buffet luncheon was held last week in the Fellowship Hall of the Jensen Beach Community Church.

Mrs. Anne Raum, Mrs. Joseph Ellis, Mrs. William Artons and Mrs. Mickey Sinii became new members of the club.

Mrs. Clyde Hanson won the table arrangement class, and Mrs. Fred Morris won the corsage class.

Fred Morris' display of wood crafts was greatly admired, both for his "skill in doing" and in the resulting "satin-like" finish.

Hostesses for the gala event were Mrs. John Kallock, chairman, assisted by Mesdames William VanVliet, Carl Schmidt, Joe DeBrita, Fred Failing, Donald Lee and Donald Whitson.

Post Office squabble

PORT ST. LUCIE–A squabble over whether the U.S. Postal Service ought to have a full-fledged branch Post Office in Port St. Lucie is continuing, according to City Manager Elmer Cox.

For several years Cox has been seeking a full-fledged branch office in the city and recently he renewed his campaign for it. Cox notes that presently the city is "subsidizing one of the largest bureaucratic organizations in the federal government" by having a contract station at City Hall. Under the provisions of the contract agreement, the city pays the salary of the postmistress at City Hall, Joanne Shannon. However, in spite of the city expenditure for Miss Shannon's salary, the city received only $200 a year until recently, and, under a new agreement, is to start receiving $1,000 a year. Cox says that still means the city spends about $6,000 extra to have the post office.

Cox feels the city is large enough now that the Postal Service ought to operate its own branch station. He sent letters to U.S. Congressmen outlining his position and has received pledges of their support. However, a Postal Service official responded by disagreeing with the amount of revenue generated by the City Hall post office. Cox told city council members Tuesday that he will continue to fight for the branch post office, to be staffed by personnel paid by the Postal Service. He said he will send a new letter to postal officials defending the revenue figures he has submitted.

Postal authorities say the City Hall station only generated $15,000 in revenue last year and Cox maintains the figure is $30,000.

PORT ST. LUCIE–Richard Dale Matthews, 20, of Port St. Lucie, who is accused of fatally stabbing his roommate in October, was to stand trial last week, but the case has been continued to an unspecified date.

Matthews is charged with manslaughter in connection with the stabbing death of James Tressler, 22, who shared a home with Matthews at 325 N.E. Curtis St. in Port St. Lucie. Tressler's body was discovered around 4 a.m. on Saturday, Oct. 8, on the living room floor of the home. A knife was found in his chest.

Assistant State Attorney James Midelis was to have prosecuted the case last week, but was apparently delayed due to the James Morgan murder trial in Stuart. Midelis could not be contacted for comment Tuesday as to why the Matthews trial was postponed or when it is to be heard.

ontractor may file suit ver septic tank problem

BY BOB FRYER

ORT ST. LUCIE–Refusal by county h Department officials to grant approval of a septic tank ation for a home in Port St. Lucie result in a lawsuit against that ment by developer Paul Amman Cam Construction Company.

mas recently built a home at the r of Dolphin St. and Carnation for the John Mullen family, which des five children. The Mullens were ve into the house last month, but h Department Chief Inspector ier James refused to give final val of the septic tank installation. ire that was done, the Mullens, rented a home across the street the one being built for them, told landlord they planned to move out. landlord lined up new tenants, but the septic tank installation was d approval, the Mullens asked to n the rented house longer. The ord wants to evict them so he can to the new tenants.

man said he brought the problem attention of the city administra- which has been plagued by septic problems recently. Amman and Manager Elmer Cox contacted health officials in Tallahassee to a resolution to the problem, and a ing has been set up for Jan. 19 or 20.

in the meantime, Amman is g the Mullens' rent for the home dlord wants them out of. And, as sday morning, he had a lawsuit st health officials prepared and to file.

would have filed it yesterday or , but Bill Richards (head of the y Health Department) has reques- a few more days to meet with me at 9 a.m. rrow (Wednesday), so I'm holding filing it," Amman said Tuesday.

installation were approved and that he has engineering data to support his contention that the tank was installed to meet all state regulations. But he says final approval of the installation has been denied and, as a result, the city, "while sympathetic to my cause", will not issue a certificate of occupancy until the tank is approved.

Amman said since the installation was denied he has backfilled around the drain field and had sodded the lot, but he says the health department wants him to add 10 more inches of fill over the septic tank. He said this would mean elevating the house, which has a concrete slab foundation, by 18 inches and commented, "That's impossible."

"We asked the city to give us a certificate of occupancy, even without the final septic tank approval, hoping this would force the health department to seek an injunction. This would get the matter before the courts immediately and we could resolve the problem. But the city did not grant the certificate and the Mullens have not moved in," he said Tuesday.

Earlier that day Cox said it was his understanding the Mullens had moved into the new house without a certificate of occupancy, but said if that was the case, it would be up to health officials to take action.

In recent months Health Department officials have taken the position that they will strictly enforce a state regulation requiring a water table no closer to the ground elevation than three feet before a septic tank permit would be approved. This has caused concern among city building officials and has resulted in several meetings to resolve the problem. On Tuesday Cox said a meeting has been set up next month with Amman said plans for the septic tank Warren Straughm, district director of the state Department of Environmental Regulations. A number of city officials and representatives of General Development Corporation will attend the meeting to discuss a formula for septic tank installations that consulting City Engineer Cal Montgomery has come up with. Cox said the formula would allow the Health Department to be flexible on the three foot rule because it takes housing elevations, drainage conditions and the water table elevation into consideration.

Whether the septic tank problem will be resolved then or on Wednesday morning at the meeting between Amman and Richards is unknown. But Amman said a resolution of the problem is needed quickly.

"My fight is to get a definitive resolution of the problem. We build 25 to 30 houses a month and we need to know when we start a house that we can get final septic tank approval," he said. He a dded that if the problem is solved Wednesday, he would likely drop plans to file the suit.

Council votes 3-2 for pension payments

PORT ST. LUCIE–Unless former Mayor Lawrence Kimmel filed a lawsuit to contest the action, the excess funds in the city's old pension plan will be disbursed according to a formula city council members approved Tuesday in a three to two vote.

For several months now the disbusement of pension plan funds has been a topic of discussion and disagreement among council members. But the matter was apprently laid to rest with the vote Tuesday to approve the final payments of funds in the plan.

Councilwoman Lolita Kernohan, who asked to postpone a vote on the final payments Tuesday, and Councilman Merle Anderson, who noted that Kimmel may challenge the final payment formula in court, voted against the payment of excess pension plan funds. Mayor Bill McChesney, Vice-Mayor Mike Reeb and Councilman Schuyler Sharpe voted in favor of it.

According to figures in the resolution for final payment of the pension funds, a total of $11,768 is left in the fund. The document calls for $4,104 to be returned to the city. That includes an overpayment of $2,717 in annuity fees for Kimmel, $658 overpaid for former Public Safety Director Leslie Thomas' insurance premium, and the balance for an audit, telephone calls and mileage expenses incurred to get final figures.

The trustee of the fund, First National Bank of Fort Pierce, will get $121 for administration expenses, and the balance of the money, $7,542, is to go to five city employees declared to be fully vested in the pension plan when it expired recently.

As for the disbursal of funds to city employees, $4,166 goes to building department head Ralph LaChance, $820 goes to City Treasurer Gerald Van Patten, $724 goes to secretary Esther Kulp, $783 goes to former surveyor Billy Hicks, and $1,047 goes to chief housing inspector Marc Ball.

Mrs. Kernohan has contended that all excess funds should go to the city, since it was the sole contributor to the pension fund and since a provision in one resolution in connection with the plan calls for all forfeitures to be returned to the city.

However, it has been the position of Mayor McChesney, City Manager Elmer Cox, City Attorney Spencer Gilbert, and Treasurer Van Patten that the excess funds should be distributed among the five employees. They all say this is the advice they received from Internal Revenue Service officials when the question of fund dispersal came up.

At one time it was believed that $2,600 for a previous audit of the fund would be paid from the excess funds to the city before the formula was applied to disburse remaining funds. Mrs. Kernohan pointed this out. But Cox said the reason the city paid the $2,600 from general funds instead of from cash in the pension plan is because most all the pension funds were tied up in long-term investments when the bill came in. He said IRS officials told him the city could not recover that money now.

The pension plan was challenged in court by a group of citizens in 1975 and portions of the plan were ruled improper. As a result of the suit, council members and the part time city attorney were removed from further participation in the plan by ordinance. The court ruled that Kimmel, then mayor, had a 40 per cent vested right in the pension fund money contributed by the city in his behalf. Kimmel has indicated he believes he is entitled to more money than the city has agreed to pay him. Anderson noted Tuesday that Kimmel's attorney had met with Van Patten to obtain figures about the plan. Anderson suggested placing the money in escrow until a court decides what Kimmel is entitled to receive.

But City Attorney Gilbert noted no suit has been filed yet and said there may be no suit. He said it would not be practical to set the money aside to pay for a lawsuit that hasn't occurred and may not occur. "Sometimes there is a slip betwixt the cluck and the lip," Gilbert said of rumors that Kimmel may sue the city.

After the meeting, Mrs. Kernohan again said she did not approve of the final payment, but said she did not know if she would try to do anything more about it.

In other action, after receiving a report from Vernon Forrar of the Planning and Zoning Board City Hall Committee, council members unanimously voted to hire Fort Pierce Architect Hank Reigler to design the proposed new City Hall. Last week council members decided to delay a vote on the committee's recommendation of Reigler until a written report was made, stating reasons why the committee recommended Weigler over four other applicants for the job.

Forrar's report noted Reigler has contacts with officials in Tallahassee who will have to approve the City Hall, that he has experience in local construction, and that he has sufficient office help to do the job.

The council plans to build a $750,000 City Hall on a 14.5 acre tract on the northwest corner of Port St. Lucie and Airoso Boulevards.

Alice Sharpe hospitalized

PORT ST. LUCIE–Alice Sharpe, wife of Port St. Lucie City Councilman Schuyler Sharpe, was admitted to Martin Memorial Hospital Tuesday morning and will reportedly undergo surgery for a gall bladder problem on Wednesday.

Word that his wife was going to the hospital reached Sharpe during the council meeting Tuesday, and the visibly shaken Sharpe quickly left the meeting to accompany her.

City Treasurer Gerald Van Patten, who drove Sharpe hom, said Mrs. Sharpe had a gall bladder problem, and City Manager Elmer Cox said later in the day that he understood she would undergo surgery Wednesday.

Before the winter was over, some 3,000 of the 11,000 soldiers died. And another 2,900 were still unfit for duty when spring came.

But spring finally came and brought with it good news – the signing of the French-American military alliance which meant French soldiers, ships and weapons for the new army.

And the winter itself hadn't been a total loss. The soldiers who survived the wintry were tougher, harder men than they'd been the fall before.

They'd frozen, but they had drilled. So when the Continental Army met the British in June, 1778 in Moonmouth, New Jersey, it was two well-disciplined armies clashing, not an army versus an untrained militia.

And by the end of the first day of battle, the British had had enough. They moved out under cover of darkness – never to fight in the north again.

That bitterly cold, horribly cruel winter is commemorated this year by our Christmas stamp – Washington kneeling in prayer for divine help for his troops.

It's a scene we all should reflect on as we give thanks during the holiday season.

Happy Holidays.

Roger White sang for President Ike

...is Roger White, multi-talented ...ious manager for FM radio ...n WMCF, a much-sought-after ...ist, an ace duplicate bridge player, ...one of the most knowledgeable ...ysiologists in South Florida. Whether ...ed to throw the composer of the ...e Penny Opera or some obscure ...man aristocrat, the answer is on the ...of Roger's tongue.

...e Whites, both superior professional ...ocrats and bridge players! began ...acing the cultural landscape of the ...ver area more than eight years ...when he accepted the post at the ...ly-organized station.

The Whites' advent in Indian Riverland came after lifetime careers in the nation's music marts for them both. Whether that professional appearance in Fort Pierce had anything to do with their decision or not, they had already definitely committed themselves to the area well in advance of finally coming in contact here.

"We spent our 25th anniversary at the Port St. Lucie Country Club," Roger told The Mirror. "By 1962, we had bought a house in Port St. Lucie."

Roger White was obviously born under a star studded with grace notes. A native of Toledo, Ohio, he knew he was destined to a musical career "shortly after I took my first violin lesson."

The excellence of the music program in the Toledo public schools evidently had more than a little to do with the course of his early life.

His mother, though not a trained musician, loved the piano, and encouraged her naturally-gifted son in the musical field.

"By the time I was 11, I was conducting the grade school orchestra," he recalled.

Toledo had an all-city orchestra, made up of outstanding young musicians picked from the public schools. He credits his "extraordinary stringed instrument teacher, Matilda Burns, for steering him to a nationally-known instructor, Helen Nold, for training on the violin. As a result, in his freshman year in high school he was playing first violin with the city string quartet; viola in his sophomore and junior years, and the piano in his senior year.

His superiority as a vocalist began to evidence itself during his early college years at Ohio Wesleyan, where he sang in the glee club.

"In 1933, I went on to Ohio State, because the tuition was only $30 a quarter," Roger reminisced. "Somewhere along the line I thought I wanted to be a lawyer – I don't know why."

Though not sure where he was headed, music continued to be a big part of his life. At Ohio State he and a group of fellow students organized the "Scarlet and Gray Collegians," which enjoyed an interval of success over the college radio station.

Then the money for education ran out, and Roger went to work for General Motors in Toledo for five years. During that time he persisted with his vocal lessons, which paid off with winning a National Federation of Music Clubs contest. This resulted in getting his first church job.

"It was at a Baptist Church in Toledo – I got $2 a Sunday," he said with his pary grin. "Then I got a job in a Jewish Temple. I was in a quartet that included a Lutheran soprano, a Baptist tenor, an Episcopalian contralto and a Methodist baritone."

He was singing in a Toledo Presbyterian Church when he was heard by the person who had probably the most lasting impact on his life – the music director at the Toledo Museum of Art.

"He suggested I try for a Julliard fellowship," Roger said.

He won the fellowship in 1938, quit his GM job and went to New York.

"It was at Julliard that I met Miriam (Young). She was there for the same reason We met Sept 30, 1938, and we were married 13 weeks later to the day, in Wilkinburg, Pa. In those days of radio you got a 13-week option. I picked up her 13-week option for life."

Miriam, in addition to her Julliard studies, had a radio job – as lead soprano doing Bach cantatas under the baton of Alfred Wallenstein. Roger got his first radio contract with the well-remembered "Salute to Youth" program, with the Raymond Paige Orchestra.

That was the beginning of a highly-successful career for Roger – a career which included long runs with the Bell Telephone Hour, The Firestone Hour, and the American Album of Familiar Music.

ROGER WHITE, production manager of WMCF, is using the know-how of nearly 40 years of experience in professional radio in the station which serves the Martin-St. Lucie County area on a 24-hour basis. A crack duplicate bridge player, he had directed games in Fort Pierce, Jensen and Stuart. (Behind him — [illegible] — is the "world's largest crossword puzzle" which keeps him and conference sharpening their wits.) (Staff photo by Sally Latham)

Meanwhile, Miriam was having her share of equal success. She was one of the "Maids of Manhattan" on the classic Manhattan Merryground, among other vintage shows in that pre-television heyday of great radio.

Then, in 1950 as all of that era mournfully remember, radio died. Though still an important instrument of communication, it lost all the big national network money to the omnivorous boob tube, and the old guard of entertainment dropped like sprayed flies all over the New York scene.

It was in 1950 that Roger and his musical henchmen began touring the concert circuit as the "Men of Song," a commitment that lasted for six seasons.

Then came a couple of black years, the kind that happens to the best in the entertainment field.

"Then I got into the commercial jungle," Roger recalls.

He both wrote them and sang them – Chesterfield commercials, among others. The one he's probably remembered best for is "You Can Trust Your Car ... To the Man Who Wears the Star–", that tuneful Texaco slogan which has become that company's best known trademark.

Those many years on the nation's entertainment forefront naturally stacked up a pile of cherished memories for Roger and Miriam. One of their most memorable experiences came in 1954 when the Men of Song were at their peak of popularity.

"We gave a command performance at the White House," Roger recalls. "Our wives were all invited, and were escorted in by military aides. After the performance, Eisenhower entertained us at a midnight steak dinner in his private dining room. A particularly honored guest was the widow of Woodrow Wilson."

Roger and Miriam, seasoned in the business and armed with talent as they were, began to see the handwriting on the walls of New York – the MENE MENE TEKEL UPHARSIN of the Youth Cult.

"You could see the changing trends in the music world," Roger said. "They wanted no one over 35 in the studio anymore."

Later, of course, Nostalgia swung the pendulum back again, but by that time, Roger and Miriam were long gone from the scene.

Roger decided his bag should be a small radio station, preferably in Florida.

"I interviewed around the state," he said, "but we had this house over here, so we came to town. The next morning, area paper headlines announced that WSTU had been sold."

He called Les Combs of WMCF, read the news that evening, and two days later he got the nod from the owner. He and Miriam went back north, sold their house in Hastings on the Hudson, and returned to make our part of Florida their way of life.

Roger and Miriam are people who enjoy getting involved in their community, and they wanted no time in contributing to it. He is a frequent guest soloist at churches of all denomination. (He will also be featured star at the February Second Sunday for the Fort Pierce Women's Club). He was soon after their arrival an asset in the Mutual Concerts Association. He became its president in 1974, and has served in that capacity since.

He is particularly excited about the coming season, which will begin with the New Orleans Jazz Orchestra on Jan. 12, and will include the Ballet Folk, the Theron Boyd Choir, Pianist Enid Katahn, and winding up with the Florida Symphony in April.

In the world of bridge, Roger and Miriam were seasoned players when they came to the area.

"We played a lot when we were concertizing," Roger said. "We had two neighbors, Dorothy Hayden and Alan Truscott. " That says it all, to those knowledgeable in the game.

In addition to teaching music at Indian River Community College early on, he also taught duplicate. He is a certified director in the American Contract Bridge League, and he and Miriam own the franchise for the Treasure Coast Duplicate Club, which meets Fridays in Stuart.

They are very proud of their children – David, who is [illegible] in Clinton, N.Y., and Susan, Mrs. Doug Stockbower, Jr., who is now in Conway, N.H., where her husband breeds and trains horses. Susan, incidentally, is well known in this area. She was an x-ray technician with Martin Memorial Hospital, and her father-in-law runs the Jensen Cabinet Shop.

Merely contemplating Roger's many-layered schedule is enough to exhaust the ordinary mortal. How does he meet all those varied commitments?

"I guess it was the radio experience," he said. "It didn't take long to learn that if you don't get there on time, you don't get the job."

Save First for Next Christmas

There are two traditional trees at this time of the year. The Christmas Tree, with the joy that it brings at the holiday season, and the January Tree, with the bills that you'll collect after the first of the year.

First of Martin County would like to help make next Christmas a really happy one. Open a special Christmas savings account today at First of Martin County. Just five dollars a week put into a passbook savings account, paying 5-1/4% interest compounded daily, will give you $260.07 a year from now. Ten dollars a week will give you $533.94 – enough to take care of both the gifts under the Christmas Tree and the bills on the January Tree.

Stop by at any of First of Martin County's five financial centers and start saving now for next Christmas.

NARFE meets in Port St. Lucie

PORT ST. LUCIE–Port St. Lucie Chapter 1589 of the National Association of Retired Federal Employees held its December meeting last week at the Community Center. There were 45 members in attendance. Including those who signed up as new members before the meeting, the chapter now has a total of 71 members.

The business portion of the meeting dealt with discussion of the constitution and by-laws prepared by Dick Lundin and his committee, which, after a minimum of changes, were accepted by the membership.

Refreshments were prepared and served by Florence T. Magee and her committee of six. The meeting room and tables were appropriately decorated for the Christmas season, and members enjoyed sandwiches, cookies, other dessert items and coffee.

The next regular meeting will be held at the Community Center at 2 p.m. Jan. 16. All members are urged to attend and all federal retirees in the area who are not yet members are invited.

ater and sewer rates could ouble in two years in PSL

BY BOB FRYER

ST. LUCIE–Not too long ago Development Utilities informed members that their water, sewer and natural gas rates to comply with regulations, and now the city has learned that GDU has applied for ses that, if approved, will double and sewer rates in the next two case of the gas rate hike, the mpany asked the city fathers to incorporate provisions for the rate increase by amending a franchise agreement the city has with the company. On advice from the city attorney, council members declined to do so. However, GDU lawyers wrote back and said the rate increase was going into effect anyway, because the federal government required it, and said the company had to do it even if the council didn't amend the franchise agreement. And, so, the natural gas rate took effect, last month.

Now, G.P. Moran, vice president of GDU, has informed the city that the utility company has applied to the Florida Public Service Commission for water and sewer rate increases. The increases sought are to be in two phases, with the first rate increases for water and sewer planned for August, 1978, and the second water and sewer hike to become effective in August 1979.

If approved as requested, the cost of water and sewer service for the "typical residential customer" who uses 6,000 gallons per month, will more than double when the phase two hike takes place.

According to Moran's letter, the cost of water service for the typical residential customer will jump from $6.15 a month to $10.00 a month in August, 1978, and from $10.00 to $13.70 in August, 1979, if the PSC approves. The cost of sewer service will jump from $5.05 a month to $9.90 a month in August, 1978, and from $9.90 to $13.00 a month in August, 1979, if the rate increases are granted.

And, in addition to those proposed rate increases, GDU has asked the PSC for an interim sewer rate increase, to take effect sometime between now and the planned phase one hike in August, 1978, to offset a $130,000 loss the company has suffered in sewer operations. Moran did not state how much of an interim hike has been requested.

The letter contains a series of questions and answers. One of the questions is "Why is GDU requesting the increase"

Moran's answer is that the increase is "required to offset the adverse impact of inflation since 1972 on GDU's operating costs, and also to pay for increased regulatory standards required by government agencies. Requirements include additional licensed operators, expanded treatment, and 24 hour coverage, to mention a few."

After that question and answer, Moran states the amount requested for the rate hikes. Then, he asks the question, "How much profit does the company want to make?", and answers it by saying in 1978 the PSL water division showed no profit and, in fact, lost a few thousand dollars. And he says the sewer division lost $130,000.

Moran also notes that GDU has invested almost $5 million in water and sewer treatment plants and lines. "If GDU were to invest $5 million in a commercial savings account, it could earn 6.25 per cent a year, yielding $312,500 a year. GDU is requesting that it earn a return of 9.15 per cent on its rate base of investment."

According to the letter, the requested rate increases would affect all 3,800 water customers and 2,700 sewer customers in Port St. Lucie and River Park.

Later, Moran notes that there will be a "readiness to serve charge" in the requested new rate structure. He explains that this would be a $4 a month charge for the typical residential customer "to offset the investment plant, insurance, interest and taxes, all of which must be paid before water is delivered." All customers will pay this charge, he says, and further notes that even those residents who leave Port St. Lucie in the summer months will have to pay the charge while they are away.

Moran concludes his letter by comparing GDU's present rates with those of Stuart and Fort Pierce. While a GDU customer using 6,000 gallons a day pays $6.15, customers using Stuart water service pay $8 a month for using the same amount of water if they live in the city, and $12 if they live outside. In Fort Pierce the rate is $6.00 in the city and $9.12 outside the city.

As for sewer service, GDU customers currently pay $5.65 a month. Stuart customers pay $7 inside the city and $10.50 outside the city, and Fort Pierce customers pay $7 in the city and $10.50 outside the city.

PSL to get phone book

PORT ST. LUCIE–After years of having to look in two different phone books to find the numbers of stores in the Port St. Lucie area, the city is finally going to get a phone book of its own.

But it's not Southern Bell that's undertaking the project. It's the idea of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Meusel of 1849 Southeast Elkhart Terrace.

Presently, residents have to have a Stuart and a Fort Pierce phone book to locate all the stores in the Port St. Lucie area. But the Meusels plan to change all of that.

The couple got the idea for the book after moving here a couple of years ago and having a rough time locating numbers of stores, clubs and organizations. They decided something should be done, and are now doing it. They have formed a company called the Port St. Lucie Community Phone Book, Inc., and they are in the process of gathering numbers and selling ads for their book.

In addition to having all the residential numbers in one book, it will also contain numbers of clubs and organizations and stores. Additionally, it will contain a number of maps of the area, to help newcomers find their way around town.

Those who want it will have the names of husbands and wives listed in the book, and whenever possible, meeting times of civic groups and churches will be listed. Distribution is planned for October, 1978.

joyous time at Ocean Breeze....

...s a joyous time of the year at ...ze with many guests here for ...ays.

Christmas to all, as off you go to ...pecial events.

Wednesday, Dec. 21, at the ...ents, there'll be the annual ... Turkey Shoot and Country ...e is for all, shufflers vie for ...ful chickens; others draw for ...d groceries.

...the kids will have their annual ...s party, at noon, Saturday, Dec. 24. Games first, luncheon arranged by Orlee Eckland, and then Santa appears with presents for all. Late comers, be sure to sign in your grandchildren at the office so Santa can have an appropriate gift in his pack. A glance at the list showed equal number of "he 's' gs" with ages from 3 to 11. Adults can watch of course and take a million pictures.

However, before the Kids' Party, the old folks will kick up their heels at the Christmas Dance, Friday, Dec. 23, at 8 p.m. There'll be an exchange of gifts, so each should bring some small present and don't pay over a buck for it. Some of the gals were overheard discussing long gowns, so it should be a gala affair.

RAMBLING AROUND

Ann Bartle, Cypress Dr., is one of the many to have visitors over the holidays. She'll have her son and family, Jerome, Lottie, Jimmy and Steven, from Philadelphia. They are driving down and will make a stop off at Disney World, then come on down for some 'R & R" and fishing.

Hazel Wilson, OBPer since 1960 at 15 SW Fifth, is going to spend Christmas with son Karl and daughter Jean Griffin in Fort Myers. It'll be musical, as Karl is a Barbershopper and Jean is a Sweet Adeline. Hazel also has a daughter in Alexander, Va., whom she visits in the summer, on her way to her place in Kingwood, W. Va.. There are four granddaughters and four great's around for Hazel to enjoy when away from here and her pinochle bunch.

Ken and Bea Beyer, 27 SW 4th, are back. They spent six months in Jonestown, N.Y., at their cottage on Lake Caroga, where the fishing and swimming is good. When asked about the weather, there was controversy. Ken said "very good" and Bea said "cool and rainy." Resolved: July was very good, but Sept. and Oct. not so good, requiring a wood fire all the time. Anyway as they have five children, with grandchildren and three great's nearby, along with mama, Ethel Lowe, they have a good summer regardless of the weather.

+ + +

Reva Brady, this year at 19 Center St., is an ol' timer who's been coming to OBP since the 40's. Reva makes her headquarters in Flint, Mich., but is often off on a jaunt to far away places in her motorhome. She's put 10,000 miles on it this year. Flint is a nice place for her to go home to as there are two daughters, seven grandchildren and two great's waiting there.

Many will remember Reva's mother, the vivacious Gracie Allen.

Lona Merrill, 27 SW 5th, spends at least five months up Laconia, N.H., way in her apartment, with one month visiting with her daughter in Chattanooga on her way down here, where over Thanksgiving, Lona celebrated her "39th" birthday. Although she has a grand time while away, Lona's glad to get back to the park and the Saturday night dances.

Party night dances for are for all, so there are all types of dancing: square, round, ballroom, folk and pattern. Also, many like to come and watch 'n' talk, so each regular should make an effort to bring along some lonely and help make their Christmas just a little gayer.

Also on Friday, Dec. 23, there'll be a Christmas Carol Concert at 2:30 p.m. at the shuffle courts when John Leyboch tunes up his Hi-Fi system to help OBPers enjoy Christmas music with their friends and guests.

Plenty of rain we do have and plenty of snow they do have. The canvas are filling up with water, like they haven't been filled for quite a few years, assuring Ocean Breezers they'll have water for their flower gardens this winter.

The snows of the north country are pretty and white, but "oh my aching back" at the thought of all that shoveling. However, many of the missing snowbirds must have decided it is worth a little shoveling to spend the holidays with their families as only the following 12 arrived last week:

Andy and Jean Largh; Luther and Kathryn Schmoyer; Virginia and Marguerite Duncan; Hessie Klein; Ben and Doris Hiercock; Leslie Zimmerman; Lester Brady; Al and Nancy West.

The traffic survey made last week indicated to "DOT" that there isn't any need for traffic lights at the park entrance. Even though the Town of Ocean Breeze would pay the complete cost of equipment and installation, the use of the lights was denied. It looks like it'll take a few more serious accidents, as most of the cars using Indian River Drive do not slow down, even a little, for the "yellow blinker."

Therefore, cars, bicycles and pedestrians must use extreme care, as the bends in the road obscure the speeding cars and must be ready to duck back when an apparently clear road is suddenly filled with a car dashing right at them. Extreme patience and care will be required for the next few months.

The Martin County Property Appraiser has announced that all permanent residents who are receiving exemptions on their personal property taxes for mobile home improvements are advised to renew before March 1, 1978. Also, widow's and disability exemptions must be renewed. For further information see Muriel Morawski, Personal Property Dept., Appraiser's Office, Court House, Stuart.

PARK EVENTS

CAMERA CLUB will have a hiatus with meetings being resumed Thursday, Jan 5, when Nina Ziegelhofer, program chairman for the month, starts off with Dr. Roberts' slides on Pennsylvania. Last week's meeting was great with a Hoover Dam movie and St. Louis slides by the Comers, but the frequent downpours and threats of more kept attendance down to 50.

SHUFFLERS got rained on and out some of the time, but did manage to get in a lot of shuffling, with the following results:

OBP again leads the Indian River League - OBP, 30; Stuart, 29; Spanish Lakes, 23, Fort Pierce, 21; etc. However, the Central League ran into trouble and they dropped down a peg, with only eight games won.

The Stag League played games Monday, with Bun Miller leading with six games; and George Lebon, Pete Muller, Clyde Redinger, Pete Hillman, Bob Klar and C. Mathy all winning five games.

HOSPITAL & OBITUARY

Karl Hake of Hibiscus is back home after a short stay in the hospital for tests.

Joe Reis is back home, after a longer stay.

Adam Wingerter, of West End Dr., is due home before Christmas and, maybe. Mable Schumann of Cora will be home for Christmas.

Art Langie is still in the hospital in Syracuse, N.Y., and may have to go into a convalescent facility for awhile, if they come down this winter. Agnes Taroff, long time resident of Fifth Street in the 60's, reports that her daughter-in-law, Betty Frost, died of pneumonia last week at Clifton Park, N.J.

Charles and Evelyn Figuerinde, 3 Almond, spent about six months at Mattapoisett, Mass. (Indian name = "Place of Peace"). It's a small town just south of Cape Cod. They had a happy, busy summer there as their daughter, son-in-law and two grandchildren were back from the Fraumeni cancer center off for duty in South Korea. He is director of USA foreign news agency.

Also, a son from Rochester, N.Y., dropped in, making the family gathering complete.

Ada Baum, 3 Pepper, had part of her Christmas celebration last Friday when she went on the AARP-sponsored Jungle Queen cruise. Ada says it was just great, even though she was a bit tuckered out when Boyd and Emily Smith brought her home at 2 a.m. Very little rain, good food, entertainment better than ever, Christmas lights pretty, and they sang all the way home on the bus.

+ + +

Walter and Betty Osgood, 4 Pepper, are back from Berwick, Me., where they have a home in town, but do have room for a good garden of everything, including raspberries.

Friday fire takes hours to extinguish

JENSEN BEACH–The Jensen Beach and Rio Volunteer Fire Departments spent several hours Friday, fighting a particularly hot and dangerous fire in a two-story storage building behind Royal Poinciana Cottages on Indian River Drive.

According to Jensen Fire Chief Joe Luciano, the fire apparently was the result of spontaneous combusion of highly flammable materials.

In the building, the chief said, were paint, oil, gas, old mattresses and many other items which had apprently been there for several years.

The Jensen department sent four units to the fire, and they had to pump 8,000 gallons of water during the course of extinguishing the blaze. Fortunately, they were backed up promptly and fully by the Rio department, which sent in three units.

Putting out a fire of that dimension is made particularly difficult, Chief Luciano said, because of the absence of a central water system.

"It would be much easier if we had a place to hook up," the chief said. "I had to instruct the trucks to drop the pressure a couple of times to make sure the water would last."

He stressed the importance of implementing the central water system promised by the county at the earliest possible date.

"Then we'll have something to work with," he commented.

Two firemen, one from the Rio department and one from the Jensen department, were slightly injured in the course of extinguishing the fire. The fire began at 10:49 a.m., and crews remained at the scene until nearly 4 p.m. to ascertain that the flames were fully extinguished.

The building was a total loss, Chief Luciano said.

FIRE CHIEF JOE LUCIANO, right, and Jensen Beach Volunteer Fireman Charlie Schommer are obviously hot and tired as a result of their battle against a fire at Royal Poinciana Cottages last Friday. A storage building, containing mattresses, paints, gasoline, furniture and paper erupted into flames due to an electrical shortage. Tiger Cagers ready for action

BY DONNIE WILKIE

STUART–The Martin County High ... basketball Tigers, ranked ... two in the first basketball poll of ... season, will take a shot at number one this week as the cagers go after the championship in the Orlando Sentinel Star basketball classic.

The Tigers, defending champions in the tournament, will find it difficult to improve on the excitement of last year's tournament, as they had to play a total of six overtimes in two games to take the prestigious title last December. Gone from the tourney is Deland, last year's state powerhouse that has since lost Oliver Lee to graduation. Lee is now playing his roundball for the defending NCAA college basketball champion Marquette Warriors.

However, two traditional powers have replaced Deland as the teams to watch. Pensacola Washington and Jacksonville Fletcher will be playing in this week's event.

Martin County's first round opponent last night (Tuesday) was Orlando Evans, and if they won and get past their semi-final opponent tonight, they look for a showdown with Orlando Boone, the current number one ranked quintet.

Don Wallen's forces went into the tournament with a perfect 6-0 record, and hope to emerge from the St. Petersburg-Roy King Invitational next week at 12-0. This, however will take a little good fortune.

When the Tigers return, the tough Suncoast Eastern Division race faces them. Games with Fort Pierce Central (Jan. 3 at FPC) and Forest Hill (Jan. 6 at the Tiger Den) will grace the first week's schedule. Also, a non-conference bloodbath against North Shore is slated for Jan. 7 at North Shore.

Most of the Tiger competition in the Suncoast East is currently fighting it out in West Palm Beach in the first annual Palm Beach Times Invitational. The tourney, being played at Palm Beach Junior College, includes all of Martin County's conference foes except Fort Pierce Central – Forest Hill, Palm Beach Gardens, John I. Leonard, Twin Lakes, Boca Raton and favored Lake Worth.

Tonight markes the semi-finals of this tourney. If North Shore and Lake Worth, the favorites, are still left after the first two rounds, North Shore will play at 7 p.m. and the Trojans at 9 p.m. Tomorrow night's final will begin at 9 p.m., preceded by the consolation game at 7 p.m.

Not to be left out of the act, Fort Pierce Cobras entered the Ocala Kingdome of the Sun tournament, while counterpart John Carroll is playing in the Melbourne Central Catholic Invitational. The final in that classic will also be tomorrow night. The Ocala tourney is next week.

Meanwhile, the Cobras have thrown themselves into the middle of the Eastern Division race. The Cobras have shown more spark since the return of Willie Redden, their 6'9" senior center.

A good example is Fort Pierce performances in two games against Leonard – one with Redden, one without him. The Cobras lost the first game by 18 points, then turned around with their prized center back in the lineup and downed the Lancers by that same 18 point margin.

Add the return of Lake Worth's top rebounder Luis Fuentes after a knee injury and you have the makings of a superb Suncoast East Division race for 1978.

EA OF CHILDREN anxiously awaits the start of "Stars Over Christmas", a ...ent the Port St. Lucie Elementary School fifth grade chorus produced last ...k. The chorus gave three separate performances so all 915 students at the school could see it, then gave a night-time performance for parents. The pageant traced the history of the celebration of Christmas, and was under the direction of Mrs. Patty Surface, the school's music specialist.

...he star-studded pageant opened with ...rendering of traditional Christmas ...ols and was bolstered by several ...edy skits that won vast approval ...m the audience. Carols were led by ...capable Ellena Percy, with Ray ...on turning in a fine performance as ...old St. Nicholas.

...pecialty numbers included a piano ...by Dotty MacNeill and Maxine ...ver; "I Saw Mommy Kissing Santa ...us", sung by Vi Simpson and Betty ...ier; a "melodica" quartet composed ...Miriam Crosby, Graber, Percy and ...for, in a rendition of "Parade of the ...den Soldiers"; Chipmunk skit by ...Trantham, Milt Penny, Earl ...ham and Gene Gray; "Jingle Bells", ...-part piano offering, rendered by ...yon Tilton, Edna Horne, MacNeill ...Graber; vocal solo, "All I Want for ...mas Is My Two Front Teeth", ...offered by Rusty Ball; and "Silent Night", saxophone solo by Walter Avard.

Santa then made a most auspicious entrance amidst the joyful jingling of numerous Christmas bells and distributed numerous gifts. This specialty was topped off by the presentation of a hard hat, topped by a flashing red light, to Edith Kirkbride, queen of Pinelake's "tricycle speedsters."

Upon Santa's departure a band, comprised of Bill Henrichsen, Pat Conway, Jack Torregrossa, Jim Geary and Avard, offered dance music, while Rachael LaChuyse and Ethel Hodges set up a refreshment table of punch and home-made cookies.

Costumes were by Nonie Crossett; make-up by Myrtle Penny and Crossett; piano accompanists were Horne, MacNeill and Graber.

Ralph and Emma Neblett are expecting their daughter Kathi down for the holidays, and departing on track nine are the Whiteys, the Hodgus and, of course, the McIpyres.

Venture Three is festive....

The lighted homes in the entire Venture Three area makes a pretty sight. Take a ride through and enjoy the decorations your neighbors have put up for the enjoyment of all.

Then hear this: "A Merry Christmas and Peace and Love to all our Friends."

Although a great many of the seasonal residents have returned home for Christmas with family, and other are waiting until after the holidays to come south, a good crowd attended the tree trimming party on Saturday night. The tree and rec hall look very festive

Fifty-seven people enjoyed the tapes and the combination of George Bares on accordion and Jack Torregrossa on trumpet, who led the group singing and continued to play for dancing.

New Years Eve tickets are available at the office or from persons in each section. Reserve yours early as Dick and Edith Palmer know how many to plan for.

Bud Pryne is really pushing to get the acoustical ceiling installed before the party, so more people can enjoy the recreational space planned for all.

Happy birthday to Louise Shepherd and Evelyn Mcbrhardt on Dec 12, and anniversary congratulations to Bud and Yvonne Wieneke on Dec 28. ROSE CURTH of Indian River reports

..Some new people have arrived since my last news in this paper. the Abramsons, lot 887, the Sterlings, George and Evelyn.

The Morton's new trailer, lot 838, is ready for occupancy and I believe they will be here by the time you read this.

I had a very short visit from my son and daughter in law from Buffalo, N.Y., who came down to Pensacola to see their son, my grandson, receive his commission in the Navy Airforce.

Mary Spisak is coming and going more than anyone else in the park She is spending the holidays with her family in Palm Beach Gardens

To everybody I am wishing HAPPY HOLIDAYS!

JACKIE PHILLIP, Venture Out-St Lucie, reports

May and Earl Eisenhard are busy, busy, preparing for the visit of their daughter Dec. 23. Carol Pringle Carol is superintendent of special education in E. Providence, Rhode Island. The proud parents are busy planning an open house to introduce Carol to the nice people of Venture Three Let's hope we can shower Carol with sunshine, and that her visit here will be a memorable one.

A note from Bill Grueling: "Mate is holding her own, quite well of late, but far too weak to make the trip at this time. Please express our good wishes to our friends and neighbors of Venture Out."

A sincere and friendly wish of joy for Christmas and the New Year to you from all of us, Mate and Bill.

Evelyn and Bob Sechrist are having a family Christmas here Part of the family will be staying in their trailer in Venture Out, and the other half will join their parents in their new home in Windmill Village.

Daughter Susan, son-in-law Denny, and children Matt and Sarah will be here in Venture Out. Hope they have a wonderful vacation.

Jackie and Al Phillips are looking forward to a short visit of their daughter-in-law to be, Debbie Wyatt. Deb is a stewardess with Delta Airlines. The Phillips' will spend Christmas with their relatives in Jupiter.

Kathy Parmentier (of "Kathy and Bruce" fame) wrote the following for inclusion in the Venture Three News:

"If one wanted to realize the true spirit and meaning of Christmas, they should have witnessed the building of the screen room for Fred and Eleanor Greenough last Saturday. Santa (Max from the Store), and his helpers, too many to mention, but they were all from Holiday Out and Venture Out, worked hard putting up the porch. That was only part of this wonderful day. Marie Holmes and her helpers prepared the most delicious food. To name all these beautiful women would fill the pace, but without their help the men would never have finished in such a short time...or had such a good time doing it.

"God bless and love you, Max. You helped express the real meaning of Christmas with the help of a great group of people of all ages and all faiths. Kathy."

We're happy to see some of the "natives" return - welcome back! Happy Holidays to each and every one.

St. Lucie Chapter 2696

, it was a festive occasion indeed ek when some 80 members of our ter gathered at Treasure Island Inn the annual luncheon to honor ng President Fred Wiggin, who presided with the chapter's first ard award for "selfless service" to ther people of the community. y Commissioner Bob Egna took ne from his busy schedule (in fact, had to break away from a session meeting to attend the ion in order to make the ntion to Fred. He did this in brief, ert remarks in which he told the pleted company of his own dge of the way that Fred has been there to lend a helping hand one who need it.

President Maurie Arluck ted as master of ceremonies and ged roiling with witty comments ongs going on. If a second plaque ame available, it should have been dio Jim and Helen Kearney, who ke Trojans making all the gements for the luncheon. Helen the place cards for the head table ntained at the entrance to the room (appropriately named ue II) to take tickets and clip off ners with the numbers for the zes. As on most of the other g the chapter has had during the Jim was the mover and the man who got things done. It ssumed I job to set up something a luncheon, and Jim deserves the of all members for his work. He ll-inspired special thanks voiced to Elsie Kearney (no relation), er at Treasure Island, and d O'Sieen, the chef, who went and beyond the call of duty (in e sure that everything moved ly and that the food that was was class A-One.

As the new year approaches, this pedantic corner expresses the hope that people will stop confusing some easily confused words in the language.

Our current bugaboo is the anarchy that exists in many people's minds with respect to the words "imply" and "infer." A simple way of distinguishing between the two is to say that a speaker implies something by what he says, and his listener infers something from what the speaker has said. H.W. Fowler, the high priest of modern English usage, has this to say on the subject: "The misuse of infer for imply is sadly common. But each word has its job to do, one at the giving end and the other at the receiving (What do you imply by that remark? What am I to infer from that remark?) and should be left to do it without interference."

It is curious that two such small words should cause such confusion, but the sad truth is that they do. The said truth also is that very few people who now get them mixed up are going to change their ways. Regardless of how you use the two words, we wish you a happy and prosperous New Year.

All senior groups should take advantage of the new WMCF public affairs announcement service as it is coming through well, as numerous telephone calls indicate. If any senior group has events, projects or programs of interest to other seniors, put it on the air.

Send the material to Boyd Smith, 334-2341, Ernie Curwen, 334-0756, or Maurie Arluck, 334-1501, two weeks before the event.

MARTIN COUNTY CHAPTER 2223

The senior citizens coming down from the northlands continue to rave about the great centers they have, from Tennessee to Michigan to New Hampshire, so Martin County seniors are more determined than ever to have a center of their own. Therefore, when MCCA came up with the MacDonald meal ticket deal, to raise matching fund money, AARP was glad to be included so they could raise money for the building fund.

The deal is spectacular: 5000 one dollar tickets will be made up, with Stuart National Bank underwriting the cost. The tickets entitle the holders to $1 worth of food at MacDonald's, either in Stuart or on Fort Pierce. The tickets will be sold starting the first of the year and will be good during the month of February. Then they'll have to be redeemed by MCCA/AARP at a profitable discount.

Remember, there are 18,500 seniors in Martin County. If you want a center, get behind this project, buy a ticket yourself, sell a few, talk it up.

The Congregate Meal program at Langford Park is ready to expand and project director Arlene Fletcher visited the meal site last week to explain the qualification details as some of those ugly rumors reached her ears.

She made it very clear that this is not a "gospel" project, as income doesn't enter the picture in any way. She again stated that the qualifications are: over 60, in need of a nutritious meal and recreational programs with congenial seniors in pleasant surroundings. However, donations are accepted and they go toward providing additional meals hence the increase to 65 next month.

Now that there will be openings for the meals, all interested should see Doris Walker, site manager, any weekday afternoon, between 2:30 and 4 p.m. at Langford Park, or telephone 334-2570.

The Martin County Health Dept. Clinic had the usual number of regulars last week, plus a few more, in spite of frequent downpours. Nurses, in checking blood pressures, noted some changes and advised those seniors to see a doctor. This worthwhile service is well patronized, but there's always room for more: third Friday each month, 9 a.m. at Langford Park Fieldhouse.

The Christmas Bazaar was a success far beyond expectation, as $176 was taken in for the building fund. Plants, knit goods, leather work, some "wonder wheats" were all snatched up. In fact, some were to have been used for door prizes, but at drawing time, much to the president's embarrassment, there were none left. The word was, "Let's do it again next year."

Dale Cassen, District 79 Representative, conducted the installation of new officers and directors. The new officials are Ernie Curwen, president; Boyd Smith, first vice pres.; Esther Kliden, second vice pres.; Al Tucker, third vice pres.; Myra Ribs, secretary; Marie K. Smith, treasurer, and directors Eleanor Overfield, Wendell Morris, Pearl Wyse, Lee DeBerry, Lyle Burden, Herbert Hiers and Harry Rayfield.

Christmas carols were sung by the members under the direction of Ethel Tucker, with Lois Keith at the organ. And Max Swoope at the piano.

Next came the refreshments, cakes and cookies donated by the gals, too many to name, but all were good. In fact, the refreshments must have been "just the thing" as, afterwards, members feeling contented drifted back to the bazaar and bought everything in sight.

Then came the reports of some of the most active committees, as follows:

CLASSES: Chm. Chloe Macintyre, reminded members that the next Defensive Driving course will start Jan. 14, Sat., at 10 a.m. at the Jensen Ambulance Center. The swimming class will resume Saturday, Jan. 7, 10 a.m. at the high school pool. Chloe also told of a new basic education program for rounding up all drop outs and getting them back to school nights or part time. These are all Adult Education sponsored projects. Call 287-6400, ext. 130, for information.

BUS TOURS: Chm. Jill Morris, who said the Jungle Cruise for Dec. 16 was sold out, reminded members of the February Musicana trip and a March Holiday on Ice trip that are being talked about.

SOCIAL: Chm. Ruth Hoffman announced a Valentine Party for Feb. 14, Tuesday, at the Jensen Beach Elks Club. Entertainment will be provided by the Jensen Beach Elementary School Chorus.

LUNCHEON: Chm. Frank Edwardson said that Saturday, the Fed. Hwy. near SPS will close off the school.

A SEASON FOR CHILDREN is what Christmas is all about, and on Saturday, the children of Port St. Lucie turned out en masse to greet Santa and whisper their Christmas wishes into his ear. The Port St. Lucie Junior Woman's Club sponsored the event and served up a pancake breakfast for the children and their parents (Photo by Bob Fryer)

NOSE TO NOSE with Santa is a good place to be, if you want to make sure the jolly old man hears your Christmas wishes. The little Port St. Lucie girl wasn't shy at all when Santa flew in by helicopter to hear what local children want to find under the tree on Dec. 25 (Photo by Bob Fryer)

GREETING SANTA with a warm smile must be the best way to soften up the old man before giving him a list of what you want for Christmas. Because that's what scores of children, including this little girl, did at the Port St. Lucie Community Center Saturday (Photo by Bob Fryer)

1977 - It was a busy year in Port St. Lucie

BY BOB FRYER

PORT ST. LUCIE--The year of 1977 was a year of phenomenal growth for the city of Port St. Lucie, and from all indications, it appears the city should enjoy a continued building boom in 1978.

It has been an eventful year in the city, complete with good and bad news, and I'm sure bet the upcoming year will be many one for the many residents who call Port St. Lucie home. Here is a recap of the events that made news in Port St. Lucie during 1977:

JANUARY

The year began with City Mayor Chesley Sharpe announcing that he had decided not to run for mayor in the March election. Sharpe noted that he served as mayor for two years and that he intended to finish out the last two years of his city council term as a council member. He said being mayor did not give him enough time to spend with his wife.

Three local homeowners' associations of the Civic League agreed to meet with other civic groups in the three county area in an effort to organize opposition to a proposed $349 million Florida Power and Light Company rate hike.

Charles Edgette announced plans to form a Port St. Lucie Band.

Robert Schweiger of 1740 S.E. Sharimeet Dr. announced that he might challenge the city's grass ordinance in court. The city ordinance required lawns to be kept below six inches tall. Schweiger was cited for a violation of the ordinance because he maintained a natural-look" vegetation on his lot. He stated that he might support a political candidate who agreed that the grass ordinance was wrong when elections were held in March.

City council members ended weeks of delay when they agreed on Jan. 11 to accept about three and a half miles of streets from General Development Corporation.

The State Department of Natural Resources officials announced that they expected the state would soon purchase the environmentally endangered Savannas.

For the first time in recorded history, it snowed in Port St. Lucie (and all the way south to Miami) on Jan. 19. The snow fell early in the morning and was still on the ground in many places a few hours after sunrise. The unfamiliar cold white stuff provided joy and excitement for young and old. It seemed most everyone had been called by a friend early enough in the morning to get outside and see the snow for themselves. The snow was part of a bitter winter that damaged many trees and plants in the community.

St. Lucie County Commissioner George Price was elected to head the new Treasure Coast Regional Planning Council.

Sam Feigenbaum and Mike Reeb filed for a city council post.

Contributions were sought by the Coalition of Florida Consumers, a newly formed organization, to fight a proposed Florida Power and Light Company rate hike.

FEBRUARY

The Treasure Coast Builders Association objected to a city council proposal to require contractors to pay a performance bond or have a signed waiver of the bond from the homeowner having construction work done.

A cocktail party was held to celebrate the opening of the new Port St. Lucie Medical Center on U.S. 1.

A total of eight candidates filed for city council posts before the filing deadline. They were Mayor Frank Rose, Merle Anderson, John Koroly and Sam Feigenbaum filed for a seat being vacated by Lawrence Kimmel. Mike Reeb and Harriston St. John filed for the district seat, and Bill McChesney and Charles Hayde filed for the mayor's seat.

The Morningside Friends Church group filed for a rezoning so they could build a sanctuary on Morningside Drive.

William G. Taylor was installed as the new president of the Spanish Lakes Masonic Club.

Mrs. Linda Heckendorn was elected president of the Port St. Lucie Junior Woman's Club.

Bob Brunton was picked as president of the Coalition of Florida Consumers.

A new arts and crafts building for the Port St. Lucie Community was being planned.

Seymour Fleming was elected as president of the Port St. Lucie Civic League.

The Coalition of Florida Consumers filed a rebuttal, more than 40 pages long, to a requested $349 million FPL rate hike.

The Mirror won the 1976 Valley Forge Freedoms Award "from the Freedoms Foundation for a special tabloid section titled "Vignettes of American History," was illustrated by local artist Carl Lapof.

MARCH

Merle Anderson and John Koroly made the runoff for the District Five city council seat when they outpolled Sam Feigenbaum and former Vice Mayor Frank Rose.

The city council sponsored a citywide cleanup week in March, offering to pick up the tab for trash collections. The project was designed to help residents get rid of debris left over from the hard winter freezes.

The city Planning and Zoning Board called for the city council to hire a city engineer to make on-site inspections of roads the city will eventually have to accept for maintenance.

The Port St. Lucie Community Center sponsored a Spring Festival and Bazaar. Nearly $2,700 was made during the festival, and after expenses were deducted, the balance went to the Center's operating fund.

The March 15 election resulted in victory for William McChesney, who became the city's first elected mayor when he outpolled Charlie Hayde. Mike Reeb swamped Harrison St. John to win the District Four council seat, and Merle Anderson won a runoff contest over John Koroly to get the District Five post.

Bishop Thomas J. Grady of the Diocese of Orlando conducted the dedication ceremonies for the newly completed educational building at the St. Lucie Catholic Church.

After a successful boat-a-cade to the Outrigger Resort, the Saints and Sinners Yacht Club announced plans for a boat-a-cade to Indiantown.

The state cabinet voted, after nearly 10 years of negotiations, to buy 2,812 acres of the Savannas. The purchase was made so the highly sensitive ecological balance in the Savannas can be preserved from development. The unique stretch of lakes and wetland marshes, which runs from Jensen Beach to south Fort Pierce and lies between Indian River Drive and U.S. 1, is filled with a wide variety of birds and animals, some of which need protection to keep from becoming extinct.

The Coalition of Florida Consumers won praise for its stand against a proposed $349 million rate hike Florida Power and Light requested. The praise came from state officials at a Public Service Commission rate hike hearing.

Herbert Haughton was named president of the Port St. Lucie Bank, succeeding C.A. Bramley, Jr., who was bank president since it opened in 1973.

Plans were announced for a $700,000 shopping center to be located on U.S. 1 near Port St. Lucie. The center is to be known as Village Square.

A school board plan to bus fourth and fifth grade students from Port St. Lucie to Fort Pierce in the next school year resulted in a strong reaction against the proposal from PSL parents. They pledged a campaign against the busing plan.

APRIL

Easter was celebrated in Port St. Lucie with a number of sunrise services, and at a city council meeting, Mrs. Robert Lamont, dressed as an Easter Bunny, reminded council members to spread love.

Parents against a school board plan to bus fourth and fifth grade students from the city to Fort Pierce won support from city council members.

A record crowd turned out for the 17th annual Easter Egg Hunt at the North Port Marina.

In what was the biggest social event of the year for Cub Scout Pack 499, young scouters received a number of awards at the pack's Blue and Gold Dinner.

The Port St. Lucie Community Center celebrated its fifth anniversary on April 16 with a breakfast, lunch, and night-time dinner dance.

City council members agreed to try holding at least one night meeting a month to see if attendance by young, working residents could be generated.

Opposition to preliminary site plans for the Morningside Friends Church was voiced at a Planning and Zoning meeting. A number of residents said they did not like plans for recreational facilities on the church grounds.

Dr. John Sisson was elected president of the newly formed Port St. Lucie Exchange Club.

MAY

Developer Victor Georgeff, who wants to build a luxury housing community on a 30 acre tract along the St. Lucie River, asked city officials to annex the land. He said the housing development will be known as Vikings Landing and will feature $100,000 homes.

The first night-time meeting of the city council was termed a success, as the council chambers were packed with a standing-room-only crowd.

Parents seeking to keep fourth and fifth grade students from being bused to Fort Pierce schools next year raised nearly $7,000 so portables could be bought for the Port St. Lucie Elementary School. Although the money was raised, school officials still made no firm commitment to drop the busing plan.

THE NATIVITY SCENE at St. Andrew's Lutheran Church in Port St. Lucie is a reminder of the true meaning of Christmas: the birth of Christ. In the hustle and bustle of shopping and attending parties during the holiday season, the spiritual side of Christmas is sometimes lost. But wouldn't it be nice if the loving and giving of Christmas could be with us each day of the year. (Staff photo by Bob Fryer)

Borgnine, Dimaggio, Rooney included

Host of stars to roast and golf at Pro-Am

PORT ST. LUCIE--Professional athletes, movie and television stars will gather at the Sandpiper Bay Resort in Port St. Lucie on Saturday, Jan. 7, to participate in a celebrity roast.

Jack Albertson of "Chico and the Man", Ernest Borgnine, Mickey Rooney, Joe Dimaggio and Bobby Riggs are only a few of the big-name stars who will insult each other in good fun at the roast, or will participate in the Senior Professional Golfers Association ProAm Celebrity Invitational Tournament. Others include "Buffalo Bob" Bob Smith and "Roots" star Percy Rodriquez.

The tourney runs from Friday, Jan. 6 through Sunday, Jan. 8, and will be filmed for national television. Borgnine, Forrest Tucker, Dennis James, Rooney and Joey Bishop will appear at the roast and play in the tournament to be held on the Sinners Course.

Athletes playing in the tournament will include Dimaggio, Bud Harrelson and Riggs, from the baseball and tennis ranks, and will be complemented by professional golfers Sam Snead, Willie Barber, Stan Leonard and Julius Boros.

Pro golfers who will be in the roast and tournament will be Bob Rosburg, Bob Toski, Mike Souchak and Charlie Sifford. They will exchange barbs with Albertson, "Moving On" star Claude Atkins, and Alan Hale of "Gilligan's Island."

The roast begins at 8:30 p.m. at the Sandpiper Bay Conference Center and tickets can be purchased by calling Sandpiper Bay at 334-4400 or 878-2953. Tickets are $20.

Co-sponsors of the tournament, Shriners International, will receive all funds raised at the tourney and will use the money for charitable purposes.

General Development Corporation is also a sponsor. A total of 18 local amateurs will get to participate in the tournament, and a few openings still exist. You can purchase them at the Sandpiper Bay Pro Shop for $300. All amateurs will receive SPGI luggage, valued at around $150, tickets to the roast, and to two cocktail parties.

Chances 'rather slim' for city hall funds

PORT ST. LUCIE--The chances of getting a federal grant to help pay the cost of a planned $750,000 Port St. Lucie City Hall are "rather slim."

That was essentially the response City Manager Elmer Cox recently received to inquiries with federal officials about the availability of a grant.

The city council hopes to have construction of the city hall begin early next year. Already funds for the down payment on the building have been set aside in the current city budget. But after learning that the federal government helped a number of cities in the area with recent capital improvements, council members told Cox to see if any governmental money was available for Port St. Lucie.

U.S. Senator Lawton Chiles recently wrote Cox saying he contacted the Department of Housing and Urban Development and the Economic Development Administration and got negative responses from both agencies.

Chiles notes that the "possibilities of obtaining funding through the EDA are rather slim." And in a letter to Chiles from HUD official N. Steven Steinert, Steinert says his agency "has no funds available..."

The city has purchased a 14.5 acre tract at the northwest corner of Port St. Lucie and Airoso Boulevards for the City Hall. It is expected to take about seven to 10 months to complete and should fill the needs of the city for the next 15 years. It will contain a meeting room with seating for 100 persons and will feature two holding cells for prisoners. Eventually, if the city decides to form its own police department, the department will be housed in the city hall complex.

Fort Pierce Architect Hank Reigler was recently selected by the council to design the city hall. Cox has said that he hopes ground breaking for the building can take place in January.

Sandpiper Bay Ladies' Golf

PORT ST. LUCIE--It was blind partners, total low net, full handicap, tournament play for the Sandpiper Bay Ladies' Golf Association last week. Partners were drawn blind from a hat, following play, and the winners were:

Lea Bonne and Marge Kennedy, first with 142. Jane Radcliffe and Marge Thomas came in second with 143.

All tied up with 144s were Emily Griffin and Inez Bowman, Rose Schearer and Edie Smith, and Doris Mullen and Ruth Chase.

Emma Krecke and Evelyn Adamson had a combined score of 145, as did Wilma Leary and Bunny Leybourne; and there was a five-way tie with 147s by Sylva Barnwell and Eddie McDaniel, G. Van Holstrand and Bernie Brodie, Jean Giuliano and Gert Lakso, Audrey Docos and Louise Johnston, and Ida Hill and Ruth La Cour.

WINNER--The winner of the unlighted, outdoor greeting card category in the Port St. Lucie Women's Club Christmas home decoration contest is this warm greeting at the home of Capt. A.R. Trotter, 442 S. Naranja Drive. Prizes to eight persons were awarded last week by Woman's Club President Mrs. Jack Schleif and GDC general manager Bob Seeley, whose firm helped sponsor the contest. Cox hopes meet will provide answers to septic tank woes

PORT ST. LUCIE--City officials are hoping a meeting planned for Jan. 19 or 20 with state health officials will help alleviate the problem the city has had in recent months with septic tanks.

Though the date has not been firmed up yet, Cox says it will be at 2 p.m. on Thursday, Jan. 19, or 2 p.m. Friday, Jan. 20, at City Hall. The featured guest at the meeting will be Warren Straughm, district director of the state Department of Environmental Regulations.

Straughm, St. Lucie County Health Department head Bill Richards, General Development Corporation engineer Ken Miller, a representative of local septic tank installers, and city staff members will try to reach some sort of agreement as to what rules will be applied in issuing septic tank permits in the city.

In recent months Richard has strictly enforced a state regulation that tanks cannot be installed on lots with the water table less than three feet below ground level. This has caused concern among the city staff members and the building trade. But in spite of the problem, the building boom in the city continues with housing permits running in the 70s and 80s each month.

The problem got so bad that one contractor, Paul Amman, recently threatened to sue the county health department in order to get the final septic tank installation approval for the home of John Mullen. Mullen's family has been renting a house across from one being built for them by Amman. The new home, located at the corner of Carnation Ct. and Dolphin St., was virtually finished, but the tank installation was not approved. This caused a delay in moving plans for the Mullens. However, the suit was avoided when a settlement of the dispute between Amman and Richards last week paved the way for the Mullen family to move into their new house just before Christmas.

During the delay, Amman was paying the rent for the Mullens, who were facing eviction from the rented home because the landlord had lined up other tenants.

Several meetings with the city staff, the county health department and GDC engineers have been held in recent months, but no final solution to the septic tank problem has been agreed upon. At one of the recent meetings, the city's consulting engineer, Cal Montgomery of Stuart, came up with a formula for septic tank approvals. The formula takes into account the elevation of the house, drainage conditions on the lot and in the general area, and the water level, Cox says. He believes it is a reasonable formula and is hoping state DER officials will agree.

In addition to the formula, Cox also plans to discuss state regulations concerning who is authorized to submit soil sample reports that determine the water level and whether filling of the lot will be necessary.

Cox said during a probe of septic tank problems he had discovered that soil sample reports will be accepted from land surveyors, the city engineer, aeronautical and electrical engineers. Cox feels the land surveyors and city engineer are qualified to submit such reports, but says he sees no reason why aeronautical and electrical engineers should be allowed to submit such reports.

Proceeds from the sale will benefit the library's children's department.

Acceptance of a report on federally funded flood insurance will be the topic at tonight's meeting at Sewall's Point Town Hall. The report is being made by California-based Yeris Tech Glenn C. Woodard, Jr., regional director for the Federal Insurance Administration said the study will establish first floor high heights above the 100-year flood level.

A new church complex was announced by the Prince of Peace Lutheran Church, with the first phase being a new swing complex for fellowship and offices. TREACHEROUS INLET–The St. Lucie Inlet, known for years to be one of the worst in the state for wrecking boats and taking lives, nearly claimed the 36-foot sailboat "Impetuous" last week. John Goode, Sr., associate dean at DePaul University, prepares to raise the jib sail for an assist from the wind to free his boat. Goode and his son, John Goode, Jr., center, and 13-year-old grandson Jim Goode were planning a vacation to the Bahama Islands when the boat smashed against the jetty in the dead of night. No injuries were reported in the mishap, but it took them a full day to free the boat after it ran aground, and while they were doing it, a charter boat captain was tossed off his boat by angry seas and was hospitalized for exhaustion. Shoaling and a constantly changing inlet channel have been blamed for a rash of boating accidents recently. Treacherous inlet causes series of boat accidents

BY BOB FRYER

HUTCHINSON ISLAND–The St. Lucie Inlet, made treacherous by high seas and a persistent shoaling problem, has been blamed for a rash of boating accidents lately.

Fortunately, no lives have been lost in the accidents, though the captain of a charter fishing boat was hospitalized when he was tossed from the craft, and three Chicago sailors narrowly escaped injury when their 36-foot boat slammed into the inlet jetty late at night.

The accidents began two weeks ago, on Dec. 14, when the nine man crew of the 57-foot commercial fishing boat "Razor" flipped while coming in the inlet. The boat was loaded down with fish and was running the zig-zag course required to avoid sandbars when a powerful wave flipped it over. One crew member was trapped beneath the upside down boat for about seven minutes until he could cut himself free from fishing nets. He owes his life to an air pocket under the boat.

The boat is the newest member of the Stiller fishing fleet in Fort Salerno, and although it had only been through the inlet three times before flipping, its crew was comprised of veteran fishermen who have gone through the inlet frequently and have learned a respect for the sea. The boat captain said shoaling, which constantly changes the inlet channel and requires boats to run almost broadside of waves at times, was the cause of the mishap.

Last week three small boats were reported to have flipped in the inlet on Monday, when seas were moderately heavy. Then, on Tuesday night, around 10:30 p.m., the 36-foot sailboat "Impetuous" from Chicago slammed into the jetty. The three-member crew managed to fend the boat off before it could break up, and ran it aground just inside the inlet rocks. It took the Chicago sailors the entire day Wednesday, Dec. 21, to free the craft.

And while the men were busy trying to get the "Impetuous" floating again, the 28-foot charter sportsfishing boat "Topaz Gal" met its match in the inlet. Captain Kidd Crawford was piloting the Topaz Gal through the tricky inlet when a six-foot wave slammed into the boat. Crawford, who was high above the boat in a tuna tower, was tossed by the impact into the ocean. The boat ran aground on a sandbar and none of the passengers or crew were injured. But Crawford was swept out the inlet and remained in the raging waters for 45 minutes before being picked up by Capt. Ed Engebretsen. He was hospitalized, suffering from extreme exhaustion.

Aboard the sailboat "Impetuous" were John Goode, Sr., associate dean of the DePaul University College of Commerce; his son, John, Jr., and his grandson Jim who is about 12 years old.

Goode said they trailered the boat down from Chicago and put in at the Manatee pocket Tuesday morning. The trio planned to sail to the Bahamas for their Christmas vacation, and when they went out the St. Lucie Inlet Tuesday they were headed for West Palm Beach. There, they hoped to meet up with other sailboats headed for the Bahamas.

But Goode said winds blowing to the north and high seas kept them from making much progress.

"We had been sailing all day and were still only off the radio tower (at Jonathan Dickinson State Park) by nightfall. We decided we'd never make it there at that pace, so we decided to head back to the St. Lucie Inlet and motor our way down the Intracoastal Waterway," Goode Jr. said.

But when the sailors got to the inlet and Goode Sr. lined his boat with buoy lights, around 10:30 p.m., the waves blew the boat off course and into the jetty rocks. The crew managed to fend the boat off the rocks, but the craft ran aground a few feet south of the point where the rocks run into the ocean. They set up a makeshift campsite nearby and stayed through the chilly night.

Numerous attempts were made to free the boat from the sand, and at one point during high tide Wednesday evening, there were five persons chest deep in the ocean, tugging and pushing the 4,000 pound boat as the waves swept in. That effort failed, but another effort, with the help of a local Coast Guard auxiliary member, succeeded just after sunset.

Clifton Perry, who provided transportation and other assistance for the Goodes, said he went to offer the men a ride into town and got there just after the sailboat was freed from the sand. He said the boat almost ran aground on the south side of the inlet before it made it inside the dangerous inlet. "They're lucky to be alive," he said.

The boat had several large cracks in the side of the fiberglass hull from its collision with the jetty rocks, but apparently they caused no leaks.

Sanctuary nears deadline

BY SALLY LATHAM

JENSEN BEACH–With only days to go, the Savannas land has been more than 90 percent purchased for use as a state sanctuary, according to Rep. Dale Cassens, paying his weekly visit to the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce.

The Savannas conservation project, which was designed to preserve the wetlands in the stretch from Jensen Beach to Fort Pierce, was initiated two years ago with an appropriation of $200 million. As of the final week before the end of the year, all but 125 small parcels of land west of the railroad had been acquired, according to Acquisition Agent Norman McMillan of the Department of Natural Resources in Tallahassee.

McMillan came to Jensen on Thursday, and wrapped up nine of the hold-out parcels. His department plans on seeking an extension on the acquisitions, but it will be up to the governor's cabinet to decide whether or not the remaining lands are worth the asking prices.

"Most of the $200 million has been spent," Cassens told The Mirror newspapers. "The cabinet has to make the decision on where the balance will be spent."

The wetland strip is particularly important to the state, because this coastal property will determine the future of the state's ecology. To the south, many developers have gotten into the wetland areas, have filled in and built vast housing tracts which has inevitably driven out the shore birds, fish and other wildlife dependent on the coastal wetlands area for breeding and perpetuating the balance of nature.

On the Savannas land already acquired by the state, airboats, motor boats and swamp buggies – all motorized vehicles – are forbidden. Fishermen may take in canoes or rowboats, but not any sort of mechanism which would disturb the fish, birds or gators.

A maximum of five percent may be developed, McMillan said, but as yet the cabinet hasn't decided which direction it will go in developing the area. It is expected they will go the route of providing rowboat launching areas, minimal concession areas similar to those at Loxahatchee and other wetlands preserves, and very little else.

Other issues of current concern, for Rep. Cassens, include the unemployment and workman's compensation which are now under investigation by the legislature.

Cassens is one of five members of the House named to the study committee, which came into being after alleged corruption and mishandling of such funds after last season's freeze.

It was brought to the legislature's attention, Cassens said, that the emergency funds allocated by the government after the freeze put pickers and other farm workers out of jobs.

"We are looking for specific examples of mis-appropriation," Cassens said. "We've got to shape up and see that the legitimate claims are paid, but that the fraudulent ones are not.

BUYING THE SAVANNAS so it can be preserved is state land purchasing agent Norman McMillan, who recently stopped in Jensen Beach to conclude negotiations on several land tracts. McMillan says the purchases of the ecologically sensitive wetlands and marshes are more than 90 per cent complete. (Staff photo by Bob Fryer)

Board considers sidewalks

BY BOB FRYER

PORT ST. LUCIE--St. Lucie County School Board members were to have reviewed a request from Port St. Lucie Tuesday night that the school system chip in about $6,000 for sidewalks in the rear of the PSL Elementary School.

Port St. Lucie City Manager Elmer Cox and Public Safety Director Douglas Stout are working to get a $23,000 sidewalk project underway in the vicinity of the school. Stout says the sidewalks are needed for the safety of school children and adults who walk to churches, the library and the Community Center, all near the school.

The plan calls for sidewalks along Prima Vista Boulevard, from the point where they stop now, at Airoso Boulevard, to Curtis Street. Also planned is a sidewalk down Irving St. to the school. The sidewalks will run along city and county and school board property, and the city is willing to pay half the project cost if the school board and county commission will each pay a fourth of the cost.

Cox said he and Stout met recently with School Superintendent Dr. Nolan Skinner. "Dr. Skinner was worried about the school board's ability to finance the $6,000, but said he would take the matter up with the school board Tuesday night (Dec. 27)," Cox said.

Response from the county commission has also not been overwhelming. Cox met with the commissioners about two weeks ago and they said they would wait to see what the school board response was before making a decision.

In addition to the sidewalk project, the city is seeking help from the county to get a flashing beacon light at the intersection of Prima Vista and Airoso Boulevards. Cox wrote a letter to County Administrator Weldon Lewis asking for the light, but has not yet received a reply.

Stout says he has been patrolling the school and Sportsman's Park area recently to insure safety for school children and has also been patrolling Lakehurst Drive with his new speed gun. At the last city council meeting, Lakehurst Drive resident George Ersham complained that his street "has become a speedway." He said trucks and vans and cars are constantly racing up and down the road and he contained that speeding laws need more enforcement. Persons running stop signs are also a problem, according to Ersham.

Council members instructed Stout to crack down on speeders in the area and to report back in 30 days on beefed up patrols of the area.

A request by Ersham for speed bumps along Lakehurst was turned down by city council members.

The Inlet takes its toll

Last week, a Christmas vacation to the Bahama Islands was spoiled for a Chicago man, his son, and his grandson when their 26-foot sailboat smashed against the jetty at the St. Lucie Inlet, then ran aground after the men fended it off the rocks.

The next day, within sight of the grounded sailboat, a charter boat captain was thrown into the water from the boat's tuna tower after a huge wave struck his craft. The captain spent 45 minutes in the waters of the St. Lucie Inlet before being picked up. He suffered from exhaustion and was hospitalized.

Earlier in the week, three boats flipped over in the inlet, but no injuries were reported. And the week before that a brand new, 53-foot commercial fishing boat, manned by an experienced crew that frequently uses the St. Lucie Inlet, capsized in rough waters. The captain blamed the constantly shoaling inlet for the mishap.

Fortunately, no one died in these recent accidents, and most of the inlet victims escaped with only minor injuries. But the series of mishaps is a grim reminder of how dangerous the inlet can be.

The history of the inlet is a history of hosting mishaps, and more than a few lives have been lost in the tricky inlet waters. Unless something is done, soon, more lives will be lost.

The problem is the constantly shifting sands in the inlet. For newcomers, navigation through the inlet can sometimes be impossible, and it's often very dangerous even for the veteran inlet users. From one day to the next, the channel shifts, creating new hazards for boaters.

There is a plan to improve the inlet, and the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers says once the improvements are made, the inlet will be safe. The county has set aside $1 million for the project and the federal government is to provide matching funds.

But before the project can be started, Congress must approve the matching federal money. For about 40 years now, locals have been pleading for the inlet improvements; not just occasional maintenance dredging that seems to work for only a few weeks before shoaling starts again, but for permanent improvements.

Several times in recent years it has appeared that, at last, Congress would approve the inlet funds. But each time the funds were deleted from appropriation bills.

Generally, in light of constantly rising governmental expenditures and the inevitable rise in taxes that follows, cutting fat out of appropriation bills is applauded. But the inlet project is not "fat". It is essential. It can mean the difference between life and death for boaters.

The victims of the inlet in the last two weeks have been lucky, but others before them were not so lucky. And surely the lack of future inlet users is being stretched each day the inlet remains the hazardous thing it is.

Will more boats have to be destroyed and more lives have to be lost before we get a safe inlet? I certainly hope not, but I fear it may be so.

A recap of editorials during 1977

We opened the year congratulating Chief Randolph Spinney on his years of service to the Jensen Beach Volunteer Fire Department. Spinney, 83, retired. We also urged the elected officials of the two counties to keep the Council of Governments active. The post office was urged to modernize, with wire service to eliminate paper. We offered some suggestions on traffic control to the Martin County Commission, and supported the fund drives of the Rio and Jensen Beach fire departments.

Saving the savannas was a topic of our support through the year, and we commiserated with the people of Sewall's Point in their battle to bring order out of the chaos of a Stuart telephone number and a Jensen Beach post office.

FEBRUARY opened with our support of a redistricting plan to equalize population in Martin County, and we warned the two county area to proceed with caution on the development of a Community Action Organization for both counties. We saluted the work done by resigning county engineer Ken Ferrari, and urged traffic control for Commercial Street and Skyline Drive (and nothing was done).

Port St. Lucie was upset about water skiers on the North Fork, and we urged consideration between fishermen and skiers. We asked the county to think about a water company and well fields in Jensen Beach to service Hutchinson Island (and the first well there is now being tested). In deference to the town attorney, we withdrew from practicing law on defining aesthetic zoning in Sewall's Point (and now Sewall's Point is going to have to hire its own enforcement officer to try such violations).

Santa's images

Television and drug-store commercialism may have diluted the magical star-dust of the Easter Bunny and Santa Claus, but the combined disenchanting forces of Batten, Barton, Durstine and Osborne and Rudder and Finn can't dent the armor of a small child's subjective imagery – thank God.

This heartening reassurance reaches us through Arlene Woodruff, courtesy of whom comes not only the remarkably accurate translation of this column into readable type but its subject material. She passed along to us a Yuletide-bound pamphlet delineating the reactions of the three-and-four-year olds, during interviews on the subject of Santa. They are so priceless that I wouldn't attempt to tamper with or edit the material with an eleven-foot candy cane.

Qs and As among Jensen Beach Community Church Preschool three-year-olds:

Question: What does Santa look like and what is he bringing to your home?

Meredith Cameron: "For mommy, a fuzzy wuzzy in a barber shop."

Nicole Holcomb: "Santa is bringing a blue bike. Brad a bike too. Daddy has a bike."

David Krevitz: "Santa is going to bring a sailboat for my mom and a play one for me." Santa is going to "bring Niki a bone – my dad likes Niki to sleep."

Ryan Kleinfeld: "Santa has a hat, a beard, legs, a tummy, a shirt."

Adam Veszie: "Santa is red, black, and white. He's got boots on." Adam wanted Santa to bring "Happy Days and a Spiderman and Batman and Batgirl."

Susie Ettinger: I went to the Mall and I saw him and he gave me a candy cane and I said 'I'll have whatever I get. He looked like Santa's helper. He dressed up like Santa. He weared a costume."

Four-year-olds:

Question: How do you cook a Christmas Turkey?

Answers:

Erin Adair: "She cuts off feathers. Then she cuts off beak. She puts in sugar and cold water. She cooks it for five minutes." ("She" being mom.)

Question: How does mom make Christmas cookies?

Laura Engledow: "She takes sugar, she takes salt, pepper, tomatoes and that's all. She puts them in the oven and they turn big."

Question: What does one of Santa's elves look like?"

Scott Campbell: "He has ears that go up. A hat with points and a funny little mouth and short little pants and a belt and some blue socks like I have on and some nice little blue slip-on shoes and that's it."

James Harrell: "Guess what, Mrs. Beckey. Scott's wrong. Elves don't have socks; they have stockings and his hat is red, you know that. His ears are almost like ours. Elves are about this big. I have a picture at home and I'll show you."

One of the nicest pre-Yule presents in the S Latham household, last week, was the annual arrival of pretty Billie Nipper from Cleveland, Tenn., this year accompanied by her husband J. L.

Billie, for those who haven't met her in past years, is a grownup famous artist of fine horseflesh, and her talents are being more and more widely recognized. This is the third year that the Fort Pierce Art Gallery's discerning director, Peggy Berg, has invited Billie to hang her paintings in the Christmas show. Billie and J.L. dashed down with a station wagon full of canvases just in time to get them installed at the gallery for their three-week exhibit, and scurry back to Cleveland to be with their kids on Christmas Day.

Billie has to stay with me when she comes to town, whether she likes it or not. She got me hung like an albatross around her neck when she painted and presented me with the very first picture ever personalized especially for me. I was scrivener of the arts, music and letters for the Chattanooga Post (now defunct) and clever Billie got me all on canvas.

Hence it was added joy, when she arrived with hubby J.L. this year. J.L., a working man and breeder of fine horses in Tennessee, hadn't been to the Sunshine state in many years, and he had two burning desires -- to pick ripe oranges off a tree with his own hands, and to go home with some fresh caught Florida fish (without bothering to catch them himself).

For most desk-bound landlubbers, this could have posed a bit of a problem, on short notice. But not for this fortunate who had been tenant of old-timer Ned Summerlin for three years. Ned, whose earliest memories were of learning how to play hedge from his erudite mother with a fish in one hand and an orange in the other, has no limitations in St. Lucie County in particular and Indian Riverland in general. I mentioned J.L.'s yearnings to Ned's beautiful wife Bettie, and it was Open Sesame.

Ned spent the afternoon escorting the Nippers (in the nippy weather they brought with them) to a back-country orange grove where Ned has picking privileges – then down to the docks of cousin Herman S., where J.L. "caught" ocean-fresh fillets out of a chest into which they'd just hopped out of the river.

The Christmas look of a small boy who has just found a train under the tree couldn't match the euphoric glow on J.L.'s face, when they got back to my little riverside pad. For him, Christmas had come two days early, and Ned Summerlin was Santa.

Whatever old '77 hath wrought –

The New Year

BY CONGRESSMAN SKIP BAFALIS

WASHINGTON--1977 is almost over. In just a few days, we will relegate this year to the history books and turn our attention to the new one just starting.

So, this is perhaps a good time to reflect on just what kind of a year it was and how it should be remembered.

1977 was not a bad year. Our country was not at war. In fact, the whole world appeared closer to real peace than it had in a long time.

Here at home, there was some slight improvement in the economy. Unemployment was down a little and the number of Americans with jobs was higher than at any time in the past.

But we still have major problems – some which were there when 1977 began.

Uppermost, of course, is creation of a firm, publicly supported national energy policy. We are not closer to achieving that then we were in 1974 when the Arabs boycotted us.

Yet we need it more than ever.

The main reasons we haven't developed any such policy is one of our country's new problems -- the war between President Carter and the Congress.

That problem was created at the White House - by the refusal to recognize the Congress as an equal branch of government, and an equally adamant refusal to seek common ground on which a settlement can be reached.

The administration's emphasis on conservation instead of on seeking new sources of energy will not solve our country's problems, but merely put off a short while the day of reckoning. In addition, it distributes the burdens unevenly.

But the White House refuses to admit there are inequities or problems to be solved.

And so a deadlock had developed - a deadlock which shows no signs of ending early.

But the energy bill was not the only gauntlet thrown down to the Congress by President Carter.

He did it with the Panama Canal treaties. He signed those treaties in an impressive ceremony attended by a host of South American leaders even though he knew the chances the Senate would ratify the documents were slim indeed.

In fact, there are some who predict those ill-conceived, poorly thought-out and highly unpopular treaties will never win Senate approval.

Then, a few months later, the President asked the Senate to ratify two highly controversial UN covenants - covenants six previous Presidents had refused to sign because of the disavowal of the universal right to own property.

In the eyes of many, however, these foreign policy errors paled when compared to the administration's defense policy mistakes, most notably the decision to cancel B-1 bomber production.

"Jane's All the World's Aircraft", the most knowledgeable and informed aircraft publication, questioned the soundness of the decision, in light of the disparity with which it leaves us vis a vis the Soviet Union.

That's why the Congress keeps trying to keep this much-needed bomber alive.

There is one unsolved problem which is more dangerous than foreign policy, defense policy, energy policy or whatever - inflation.

There has been a great deal of talk about a balanced federal budget and an end to deficit spending -- the only true cures for inflation - but we are not closer to a balanced budget now than we were a year ago, two years ago, or 10 years ago.

In fact, the national debt keeps creeping closer and closer to the three-fourths of a trillion dollar mark - a mark we should pass by the end of 1978, unless some positive steps are taken.

So, let us hope 1978 will be the year the steps are taken, because time is running out.

The arrival of the dredge Merritt to dredge the St. Lucie Canal was pointed up as a waste of money when private interests would do the job at no cost to taxpayers in exchange for the fill.

We saluted Turtle Week in Jensen Beach, supported a paper-recycling effort, and were offended by the Ku Klux Klan "dial-a-bigot" telephone line operating in Stuart.

We supported the "no-new-taxes" budget of the Florida Senate (and won), and thought a doctor winning a suit against a lawyer for filing a malicious suit was great. The month ended as we again suggested that the St. Lucie Inlet could be made more safe if the developers of Sailfish Point were to dredge it at no cost to taxpayers.

JULY saw us again trying to get the Corps of Engineers to expand the investigation of sedimentation in the St. Lucie River into a reworking of the estuary all the way to the St. Lucie Inlet. We rapped the knuckles of inconsiderate boaters who rocked the anchored fleet with gun wakes at Independence Day fireworks, and urged the AEC safety board to give a full construction permit to Florida Power and Light for the second unit of the nuclear power plant.

We supported the Myers Plan for redistricting Martin County, urged the county to beautify the causeway by bulldozing the piles of rock and sand along the beaches, asked the county to consider building a sports center to attract a major league team for spring training, and wrote about the neutron bomb. (We got action on two of the four.)

We ban a series to try to stop the detergent pollution of the Indian River by De Wash Quik Laundry. (The laundry was closed by the Department of Environmental Regulation in December.) We also thanked the Martin County Historical Society for the presentation of our Freedom Foundation award.

JULY saw us asking if the City of Port St. Lucie really needed a police department, and were pleased that the Council on Aging had acquired a courtesy bus for seniors. We also asked that funding be given for a study of development of the rich clam beds in the area into a local industry.

In AUGUST, our inlet series continued as we bemoaned the localites not pursuing the dreding of the inlet because they hoped for (and didn't get) a handout from the feds. We congratulated Langford Park volunteers on their efforts to expand facilities at the park.

As island residents faced a water pressure shortage, we asked the county to again look into a county-owned water system, and were chagrined at the circus Florida newspapers made of the financial disclosure issue.

We said "hooray" for the new county redistricting plan, and found the Jensen Chamber was opposed to "forced labor" of prison workers. Again, (by golly, nobody is going to get that fill!)

Water expert to discuss 'No. 1 problem'

JENSEN BEACH--"Water -- Our Number 1 Problem" will be the topic of a utilities consultant with more than 50 years' experience when he makes the next "First Wednesday" presentation at the Environmental Studies Center on Wednesday, Jan. 4, at 8 p.m.

Harold Eckes currently serves as utility consultant to Martin County. In this capacity he prepares reports on water and sewage rates and services. He also serves in a liaison capacity between the county and state and local agencies.

In his talk, Eckes will address the growing problem of water supply and waste water treatment in the Stuart and Martin County area. A question and answer session will follow his formal presentation.

A graduate of Pace Institute in New York City, Eckes has served in executive capacities for a number of large utilities companies and as consulting engineer with a New York based engineering firm engaged in major utilities construction projects.

In 1963 he established a private consultant service with clients as far away as Algeria and Japan. He has served as utility consultant for Martin County since 1974.

The Center's museum and wet lab will be open for visitation before and after the program. There is no admission charge to the First Wednesday series, but donations are accepted.

Minimum wage, SS taxes go up

WASHINGTON--Florida businessmen are reminded that changes in the minimum wage and Social Security laws affecting payrolls go into effect January 1, U.S. Rep. L.A. Bafalis, R-Fla., said today.

The minimum wage increases from $2.30 to $2.65 an hour while Social Security taxes for both employer and employee increase from 5.85 per cent to 6.05 per cent, Bafalis said.

In addition, the taxable wage base for Social Security purposes also goes up January 1, from $16,500 to $17,700.

Both Social Security categories will go up every year for the next several years, the Florida Congressman noted. By 1980 the tax rate will be 7.85 per cent, while the taxable wage base will reach $42,600 by 1987.

The increase in the minimum wage was not the only change in the law covering wages and working hours, Bafalis said. In addition to raising the minimum wage, the Congress removed from wage and overtime coverage an estimated 800,000 workers in small retail and service stores, repealed the overtime exemptions for the hotel, motel and restaurant industries, and made a number of other substantial changes.

Any employer with questions regarding the new wage and hour law is urged to contact the Wage and Hour Division, U.S. Department of Labor, in either Fort Lauderdale or Miami. The Fort Lauderdale office can be reached at area code 305-792-5310, extension 251, while the Miami office is at 305-350-5797.

Inquiries on Social Security taxes and maximums should be directed to the nearest Social Security Administration office, Bafalis said.

Mayor McChesney reviews 1977

PORT ST. LUCIE–It has been a year growth and of increased public participation in local government according to Mayor William McChesney and he predicts the coming new year will also be a good one for the city.

Mayor McChesney recently issued a statement to the public in which he reviewed the year now ending and made projections for 1978. The following is the text of his statement:

"The past year has shown how essential it is to have a dedicated City Council, a hard working staff and an alert citizenry to make local government function effectively and economically.

"The year 1977 was productive in many ways as evidenced not only by financial and other statistics but in bringing into sharper focus public opinion and public needs.

"It is significant, I believe, that we have had more public input of a positive nature than at any other time in the history of this community. And in that connection, it can be said that the Council responded recognizably to that input of Port St. Lucie citizens.

"Progress can be measured in one sense by the fact that in the calendar year 1977 we issued 789 permits for single family houses. Total construction costs mounted to $18,612,688 as compared with 388 new houses and $9,825,612 in construction costs in 1976.

"In another sense, advancement was made in law enforcement as shown by a decline in such crimes as burglaries and vandalism.

"We experienced some noticable difficulties in the past year in drainage and septic tank problems. But those situations definitely were not as critical as some would have the public believe. The enormity of building construction would certainly attest to that truth.

"Thus we face 1978 with renewed determination to improve our services to all our people and to attack our environmental and all other issues with undiminished vigor and objectivity."

Thanking you for your wonderful customers, for your patronage. Have a great New Year.

SEPTEMBER

Opposition to a proposed shopping center at the present City Hall complex on Morningside Drive was voiced by the new city planner, city council members, Planning and Zoning Board members and a large group of citizens. The shopping center, to be called "Southport Shopping Center" is planned by developer Peter Smith, who wants to have a Winn Dixie, a bank branch office, a restaurant and shops in the center.

Robbyn Busko accused city building officials of lying to her about requirements for closing in her carport.

Port St. Lucie resident Joseph Keegan recalled for reading the experience he had while trading with five presidents.

After months of delay, the city council finally approved zoning for two churches.

A 120 day moratorium on zoning was declared by city council members in the wake of opposition to the proposed Southport Shopping Center. During the moratorium the city planner is to familiarize himself with the city and come up with zoning suggestions.

OCTOBER

The treatment of women and homosexuals by the Episcopal Church was hotly debated when more than 150 members of the House of Bishops held a convention at Sandpiper Bay. The convention received national television and magazine news coverage.

City Planner Szanyog suggested the size and scope of the proposed Southport Shopping Center should be reduced.

A 70-year-old man, Thomas Rogers, was attacked by an alligator behind his home and was rescued by John Carroll, 67, who was golfing nearby and used a sand trap rake to beat the gator. Rogers suffered severe cuts and was rushed to Martin Memorial Hospital. The city council presented Carroll with a commendation for his bravery.

Opposition to the 120 day zoning moratorium was voiced by a number of citizens and developers at a city council meeting.

Inadequate maps of the city stymied efforts of the Redistricting Committee to set new political boundaries in Port St. Lucie.

A 22-year-old Port St. Lucie man, James Tressler, was discovered fatally stabbed at his Curtis St. home and his roommate, Richard Dale Matthews, 30, was arrested in North Carolina on a homicide charge in connection with the stabbing. Matthews waived extradition and was brought to the St. Lucie County Jail.

The developers of Spanish Lakes and Spanish Lakes Riverfront mobile home parks presented plans for a new mobile home park within city limits. It is to be called Golf Village Mobile Home Park and is to have 740 doublewide units.

Representatives of several insurance companies presented proposals for a health plan for city employees.

General Development Corporation official William Kreidt unveiled projections that the city will have a population of 100,000 by the year 2000.

A squabble between the St. Lucie County Democrat Executive Committee and the South County Democrat Club resulted in disbandment of the latter organization and the formation by many of the South County club members of the St. Lucie County Political Action Association. The split came when the county group did not support chartering for the South County group.

A seminar on death, dying and bereavement was conducted at Sandpiper Bay and those attending were told the majority of Americans do not know how to handle these situations properly.

Zoning for a small shopping center along Port St. Lucie Boulevard was approved, but the Southport Shopping Center remained unapproved.

The upper division team reeled off three shutouts to begin the season, while posting scores of 34, 22 and 20 points in those games. But the lost close contests to Indiantown and Stuart in the second half of the season and finished with a 6-2 record, good for third place.

The lower division Vikings posted a 6-1-1 record, with their only loss coming to the Indiantown lower division team. They made the playoffs, but lost again to Indiantown in the league championship game.

City Manager Elmer Cox pledged to continue his battle for a full-fledged branch Post Office in Port St. Lucie. He maintains that the city subsidizes the U.S. Postal Service by about $6,000 a year because it pays the salary of postal employees in Stuart.

As the course season approached locals learned that during the months when traffic will be heaviest, construction will be underway along U.S. 1 throughout Fort Pierce and along several other major roads in that city. They also learned of season construction plans for intersections along busy East Ocean Boulevard in Stuart.

The $3.3 million St. Lucie County Civic Auditorium and Administration Building in Fort Pierce was officially dedicated, but problems with the contractor may mean a delay before the buildings can be used.

1977 - Port St. Lucie

Nationally syndicated fishing television personality Virgil Ward came to Port St. Lucie to film three days of fishing in are waters for his television program.

Christmas tree lightin ceremonies were held at City Hall and at the Community Center.

Developer Peter Smith filed a petition in Circuit Court to force the city to issue four building permits for his planned Southport Shopping Center. The city attorney, who as given 20 days to reply to the petition, said he would file a reply before the deadline.

Zoning for the planned 740-unit Golf Village Mobile Home Park, to be located east of the General Development Industrial Park, was approved by the city council and the 120-day moratorium on all zoning in the city was lifted well before the 120 days ran its course.

Santa arrived by helicopter at the Community Center to take down last minute notes on what Port St. Lucie children want for Christmas.

The Fifth Grade Chorus at Port St. Lucie Elementary School presented a Christmas Pageant to all 915 students at the school, then gave a special nighttime performance for parents.

General Development Utilities announced that the firm has asked the state Public Service Commission for rate hikes that within two years would more than double the rates now being charged.

The city council debated the possibility of setting closing hours for neighborhood shopping centers in the city, but no final decision on the issue was reached.

The strict enforcement of septic tank installation regulations by the County Health Department resulted in the threat of a lawsuit by a developer to allow the John Mullen family to move into a new home the developer built for them. Also, City Manager Elmer Cox announced that a meeting is planned for January with state health officials to hopefully alleviate the septic tank problem. In the case of the Mullen home, the septic tank installation was approved after the developer met with county health officials, so the lawsuit plans were dropped. The Mullens got to move into their new house just before Christmas.

Santa paid a visit to thousands of Port St. Lucie residents early Christmas morning, leaving behind presents for all those who were not naughty, and did not cry or pout.

In a three to two vote, the city council finally voted to approve payment of all funds remaining in the city's old pension plant to the city employees eligible for the money.

Though Lil General is required, according to Dietrich, to provide water and waste treatment, Dietrich said he is willing to make the investment if he could have another ten years in which to get a return on his investment.

"I want to fulfill my lease, but I'll need ten years to regain my investment," Dietrich said. "There is plenty of room to put in the sewage plant. But, Mr. Tilton says he isn't going to renew the lease to Lil General."

W.B. Tilton was emphatic in his comment to The Mirror.

"We are not going to renew the lease to Lil General period," Tilton said. "Our attorney is Tom Thurlow, and I refer them to him when they call."

Tilton would not say what kind of business he would lease to when the Lil General lease ran out in three years, but he did say that the land area behind the stores would be converted to off-street parking, expanding the Tilton parking lot off Ricou Blvd.

Information on the closing at Lil General was referred to Sandy Post, district manager of the area stores in Stuart. When asked about the closing, Ms. Post said, "I just run my stores. You'll have to call Tampa."

The Mirror call to the general offices of Lil General in Tampa was referred to a Mr. Terretta, who said he wasn't sure if the laundry was closed by the DER or not, adding that he knew there were some violations that needed to be cleaned up, and referred The Mirror to his attorney, Ralph Musgi, of Tampa, who wouldn't return to his office until January 4 because he was on vacation.

Fred Dushanek of Jensen Bait and Tackle, was elated with the closing of the laundry.

"We can see the bottom of the river," Dushanek said. The tackle company had complained in the past about the pollution of the water, once saying that the brackish water drawn from the river contained so much detergent that it killed the shrimp in the live wells.

His comment was true. The river bottom along the seawall of Jensen Bait was clear, with a sandy bottom. There were times when the soapsuds from the laundry trailed 100 yards down the river, also, according to Clark Collins, owner of Jensen Bait.

The future of the laundromat seems tied to the future of Lil General in Jensen Beach, but that seems dim in the face of Tilton's firm statement on not renewing the convenience store lease.

The next chapter would seem to be a civil case in court to decide what happens to the remaining three years on Dietrich's sub-lease with Lil General.

CLOSED–Faulty sewage disposal has led to the closing of Wash Quik, the laundromat on Indian River Drive and Ricou Blvd. Following years of conservationist complaints, the laundromat was closed by mutual agreement of operator Ron Dietrich and Lil General stores.

SEE THE BOTTOM–The bottom sand of the Indian River at the end of the effluent pipe from Wash Quik laundromat is clear and clean. When the laundromat was operating the soapsuds on the river often piled high, and lined the shore a hundred yards along the riverfront.

Fantasticks this week at Barn

STUART–People on the go during the holiday evenings ahead will want to make one of their stops "The Fantasticks," the delightful whimsy on stage at the Barn Theatre on East Ocean Boulevard, tonight through Saturday.

The musical, which combines elements of the prodigal son and Romeo and Juliet, holds the record as the longest-running off-Broadway show. It produced such all-time smash hits as "Try to Remember."

In the roles as the trysting lovers are Bruce Cathcart and Lori Higbee. Others in the cast are Peter Shaw, Steve Witham, Jeff Holland, Tom Rogers, Harry Foster and Brian Nehemiah.

Vera Traversa is producer; Wayne Wells, musical director; Lonnie Keates, director; and Louise LeTourneau, choreographer.

Those planning to attend should make reservations by calling 287-0676. Curtain time is 8:30 p.m.

Walton-Eden Club plans covered dish dinner

WALTON–The Walton-Eden Property Owners Club will play bingo as usual on Wednesday, Dec. 28, and plan a covered dish dinner to precede the January 4 game.

All are welcome to attend. Come prepared at 6:30 p.m. with a favorite covered dish and the usual table service. Coffee and tea will be available.

The Club extends "very Happy New Year" to all.

Jackie Phillips reports from Venture Out St. Lucie:

Sure hope you all had a wonderful Christmas. Only heard of one bad boy who got coal in his stocking (someone close and dear); he deserved it though - practically lost his eyesight watching the bikinis on the visiting young ladies!

Congratulations and a vote of thanks are due pretty Betty Leister for her efficient handling of the Christmas mail under trying circumstances at times. We all appreciated it, Betty.

Our friend and neighbor, Louise Auch, has now joined the rest of us ladies of leisure. Holiday Out office will surely miss her. However, it will be nice to have her with us more on Swordfish Lane. Heard her husband Willard bought her an airplane ticket so she can pay a visit to her relatives in Indiana. He made sure it was a return ticket, however!

Ginny and Bill Thompson are looking forward to a visit on New Year's Day of their son Bob, his wife Gloria, and their children, Ronnie and Kathy. They are coming from Penfield, New York, and it will be their first visit to Venture Out. Ginny and Bill have many plans for entertaining them. We're sure they will have a ball.

My, how these men have worked putting up the soundproofing in our rec hall. To the men who helped defray some of the cost by this hard work, and to the ladies who made the money through recreational activities to buy the material - we say Thanks a Million!

Many nice people have arrived recently on the last finger - the one on the river - the Stuttwigs, "Stormy" and Herman, are here for the holidays on lot 641; Betty and John Starky, with Betty's mother, Hazel, are on lot 638. Nearby are Foster and Carlieda Schreiner (from Pennsylvania). The Schreiners are friends of the Nazzaros. The Nazzaros have other friends in the park - Ele and Tom Van Saun from New York are here for the season on lot 712.

Swordfish Lane is enjoying the company of Eleanor and Don Hines of Emmaus, Pa. (That's near Allentown.) Welcome to all of you good people.

Hope we see you all at the New Year's Party! and please note that pot luck will be held on TUESDAY, Jan. 3.

Holiday Outlines

BY RUTH BOWES

Our sympathy to the Rough family, as two sad events have occurred. Pauline left Thursday by air for Niles, Michigan. Since they returned to H.O., their home had been vandalized, so Pauline was anxious to see just what damage had been done. She will stay in Niles and spend Christmas with their children.

Then, Herb had just returned from Palm Beach Airport when he received a phone call from Niles, saying that his sister had passed on. He tried to get a flight out, but with no success.

New Years Eve is sold out

All the New Years Eve tickets are sold...there will be a capacity crowd. The Rhodes band will entertain again.

It seems that Ev Frost was baking brownies for the sandfla club ..... waiting for the last pan to cool, she and Ed decided to take an evening stroll.

Upon returning, they found that "Jack Sprat" in the person of Cindy, their dog, had licked the pie tins clean. Latest word from the Frost household is that brownies be included in Cindy's regular diet.

No loneliness at D&M...

BY EMILY SMITH

No one was lonely at D & M Park on Christmas Day. In this festive season there can be those who miss the conviviality of sitting down to dinner with relatives and friends, but not in this park.

To make sure everyone had the chance to eat in gala company, the park owners, Jane and Marvin Wininger and Lois and Don Wininger, made the park recreation room available and donated the turkeys. Stella Dobrowolski and Flossie Roberts planned the affair and arranged for residents to bring vegetables, salads, desserts and beverages.

After the invocation appropriate to the Christmas season, the guests lined up at buffet tables laden with goodies particular to the region of the states from which the residents had come. At the conclusion of the meal, it was announced that there would be a 4 o'clock snack-time for finishing off the remaining dishes of food which had more than filled the hungry diners at noon.

The auditorium was trimmed beautifully in Christmas motif. The social chatter at the tables made the occasion one to remember gratefully.

Among those present, in addition to Hostesses Dobrowolski and Roberts, were James and Martha Duffy, Jennie Levengood, Chris and Alice Willoughby, Ray and Bea Walden, Dorothy Morley with her daughter and family: William, Jeanette, Carolyn and Tim Lenz.

Others were Daisy and Allan Van Arsdel, Merle and Ruth Conklin, Boyd and Emily Smith, Emil and Alice Twit, Andy and Edith Andreassen, Ole Twelt, Sue and Fran Gebres, John and Louise Heidell, Harrison and Jonnieloo Gumm with their son Joe and daughter Colleeen, from Circleville, Ohio.

So, no one had reason to be lonely at D & M Park on Christmas Day. There was fun, and food, for all.

Suncoast East up for grabs in 1978

BY DONNIE WILKIE

JENSEN BEACH—Last year, it came down to one pressure-packed game at Palm Beach Junior College. Lake Worth and Martin County fought it out for the District 14-AAAA championship before a standing room only crowd. But perhaps the most exciting part of the basketball season comes during January and February, when the eight teams of the Suncoast Eastern Division fight it out for the division championship.

Each team plays a home-and-home two game series with each of the other seven quintets in the league, giving the fans a chance to see all the teams in action and also enabling a team to lose a couple games yet still be in the middle of the fight for the title.

This year the balance is such in the Suncoast East that Martin County Coach Dan Wallen admits that a team might lose three or four times and still win the conference.

Of course, Wallen annually tries to focus all the attention of local media toward the competition, but this team, but this season the Tigers have to be the team to watch.

So what's new?

Martin County heads into the conference season with a cast of players who, although having little varsity experience, have already proven themselves worthy of a Martin County team.

Only Moses Johnson and Charlie Jones return from last year's 17-8 team that went as far as the District final before being upset by Lake Worth.

In all, 1978 should be the most exciting and balanced season for high school basketball in the area. At press time, it appeared that perhaps as many as seven of the eight conference teams could enter the conference season with winning records, and they could all conceivably end the year over .500 as well. Here's an in-depth analysis of the Eastern Division's teams. They are arranged in the order that The Mirror is picking them to finish.

MARTIN COUNTY

The Tigers will be playing a faster brand of ball this year, taking advantage of their quickness. Height is not an advantage that the Tigers enjoy this time around.

Charlie Jones (6'2" 225 pounds) is tall and big enough to scare most Suncoast cagers all by himself. The junior center will grab rebounds at both ends of the court and is a good inside shooter.

Moses Johnson (6'1"-180) is the only other starter back from last year's team which was ranked number one in the state at the close of the regular season. Johnson, a junior, will be greatly improved this year and can hurt you from outside or on the drive to the hoop.

Three other Tigers will play a vital role in the Tigers' efforts to continue a winning tradition (they hold a 208-93 record over the last 11 years). Howard Bethel, Gene Smith and Ernest McIntyre take over from departed all-conference stars Walter Campbell, Lavern McFadden and Cesar Delancy. All three have proven their abilities already this year, and should fit right in.

However, a tough non-conference schedule (North Shore, twice, Fort Lauderdale Dillard and Bartel mixed in with the rigors of the Eastern Division race) might take its toll on the Tigers by the time they meet Lake Worth in Stuart on February 14 in what might be renamed the "conference championship game." Still, with this much uncertainty, the conference race could end in a three or four-team struggle.

LAKE WORTH

A Trojan leader is bound to be Oscar Taylor (18.0 ppg as a junior last year). Taylor is one of the top college prospects in the country. He will be assisted by guard K.C. Reynolds, a 6'10" transfer from North Carolina where he was All-State last year. Up front, Lake Worth goes to center Luis Fuentes, who came on strong at the close of last year, and Anderson Lindsey.

The key games for Lake Worth will not be the games against Martin County, but rather against Fort Pierce, Forest Hill and Palm Beach Gardens. If they get past these, they might be able to lose both Tiger games and still get a tie for the conference. But don't count on it. They'll probably need a split or a miracle sweep.

FORT PIERCE CENTRAL

The Cobras would like nothing more than for other teams to beat Lake Worth and Martin County, something they have never been able to do consistently. But, as usual, they'll probably have to do their own dirty work to win the conference this year.

Willie Redden is the key, and if you don't believe that, take a look at the two early games against Leonard. Without Redden, they lost by 12; with him the Cobras triumphed easily. If Redden is not on, the Cobras are off.

Jesse Natcher will provide some help to the FPC cause, though, adding his all-around physical ability to the Cobra offense. Andy Chapman, although sometimes a bit clumsy, will be an asset as a backup for Redden.

It appears, though, that Fort Pierce will have to exhaust their talents to reach third in the division, as Martin County and Lake Worth just have too much.

PALM BEACH GARDENS

The Gators have some of their top players back from last year and could be improved enough to contend with the top teams. Alden Wilder scored at a clip of 17.1 as a junior and leads Gardens' inside game along with Jeff Davis and Gary Hawkins. Darrell Leonard, Willie Shelton and Bruce Guyton all return to give the Gators the quickest frontcourt in the conference.

FOREST HILL

By far the most improved team. Not second in the state as they were ranked earlier in the season, but they are good enough to have a shot at the first division. They sport size, quickness and ability for the first time in Coach Clarence Jones' career. The front line will be led by Calvin Jackson, Robert Johnson, Phillip Jones and Donnie Griggs. Jackson is perhaps Forest Hill's finest all-around performer.

The Falcons have already served notice of their improvement with a win over Suncoast.

LEONARD

Improved, but young. The Lancers are building toward next year, when they should peak in the first division. Only one senior returns, as Jeff McNeill leads the offense. Younger talent includes Ben Johnson, Danny McDaris, John Gwin and Alvin Washington. With these players, Leonard will have a tough, but inexperienced line.

TWIN LAKES-BOCA RATON

The reason these two are together is because once Boca Raton recovers from the football season, they will be just about even with the Rams in the cellar of the East. Twin Lakes lost four starters and has no height or experience, a point made clear by the height of their tallest player, football quarterback Thomas Larrick: 6 feet.

Boca is in the same boat. Only one starter—guard David Lowe—returns and he will receive help only from Mark Richi, a senior. Neither team has any chance of achieving first division status, so both must look to the future.

A PIN is earned by Martin County High School wrestler John Skelley (left) as Bailey of Charlotte High School in the second period of competition. The two schools now compete and Skelley performed well, as usual. Not only is he undefeated this year, he is also the state AAU Youth Champion and the 1976 AAU School Boy Champion. By winning the latter crown, he was eligible to participate in the preliminary Youth Olympics in Mexico last November and came back from that competition undefeated. (Staff photo by Pat Baum)

Brochures tell of weed menace

WEST PALM BEACH--A multi-million dollar menace faced by South Florida water management officials is the presence of aquatic plants in uncontrolled numbers in the state's waterways. The South Florida Water Management District has issued a new pamphlet on the problems of aquatic weed control.

The 14-page, magazine style brochure treats some scientific and highly technical data in easy to understand language to acquaint all residents of the area with the problems water managers face in this field.

The brochure details the various types of problem weeds, what they look like, and the difficulties they present. Methods of treatment are also explained, along with their respective costs and effectiveness.

The pamphlet is available upon request, at no charge.

For copies, contact the Public Information Office, P.O. Box V, West Palm Beach FL 33402.

Another new District brochure contains information on permitting regulations. It is a short summary of what activities and projects require a permit from the District. These include permits for right-of-way occupancy, surface water management or drainage, water use, well abandonment and deep well injection.
